Wherefore [they] shall be [judges of you].

But [in God’s] Spirit [I] am casting out the demons>

Then doubtless hath come upon you unawares [the kingdom of God]!

Or how can one enter the house of the mighty and [seize his goods],

Unless [first] he bind the mighty one?

And [then] [his house] he will plunder.

[He that is not with me] is [against me],—

And [he that gathereth not with me] [scattereth].

Wherefore I say unto you,

[All]’ sin and profane speaking shall be forgiven unto men,—

But [the speaking profanely of the Spirit] [shall not be forgiven];

And [whosoever shall speak a word against the Son of Man> it shall be forgiven him,—

But [whosoever shall speak against the Holy Spirit> it] shall not be forgiven him]

[Either in this’ age, or the coming’].

Either make the tree good, and its fruit good,

Or make the tree worthless, and its fruit worthless;

For [from the fruit] the tree is known.

Broods of vipers!

How can ye speak [good things] [being] [evil]?

For [out of the abundance of the heart] the mouth speaketh.

[The good’ man] > [out of the good’ treasure] puttheth forth [good things];

And [the evil’ man] > [out of the evil’ treasure] puttheth forth [evil things].

But I say unto you,

That <every’ useless expression that men shall utter>

They shall render, concerning it, an account, in a day of judgment;

For [by thy words] shalt thou be [justified],

And [by thy words] shalt thou be condemned.

Lu. xi. 29–32.

Then answered him, certain of the Scribes and Pharisees, saying,

Teacher! we desire of thee [a sign, to behold].

But [he] answering, said unto them,

[A wicked and adulterous generation] [a sign] doth seek,

And [a sign] will not be [given] it

[Save the sign of Jonah the prophet].

For just as was Jonah in the belly of the sea-monster three days and three nights> [so] will be the Son of Man, in the heart of the earth, three days and three nights.

[Men of Nineveh] will rise up in the judgment, with this generation, and will condemn it,—because they repented into the proclamation of Jonah; and lo! [something greater than Jonah]

[here].

The queen of the south] will arise in the judgment with this generation and will condemn it—because she came out of the ends of the earth, to hear the wisdom of Solomon; and lo! [something greater than Solomon]

[here].

But when the impure’ spirit goeth out of the man> it passeth through waterless’ places, seeking rest,—and findeth it not. [Then] it saith,

Into my house] will I return, [whence I came out],— and, coming, findeth it empty [and] swept and adorned. [Then] it goeth, and taketh along with itself, seven’ diverse’ spirits, [more wicked than itself],—and, entering, abideth there; and [the last state of that man] becometh [worse than the first]. [So] shall it be, with this [wicked] generation.

§ 31. The Parable of the Sower.
Mk. iv. 1–9; Lu. viii. 4–8.

Chapter 13.

1 |On that day| Jesus, going out of the house, was sitting near the sea; 2 and there were gathered unto him, large multitudes, so that |[he]|| into a boat| entered, and was sitting, and [all the multitude] on the beach was standing.
3 And he spake unto them many things, in parables, saying:
   Lo! the sower went forth to sow,— 4 and <as he sowed> [Some] indeed, fell by the pathway, and [the birds] came, and devoured it;
5 And [some] fell on the rocky places, where it had not much earth,—and [straightway] it sprang up, because it had no depth of earth;
6 and [the sun arising] it was scorched, and, because it had no root, it withered away; 7 And [some] fell upon the thorns, and the thorns came up, and choked it;
8 But [some] fell upon the good ground, and did yield fruit,—[this] indeed a hundred fold, and [that] sixty, and [the other] thirty.
9 |He that hath ears| let him hear.

§ 32. Wherefore in Parables? The Sower explained.
Mk. iv. 10–20; Lu. viii. 9–15.

10And the disciples |[coming near]| said to him,
   Wherefore |[in parables]| art thou speaking to them?
11And [he] answering, said. b
   Because [unto you] hath it been given, to get to know the sacred secrets c of the kingdom of the heavens,—whereas |[unto them]| hath it not been given.
12For |[whosoever hath]| it shall be given ||[to him||, and he shall be made to abound,— But |[whoever hath not]| [[even what he hath]] shall be taken from him.d
13 ||[For this reason]| in parables, |[unto them]| do I speak,—because [seeing] they see not, and [hearing] they hear not,—neither do they understand.
14And |[again is being fulfilled in them]| the prophecy of Isaiah, which saith,—They shall |[surely hear]| and yet will not understand,
   And |[surely see]| and yet not perceive;
15 For the heart of this people hath become dense,
   And |[with their ears]| heavily have they heard,
   And |[their eyes]| have they closed,— Lest, once they should see with their eyes,
   And |[with their ears]| should hear,
   And, with their hearts, should understand, and return;
   When I would certainly heal them.e
16 But happy are |[your]|| eyes, that they see,
   And your ears, that they hear;
17 For |[verily]| I say unto you— [Many prophets and righteous men] Have coveted to see what ye see, and have not seen,
   And to hear what ye hear, and have not heard.f
18Hear |[ye]| then, the parable of him that sowed:—
19 <When anyone heareth the word of the kingdom, and understandeth it not> the wicked one cometh, and catcheth up that which hath been sown in his heart,—[|this|| is he |by the pathway| sown.

And [he on the rocky places sown] [the same] is he that [heareth the word] and [straightway, with joy] receiveth it; 21 yet hath he no root in himself, but is [only for a season],—and <there arising, tribulation or persecution because of the word> [straightway] he findeth cause of stumbling.

And [he among the thorns sown] [the same] is he that [heareth the word],—and [the anxiety of the age] and the deceit of riches choke up the word, and [unfruitful] it becometh.

But [he on the good ground sown] [the same] is he who doth hear and understand the word, who, indeed, beareth fruit and produceth,—[this] a hundred, and [that] sixty, and [the other] thirty.

§ 33. The Wheat and the Darnel.

Another parable put he before them, saying—The kingdom of the heavens hath become like a man sowing good seed in his field; 25 and while men were sleeping his enemy came, and sowed over darnel, in among the wheat,—and away he went.

And <when the blade shot up, and brought forth fruit> [then] appeared [the darnel also].

And the servants of the householder, b coming near, said to him,—Sir! was it not [good seed] thou didst sow in thy field? Whence then hath it [darnel]?

And he said unto them—[An enemy] hath [done this].

And they say [unto him]—Wilt thou, then, that we go and collect it?

And he saith—Nay! lest, at any time [while collecting the darnel] ye uproot, along with it, [the wheat]: Suffer both to grow together until the harvest, and at harvest time I will say unto the reapers,—Collect ye first, the darnel, and bind it into bundles, with a view to the burning it up; but [the wheat] be gathering it into my barn.

§ 34. The Grain of Mustard Seed.

Mk. iv. 30–32; Lu. xiii. 18, 19.

Another parable put he before them, saying—The kingdom of the heavens is like unto [a grain of mustard seed], which a man took and sowed in his field; 32 which, indeed, is [less] than all seeds, but [when grown] is [greater than garden-plants], and becometh a tree,—so that the birds of heaven come, and lodge among its branches.c

§ 35. The Leaven.

Lu. xiii. 20, 21.

Another parable {spake he unto them}:—The kingdom of the heavens is like [unto leaven], which a woman took and hid in three measures of flour until [the whole] was leavened.d

§ 36. Without a Parable—nothing.

Mk. iv. 33, 34.

All these things spake Jesus in parables, unto the multitudes, and [without a parable] was he speaking [nothing] unto them: 35 that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken through the prophet, saying—

I will open [in parables] my mouth,
I will bring up things hidden from the foundation!e

§ 37. Private Explanation of The Darnel.

Then <dismissing the multitudes> he went into the house, and his disciples came near to him, saying—Make quite plain to us the parable of the darnel of the field.

And [he] answering, said—[He that soweth the good seed] is the Son of Man;

And [the field] is the world,

And [the good seed], [these] are the sons of the kingdom,—

And [the darnel seeds] are the sons of the evil one;

And [the enemy that sowed them] is the adversary,

And [the harvest] is [the conclusion of an age],f

42 Then, the righteous will shine forth as the sun, in the kingdom of their Father.

Mk. vii. 2–6; cp. Jn. vi. 42.

53 And it came to pass <when Jesus had finished these parables> he removed from thence; and <coming into his own city> began teaching them in their synagogue, so that with astonishment were they being struck, and were saying—

54 Is not [this one] the carpenter’s [son]?

Is not [his mother] called Mary, and are not his brethren—James and Joseph, and Simon, and Judas? and [his sisters] are they not all with us?

55 Wherefore hath [this one] this wisdom, and the mighty works?

56 And they began to find cause of stumbling in him.

But [Jesus] said unto them—

A prophet is not without honour, save in his city, and in his house.

58 And he did not, there, many mighty works, because of their unbelief.

§ 43. John the Immerser Beheaded.

Mk. vii. 2–6; cp. Jn. vi. 42.

Chapter 14.

1 In that season heard Herod the tetrarch, the fame of Jesus: and he said unto his servants—

2 This is John the Immerser.—

3 For this cause are the powers working mightily within him.

4 For [Herod] seizing John, had bound him, and [in prison] put him away,—because of Herodias, the wife of Philip his brother; for John had been saying to him,

5 And, desiring [to kill] him, he feared the multitude, because [as a prophet] they held him.

Give me (saith she) here, upon a charger, the head of John the Immerser.

9 And the king [though grieved] yet <because of the oaths and the guests> ordered it to be given; 10 and sent and beheaded John in the prison.

11 And his head was brought upon a charger, and given unto the maiden, and she brought it to her mother. 12 And his disciples [going near] bare away the corpse, and buried him, and came and brought tidings unto Jesus.

And Jesus [hearing it] retired from thence in a boat, into a desert place, [apart],—and the multitudes [hearing of it] followed him on foot from the cities.

And [coming forth] he saw a great multitude,—and was moved with compassion ἀνασκέπτομαι over them, and cured their sick.

And [evening] arriving, the disciples came unto him, saying,—

The place is [a desert], and [the hour] hath already passed,—dismiss the multitudes, ἀναπηρεῖται that they may go away into the villages, and buy themselves food.

But [Jesus] said unto them, [No need] have they to go away,—give [ye] them to eat.

But [they] say unto him—

We have nothing here, save five' loaves and two' fishes.

But [he] said—

Bring [them] to me, here.

And <giving orders that the multitudes should recline upon the grass,—taking the five' loaves and the two' fishes,—looking up into the heaven> he blessed; and, breaking, gave [the disciples] the loaves, and the disciples unto the multitude. 20 And they did all eat, and were filled,—and they took up the remainder of the broken pieces, twelve' baskets [full]. 21 And [they who did eat] were about five' thousand [men], besides women and children.

22 And [straightway] constrained he the disciples to enter into a' boat, and be going before him unto the other side, while he dismissed the multitudes.

23 And, dismissing the multitudes, he went up into the mountain, apart, to pray,—and when, [evening] came, [alone] was he [there].

It is [an apparition]; ἀνασκέπτομαι and [by reason of their fear] they cried out.

27 And [straightway] Jesus spake unto them, saying—

Take courage! it is [I],—be not afraid.

28 And [making answer] Peter said unto him,—

Lord! if it is [thou] bid me come unto thee, upon the waters.

29 And [he] said—

Come!
And, descending from the boat, Peter walked upon the waters, and came ἂν unto Jesus. 30 But [seeing the wind] he was affrighted, and [beginning to sink] cried out, saying—

Lord! save me!

31 And [straightway] Jesus, stretching forth his hand, laid hold upon him and saith unto him—

32 And, when they came up into the boat [the wind abated], 33 And [they in the boat] bowed down to him, saying—

§ 46. Eating with Unwashed Hands.
Mk. vii. 1–23.

Chapter 15.

1 [Then] there come unto Jesus, from Jerusalem, Pharisees and Scribes, saying—

Wherefore do thy disciples transgress the tradition of the elders? for they wash not their hands [when they eat bread]!

2 But [he] answering, said unto them—

Wherefore do [ye also] transgress the commandment of God, for the sake of your tradition? 4 For [God] said—

Honour thy father and thy mother, a

and—

<He that revileth father or mother> let him [surely die]!b

3 But [ye] say—

<Whosoever shall say to his father or his mother—

A gift! whatsoever, out of me, thou mightest be profited> in nowise] shall honour his father or his mother—and so ye have cancelled [the word] of God for the sake of [your tradition].

5 Hypocrites! well prophesied concerning you, Isaiah, saying—

||This people|| with the lips do [honour] me, While ||their heart|| is far off] holdeth from me;

6 But [in vain] do they pay devotions unto me, Teaching, for teachings, [the commandments of men].d

7 And, calling near the multitude, he said to them—

Hear and understand!

8 [Not that which entereth into the mouth] defileth the man,

But [that which proceedeth out of the mouth] [the same] defileth the man.

10 Then, coming near, his disciples say unto him—

Knowest thou, that the Pharisees [hearing the word] [were caused to stumble]? 13 And [he] answering, said—

<Every’ plant which my heavenly Father hath not planted> will be uprooted:

14 Let them alone! they are [blind’ leaders];e and <if the [blind] lead the [blind]> both <into a ditch> will fall. f

15 And Peter [answering] said unto him,

Declare to us the parable.

16 And [he] said,

||To this moment|| are [ye also] without discernment?

17 Perceive ye not that [every’ thing which entereth into the mouth] [into the stomach] findeth way, and [into the draught]g is passed; 18 while [the things which proceed out of the mouth] [out of the heart] come forth, and [they] defile the man.

19 For [out of the heart] come forth wicked designs,—murders, adulteries, fornications, thefts, false testimonies, profane speakings:

And [these] are the things which defile the man, but [the eating with unwashed’ hands] doth not defile the man.

§ 47. A Canaanite Woman’s Daughter healed.

21 And, going forth from thence, Jesus retired into the parts of Tyre and Zidon. 22 And lo! [a Canaanite woman] [from those bounds] coming forth, began crying out, saying,

Have mercy on me, Lord, Son of David! My daughter] is miserably demonized.

23 But [he] answered her not a word. And his disciples, coming forward began requesting him, saying—

Dismiss her, because she is crying out after us.

24 But [he] answering, said,

I was not sent forth save unto the lost sheep of the house of Israel. h

25 And [she] coming, began bowing down to him, saying

Lord! help me.

26 But [he] answering, said,
It is [not seemly] to take the loaf of [the children], and cast || to the little dogs||.

27 [Then|Then] answering, Jesus said to her—
  ||O woman! |[great] is |thy faith||!
Be it done for thee, [as thou desirest].
And her daughter was healed, from that hour.

§ 48. Four Thousand fed.
Mk. viii. 1–10; cp. chap. xiv. 13 ff.

29 And, passing on from thence, Jesus came near the sea of Galilee, and, going up into the mountain, was sitting there. 30 And there came unto him large multitudes, having with themselves the lame, the maimed, the blind, the dumb, a and many others,—and they cast them near his feet, and he cured them; 31 so that the multitude marvelled, seeing the dumb speaking, the lame walking, and the blind seeing,—and they glorified the God of Israel. 32 But [Jesus, calling near his disciples] said—
My compassions are moved towards the multitude, because {even now} |three days| abide they with me, and they have nothing to eat,—and |to dismiss them fasting| I am not willing, lest by any means they faint in the way. 33 And his disciples say unto him—
Whence |to us, in a wilderness| loaves in such numbers as to fill a multitude |so great|?

34 And Jesus saith unto them—
|How many| loaves have ye?
And |they| said,—
Seven, and a few small fishes.

35 And ||sending word to the multitude to recline upon the ground|| he took the seven’ loaves, and the fishes, and |giving thanks| brake,—and began giving to his disciples, and |the disciples| to the multitudes. 37 And they all did eat and were filled,—and |the remainder of the broken pieces| took they up, seven’ hampers |full|. 38 And |they who did eat| were four thousand men, besides women and children.

39 And, dismissing the multitudes, he went up into the boat,—and came into the bounds of Magadan.

Mind! and beware, of the leaven of the Pharisees and Sadducees.
7 And |they| began to deliberate among themselves, saying—
Because |loaves| we took not.
8 And |observing it| Jesus said—
Why are ye deliberating among yourselves, ye little-of-faith! because |loaves| ye have not?
9 [Not yet] perceive ye, neither remember,—
The five’ loaves of the five thousand,
And how many baskets ye received?
10 Nor the seven’ loaves of the four thousand,
And how many hampers ye received?
11 How is it ye perceive not, that
[Not concerning loaves] spake I unto you,—
But beware of the leaven |of the Pharisees and Sadducees||?
12 [Then] understood they that he did not bid them beware of {the} leaven {of loaves} but of |the teaching| of the Pharisees and Sadducees.

§ 51. Peter Confessing and Confessed.
Mk. viii. 27–30; cp. Lu. ix. 18–21.

13 And Jesus came into the parts of Cæsarea of Philippi, and began questioning his disciples, saying—
Who are men saying that the Son of Man is?
14 And they said—
Some indeed, John the Immerser, and others, [Jeremiah, or one of the prophets.]
15 He saith unto them—
But who say ye that I am?
16 And Simon Peter, answering, said—
Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God.
17 And Jesus answering, said to him—
Happy art thou, Simon Bar-jona, because flesh and blood revealed it not unto thee,
But my Father who is in the heavens.
18 And I will give thee the keys of the kingdom of the heavens,—
And whatsoever thou shalt bind upon the earth, shall be bound in the heavens, and whatsoever thou shalt loose upon the earth, shall be loosed in the heavens.

He is the Christ.

22 And taking him aside Peter began to rebuke him, saying—

Mercy on thee, Lord!

24 Then Jesus said unto his disciples—
If any one intendeth his life, shall lose it,—
But who shall lose his life, for my sake Shall find it.
25 For whosoever intendeth his life to save
Shall lose it,
But whosoever shall lose his life, [for my sake] Shall find it.
26 For what shall a man be profited,

And his life he forfeit?
Or what shall a man give [in exchange for his life]?
27 For the Son of Man is destined to be coming,

The kings of the earth of whom receive they dues or tax? from their sons, or from the aliens?

And <when he said, From the aliens> Jesus said unto him,

Well then [free are the sons]! 27 But <that we may not cause them to stumble> go unto the sea, and cast in a hook, and the first fish that cometh up take, and, opening its mouth, thou shalt find a shekel,—[that] take, and give to them for me and thee.

§ 57. Little Ones to be Copied, not Ensnared, Despised or Lost.

Chapter 18.

1 | In that’ hour came, the disciples unto Jesus, saying—
Who then is | greatest| in the kingdom of the heavens?
2 | And calling near a child he set it in the midst of them, | and said—
|| I say unto you, <Except ye turn and become as the children>
| In nowise| shall ye enter into the kingdom of the heavens.
3 | <Whosoever therefore shall humble himself as this child>
| The same| is the greatest, in the kingdom of the heavens;
4 | And whosoever shall give welcome unto one such child as this upon my name|
| Unto me| giveth welcome.
5 | And whosoever shall cause to stumble one of these little ones who believe in me>
| It profiteth him | more than if he find a ninety-nine sheep in the midst of a thousand.
6 | Rather than | having two hands or two feet to be cast into the age-abiding fire.
7 | Alas for the world! by reason of the causes of stumbling; For it is necessary that the causes of stumbling come,—
| Nevertheless| alas for the man through whom the cause of stumbling cometh!
8 | But if thy hand or thy foot be causing thee to stumble>
Cut it off, and cast it from thee: It is seemly for thee to enter into life, maimed or lame, Rather than having two hands or two feet to be cast into the age-abiding fire.
9 | And if thine eye causeth thee to stumble>
Pluck it out, and cast it from thee: It is seemly for thee ||one-eyed|| | into life| to enter, Rather than having two eyes to be cast into the fiery gehenna.a
10 | Beware! do not despise one of these little ones;

For I say unto you—
That their messengers in the heavens| do continually| behold the face of my Father in the heavens. [11]

How doth it seem?
If a certain man come to have a hundred sheep And one from among them go astray>
Will he not leave the ninety-nine upon the mountains, And going, seek the straying one?

And if it should be that he find it>
He rejoiceth over it, more than over the ninety-nine that have not gone astray.

Thus| there is no desire in the presence of my Father who is in the heavens, That one of these little ones| should be lost.

§ 58. How to Gain and how often to Forgive an Offending Brother. Parable of the Forgiven yet Unforgiving Servant.

But if thy brother sin>
Withdraw, convince him, betwixt thee and him alone,—
If unto thee he hearken>
Thou hast gained thy brother;
But if he do not hearken>
Take with thee, yet one or two, That at the mouth of two witnesses or three> Every declaration may be established;
But if he hear amiss>
Tell it to the assembly,—
And if even the assembly he hear amiss>
Let him be unto thee, just as the man of the nations and the tax-collector.

I say unto you—
<Whatsoever things ye shall bind on the earth>
Shall be bound in heaven; And whatsoever things ye shall loose on the earth>
Shall be loosed in heaven.

Again| I say unto you—

It shall be brought to pass for them, from my Father who is in the heavens:

20 For <where there are two or three, gathered together into my name> [There] am I, ||[in their midst]].

21 Then [coming near] Peter said {to him}—

Lord! | how many times | shall my brother sin against me | and I forgive him? | Until ||seven|| times?

22 Jesus saith to him—

I say not unto thee, | Unto | seven times, | But ||until seventy times seven]].

23 [For this cause] hath the kingdom of the heavens become like unto a man, a king, who wished to settle an account with his servants;

24 And <when he [began] to settle> there was brought unto him a [certain] debtor | of a thousand talents|; 25 and <he [not having] wherewith to pay> the master ordered him to be sold, and the wife, and the children, and whatsoever he had,—and payment to be made. 26 The servant therefore [falling down] began to do homage unto him, saying—

Have patience with me, | And [all] will I pay thee.

27 And [moved with compassion] the master of that\(^a\) servant released him, and [the loan] he [forgave] him.

28 But that servant [going out] found one of his fellow-servants, who owed him | a hundred denaries], and, laying hold of him, he began seizing him by the throat, saying,

Pay! if anything thou owest.

29 His fellow servant, therefore, [falling down] began beseeching him, saying,

Have patience with me! | And I will pay thee.

30 [He] however, would not, but went away and cast him into prison,—until he should pay what was owing. 31 His fellow-servants, therefore, [seeing] the things that were done, were grieved exceedingly,—and went and made quite plain to their master all\(^b\) the things which had been done.

32 [Then, calling him near] his master saith unto him—

O wicked servant!

33 [All that debt] forgave I thee, because thou didst beseech me.

Was it not binding [upon thee also] to have mercy upon thy fellow-servant, as ||I also|| [on thee] had mercy?

34 And [provoked to anger] his master delivered him up to the torturers, until he should pay all that was owing.

35 ||Thus|| [my heavenly Father also] will do unto you, if ye forgive not each one his brother [from your hearts].

1 And it came to pass <when Jesus ended these words> he removed from Galilee and came into the bounds of Judea beyond the Jordan.

2 And there followed him large multitudes, and he cured them there.

3 And there came unto him Pharisees, testing him, and saying,—

Whether is it allowed a man to divorce his wife, for every\(^c\) cause?

4 And [he] answering, said—

Did ye never read—

||He who created at the beginning|| |Male and female| made them,—|b and said—

[For this cause] will a man leave his father and his mother, And be united to his wife,—

7 They say unto him—

Why then did [Moses] command, to give a writing of repudiation and to divorce?\(^d\)

But he said unto them—

Not all find room for the word, save they to whom it hath been given;

But Jesus said—

Suffer the children— and do not hinder them—to come unto me,—

For [of such] is the kingdom of the heavens.

And, laying his hands upon them, he went his way from thence.

§ 61. A Rich Ruler—“We left all”—Twelve Thrones—The Day Labourers.

Mk. x. 17–31; Lu. xviii. 18–30.

And lo! one coming near unto him, said,

Teacher! what good thing shall I do, that I may have life age-abiding?

And he said unto him—

Why dost thou question me concerning that which is good?

There is [One] that is good,

But <if thou desirest into life> to enter

Be keeping the commandments.

He saith unto him Which?

Jesus said— These:

Thou shalt not commit murder,

Thou shalt not commit adultery,

Thou shalt not steal,

Thou shalt not bear false witness,

Honour thy father and thy mother,—

and—

Thou shalt love thy neighbour as [thysel].

The young man saith unto him—

[These all] have I kept,—

What [further] do I lack?

Jesus said unto him—

<If thou desirest to be [perfect]>

Withdraw! sell thy substance, and give to the destitute,—

And thou shalt have treasure in the heavens;

And come! be following me.

And the young man [hearing] this word, went away sorrowing,—for he was holding large possessions.

And [Jesus] said unto his disciples—

[Verily] I say unto you,

||A rich man|| [with difficulty] shall enter into the kingdom of the heavens.

Again I say unto you—

||Easier|| it is for ||a camel|| [through the eye of a needle] to enter,

Than a rich man—into the kingdom of God.

And [hearing it] the disciples were being struck with the greatest astonishment, saying—

Who then can be saved?

And [looking intently] Jesus said unto them—

||With men|| this is [impossible],

But [with God] [all things are possible].

Then [making answer] Peter said unto him—

Lo! [we] have left all, and followed thee,—

What then shall there be [for us]?

And [Jesus] said unto them—

[Verily] I say unto you,

<As for you who followed me in the regeneration>

When the Son of Man shall take his seat on his throne of glory

Ye also shall be seated upon twelve’ thrones, judging the twelve’ tribes of Israel.

And <whosoever left houses, or brethren, or sisters, or father, or mother, or children, or lands, for sake of my name>.

Chapter 20.

For the kingdom of the heavens is like a man, a householder,—

Who went forth with the morning, to hire labourers into his vineyard; and when he had agreed with the labourers for a denary the day, he sent them into his vineyard.

And <going forth about the third’ hour> he saw others, standing, in the market-place, unemployed; 4 and [to them] he said—

|Ye also| go your way into the vineyard, and |whosoever may be right| I will give you; and [they] departed.

And <again> going forth about the sixth’ and ninth’ hour he did likewise.

And <about the eleventh’ going forth> he found others, standing, and saith unto them—

Why |here| stand ye, all’ the day, unemployed?

They say unto him—

Because |no one| hath hired |us|.

He saith unto them—

|Ye also| go your way into the vineyard.

And |when evening came| the master of the vineyard saith unto his steward—

Call the labourers, and pay the hire,— beginning from the last, unto the first.

And they of the eleventh’ hour |coming| received severally a denary.

And |when the first came| they supposed that |more| they should receive,—and [|they also]| received severally a denary.

And |having received it| they began to murmur against the householder, saying—

|[These last]| one’ hour| wrought, and thou hast made them |equal unto us| who have borne the burden of the day, and the scorching heat.

And [he] answering, [unto one of them] said,—

Friend! I wrong thee not:

Was it not |for a denary| thou didst agree with me?

Take thine own, and go thy way;

But I please |unto this’ last| to give, as also to thee:

Is it not allowed me to do |what I please| with my own?

Or is ||thine eye| evil because I am good?

[Thus] shall be—

The last first, and the first last. b

§ 62. Private Announcement of Sufferings.

Mk. x. 32–34; Lu. xviii. 31–33.

And <Jesus, being about to go up unto Jerusalem> took unto him the twelve {disciples} |apart|, and |in the way| he said unto them—

Lo! we are going up unto Jerusalem;

And [the Son of Man] will be delivered up unto the chief-priests and Scribes,

And they will condemn him |to death|,

And deliver him up unto the nations, to mock and to scourge and to crucify,—

And |on the third day| he will ||arise||.

§ 63. Request for Zebedee’s Sons.

Mk. x. 35–45.

Then came unto him the mother of the sons of Zebedee, with her sons, bowing down, and asking something from him. 21 And [he] said to her—

What desirest thou?

She saith unto him—

Bid, that these’ my two’ sons may sit, one on thy right hand, and one on thy left, in thy kingdom.

But Jesus |answering| said—

Ye know not what ye are asking:

Are ye able to drink the cup, which |I| am about to drink;

They say unto him—

We are able.

He saith unto them—

[My cup, indeed] ye shall drink;

But <to sit on my right hand and on my left> is not mine to give,—except unto those for whom it hath been prepared by my Father.

And the ten |hearing| were sorely displeased, concerning the two’ brethren.

But [Jesus] calling them near, said—

Lord! have mercy on us! Son of David!

31 But the multitude rebuked them, that they might hold their peace. But [they] the more cried aloud, saying—
Lord! have mercy on us! Son of David!

32 And standing still Jesus called them, and said—

34 And moved with compassion Jesus touched their eyes,—and straightway they recovered sight, and followed him.

§ 65. The Triumphant Entry.
Mk. xi. 1–10; Lu. xix. 29–38; Jn. xii. 12–15.

1 And when they drew near unto Jerusalem, and came unto Bethphage, unto the Mount of Olives; then Jesus sent forth two disciples;

2 saying unto them—
Be going into the village that is over against you, and straightway ye shall find an ass, bound, and a colt with her,—loose them, and lead them unto me.

3 And if anyone unto you say aught] ye shall say—
[Their Lord] hath need,—

4 But [this] hath come to pass, that it might be fulfilled, which was spoken through the prophet, saying:

Tell ye the daughter of Zion, Lo! thy King is coming unto thee,
Meek and mounted upon an ass,
And upon a colt the foal of a toiling ass.

5 And the disciples went and did as Jesus directed them; and led the ass and the colt, and laid upon them their garments, and he took his seat upon them.

6 And the chief multitude spread their own mantles in the way, and others were cutting off young branches from the trees, and spreading them in the way;

7 and the multitudes they who were going before him and they who were following after were crying aloud, saying—Hosanna! to the Son of David,
Blessed is he that is coming in the name of the Lord.

8 Hosanna in the highest.

9 And when he entered into Jerusalem all the city was startled, saying—
Who is this?

10 And the multitudes were saying—
This is the prophet Jesus,—He from Nazareth of Galilee.

It is written,
My house shall be called; but ye are making it a den of robbers.

14 And there came unto him blind and lame, in the temple, and he cured them.

15 But the Chief-priests and the Scribes seeing the marvels that he wrought, and the boys who were crying aloud in the temple, and saying, Hosanna to the Son of David! were greatly displeased;

16 and said unto him—

Mk. xi. 12–14; 20–24.

And <early> returning into the city> he hungered; And <seeing one fig-tree by the way> he came up to it, and |nothing| found he thereon, save leaves only,—and he saith unto it—
|||No more|||from thee| let fruit spring forth, unto times age-abiding,— and the fig-tree |instantly| withered away.

And the disciples |seeing it| marvelled, saying—
|How instantly| did the fig-tree wither away!

And Jesus |answering| said unto them—
|Verily| I say unto you,
<If ye have faith, and do not doubt>
Not only |this of the fig-tree| shall ye do,—
But <even if> unto this mountain| ye shall say, Be lifted up, And be cast into the sea>

§ 68. By what Authority? Two Sons.
Mk. xi. 27–33; Lu. xx. 1–8.

And <when he entered| the temple> the Chief-priests and the Elders of the people |came unto him as he was teaching| saying,
|||By what’ authority|||these things| art thou doing?
And |who| to thee |gave| this authority?

And |making answer| Jesus said unto them—
|I also| will ask |you| one thing,—
Which if ye tell me,
|I also|| will tell |you|
|||By what authority|||these things| I am doing:—

|||The immersion by John|| whence was it? Of heaven, or of men?
But |they| began to deliberate among themselves, saying—

<If we say, Of heaven>
He will say unto us, Wherefore then did ye not believe him?

But <if we say, Of men>
We fear the multitude,
For |all|| as a prophet| are holding John.

And, making answer to Jesus, they said—
We know not.

|He also| said unto them—
Neither do |I| tell |you|,
|||By what’ authority|||these things| I am doing.

But how |to you| doth it seem?
|A man| had two sons:
|Coming unto the first> he said,
Son! go thy way, |To-day| be working in the vineyard.

And |he| answering, said, |I| sir! and went not;

And <coming unto the second> he spake |in like manner|,—
And |he| answering, said, I will not: ||afterwards| smitten with regret, |he went|.

|Which of the two| did the will of the father? They say, The latter.
Jesus saith unto them—
|Verily| I say unto you,
|The tax-collectors and the harlots| are going before you, into the kingdom of God;
For John came unto you, in a way of righteousness, And ye believed him not,—
But |the tax-collectors and the harlots| believed him;
And |ye|| seeing it| were not even smitten with regret |afterwards| so as to believe him.

§ 69. The Fruits of the Vineyard Demanded.
Mk. xii. 1–12; Lu. xx. 9–19.

|Another’ parable| hear ye:—
A man there was, a householder, Who planted a vineyard, And |a wall around it| placed, And dug in it a wine-vat, And built a tower,²
And let it out to husbandmen,— And left home.

² Ps. vii. 2.

² Is. v. 1 f.
And when the season of fruits drew near
He sent forth his servants unto the husbandmen to receive his fruits.

And the husbandmen, taking his servants,
[One] indeed, they beat,
And [another] slew,—
And [another] stoned.

[Again] sent he forth other servants, more than the first,
And they did unto them [likewise].

|Afterwards| however, he sent forth unto them his son, saying,—
They will pay deference unto my son!

But [the husbandmen] seeing the son, said among themselves,—
|This| is [the heir]:
Come on!
Let us slay him,
And have his inheritance.

And, taking him, they cast him forth outside the vineyard,—and slew him.

<When therefore the master of the vineyard shall come>
What will he do unto those husbandmen?

They say unto him—
Miserable men!
|Miserably| will he destroy them;
And will let out [the vineyard] to other husbandmen,
Who will render unto him the fruits in their seasons.

Jesus saith unto them—
Have ye [never] read in the Scriptures,
<A stone which the builders rejected>
|The same| hath become [head of the corner]|:
|From the Lord| hath this come to pass,
And is marvellous in our eyes.a

|Wherefore| I say unto you,

you,
And given to a nation bringing forth the fruits thereof:

{And he that falleth on this stone}b
Will be sorely bruised;
But [on whomsoever it may fall]
It will utterly destroyc him.}

And the Chief-priests and the Pharisees, hearing his parables, took note, that [concerning them] he was speaking. And, seeking to secure him, they feared the multitudes; since [for a prophet] were they holding him.

§ 70. Marriage Feast and Wedding Garment.
Lu. xiv. 16–24.

Chapter 22.

1 And answering, Jesus [again] spake in parables unto them, saying:—

2 The kingdom of the heavens hath become like a man, a king,—
Who made a marriage-feast for his son;
3 And sent his servants, to call the invited into the marriage-feast,—
And they would not come.
4 [Again] sent he other servants, saying—
Say to the invited,
Lo! my dinner is ready, and mine oxen and my fatlings are slain,—
And all things are ready;
Come ye into the marriage-feast.
5 And [they] slighting it, went off,
[One] indeed, into his own field,
And [another] unto his merchandise,— 6 And [the rest] securing his servants, ill-treated and slew them.
7 And [the king] was provoked to anger,—
And, sending his armies,
Destroyed those murderers,
And [their city] set on fire.

8 [Then] saith he unto his servants—
|The marriage| indeed, is ready,—
But [the invited] were not [worthy];
9 Be going, therefore, into the crossways of the roads,
And [as many as ye shall find] call ye into the marriage-feast.
10 And those servants going forth into the roads, Gathered together all whom they found, both bad and good,—
And filled was the bride-chamber with guests.
11 But the king [entering to view the guests>
And saith unto him—

Shew me the coin appointed for the tax.

They say—Cæsar's.

But Jesus said—

Why are ye tempting me, hypocrites?

Teacher! we know that [true] thou art,
And |[the way of God]| [in truth] dost teach,
And it concerneth thee not about anyone,—
For thou lookest not unto the face of men:
Tell us then, how [to thee] it seemeth?
Is it allowable to give tax unto Cæsar, or not?
But Jesus <taking note of their wickedness> said—

Why are ye deceiving yourselves,
Knowing neither the Scriptures, nor yet the power of God.

For |[in the resurrection]| they neither marry,
nor are given in marriage,
But [as messengers in the heaven] are they.
But |[as touching the resurrection of the dead]|—

Have ye not read what was spoken unto you by God, saying—

I am the God of Abraham, and the God of Isaac, and the God of Jacob?b

He is not God [of the dead] but |[of the living]].

And |[the multitudes] hearing, were being struck with astonishment at his teaching.

§ 75. Alas for the Scribes and Pharisees.

Chapter 23.

1 Then Jesus spake unto the multitudes and unto his disciples, saying—

Upon Moses’ seat have sat down, the Scribes and the Pharisees:

2 But according to their works do ye not, For they say, and do not perform;

But they bind together heavy burdens, And lay upon men’s shoulders, Whereas they with their finger are not willing to move them.

5 But their works they do, to be gazed at by men,— For they make broad their amulets, And make large their fringes, And dearly love the first couch in the chief meals, And the first seats in the synagogues, And the salutations in the market-places, And to be called by men, Rabbi.

8 But do not be called Rabbi,— For one is your Teacher, And all ye are brethren;

9 And be none of you called upon the earth, For one is your Father the Heavenly;

10 Neither be called leaders, For your leader is one the Christ;

And the greatest of you shall be to you a minister;

12 And whoever shall exalt himself shall be abased, And whoever shall abase himself shall be exalted; d [13] e

14 But alas for you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites; Because ye are locking up the kingdom of the heavens before men,— For ye are not entering, Neither them who are entering suffer ye to enter.

15 Alas for you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites: Because ye compass sea and dry land, to make one convert— And ye are locking up the kingdom of the heavens before men,—

Alas for you, blind guides! that say— <Whosoever shall swear by the Temple> it is nothing, But <whosoever shall swear by the gold of the Temple> is bound: Foolish and blind! for which is greater, The gold, or the Temple that hath hallowed the gold?

18 And <whosoever shall swear by the altar> it is nothing, But <whosoever shall swear by the gift that is upon it> is bound: Blind! for which is greater The gift, or the altar that halloweth the gift?

<He therefore that hath sworn by the altar> Sweareth by it, and by all that is upon it; And <he that hath sworn by the Temple> Sweareth by it, and by him who dwelleth therein;

22 And <he that hath sworn by heaven> Sweareth by the throne of God, and by him who sitteth thereupon.

23 Alas for you, Scribes and Pharisees, hypocrites;

Blind Pharisee! cleanse [first] [[the inside]] of the cup {and of the dish},
That [the outside thereof] may become [[clean]]. b

Alas for you, Scribes and Pharisees, [[hypocrites]];
Because ye make yourselves like sepulchres whitewashed,
Which [[outside]] indeed, appear [beautiful],
But [within] are full [[of dead men’s bones and all]] uncleanness],,—

Thus [ye also] [[outside]] indeed, appear to men [righteous],
But [within] are full [[of hypocrisy and lawlessness]].

Alas for you, Scribes and Pharisees, [[hypocrites]];
Because ye build the sepulchres of the prophets,
And adorn the monuments of the righteous,
And say—
<If we had been in the days of our fathers>
We would not have been their partners in the blood of the prophets:

So that ye bear witness against yourselves,
That ye are [sons] of them who murdered the prophets.

And [[ye]] fill ye up[[ the measure of your fathers!]

Serpents! broods of vipers! how should ye flee from the judgment of gehenna?

[[For this cause]] lo! [[I]] send unto you, prophets and wise men and scribes,—
[Some from among them] ye will slay and crucify,
And [some from among them] ye will—
Scourge in your synagogues,
And pursue from city to city:

That there may come upon you—
All’ righteous blood poured out upon the earth,
From the blood of Abel the righteous,
Unto the blood of Zachariah, son of Barachiah, whom ye murdered between the Temple and the altar.

[Verily] I say unto you—
[All these things] will have come [[upon this generation]]. d

Jerusalem! Jerusalem!
That slayeth the prophets,
And stoneth them that have been sent unto her,—

[How often] would I have gathered thy children,
Like as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings,—

And ye would not!

Lo! your house is left to you; e

For I say unto you—
[In no wise] may ye see me [henceforth],
Until ye say,
[Blessed is he that cometh [[in the name of the Lord]]]. f

§ 76. The Prophecy on Mount Olivet.
Mk. xiii.; Lu. xxi.

Chapter 24.

1 And <Jesus coming forth> [from the temple] was taking his departure, when his disciples came forward to point out to him the buildings of the temple. 2 But [he] answering, said unto them—
Are ye not beholding all these things?
[Verily] I say unto you—
[In no wise] shall there be left here [[stone upon stone]],

Which shall not be thrown down.

3 And <as he was sitting upon the Mount of Olives> the disciples came unto him, privately, saying—f Ps. cxviii. 26.

Tell us, when these things shall be,—
And what the sign of thy presence, and the conclusion of the age.

And answering Jesus said unto them—
Be taking heed, lest anyone deceive you;

For many will come upon my name, saying—
I am the Christ,—
And will deceive many.

Moreover ye will be sure to be hearing of wars, and rumours of wars:
Mind! be not alarmed, for it must needs happen;—
But [not yet] is [the end];

For there will arise—

Nation against nation, And kingdom against kingdom,—
And there will be famines and earthquakes [in places].

But all’ these things are a beginning of birth-pangs.

[Then] will they deliver you up into tribulation, and will slay you,—
And ye will be men hated by all’ the nations [because of my name];

And then will many be caused to stumble,
And one another will deliver up, And will hate one another;

And many’ false prophets will arise, And deceive [many];

And because of lawlessness being brought to the full>

[The love of the many] will grow cold,

But he that hath endured throughout> [The same] shall be saved.

And this glad message of the kingdom will be proclaimed in all’ the inhabited earth,
For a witness unto all’ the nations,—
And then] will have come, the end.

<Whensoever, therefore, ye shall see the abomination of desolation, that was spoken of through Daniel the prophet, Standing in a holy place;—
[He that readeth] let him think>

||Then||[they who are in Judæa]
Let them flee into the mountains;
And [he that is on the house-top]
Let him not come down, to take away the things out of his house;

And [he that is in the field]
Let him not turn back, to take away his mantle.

But alas! for the women with child,
And for them that are giving suck [in those days];
But be praying that your flight, may not happen in winter, nor on sabbath;

For there will be then, Great tribulation, Such as hath not happened, from the beginning of the world, until the present time;

Neither in any wise shall happen.

And <except those days had been shortened>k [no flesh had been saved];
But [for the sake of the chosen] [those days shall be shortened].

[Then] <if any, unto you, say—
Lo! here] is the Christ, or [there]> Do not believe it;

For there will arise, false Christs, and false prophets,—
And they will show great signs and wonders,
So that, if possible [even the chosen] should be deceived:—

Lo! I have foretold you.

<If therefore they should say unto you—
Lo! [in the desert] he is> Do not go forth;
<Lo! in the chambers> Do not believe it.

For <just as the lightning goeth forth from the east, and shineth unto the west>
[So] shall be the presence of the Son of Man.

<Wheresoever [the corpse] shall be> [There] shall be gathered [the vultures]

But <straightway after the tribulation of those days>
[The sun] will be darkened,
And [the moon] will not give her brightness,

And the stars will fall from heaven,—
And the powers of the heavens will be shaken;

And then will be displayed—
The sign of the Son of Man in heaven,
And then will smite their breasts—
All the tribes of the earth;
And they will see the Son of Man—
Coming upon the clouds of heaven,

And he will send forth his messengers, with a great trumpet;
And they will gather together his chosen—
Out of the four winds.

From heavens' bounds, unto their bounds.

Now || from the fig-tree || learn ye | the parable:—
<When | already | her young branch | becometh tender>,
And the leaves | may be sprouting!>
Ye observe, that | near | is | the summer:;
|| Thus || ye also | <when ye shall see all these things>
Observe ye, | that | near | he is | at the doors.

| Verily | I say unto you—
| In nowise | shall this generation | pass away|
Until all these things | shall happen:
| The heaven and the earth | shall pass away,
But | my words | shall | in nowise | pass away.

But concerning that day and hour:—
<No one | knoweth>,
Neither the messengers of the heavens,
Nor the Son,—
| Save the Father only||.

For just as the days of Noah>—
| So | will be the presence of the Son of Man;
For | as | they were in those days that were before the flood,
Feeding and drinking,
Marrying and being given in marriage,—
Until the day Noah entered into the ark;
And they observed not | until | the flood came and took away all together>
| So | will be | the presence of the Son of Man|.

Then shall there be two men in the field,—
| One | is taken near, and | one | is left behind:
Two women grinding at the mill,—
| One | is taken near, and | one | is left behind.
Be watching, therefore,
For ye know not | on what manner of day | your Lord is coming.
But there is | one thing | ye know—
That | if | the householder | had known|
| In what watch | the thief was coming>
He would have been on the alert,
And not have suffered his house to be dug through.

| Wherefore | || ye also || be getting ready,
Because | in what hour ye are | not thinking>
| (The Son of Man doth come).|

Who then is the faithful and prudent servant,
Whom the master hath appointed over his household,
To give them food in season?
Happy! that servant, whom his master | when he cometh | shall find so doing!

| Verily | I say unto you—
| Over all his substance | will he appoint him.
But | if | that wicked servant should say in his heart—
My master | delayeth,
And begin to be striking his fellow-servants,
And eating and drinking with the drunken>
The master of that servant | will have come|
On a day when he is not expecting,
And in an hour when he is not observing,—
And will cut him asunder;
And | his part | || with the hypocrites | will appoint:
| There | shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth!|

Now five of them were foolish, and five prudent.

For the foolish—

Though they took their torches,
Took not with them oil:
But the prudent took oil in their vessels, with their torches.

Now the bridegroom delaying
They all became drowsy, and were sleeping.
And at midnight an outcry hath been made—

Be going forth to meet him!

Then arose all those virgins, and trimmed their torches.

But the prudent answered saying—

Lest once, by any means, there be not enough for us and you;

Be going rather unto them that sell,
And buy for yourselves.

But as they were going away to buy

The bridegroom came;
And they who were ready went in with him into the marriage-feast,
And the door was locked.

But afterwards came the other virgins also, saying—

Lord! Lord! open unto us!

And he answering, said—

Verily I say unto you, I know you not.

Be watching, therefore,
Because ye know, neither the day nor the hour.

For it is just as a man who going from home
Called his own servants,
And delivered up to them his substance;
And to one indeed, gave he five talents,
And to another two,
And to another one,—
To each according to his particular ability,
And went from home.

Straightway he who the five talents had received went and traded with them, and gained other five:

Likewise he of the two gained other two:

But he who the one had received went away, and digged up ground, and hid the silver of his lord.

And after a long time cometh the lord of those servants, and reckoneth with them.

And he who the five talents had received coming forward brought other five talents, saying,—

Lord! five talents! to me thou didst deliver up:
See! other five talents I gained.

His lord said unto him—

Well-done! good and faithful servant,—
Over a few things wast thou faithful,
Over many things will I appoint thee:
Enter into the joy of thy lord.

He also of the two talents coming forward said—

Lord! two talents! to me didst thou deliver up:
See! other two talents I gained.

His lord said unto him—

Well-done! good and faithful servant,—
Over a few things wast thou faithful,
Over many things will I appoint thee:
Enter into the joy of thy lord.

But he also who the one talent had received coming forward said—

Lord! from him I knew what was mine,
I went away, and hid thy talent in the ground:

See! thou hast what is thine!

And his lord answering said unto him—

O wicked servant, and cowardly,
Knewest thou that I reap, where I have not sown,
And gather, whence thou hast not winnowed;
And overcome with fear
I went away, and hid thy talent in the ground:

Therefore take away from him the talent,
And give unto him that hath the ten talents;

For to every one that hath shall be given,
And he shall be made to abound; But <from him that hath not>
Even what he hath shall be taken away from him:a
And ||[the unprofitable’ servant]]
Cast ye forth into the darkness [outside]:
[There] shall be wailing and gnashing of teeth.b
But <whenever the Son of Man shall come in his glory,
And all’ the messengers with him> c
Then] will he sit on his throne of glory;
And there will be gathered before him, all the nations,
And he will separate them one from another,
Just as [<the shepherd] separateth the sheep from the goats,—
And he will set [<the sheep] indeed, on his right hand,
But [<the goats] on the left.
Then] will the king say to those on his right hand:
Come ye, the blessed of my Father!
Inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world;
For I hungered, and ye gave me to eat,
I thirsted, and ye gave me drink,
[A stranger] was I, and ye took me home,
Naked, and ye clothed me,
Sick, and ye visited me,
[In prison] was I, and ye came unto me.
Then] will the righteous answer him, saying:
Lord! when saw we thee—
Hungry, and fed thee,
Or thirsty, and gave thee drink?
And when saw we thee—
A stranger, and took thee home,
Or naked, and clothed thee?
And when saw we thee—
Sick, or in prison, and came unto thee?
And [answering] the king will say unto them:
[Verily] I say unto you—
<Inasmuch as ye did it unto one of these’ my least brethren>
Unto me] ye did it.

Then] will he say unto those also [on his left hand]:
Depart ye from me, accursed ones!
Into the age-abiding fire, which hath been prepared for the adversary and his messengers;
For I hungered, and ye gave me not to eat,
{And} I was thirsty, and ye gave me not to drink.
[A stranger] was I, and ye took me not home,
Naked, and ye clothed me not,
Sick, and in prison, and ye visited me not.
Then] will [they also] answer, saying:
Lord! when saw we thee—
Hungry, or thirsty, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison,
And ministered not unto thee?
Then] will he answer them, saying:
[Verily] I say unto you—
<Inasmuch as ye did it not unto one of these least]>
Neither unto me] did ye it.
And [these] shall go away, into [age-abiding] correction,
But [the righteous] into [age-abiding] life.d

Chapter 26.

And it came to pass <when Jesus ended all’ these words> he said unto his disciples:
Ye know that ||after two’ days|| [the passover] taketh place,—
And [the Son of Man] is to be delivered up, to be crucified.
Then] were gathered together, e the High-priests and the Elders of the people, into the court of the High-priest who was called Caiaphas;
and they took counsel together, in order that <Jesus, by guile> they might secure, and slay.
They were saying, however:
Not during the feast,
Lest [an uproar] arise among the people.
But [Jesus] <happening to be in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper> f there came unto him a woman, holding an alabaster-jar of costly perfume, and she poured it down upon his head, as he was reclining. And the disciples seeing it were greatly displeased, saying—

[To what end] this loss?

For this could have been sold for much, and given to the destitute.

But Jesus [taking note] said unto them—

Why vex ye the woman?

For a seemly work hath she wrought for me;

For always, the destitute have ye with you;—

But [me, not always] have ye;

For [she] pouring this perfume upon my body, [so as to prepare me for burial] did it.

Verily I say unto you—

<Wheresoever this glad-message shall be proclaimed in all the world>

Also what she did, will be told, as a memorial of her.

Then] went one of the twelve, the one called Judas Iscariot, unto the High-priests, and said—

What are ye willing to give unto me?

And [for] unto you will deliver him up.

And they appointed him thirty pieces of silver.

And [from that time] was he seeking a favourable opportunity that he might deliver him up.

§ 78. The Passover: the Old Feast and the New.

Mk. xiv. 12–26; Lu. xxii. 7–23.

And the disciples came unto Jesus, saying—

Where wilt thou that we make ready for thee to eat the passover?

And he said—

Go your way into the city, unto such a one, and say to him,

[The teacher] saith,

[My season] is near,

[With thee] will I keep the passover, with my disciples.

And the disciples did, as Jesus directed them, and made ready the passover. And when [evening] came> he was reclining with the twelve disciples; and, as they were eating, he said—

Verily I say unto you,

[One from among you] will deliver me up.

And being exceedingly grieved they began to be saying to him, each one—

Can it be [I] Lord?

And [he] answering, said—

<He who hath dipped with me his hand in the bowl> [the same] will deliver me up.

The Son of Man indeed, goeth his way, according as it is written concerning him,—

But alas! for that man, through whom the Son of Man is being delivered up:

Well had it been for him, if [that man] had not been born!

And Judas, who was delivering him up, answering said—

Can it be [I] Rabbi?

He saith unto him—

[Thou] hast said.

And [as they were eating] Jesus [taking a loaf and blessing] brake,—and [giving to his disciples] said—

Take, eat! [this] is [my body].

And <taking a cup, and giving thanks> he gave unto them, saying—

Drink of it, all of you;

For [this] is my blood of the covenant, which [for many] is to be poured out, for remission of sins.

Moreover, I say unto you—

[Likewise] will I drink, henceforth, of this produce of the vine, until that day, whensoever I shall drink it with you [new] [in the kingdom of my Father].

And, having sung praise, they went forth unto the Mount of Olives.

I will smite the shepherd,

§ 80. The Agony.
Mk. xiv. 32–42; Lu. xxii. 40–48.

36 Then Jesus cometh with them, into a place called Gethsemane,—and he saith unto his disciples, Sit ye here, while I go yonder and pray.

37 And |taking with him, Peter and the two' sons of Zebedee| he began to be grieved and to be in great distress. |Then| saith he unto them:
|Encompassed| with grief| is my soul, ||unto death|:
|Abide ye here, and be watching with me.

39 And |going forward a little| he fell upon his face, offering prayer, and saying—
|My Father! |
|If it is possible| let this cup pass from me,—
|Nevertheless| not as [I] will, but as [thou] wilt.

40 And he cometh unto his disciples, and findeth them sleeping, and said unto Peter—
|Thus| powerless are ye |one’ hour| to watch with me?

41 Be watching and praying, that ye may not enter into temptation:
|The spirit| indeed, is |eager|, but |the flesh|| weak|.

42 |Again, a second time|| departing he prayed, saying:
|My Father! |
|If it is impossible for this to pass, except I |drink| it>
|Accomplished| be |thine will|.

43 And coming, he |again| found them sleeping, for their eyes had become heavy. |And|, leaving them, he |again| departed, and prayed a third time,

|the same word| saying |again||. 45 |Then| cometh he unto the disciples, and saith unto them,—
|Ye are sleeping what time remaineth, and taking your rest:
|Lo|! the hour hath drawn near, and |the Son of Man| is being delivered up into the hands of sinners.

46 Arise! let us be going.—
|Lo! he that delivereth me up| hath drawn near.

§ 81. The Betrayal and Arrest.
Mk. xiv. 43–54; Lu. xxii. 47–54.

47 And |while| yet he was speaking| lo! |Judas, one of the twelve| came, and, with him |a large multitude|||with swords and clubs, from the High-priests and Elders of the people||.

48 And |he who was delivering him up| gave them a sign, saying—
|Whomsoever I shall kiss| |he| it is,—secure him.

49 And |straightway| coming unto Jesus| he said—
|Joy to thee! Rabbi, and eagerly kissed him. |But| Jesus| said unto him—
|Friend|d wherefore art thou here?
Then, coming forward, they thrust their hands upon Jesus, and secured him. |And lo! |one of those with Jesus| stretching forth his hand, grasped his sword, and smiting the servant of the High-priest, cut off his ear. |Then| Jesus saith unto him—
|Put back thy sword into its place,
For <all’ they who take a sword| |by a sword| ||shall perish|.| e

53 Or thinkest thou that I cannot call upon my Father,
And he will set near me, even now, ||more than twelve’ legions of messengers||?

54 How then should the Scriptures be fulfilled,
That [thus] it must needs come to pass?

55 In that’ hour| said Jesus unto the multitudes:
|As against a robber| came ye forth |with swords and clubs| to arrest me?
|Daily in the temple| used I to sit teaching, and ye secured me not;

56 But |this| hath |wholly| come to pass, that |the Scriptures of the prophets| may be fulfilled.

58Now [Peter] was following him afar off, unto the court of the High-priest,—and, entering within, was sitting with the attendants, to see the end.

§ 82. Jesus before the High-priest.
Mk. xiv. 55–65.

Now [the High-priests and all the High-council] were seeking false-witness against Jesus, that they might [put him to death]; and found not any, though many came forward as false-witnesses. [At length] however, there came forward two, and said:

[This] man said—
I am able to pull down the shrine of God,
And [in three days] to [build] it.

And the High-priest [arising] said unto him—
[Nothing] answerest thou?
What are these, against thee bearing witness?

But [Jesus] was silent.
And the High-priest said unto him:
I put thee on oath, by the Living God, that [to us, thou say]—
Whether [thou] art the Christ, the Son of God.

Jesus saith unto him:
[Thou] hast said;
[Moreover] I say unto you—
[Hereafter] ye will see the Son of Man,
Sitting on the right hand of power,
And coming upon the clouds of heaven.

[Then] the High-priest rent asunder his garments, saying—
He hath spoken profanely!
What further need have we, of witnesses?
Lo! [now] ye have heard the profanity!

How [to you] doth it seem?
And [they] answering, said:
[Guilty of death] he is.

[Then] spat they into his face, and buffeted him; and [others] struck him smartly, saying—Prophesy unto us, O Christ!
Who is he that struck thee?

§ 83. Peter’s Denial.

Now [Peter] was sitting without, in the court; and there came unto him a certain female servant, saying—[Thou also] wast with Jesus, the Galilæan.

But [he] denied before all, saying—
I know not what thou sayest.

And [when he went out into the porch] another female saw him, and said unto them who were there—
[This] one was with Jesus the Nazarene.

And [again] he denied [with an oath]—
I know not the man.

And [after a little] the by-standers [coming forward] said unto Peter:
[Truly] art [from among them],
For [thy very speech] maketh thee [manifest].

[Then] began he to be cursing and swearing—
I know not the man!
And [straightway] a cock crowed.
And Peter was put in mind of the declaration of Jesus, of his having said—[Before a cock crow] [thrice] wilt thou utterly deny me;
and, going forth outside, he wept bitterly.

3 [Then] Judas who had delivered him up [seeing that he was condemned] being smitten with remorse, returned the thirty pieces of silver unto the High-priests and Elders, saying—

7 And [taking counsel] they bought with them, the field of the potter, as a burial-place for strangers. 8 [Wherefore] that field hath been called Field of Blood, until this day.
9 [Then] was fulfilled, that which was spoken through Jeremiah the prophet, saying:

Now [Jesus] stood before the governor; and the governor questioned him, saying—[Thou] art the king of the Jews?
And [Jesus] said—
[Thou] sayest. 10
And <while he was being accused by the High-priests and Elders> [he answered nothing].
11[Then] Pilate saith unto him—
Hearest thou not how many things against thee they are bearing witness?
And he answered him [no not so much as a single word], so that the governor was marvelling exceedingly.
15 But [|feast by feast] the governor had been wont to release one unto the multitude, a prisoner whom they were desiring. 16 Now they had at that time a distinguished prisoner, called [Barabbas]. 17 They therefore having come together [Pilate] said to them—
Whom will ye I should release unto you? Barabbas?
Or Jesus, who is called Christ?
For he knew that [for envy] they had delivered him up.
And <as he was sitting upon the judgment seat> his wife sent unto him, saying:
Have thou nothing to do with that righteous man, for [many things] have I suffered this day, by dream, because of him.
20 But [|the High-priests and the elders] persuaded the multitudes, that they should claim Barabbas, but [Jesus] should [|destroy|]. 21 Now the governor [answering] said unto them—
Which of the two desire ye I should release unto you?
And they said—
Barabbas! c
22Pilate saith unto them—
What then shall I do unto Jesus, [who is called Christ]?
They all say—
Let him be crucified!
23But [|he] said—
Indeed! what evil hath he done?
But [they, vehemently] were crying aloud, saying—
Let him be crucified!
24And Pilate <|seeing| that [nothing] it availed, but rather [a tumult] was arising> taking water, washed his hands of it before the multitude, saying—
|Innocent| am I, of the blood of this man,—d
|Ye| shall see to it for yourselves.
25And all’ the people, answering, said—
His blood be upon us and upon our children!
26Then released he unto them Barabbas, but, scourging [Jesus], delivered him up, that he might be crucified.

§ 87. Jesus mocked by the Roman Soldiers.
Mk. xv. 16–20; Jn. xix. 2 ff.

Then the soldiers of the governor taking Jesus aside into the judgment-hall, gathered unto him all the band; and, unclothing him, a scarlet scarf put they about him,— and |plaiting a crown out of thorns| they put it upon his head, and a reed in his right hand,— and kneeling before him began to mock him, saying—
Joy to thee, King of the Jews!
And |spitting upon him| they took the reed, and began striking upon his head. 31 And, when they had mocked him, they put off him the scarf, and put on him his garments, and led him away unto the crucifying. 32 And <as they were going forth> c Thus sharing the guilt of their rulers.

d Or (WH): “this righteous man.”
they found a man of Cyrene, [by name] Simon,—
[the same] they impressed to bear his cross.

§ 88. The Crucifixion.
Mk. xv. 22–41; Lu. xxiii. 26–49; Jn. xix. 17–37.

37 And <coming into a place called Golgotha, that is to say, Skull-place> they gave him to drink, wine [with gall] mingled, and [tasting] he would not drink. 35 And <having crucified him> they parted among themselves his garments, casting a lot; 36 and, being seated, were watching him there. 37 And they put up, over his head, his accusation, written—

|THIS| IS JESUS, THE KING OF THE JEWS.

38 [Then] are crucified with him, [two robbers,] one on the right hand, and one on the left. 39 And [they who were passing by] were reviling him, shaking their heads, and saying—

<The man that taketh down the shrine and in three’ days buildeth it!>
Save [thyself]!
<If thou art God’s [Son] come down from the cross.

41 Likewise| the High-priests [also], mocking, [with the Scribes and Elders] were saying:
[Others] he saved,— [Himself] he cannot save:
42 |Israel’s King| he is!
Let him come down, now, from the cross,—
And we will believe on him!

43 <He hath put confidence upon God>
Let him rescue him, now, if he desireth him;
For he said, I am [God’s] Son.

44 And ||the same thing|| [the robbers also, who were crucified with him] were casting in his teeth.
Now ||from the sixth’ hour|| [darkness] came upon all’ the land—until the ninth’ hour.
46 And ||about the ninth’ hour|| Jesus uttered a cry, with a loud voice, saying—Eloi! Eloi! lema sabachthanei?
that is,
My God! my God! to what end hast thou forsaken me?

47 Now certain of them who were there standing, when they heard, began to say—

[This man] calleth [Elijah].

48 And ||straightway|| one from among them <running, and taking a sponge, and putting it on a reed> was giving him to drink; 49 but [the rest] said—
Stay! let us see whether Elijah is coming, [and will save him].
[[But [another] taking a spear, pierced his side, and there came forth water and blood.]]
50 And [Jesus] <again crying out with a loud voice> dismissed the spirit.

And lo! |the veil of the Temple| was rent, from top to bottom, into two; and |the earth| was shaken, and |the rocks| were rent; 52 and |the tombs| were opened and |many’ bodies| of the holy ones who had fallen asleep arose,—53 and <coming forth out of the tombs after his arising> entered into |the holy’ city|, and plainly appeared unto many.

54 Now |the centurion, and those with him watching Jesus| <seeing the earthquake and the things coming to pass> were violently affrighted, saying—
||Truly|| |God’s Son| was he!
55 Now there were there, many women, |from afar| beholding, who indeed had followed Jesus from Galilee, ministering unto him; 56 among whom was Mary the Magdalene, also Mary the mother of James and Joseph, and the mother of the sons of Zebedee.

§ 89. The Burial.
Mk. xv. 42–47; Lu. 50–56; Jn. xix. 38–42.

57 And <when |evening| arrived> there came a rich man from Arimathea, whose name was Joseph, who also |himself| had been discipled unto Jesus. 58 ||[The same]|| [going unto Pilate] claimed the body of Jesus. [Then] Pilate commanded it to be given up. 59 And Joseph, taking the body, wrapped it up in a clean Indian-cloth, 60 and laid it in his new’ tomb, which he had hewn in the rock, and <rolling near a large stone unto the door of the tomb> departed. 61 Now there were there, Mary the Magdalene, and the other’ Mary, sitting over against the sepulchre.

§ 90. The Sepulchre sealed and guarded.

And <on the morrow, which is after the preparation> the High-priests and the Pharisee were gathered together unto Pilate, 63 saying—
Sir! we have been put in mind that [that’ deceiver] said, while yet living,— [After three’ days] will I [arise].
64 Command, therefore, that the sepulchre be made secure until the third’ day,—lest once the disciples’ should come and steal him, and say unto the people,
He hath arisen from the dead!
and [the last’ deception] shall be [worse than the first].
65Pilate saith unto them—
Ye have a guard:
Go your way, secure it for yourselves, as ye know how.
66 And [they] went and secured for themselves the sepulchre, sealing the stone, with the guard.

Chapter 28.

1 And <late in the week, when it was on the point of dawning into the first of the week> b came Mary the Magdalene, and the other’ Mary, to view the sepulchre. 2 And lo! [a great’ commotion occurred,—for [a messenger c of the Lord] <descending out of heaven, and coming near> had rolled away the stone, and was sitting upon it. 3 Now [his appearance] was [as lightning], and [his clothing] [white as snow]; 4 and [for fear of him] they who were keeping watch were thrown into a commotion, and became as dead men. 5 But the messenger, [answering] said unto the women—
Be not [ye] afraid!
For I know that [Jesus the crucified] ye are seeking:
6 He is not here, for he hath arisen, as he said. Come! see the place where he lay;
7 And [quickly going] tell his disciples—
He hath arisen from the dead,
And lo! he is going before you into Galilee;—
|There] shall ye yourselves see him:
Lo! I have told you.
8 And <departing quickly from the tomb with fear and great joy> a they ran to bring tidings unto his disciples. 9 And lo! [Jesus] met them, saying—Joy to you!
And [they] going forward, held his feet, and worshipped him. 10 Then Jesus saith unto them—
Be not afraid!
Go your way, bear tidings unto my brethren, that they may depart into Galilee;
And [there] shall they themselves see me.

§ 92. The Story of the Soldiers.

11Now as they were [going] lo! [certain of the guard] went into the city and reported unto the High-priests all the things that had come to pass; 12 and <being gathered together with the Elders and taking counsel> sufficient e pieces of silver] gave they unto the soldiers,— 13 saying—
Say ye, [His disciples] coming [by night] stole him [while we were sleeping];
14 And <if this be reported unto the governor> [we] will persuade him, and will make [you] [free from care].
15 And [they] taking the pieces of silver, did as they were instructed. And this account was spread abroad among the Jews…until this {very} day.

§ 93. The Great Comission.

Mk. xvi. 15–20; Lu. xxiv. 44–49; Jn. xx. 21–23.

16And [the eleven’ disciples] went into Galilee, unto the mountain which [Jesus] had appointed them; 17 and, seeing him, they worshipped, f but [some] [doubted]. 18 And Jesus [coming near] spake unto them, saying—
All’ authority, in heaven and on earth, hath been given unto me;
19 Go ye, therefore, and disciple all’ the nations,
Immersing e them into the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Spirit,— 20 Teaching them to observe all things whatsoever I myself have commanded you,

Chapter 1.

Beginning of the glad-message of Jesus Christ.

According as it is written in Isaiah the prophet—
Lo! I send my messenger before thy face,
Who shall prepare thy way,—
A voice of one crying aloud—
In the wilderness prepare ye the way of the Lord,
Straight be making his paths—
John the Immerser came,—in the wilderness proclaiming an immersion of repentance for remission of sins;
and there were going out unto him all the Judæaʹ country,—and allʹ they of Jerusalem,—and were being immersed by him in the Jordanʹ river,—openly confessing their sins;
and John was clothed with camelʹs-hair,—and a leathern girdle about his loins,—and was eating locusts and wild honey;
and he proclaimed,—
He that is mightier than I cometh after me,
Of whom I am not worthy to stoop and unloose the strap of his sandals:
I have immersed you with water,—He will immerse you with the Holy Spirit.

§ 2. The Immersion.

In thoseʹ days, that Jesus came from Nazareth of Galilee,—and was immersed into the Jordan by John;— and straightway as he was coming up out of the water he saw the heavens rending asunder,—the Spirit as a dove descending unto him—
[Thou] art my Son, the Beloved,— [In thee] I delight.

§ 3. The Temptation.

And straightway the Spirit urgeth him forth into the wilderness;—and he was in the wilderness, fortyʹ days, tempted by Satan,—and were ministering unto him.

And after John was delivered up Jesus came into Galilee,—proclaiming the glad-message of God,— repent ye,—and have faith in the glad-message.
And passing by near the sea of Galilee he saw Simon, and Andrew the brother of Simon, casting a net in the sea,—for they were fishers;—and Jesus said unto them—
Come after me,
And I will make you become fishers of men;
and leaving the nets they followed him;—
and straightway leaving the nets they followed him. And going forward a little he saw James the son of Zebedee, and John his brother, and them who were in the boat putting in order the nets;—and straightway he called them,—and leaving their father Zebedee in the boat with the hired men they came away after him.

§ 5. In Capernaum Jesus teaches, and expels an Impure Spirit.

And they journey into Capernaum. And, on the Sabbath entering into the synagogue he began teaching;—and they were being struck with astonishment at his teaching,—

Or: “into.”

Or (WH): “And straightway on the Sabbath he began teaching in the synagogue.”
for he was teaching them as one having [authority], and [not as the Scribes].

23 And [straightway] there was in their synagogue, a man in a impure spirit,—and he cried out aloud, saying—

What have we in common with thee, b

Jesus of Nazareth?

Hast thou come to destroy us?

If I know thee, who thou art,

||The Holy One of God||.

25 And Jesus rebuked him, {saying}—

Be silenced, and come forth out of him!

26 And the impure spirit <tearing him, and calling out with a loud voice> came forth out of him; and they were amazed, one and all, so that they began to discuss among themselves, saying—

What is this? New teaching! ||With authority, to the impure spirits also|| he giveth orders, and they obey him!

28 And forth went the report of him, straightway, on every hand, into all’ the surrounding country of Galilee.

Mt. viii. 14–16; Lu. iv. 38–44.

29 And <straightway, out of the synagogue, going forth> he went unto the house of Simon and Andrew, with James and John. 30 Now [the mother-in-law of Simon] was lying in a fever, and [straightway] they spoke to him concerning her; 31 and, coming near, he raised her up, grasping her hand,—and the fever left her, and she began ministering unto them.

32 And <evening arriving, when the sun went in> they were bearing unto him all’ who were sick, and them who were demonized; 33 and all’ the city was gathered unto the door; 34 and he cured many; that were sick with divers’ diseases, and [many demons] he cast out, and suffered not the demons to be talking,—because they knew him {to be Christ}.

35 And [very early by night arising] he went out {and departed} into a desert’ place, and [there] was praying; 36 and Simon, and they who were with him, went in quest of him. 37 and found him, and say unto him—

|All| are seeking thee;

38 and he saith unto them—

Let us be going elsewhere, into the neighbouring’ country-towns, in order that [there also] I may be making proclamation,—for [to this end] came I forth;

39 and he came, making proclamation, into their synagogues, throughout the whole of Galilee,—and [was casting the demons out].

§ 7. Cleanses a Leper.

Mt. viii. 1–4; Lu. iv. 12–14.

40 And there cometh unto him, a leper, beseeching him {and kneeling},—saying unto him—

If thou be willing| thou canst cleanse me;

41 and [moved with compassion] he stretched forth the hand, and touched him, and saith unto him—

I am willing. Be cleansed!

42 and [straightway] the leprosy departed from him, and he was cleansed; 43 and [strictly charging him] straightway he urged him forth; 44 and saith unto him—

Mind! ||unto no one|| say [aught],—but withdraw, ||thyselv|| show unto the priest, and offer for thy cleansing what things Moses enjoined [for a witness unto them].

45 But [he] going forth, began to be proclaiming many things, and blazing abroad the story, so that [no longer] was it possible for him ||openly|| ||into a city|| to enter,—but [outside, in desert places] {was he}, and they were coming unto him from every quarter.

§ 8. Forgives and Heals a Paralytic.

Mt. ix. 2–8; Lu. v. 18–26.

Chapter 2.

1 And <entering again into Capernaum, after some days> it was heard say—

He is |in a house|;

2 and many were gathered together, so that [no longer] was there room {even in the approaches to the door}[,—and he began speaking unto them the word; 3 and they come, bearing unto him a paralytic, [upborne by four],—4 and <not being able to get near him, by reason of the multitude> they uncovered the roof where he was, and [having broken it up] they began letting down the couch wherein the paralytic was lying;

5 and [Jesus, seeing their faith] saith unto the paralytic—
Child! forgiven are thy sins!
6 Now there were certain of the Scribes there, sitting and deliberating in their hearts,—
7 Why doth [this] man [thus] talk? he is speaking profanely!
Who can forgive sins [save one, ||God]]?
8 And Jesus <[straightway] taking note in his spirit, that [thus] they are deliberating within themselves> saith [unto them]—
Why [these things] are ye deliberating in your hearts?
9 Which is easier—
To say unto the paralytic, Forgiven are thy sins,
Or to say, — Rise, [and] take up thy couch, and be walking?
10 But <that ye may know that the Son of Man [hath authority] to be forgiving sins upon the earth>a he saith to the paralytic:
11 [To thee] I say, Rise, take up thy couch, and be going thy way unto thy house.
12 And he arose, and [straightway taking up the couch] went forth before all,—so that all were beside themselves, and were glorifying God, {saying}—
||Thus|| we [never] saw it!

Mt. ix. 9–13; Lu. v. 27–32.

13 And he went forth again by the sea,—and [all’ the multitude] was coming unto him, and he began teaching them. 14 And, passing by, he saw Levi, the son of Alpheus, sitting over the tax-office,—and saith unto him—
Be following me!
and, arising, he followed him. 15 And it cometh to pass, that he is reclining in his house, and [many] tax-collectors and sinners| were reclining with Jesus and his disciples; for there were many, and they began followingb him. 16 And [the Scribes and Pharisees] <seeing that he was eating with the sinners and the tax-collectors> began saying unto his disciples—
[With the tax-collectors and sinners] is he eating? 17 And [hearing it] Jesus saith unto them—
||No need]] have [the strong] of a physician, but they who are [sick],— I came not to call the righteous [but sinners].

§ 10. Then will they fast.
Mt. ix. 14–17; Lu. v. 33–38.

18 And the disciples of John and the Pharisees were fasting; and they come and say unto him—
||For what cause] do [the disciples of John and the disciples of the Pharisees] fast, whereas [thy disciples] ||[fast not]? 19 And Jesus said unto them—
Is it possible for the sons of the bridechamber [while the bridegroom is with’ them] to be fasting? <So long as they have the bridegroom with them> it is impossible [to fast]. 20 But there will [come] days< when the bridegroom shall be taken from them> and [then] they will fast [in that’ day].e
21 ||No one]] seweth [a patch of unshrunk cloth| upon [an old’ mantle],—[otherwise, at least]] the shrinking teareth away from it—the new from the old—and [a worse’ rent is made].
22 And ||no one]] poureth [new wine] into [old skins],—[otherwise, at least]] the wine will burst the skins, and [the wine] is lost, and [the skins]. {But [new wine] is for [unused skins].}

§ 11. Disciples pluck Ears of Corn on Sabbath.
Mt. xii. 1–8; Lu. vi. 1–5.

23 And it came to pass, that he [on the Sabbath] was passing through the cornfields, and his disciples began to be going forward, plucking the ears of corn. 24 And [the Pharisees] were saying—
See! why are they doing, on the Sabbath, what is not allowed?
25 And he saith unto them—
Have ye never read, what [David] did, when he had [need] and hungered,—[he, and they who were with him]: 26 [how] he entered into the house of God, while [Abiathar] was High-priest, and [the presence-bread]f did eat,—

28 So that the Son of Man is ||Lord|| |even of the § 12. Withered Hand healed on Sabbath.

Mt. xii. 9–13; Lu. vi. 6–11.

Chapter 3.

1 And he entered again into a synagogue, and there was there, a man having |his hand|
|withered|; 2 and they were narrowly watching him, whether |on the Sabbath| he would cure him,
|that they might accuse him|. 3 And he saith unto the man who hath |his hand withered|
Arise into the midst!

4 and saith unto them—
Is it allowed |on the Sabbath| |to do good, or to do evil|?
To |save| |life|, or |to slay|?
but they remained silent. 5 And <looking round upon them with anger, |being at the same time grieved on account of the hardening of their heart> he saith unto the man—
Stretch forth thy hand!
and he stretched it forth, and his hand |was restored|.

6 And <the Pharisees, going out straightway with the Herodians> were giving counsel against him, that they should |destroy| him.

7 And |Jesus, with his disciples| retired unto the sea;
and |a great| throng from Galilee| followed, |also from Judæa, 8 and from Jerusalem, and from Idumæa, and beyond the Jordan, and around Tyre and Zidon |a great| throng| <hearing whatsoever things he was doing> came unto him. 9 And he spake unto his disciples, that |a little boat| might attend him, because of the multitude,—|that they might not be pressing upon him. 10 For he cured |many|, so that they were besieging him, that they might touch him—|as many as had plagues|;

11 and |the impure spirits, as soon as they beheld him| were falling down to him, and crying aloud, |while he was speaking|
|Thou| art the Son of God!
12 and sternly’ was he rebuking them, lest they should make him |manifest|.

§ 14. Twelve appointed.
Lu. vi. 12–16; Mt. x. 1–4.

13 And he goeth up into the mountain and calleth near whom |he| pleased,—and they went away unto him; 14 and he appointed a twelve, whom also he named |Apostles|,—that they might be with him, and that he might be sending them forth to make proclamation, 15 and to have authority to cast out the demons; 16 and he appointed the twelve (and imposed a name on Simon—) Peter, 17 and James the son of Zebedee, and John the brother of James (and imposed on them a name—Boanerges, that is, sons of thunder); 18 and Andrew, and Philip, and Bartholomew, and Matthew, and Thomas,
and James the son of Alphaeus, and Thaddeus, and Simon the zealot; 19 and Judas Iscariot, who also delivered him up.

§ 15. Charged with casting out Demons in Beelzebul.
Mt. xii. 22–37; Lu. xi. 14–23.

And he cometh into a house; 20 and the multitude come together again, so that they could not so much as eat |bread|. 21 And they who were near to him |hearing of it| went out to secure him,—for they were saying—
He is beside himself!

22 And |the Scribes who from Jerusalem| had come down| were saying—
He hath |Beelzebul|; and—
|In the ruler of the demons| casteth he out the demons.
23 And, calling them near, |in parables| began he to say unto them—
How can |Satan| cast |Satan| out?
24 And |if a kingdom| |against itself| be divided that kingdom cannot be made to stand;
25 And |if a house| |against itself| be divided the house shall be unable to stand;
26 And |if |Satan| hath risen up against himself,
and become divided| he cannot stand, but hath
|an end|.

|All things shall be forgiven unto the sons of men,—
The sins and the profanities wherewithal they shall profane;
|But <whosoever shall revile against the Holy Spirit>

§ 16. Who are my Mother and my Brethren?

Mt. xii. 46–50; Lu. viii. 19–21.

31 And there come, his mother and his brethren, and, standing [outside] they sent unto him, calling him.
32 And there was sitting around him a multitude, and they say unto him—
|Lo! [thy mother and thy brethren]| [outside] are seeking thee!
|And, answering them, he saith—

Who are my mother and my brethren?
34 And <looking around on them who [about him, in a circle] were sitting> he saith—

See! my mother and my brethren!

35 |[Whosoever shall do the will of God]| [the same] is my brother and sister and mother.a

§ 17. Parable of the Sower.

Mt. xiii. 1–9; Lu. viii. 4–8.

Chapter 4.

1 And [again] began he to be teaching by the sea; and there come together unto him a very great multitude, so that [he, into a boat] entering, was sitting uponb the sea,—and [all’ the multitude] were [near the sea upon the land].
2 And he began to teach them, in parables, many things, and was saying unto them, in his teaching—
3 Hearken! Lo! the sower went forth to sow;
4 And it came to pass <as he sowed>

|Some] indeed, fell by the pathway, and the birds came, and devoured it;
|And [some] fell on the rocky places, {even} where it had not much earth,—and [straightway] it sprang forth, by reason of its not having depth of earth; 6 and [when the sun arose] it was scorched,—and <by reason of its not having root> it was dried up;
|And [some] fell among the thorns, and the thorns came up and choked it, and [fruit] it yielded not;
|And [other] fell into the good ground, and was yielding fruit, coming up and growing,—and was bearing, thirtyfold and sixtyfold and a hundredfold.
|And he was saying—
|[He that hath ears to hear] let him hear!

§ 18. Wherefore in Parables? The Sower explained.

Mt. xiii. 10–23; Lu. viii. 9–15.

10 And [when he was alone] they who were about him with the twelve, questioned him, as to the parables; 11 and he was saying unto them—

||[To you] the sacred secret hath been given, of the kingdom of God, whereas ||[to them who are outside]| [in parables] are all things coming to pass,—that

They may |surely look| and yet not see,
And |surely hear| and yet not understand,
Lest once they should return, and it be forgiven them:5

13 And he saith unto them—

Know ye not [this] parable? How then will ye get to know [all’ the parables]?

14 ||[The sower] soweth [the word];
15 And [these] are they beside the pathway, where the word is sown,—and [as soon as they hear, straightway] cometh Satan, and snatcheth away the word which hath been sown into them;
16 And [these] are likewise they [upon the rocky places] sown,—who [as soon as they hear the word, straightway, with joy] receive it, 17 and have no root in themselves, but [only for a season] are,—[afterwards] <when there ariseth tribulation or persecution by reason of § 19. The Lamp and the Measure. How to Hear.

Lu. viii. 16–18.

21 And he was saying unto them—
   Doth the lamp b come, that [under the measure] it should be put, or under the couch? Is it not that [upon the lampstand] it may be put? 22 For it is not hidden, save that it may be made visible; neither did it get hidden away, but that it might come into a place where it could be seen.

23 <If any one hath ears to hear> let him hear.

24 And he was saying unto them—
   Be taking heed, what ye are hearing:
   <With what measure ye mete> it shall be measured unto you, and added unto you;
   For he that hath [unto him],
   And he that hath not [even what he hath]] shall § 20. First the Blade.

26 And he was saying—
   ||Thus|| is the kingdom of God: As a man may cast seed upon the earth, 27 and be sleeping and rising, night and day, — and [the seed] be sprouting, and lengthening itself, — [how] [he] knoweth not: 28 [Of itself] the earth beareth fruit, — [first] a blade, [afterwards] an ear, [after that] full' corn in the ear; 29 but [as soon as the fruit yieldeth itself up] [straightway] he sendeth forth the sickle, because standing by is the harvest.

§ 21. The Grain of Mustard Seed.
Mt. xiii. 31, 32; Lu. xiii. 18, 19.

30 And he was saying—
   How shall we liken the kingdom of God, or [in what' parable] shall we put [it]?
31 As a grain of mustard seed,—which [whenever it may be sown upon the earth] is less than all the seeds that are upon the earth;
32 and [as soon as it is sown] springeth up, and becometh greater than all’ garden plants, and produceth large branches, so that [under the shade thereof] the birds of heaven can find shelter.
33 And <with many such parables [as these]> was he were able to hear; 34 but [without a parable] was he not speaking unto them,—[privately] however, [unto his own’ disciples] was he explaining all things.

§ 22. A Storm rebuked.
Mt. viii. 23–27; Lu. viii. 22–25.

evening came>
   Let us cross over unto the other side; 36 and dismissing the multitude they take him with them, as he was, in the boat, and [other’ boats] were with him. 37 And there ariseth a great tempest of wind,—and [the waves] were dashing over into the boat, so that [already being filled] was the boat.
38 And [he] was in the stern [on the cushion] sleeping. And they arouse him, and say unto him,
   Teacher! carest thou not that we perish?
39 And [roused up] he rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea—
   Hush! be still!
   and the wind lulled, and it became a great calm.
40 And he said unto them—
   [Why] are ye [fearful]?
   [Not yet] have ye faith?
41 And they were caused to fear a great fear, and were saying one to another—
   Who then is [this], that [both the wind and the sea]
   give ear unto him?

Chapter 5.

1 And they came unto the other side of the sea, into the country of the Gerasenes. 2 And <when he went forth out of the boat> [straightway] there met him [from amongst the tombs] a man, in an impure spirit: 3 who had [his dwelling] among the tombs, and [not even with a chain, any longer] was anyone able to bind him,— because of his having been [many times, with fetters and chains] bound, and the chains having been plucked asunder by him, and the fetters smashed, and no one was mighty enough to tame him; 5 and <continually, night and day, in the tombs and in the mountains> was he crying aloud, and cutting himself in pieces with stones.

6 And <seeing Jesus from afar> he ran and bowed down to him; 7 and [crying out with a loud voice] saith—

What have I in common with thee,a

O Jesus, Son of God Most High?

I adjure thee by God,—Do not torment me!

8 For he was saying to him—

Go forth thou impure spirit, out of the man;

and he was questioning him—

What is thy name?

and he saith to him—

[Legion] is my name, because we are [many];

and he was beseeching him much, that he would not send them forth outside the country.

9 Now there was there, near the mountain, a large herd of swine, feeding; 12 and they besought him, saying—

Send us into the swine, that [into them] we may enter; and he suffered them. And the impure spirits [going out] entered into the swine, and the herd rushed down the cliff into the sea, about two thousand, and were choked in the sea. 14 And [they who had been feeding them] fled, and bare tidings into the city and into the fields,—and they came to see what it was that had happened.

15 And they come unto Jesus, and view the demonized man, clothed and of sound mind, [him who had had the legion],—and they were struck with fear. 16 And the beholders narrated to them, how it happened to the demonized man, and concerning the swine. 17 And they began to beseech him, to depart from their bounds.

18 And <as he was entering into the boat> he who had been demonized was beseeching him, that [with him] he might be. 19 And he suffered him not, but saith unto him—

Withdraw into thy house, unto thine own, and bear tidings unto them, how many things the Lord for thee hath done, and hath had mercy on thee.

20 And he departed, and began proclaiming, in the Decapolis, how many things Jesus had done for him,—and [all] were marvelling.

Mt. ix. 18–26; Lu. viii. 41–56.

21 And <Jesus crossing over in the boat again unto the other side> there was gathered a large multitude unto him, and he was by the sea.

22 And there cometh one of the synagogue-rulers, by name Jairus, and, seeing him, falleth at his feet, 23 and beseecheth him much, saying—

My little daughter is at her last!—that, coming, thou wouldest lay thy hands upon her, that she may be made well, and live;

24 and he departed with him. And there was following him a large multitude, and they were pressing upon him.

25 And ||a woman|| <who had had a flow of blood twelve> years, 26 and suffered [much] from many physicians, and spent all her means, and profited [nothing],—but had [rather] become [worse]> 27 [hearing the things about Jesus] came in the crowd from behind, and touched his mantle; 28 for she was saying—

<If I can touch so much as his mantle> I shall be made well;

29 and [straightway] the fountain of her blood was dried up, and she knew, in her body, that she was healed from the plague. 30 And [straightway] Jesus <taking note, in himself, of the power which [out of him] went forth> [turning round in the crowd] was saying—

Who hath touched my garments?

31 and his disciples were saying to him—

Thou seest the crowd pressing upon thee,—and sayest thou— Who hath touched me?

32 And he was looking round to see her who [this] thing had done. 33 And [[the woman]] <overcome with fear, and trembling, knowing what had happened to her> came, and fell down before him, and told him all’ the truth. 34 And [he] said to her—

"Daughter! thy faith hath made thee well:
Withdraw into peace,
And be whole from thy plague.

35 <While yet he is speaking> they come from the synagogue-ruler’s, saying—[Thy daughter] is dead!
Why [further] annoy the teacher?

36 But [[Jesus]] [overhearing the word being spoken] saith unto the synagogue-ruler—
Do not fear, only have faith!

37 And he suffered no one to follow [with him], save Peter and James and John the brother of James. 38 And they come into the house of the synagogue-ruler, and he observeth a tumult, and persons weeping and wailing greatly;

39 and, entering, he saith unto them—
Why are ye making a tumult, and weeping?
[The child] is [not dead], but [is sleeping];

40 and they were deriding him. But [he] thrusting all forth, taketh with him the father of the child, and the mother, and them who were with him,—and entereth where the child was; 41 and <grasping the hand of the child> he saith unto her—Talitha, koum!

which is, when translated—
O damsel! [to thee] I say, Arise!

42 And [[straightway]] the damsel arose, and was walking about; for she was twelve years of age. And they were beside themselves, straightway, with a great transport; 43 and he commanded them, again and again, that [no one] should get to know this thing,—and bade that food should be given her to eat.

§ 25. Cause of Stumbling found in the Carpenter’s Son.
Mt. xiii. 53–58; cp Jn. vi. 42.

Chapter 6.

1 And he went forth from thence, and cometh into his own city,—and his disciples follow him.

2 And [when it was Sabbath] he began to be teaching in the synagogue, and [[the greater part]] [as they heard] were being struck with astonishment, saying—

Whence hath this man these things?—and—
What the wisdom which hath been given to this man?—and—

[[Such mighty works as these]] [through his hands] are coming to pass!

3 Is not [this] the carpenter? the son of Mary, the brother of James and Joses and Judas and Simon?
And are not his sisters here with us?—
and they were finding cause of stumbling in him.

4 And Jesus was saying unto them—
A prophet is not without honour, [save in his own city, and among his kinsfolk, and in his house];

5 and he could not [there] do, so much as a single mighty work,—save [on a few’ sick] he laid his hands, and cured them. 6 And he marvelled, because of their unbelief.

§ 26. The Twelve sent forth.
Mt. x.; Lu. ix. 1–6, 10, 11.

And he was going round the villages, in a circuit, teaching. 7 And he calleth near the twelve, and began to be sending them forth, two and two,—and was giving them authority over the impure spirits: 8 and charged them that they should take [nothing] for a journey, save a staff only,—no bread, no satchel, no copper [for the belt]; 9 but having bound on light sandals, and not to put on [two’ tunics];

10 and he was saying unto them—
<Wheresoever ye shall enter into a house> [there] abide, until ye go forth from thence;

11 And <whatsoever place shall not welcome you nor hearken unto you> [when ye are going forth from thence] shake off the dust that is under you feet [for a witness against them].

12 And they went forth, and made proclamation, in order that men should repent; 13 and [many demons] were they casting out,—and were anointing with oil [many’ sick], and were curing them.

§ 27. John the Immerser beheaded.
Mt. xiv. 1–12; Lú. ix. 7–9.

14 And King Herod heard,—for [famous] had become his name; and he was saying—
  [John the Immerser] hath arisen from among the dead, and [for this cause] are the powers working mightily in him;
15 But [others] were saying—
  It is [Elijah], and [others] were saying—
  A prophet, like one of the prophets!
16 But [when Herod heard] he was saying—
  ||He whom I’ beheaded—John|| [the same] hath been raised.
17 For [Herod himself?] had sent and secured John, and bound him in prison, a for the sake of b Herodias the wife of Philip his brother,—for [her?] had he married. 18 For John had been saying to Herod—
  [It is not allowed thee] to have [the wife of thy brother].
19 And [Herodias] was cherishing [a grudge] against him, and wishing [to slay’ him],—and could not; 20 for [Herod] stood in fear of John, knowing him to be a man righteous and holy,—and was keeping him safe; and [when he heard him] he paid earnest heed, and [with pleasure] used to listen to him.
21 And <an opportune day | arriving> when Herod on his birth-day made [a feast] for his nobles, and for the rulers of thousands, and for the first men of Galilee> 22 [when the daughter of this very]’ Herodias came in and danced she pleased Herod and those reclining together, and [the king] said unto the damsel—
  <Ask me what thou wilt> and I will give it thee;
23 and he took an oath to her—
  <Whatsoever thou shalt ask me> I will give thee |unto half my kingdom.
24 And [going out] she said unto her mother—
  What shall I ask?
and she said—
  ||The head of John the Immerser||;
25 And <coming in straightway, with haste, unto the king> she asked, saying—
  I desire, that [forthwith] thou give me, upon a charger, ||the head of John the Immerser||.
26 And <though the king was |very grieved|> yet <by reason of the oaths, and of them who were reclining> he would not refuse her. 27 And the king straightway sending off a guard gave orders to bring his head. 28 And, departing, he beheaded him in the prison, and brought his head upon a charger, and gave it unto the damsel—and [the damsel] gave it unto her mother. 29 And, [|hearing of it|| his disciples| went, and took away his corpse, and laid it in a tomb.

§ 28. Five Thousand fed.

30 And the apostles gather themselves together unto Jesus, and reported unto him all things, as many as they had done, and as many as they had taught.
31 And he saith unto them—
  Come [ye yourselves] apart, into a desert place, and rest yourselves a little.
For they who were coming and they who were going [were many], and [not even to eat] were they finding fitting opportunity. 32 And they departed in the boat, into a desert place [apart]. 33 And many saw them going away, and took note of it, and [af oot, from all the cities] ran they together thither,—and outwent them. 34 And, coming forth, he saw [a great’ multitude] and was moved with compassion towards them, because they were like sheep having no shepherd, c and he began to be teaching them many things. 35 <And ||already|| [a late hour] having arrived> his disciples came unto him and were saying—
  ||A desert|| is the place, and it is ||already|| a late hour: 36 dismiss them, that [departing into the surrounding’ hamlets and villages] they may buy themselves something to eat.

37 But [he] answering said to them—
  ||Ye|| [give them] to eat.
And they say unto him—
  Shall we depart, and buy two’ hundred’ denaries’ worth of loaves, and give them to eat?
38 And [he] saith unto them—
  ||How many loaves|| have ye? Go, see!
And, getting to know, they say—
  Five, and [two’ fishes].
39 And he gave them orders, that all should be made recline [in parties], upon [the green’ grass]. 40 And they fell back [in companies], by hundreds and by fifties. 41 And <taking the five’ loaves, and the

And they did all eat, and were filled. And they took up broken pieces, twelve baskets [full measure], and from the fishes. And they who did eat the loaves were [five thousand] men.

§ 29. Jesus walketh upon the Lake.
Mt. xiv. 22–36; Jn. vi. 16–21.

And straightway] constrained he his disciples, to enter into the boat, and be going forward to the other side, unto Bethsaida,—while [he] was dismissing the multitude. And, bidding them farewell, he departed into the mountain to pray. And <when [evening] came> the boat was in the midst of the sea, and [he, alone] on the land. And <seeing them distressed in the rowing, for the wind was against them> [about the fourth watch of the night] he cometh unto them, walking upon the sea,—and was wishing to pass by them. But [they] <seeing him [upon the sea] walking> supposed that it was [an apparition], and cried out aloud; for [all] saw him, and were troubled. But [he, straightway] talked with them, and saith unto them—

Take courage! it is [I],—be not afraid!

And he went up unto them, into the boat,—and the wind lulled. And [exceedingly, within themselves] were they astonished; for they understood not by the loaves,—but their [heart] had been [hardened].

§ 30. Jesus in Gennesaret.

And crossing over unto the land [they came unto Gennesaret, and cast anchor near]. And <when they had [come forth] out of the boat> straightway] recognizing him, the people ran round the whole of that country, and began to be carrying round [upon couches, them who were sick] [wherever they heard that he was].

And <wheresoever he was entering into villages, or into cities, or into hamlets> [in the marketplaces] laid they the sick, and were beseeching him, that [only the fringe of his mantle] they might touch, and [as many soever as touched it] were being made well.

§ 31. Eating with Unwashed Hands.
Mt. xv. 1–20.

Chapter 7.

And the Pharisees and certain of the Scribes who have come from Jerusalem gather themselves together unto him; and <observing certain of his disciples, that [with defiled hands] that is unwashed] they are eating bread>— for [the Pharisees, and all’ the Jews] [unless with care they wash their hands] eat not, holding fast the tradition of the elders; and coming from market, [unless they sprinkle themselves] they eat not,—and [many other things] there are, which they have accepted to hold fast,—immersions of cups and measures and copper vessels—and so the Pharisees and the Scribes [question] him—

For what cause do thy disciples not walk according to the tradition of the elders, but [with defiled hands] eat bread?

But [he] said unto them—

[Well] prophesied Isaiah concerning you, ye hypocrites, as it is written—

||This’ people|| with the lips do [honour] me, While ||their heart|| far off holdeth from me,—

But [in vain] do they pay devotions unto me, Teaching [for teachings] [the commandments of men];

Having dismissed the commandment [of God] ye [hold fast] the tradition [of men].

And he was saying to them—

[Well] do ye set aside the commandment of God, that [your own tradition] ye may observe;

For [Moses] said—

Honour thy father and thy mother,

and—

||He that revileth father or mother|| let him surely die,—

But [ye] say—

<If a man shall say to his father or his mother, Korban! that is, A gift, whatsoever [out of me] thou mightest be profited> delivered. And [many such similar things] are ye doing!

14 And [again calling near the multitude] he was saying unto them—

Hearken to me, all! and understand:

15 [Nothing] is there, [from without the man] entering into him, which can defile him; But <the things which [out of the man] come forth> are the things that defile the man. [16]

17 And <when he entered into a house from the multitudes> his disciples began to question him as to the parable; 18 And he saith unto them—

[Thus] are [ye also] without discernment? Perceive ye not, that <nothing [from without] entering into the man> can defile’ him; 19 because it entereth not into his [heart], but into his [stomach], and [into the draught] is passed—[purifying all’ foods]?

20 And he was saying—

<That which [out of the man] cometh forth> [(that)] defileth the man;

21 For <from within, out of the heart of men> [the base designs] come forth,—fornications, thefts, murders, adulteries, covetousnesses, knaveries, deceit, wantonness, an evil eye, profane speaking, foolishness,— [all’ these’ wicked things] [from within] come forth, and defile [(the man)].

§ 32. Canaanite Woman’s Daughter healed.
Mt. xv. 21–28.

24 And [from thence arising] he departed into the bounds of Tyre [and Zidon]. And [entering into a house] he was wishing [no one] to know it, and yet could not escape notice,— 25 but [straightway]  she came and fell down at his feet.

26 Now [the woman] was a Grecian, a Syrophoenician by race,—and she was requesting him that [the demon] he would cast forth out of her daughter. 27 And he was saying to her—

Suffer [(the children)] [first] to be fed; for it is not seemly to take the bread of the children, and [unto the little dogs] to cast it;

28 but she answered and saith to him—

Yea, Lord, and yet [the little dogs, under the table] do eat of the crumbs of the children;

29 and he said to her—

[Because of this’ word] go thy way, the demon hath gone forth out of thy daughter;

30 and, departing unto her house, she found the child laid prostrate on the couch, and the demon gone forth.

§ 33. A Deaf Stammerer healed.

31 And <again coming forth out of the bounds of Tyre> he came unto the sea of Galilee, through the midst of the bounds of Decapolis. 32 And they bring to him one deaf and stammering, and beseech him that he would lay upon him his hand.

33 And <taking him away from the multitude apart> he thrust his fingers into his ears, and, spitting, touched his tongue; 34 and [looking up into the heaven] sighed deeply, and saith unto him—

Ephphatha! that is, Be opened!

35 and his ears opened, and the string of his tongue was loosed,—and he was speaking correctly. 36 And he charged them that they should be telling [no one],—but <as much as [to them] he gave charge> [they] [exceeding more abundantly] were making proclamation. 37 And [superabundantly] were they being struck with astonishment, saying—

[Well!] hath he [all things] done,—

Both [the deaf] he causeth to hear, and [the dumb] to speak.

§ 34. Four Thousand fed.
Mt. xv. 29–38: cp. ch. vi. 32, etc.

Chapter 8.

1 <In those’ days, there being [again’ a large multitude] and they not having any thing to eat> [calling near the disciples] he saith unto them—

2 I am moved with compassion towards the multitude, because [already’ three days] abide they with me, and they have nothing to eat; 3 and <if I dismiss them fasting unto their home> they will be exhausted in the way,—and [certain of them] are [from afar].

4 And his disciples answered him—

Whence shall any one be able [here] to fill [these] with bread [in a desert]?

5 And he was questioning them—

[How] many [loaves] have ye? and [they] said— Seven.

b Or: “Sewer.”
6 And he sendeth word to the multitude, to fall back upon the ground. And when the seven loaves, giving thanks, he brake, and was giving unto his disciples, that they might be setting before them; and they set before the multitude. 7 And they had a few small fishes; and [blessing them] he bade them set [these also] before them. 8 And they did eat, and were filled, and took up remainders of broken pieces [seven' hampers]. 9 Now they were about four thousand; and he dismissed them.

§ 35. A Sign refused.
Mt. xvi. 1–4; cp. Mt. xii. 38–40; Lu. xii. 54–56.
10 And straightway entering into the boat with his disciples he came into the parts of Dalmanutha; 11 and forth came the Pharisees, and began discussing with him, seeking of him a sign from the heaven testing him. 12 And [deeply sighing in his spirit] he saith—
   [Why] doth this generation seek [a sign]?
   [Verily] I say—
   There shall [not be given] to this generation [a sign]

Mt. xvi. 5–12.
13 And again embarking he departed unto the other side. 14 And they forgot to take loaves, and [save one' loaf] they had nothing with them in the boat. 15 And he began charging them, saying—
   Mind! beware of the leaven of the Pharisees, and of the leaven of Herod!
16 And they began deliberating one with another, because they had no [loaves]. 17 And [taking note] he saith unto them—
   Why do ye deliberate, because ye have no [loaves]?
   [Not yet] perceive ye, neither understand,—
   Keep ye your hearts [hardened]?
18 [Eyes] having, see ye not?
   And [ears] having, hear ye not?c
   And remember ye not 19 <when the five' loaves> I brake unto the five thousand> how many baskets, full [of broken pieces] ye took up?
   They say unto him— Twelve,—
20 <When the seven, unto the four thousand> how many hampers [full measure] of broken pieces, ye took up?
   And they say unto him— Seven.
   And he was saying unto them—

§ 37. Blind Man by Degrees recovers Sight.
22 And they come into Bethsaida. And they bring unto him one blind, and beseech him that him, he would touch. 23 And [laying hold of the hand of the blind man] he brought him forth outside the village, and [spitting into his eyes, laying his hands upon him] he was asking him—
   Anything, seest thou?
24 and [looking up] he was saying—
   I see men, because [like trees] I behold them walking!
25 Then again put he his hands upon his eyes, and he saw clearly, and was restored, and was seeing distinctly [in broad splendour] all things together.
26 And he sent him away unto his house, saying—

   John the Immerser, and [others] Elijah,—and [others] One of the prophets.
29 And [he] went on to question them—

If anyone willeth [after me] to come> let him deny himself, and take up his cross, and be following me.

35 For <whosoever willeth [his own’ life]> to save shall lose it,
But <whosoever shall lose his life for the sake {of me and} of the glad-message> shall save it,;b

36 For [what doth it profit a man] ||to gain the whole world, and be made to forfeit his life||?

37 For what can a man [give] ||in exchange for his life|?

38 For <whosoever shall be ashamed of me and of my words |in this adulterous and sinful generation|> ||the Son of Man also| will be ashamed ||of him||, whersoever he shall come, in the glory of his Father, with the holy messengers.c

Chapter 9.

1 And he was saying to them:
|Verily| I say unto you—
There are certain of those here standing, who shall in nowise taste of death, until they see the kingdom of God, [already come in power].

Mt. xvii. 1–13; Lu. ix. 28–36; cp. 2 P. i. 16–18.

2 And [after six days] Jesus taketh with him Peter and James and John, and bringeth them up into a high mountain, ||apart, alone||,—and he was transformed before them; 3 and [his garments] became brilliant, |exceeding white| ||such as |no fuller on the earth| is able |to whiten]|.d 4 And there appeared unto them, Elijah, with Moses,— and they were conversing with Jesus. 5 And Peter [answering] saith unto Jesus—
Rabbi! it is |delightful| for us to be |here|,—let us therefore make three’ tents, |for thee| one, and
|for Moses| one, and |for Elijah| one;

6 for he knew not what he should answer, for [greatly affrighted] had they become. 7 And there came< a cloud, overshadowing them, and there came< a voice, out of the cloud,—
|This| is |my Son, the Beloved||.g
Be hearkening unto him.

8 And |suddenly| looking round|, |no longer| saw they |anyone| with them, save |Jesus only|.

9 And <as they were coming down out of the mountain|> he charged them, that ||unto no one|| they should narrate |what they had seen|, save whenever the Son of man |from among the dead should arise|.

10 And [the word] they held fast unto themselves, discussing what was |the rising from among the dead|. 11 And they began to question him, saying—
The Scribes [say] that |Elijah| must needs come |first|?

12 And [he] said unto them—
||Elijah|| indeed, |coming first| ||restoreth all things||f
And yet, how is it written, regarding the Son of Man, that |many things| he must suffer, and be set at nought?

13 But I say unto you—
|Elijah also| hath come,
And they have done with him |whatsoever they pleased|,—
||According as it is written regarding| him||.

§ 41. Jesus cures One whom the Disciples could not cure.
Mt. xvi. 14–21; Lu. ix. 37–42.

14 And [coming unto the disciples] they saw a large multitude around them, and Scribes discussing with them. 15 And |straightway| all’ the multitude,

16 And he questioned them—

What are ye discussing with them?

17 And one out of the multitude answered him—

Teacher! I brought my son unto thee, having a dumb spirit; 18 and wheresoever it seizeth him> it teareth him, and he foameth, and grindeth his teeth, and wearareth himself out;— and I spake to thy disciples, that they should cast it out, and they could not.

19 But [he] answering, saith—

O faithless generation! how long shall I be with you? how long shall I bear with you? Bring him unto me!

20 And they brought him unto him. And [seeing him] the spirit straightway> tare him,—and [falling upon the ground] he wallowed, foaming. 21 And he questioned his father—

[How long a time] is it, that [this] hath befallen him?

and he said—

From childhood; 22 and [many times] hath it cast him [both into fire] and into waters, that it might destroy him;

But [if] anything be possible to thee> help us, [have compassion upon us].

23 And [Jesus] said unto him—

As for this, [if it be possible to thee>]

All things are possible [to him who hath faith].

24 [Straightway crying out] the father of the child was saying—

I have faith! help my [want] of faith.

25 And Jesus <seeing that a multitude is running together> rebuked the impure spirit, saying unto it—

Thou dumb’ and deaf spirit! [If] give orders unto thee: Come forth out of him, and do not [any more] enter into him.

26 And [crying out, and greatly mangling him> it came forth; and he became as if dead, so that [the more part] were saying—

He is dead!

27 But [Jesus> [grasping his hand] raised him, and he stood up. 28 And [when he had gone into a house]> [his disciples privately] were questioning him—

[Why] were [we] not able to cast it out?

29 And he said unto them—

[This’ kind] [by nothing] can come out, save [by prayer].

§ 42. Jesus instructs his Disciples as to his Sufferings.

Mt. xvii. 22, 23; Lu. ix. 43–45.

30 And [from thence] going forth, they were journeying through Galilee,—and he was not wishing that any should get to know it; 31 for he was teaching his disciples and saying {unto them}

[The Son of Man] is to be delivered up [unto the hands of men], and they will slay him,—and [being slain] [after three’ days, will he arise].

32 But they were not understanding the declaration, and feared [to question] him.

§ 43. How to be Great.

Mt. xviii. 1–5; Lu. ix. 46–48.

33 And they came into Capernaum. And <happening to be in the house> he was questioning them—

[What] [in the way] were ye discussing?

34 And they were silent; for [with one another] they had discussed in the way, [who should be greatest]. 35 And [taking a seat] he addressed the twelve, and saith unto them—

[If anyone willeth to be [first]>

He shall be [least of all],

And [minister of all].

36 And [taking a child] he set it in the midst of them,—and [folding it in his arms] said unto them—

Whosoever unto [one of] these’ children shall give welcome, [upon my name] unto me> give welcome;

And <whosoever unto me> giveth welcome> not unto me> giveth welcome, but unto him that sent me.

Be not caused to stumble:

Mt. v. 30; xviii. 8.

38 John said unto him—

d Mt. x. 40; Jn. xiii. 20.
Do not forbid him!
For [no one] is there, who shall do a work of power in my name, and have power [soon] ||to revile me];
40 For <whosoever is not [against] us> is [for] us;
41 For <whosoever shall give you to drink a cup of water [in name that ||Christ’s|| ye are]> Verily! I say unto you—
[In nowise] shall lose his reward.
42 And <whosoever shall cause to stumble one of these little ones that believe>
It is |seemly| for him, rather, if there is hung a large millstone about his neck, and he is cast into the sea.
43 And <if thy hand shall cause thee to stumble> cut it off,—
It is |seemly| for thee, |maimed| to enter into life,
Rather than having [the two’ hands] to depart into the gehenna, [into the fire that is not quenched]; [46]a 44 And <if thy foot be causing thee to stumble> Cut it off,—
It is |seemly| for thee, [lame|] to enter into life,
Rather than having [the two’ feet] to be cast into the gehenna; [46c]a 45 And <if thine eye be causing thee to stumble> Thrust it out,—
It is |seemly| for thee, [|one-eyed||] to enter into the kingdom of God,d
Rather than having [two’ eyes] to be cast into gehenna,—
46| Where [their worm] dieth not, And [the fire] is not quenched,|e
47 For [|everyone|||] with fire shall be salted.
48 Salt is ||good; but <if [salt] become ||saltless|> wherewith will ye [prepare] it?f
Have [within yourselves] ||salt||, and be at peace [one with another].

§ 45. Concerning Divorce.
Mt. xix. 1–12.

Chapter 10.

1 And |from thence| arising, he cometh into the bounds of Judæa and beyond the Jordan,—and there come together again, multitudes unto him, and [|as he had been wont||] again was he teaching them. 2 And Pharisees coming near were questioning him—Whether it is allowed a husband [to divorce a wife], testing him.
3 But |he| answering, said unto them—
What unto you’ did [Moses] command?
4 And [they] said—
Moses permitted, to write [a roll of dismissal], and to divorce:b
5 But [Jesus] said unto them—
[In view of your hardness of heart] wrote he for you this commandment;
6 But <from the beginning of creation> [Male and female] made he {them};i
7 |For this cause shall a man leave behind his father and mother, 8 and [the two] shall become [one flesh];|j so that [no longer] are they two, but [one’ flesh].
9 <What then [God] hath yoked together> let [a man] not put asunder.
10 And <|coming| into the house again|> the [disciples, concerning this] were questioning him;
11 and he saith unto them—
<Whosoever shall divorce his wife, and marry another> committeth adultery against her;
12 And <if [she] divorcing her husband, marry another> she committeth adultery.k

§ 46. Children brought to Jesus.
Mt. xix. 13–15; Lu. xviii. 15–17.

13 And they were bringing unto him children, that he might [touch] them,—[the disciples] however, were rebuking them. 14 But Jesus [seeing it] was greatly displeased, and said unto them—
Suffer the children to come unto me,—do not hinder them;
For |of such| is the kingdom of God.

§ 47. A Rich Ruler. "WE have left all."
Mt. xix. 16–30; Lk. xviii. 18–30.

17 And [as he was going forth into a road] one, running, and kneeling before him] was questioning him—
Good Teacher! what shall I do that life age-abiding, I may inherit?

18 And [Jesus] said unto him—
Why callest thou me [good]?
[None] is good [save one]—[God].

19 [The commandments] thou knowest,—
Do not commit murder,
Do not commit adultery,
Do not steal;
Do not bear false witness,
Do not defraud,
Honour thy father and mother. a

20 And [he] said unto him—
Teacher! [all these things] have I kept [from my youth].

21 And [Jesus] [looking at him] loved him, and said unto him—
[One thing] unto thee [is wanting];—
Withdraw! [whatsoever thou hast] sell, and give unto [the] destitute,—
And thou shalt have treasure in heaven;
And come! be following me.

22 And [he] [becoming gloomy because of the word] departed sorrowing, for he was holding [many possessions]. b And [looking around] Jesus saith unto his disciples—
[With what difficulty] shall [they who have money] enter [into the kingdom of God]!

23 And [the disciples] were in amazement, because of the words. But [Jesus] [again answering] saith unto them—
Children! [how difficult] it is, to enter [into the kingdom of God]!

24 It is [easier] for a camel [through the eye of a needle] to pass, than for [a rich man] [into the kingdom of God] to enter.

25 And [they] were being exceedingly struck with astonishment, saying unto him—

[Who] then, can [be saved]?

27 [Looking at them] Jesus saith—
With men] impossible, but not [with God]; for [all things] are possible [with God]. b

29 Peter began to be saying unto him—
Lo! [we] have left all, and followed thee!

30 Jesus said—
[Verily] I say unto you—

[who shall not receive a hundredfold, now, in this season] <houses, and brethren, and sisters, and mothers, c and children, and lands,—[with persecutions]> and [in the age that is coming] [life age-abiding].

But [many] shall be—
First-last, and [the] Last-first.

§ 48. Jesus foretells his Sufferings.
Mt. xx. 17–19; Lk. xviii. 31–34.

32 Now they were in the way, going up unto Jerusalem, and Jesus was going on before them,— and they were in amazement; and [they who followed] were in fear. And [taking unto himself, again, the twelve] he began to be saying unto them, as to the things about to befall him—

33 Lo! we are going up unto Jerusalem;
And [the Son of Man] will be delivered up, unto the Chief-priests and the Scribes,—
And they will condemn him to death,
And deliver him up unto the nations;
And they will mock him, and spit upon him, and scourge him, and [slay];—
And [after three' days] will he [arise].

§ 49. Request of Zebedee's Sons.
Mt. xx. 20–23.

35 And there come near unto him, James and John, the [two'] sons of Zebedee,—saying unto him—
Teacher! we desire,
That [whatsoever we shall ask thee] thou wilt do for us.

36 But [he] said unto them—
What desire ye, I should do for you?

c Or (WH): “mother.”
37 And [they] said unto him—

38 But [Jesus] said unto them—
Ye know not what ye are asking:
Are ye able to drink the cup that [I] am to drink?
Or to be immersed [with the immersion wherewith] [I] am to be immersed?
39 And [they] said unto him—
We are able.
And [Jesus] said unto them—
<The cup which [I] am to drink> ye shall drink,
And <with the immersion wherewith [I] am to be immersed> shall ye be immersed;
But <to sit on my right hand and on my left> is not mine to give, [except unto them for whom it hath been prepared].
40 And the ten [hearing] began to be sorely displeased, concerning James and John. 42 And Jesus [calling them near] saith unto them—
Ye know that [they who think to rule the nations] lord it over them,
And [their great ones] wield authority over them;
But [not so] it is [among you].
But <whosoever desireth to become [great] among you> shall be [your minister],
And <whosoever desireth, among you, to be [first]> shall be [servant of all];
45 For [even the Son of Man] came not to be ministered unto, but minister,—and to give his life [a ransom instead of many].

Mt. xx. 29–34; Lu. xviii. 35–43.

46 And they come into Jericho. And <as he was journeying forth from Jericho, and his disciples, and a considerable multitude> [the son of Timeæus, blind Bar-Timæus, a beggar] was sitting beside the road. 47 And <hearing that it was [Jesus the Nazarene]> he began to be crying aloud, and saying—
O Son of David! Jesus! have mercy on me.
48 And many were rebuking him, that he might hold his peace; but [he] [so much the more] was crying aloud—
O Son of David! have mercy on me.
49 And [coming to a stand] Jesus said—
Call him!

And they call the blind man, saying unto him—
Take courage! rise! he calleth thee!
50 And [he] <throwing off his mantle—springing to his feet> came unto Jesus. 51 And [answering him] Jesus said—
What desirest thou, I should do for thee?
And [the blind man] said unto him—
Rabboni! that may recover sight.
52 And [Jesus] said unto him—
Go thy way! [thy faith] hath saved thee.
And [straightway] he recovered sight, and was following him in the road.

§ 51. The Triumphal Entry.
Mt. xxi. 1–11; Lu. xix. 29–38; Jn. xii. 12–15.

Chapter 11.

1 And <when they are drawing near unto Jerusalem, unto Bethphage and Bethany, towards the Mount of Olives> he sendeth forth two of his disciples,—2 and saith unto them—
Go your way into the village that is over against you, and [straightway, as ye are entering it] ye shall find a colt tied, upon which [no] man [yet] hath sat:
Loose him, and bring him.
3 And <if anyone, unto you should say—Why are ye doing this> say—
[[The Lord] of him hath [need];
and [straightway] he sendeth him off again here.
4 And they departed, and found a colt, tied unto a door outside, on the street,—and they are loosening him. 5 And [certain of them that were there standing] were saying unto them—
What are ye doing, loosing the colt?
6 and [they] said unto them, as [Jesus] said,—and they let them go. 7 And they bring the colt unto Jesus, and throw upon him their mantles,—and he took his seat upon him. 8 And [many] spread out [their mantles] along the way, and [others] young branches,—[cutting them out of the fields]. 9 And [they who were going before, and they who were following after] were crying aloud—

§ 52. The Barren Fig-tree cursed.
Mt. xxi. 18, 19. (See § 54.)

12 And <on the morrow, when they came forth from Bethany> he hungered; 13 and <seeing a fig-tree from afar, having leaves>a he came... if, therefore, he should find aught in it, and [coming up to it] [nothing] found he, save [leaves]; for it was not [the season] of figs.

14 And [answering] he said unto it—
[No more] [unto times age-abiding] let anyone of thee [eat fruit].
And his disciples were listening.

§ 53. The Temple Cleansed.

15 And they come into Jerusalem. And [entering into the temple] he began to be casting out them who were selling and them who were buying in the temple, and <the tables of the money-changers, and the seats of them who were selling doves> he overthrew,— 16 and was not suffering that anyone should carry a vessel through the temple; 17 and was teaching, and saying—b

Is it not written,
[My house] [a house of prayer] shall be called [for all the nations]?c but [ye] have made it,
_A den of robbers._d

18 And the High-priests and the Scribes [heard] it, and began seeking how they might [destroy] him,—for they were fearing him; for [all’ the multitude] were being struck with astonishment at his teaching. 19 And [as soon as it became late’] they weree going forth outside the city.

§ 54. The Cursed Fig-tree Withered.
Mt. xxi. 19–22. (See § 52.)

20 And [passing by early] they saw the fig-tree [withered from its roots]; 21 and [put in mind] Peter saith unto him—
Rabbi! see! [the fig-tree which thou didst curse] is withered.

22 And [answering] Jesus saith unto them—
Have faith in God.

23 [Verily] I say unto you—
<Whosoever shall say unto this mountain, Be lifted up, and cast into the sea, and shall not doubt in his heart but shall believe that [what he speaketh] cometh to pass> it shall be his.

24 [For this cause] I say unto you—
<All things, whatsoever ye are praying for and asking> believe that ye have received, and they shall be yours.

25 And [when ye stand praying] forgive, if aught ye have against any,—that [your Father also, who is in the heavens] may forgive you your offences. [26]e

§ 55. By what Authority?
Mt. xxi. 23–32; Lu. xx. 1–8.

27 And they come again into Jerusalem. And [as he is walking in the temple]> the High-priests and the Scribes and the Elders come unto him, 28 and were saying unto him—
[By what authority] [these things] art thou doing?
And who to thee hath given this authority, that [these things] thou shouldst be doing?

29 But [Jesus] said unto them—
I will question you, as to one’ matter, and answer me,—
And I will tell you [by what authority] [these things] I am doing:

§ 56. The Vineyard’s Fruits Demanded.
Mt. xxi. 33–46; Lu. xx. 9–19.

Chapter 12.

1 And he began to be speaking unto them {in parables}—
A man planted {a vineyard},
And put round it a wall,
And dug a wine-vat,
And built a tower;— b
And let it out to husbandmen;
And left home.

2 And he sent forth, unto the husbandmen, in the season, a servant, that {from the husbandmen} he might receive of the fruits of the vineyard; and, taking him, they beat him, and sent him away {empty}.

3 And {again} sent he forth unto them, another servant; and {him} they smote on the head, and dishonoured.

4 And {another} sent he forth; and {him} they slew. And many others; some indeed beating, and others slaying.

5 {Yet one} had he, a son beloved: he sent him forth last unto them, saying—
They will pay deference unto my son!

6 But {those’ husbandmen] unto themselves} said—
{This} is {the heir}:
Come! let us slay him,
And {ours} shall be {the inheritance}.

7 And, taking, they slew him, and cast him forth outside the vineyard.

8 What will the lord of the vineyard do? He will come, and destroy the husbandmen, and let the vineyard unto others.

9 Have ye not {this scripture} read—
{A stone which the builders rejected}[
{The same} hath become head of the corner!}

10 {From the Lord} hath this come to pass, And is marvellous in our eyes?*

12 And they were seeking {to secure} him,—and were in fear of the multitude; for they perceived that {against them} the parable he had spoken. And, leaving him, they departed.

§ 57. Cæsar and God.
Mt. xxii. 15–22; Lu. xx. 20–26.

13 And they send forth unto him, certain of the Pharisees and of the Herodians, that they might {catch} him {in discourse}.

14 And, coming, they say unto him—
Teacher! we know that {true} thou art, And it concerneth thee not about anyone,—
For thou lookest not unto the face of men; But {in truth} {the way of God} dost teach:—
Is it allowable to give tax unto Cæsar, or not? Should we give, or should we not give?

15 But {he} {knowing their hypocrisy} said unto them—
Why are ye {tempting} me?
Bring me a denary, that I may see it.

16 And {they} brought one. And he saith unto them—{Whose} is this image, and the inscription?
And {they} said unto him—
Cæsar’s.

17 And {Jesus} said—
{The things of Cæsar] render {unto Cæsar}, And {the things of God} {unto God}.

18 And there come Sadducees unto him,—{who} indeed say—{Resurrection} there is none! and they were questioning him, saying—

19 Teacher! {Moses} wrote for us, that—
<If one’s brother die, and leave behind a wife, and leave no child> That his brother should take his wife, and raise up seed unto his brother.d

20 {Seven’ brethren} there were;
And {the first} took a wife, and, dying, left no seed,—

And [the second] took her, and died, not leaving behind seed,—
And [the third] [likewise].—
And [the seventh] left no seed;
[Last of all] [the woman also] died:—
[In the resurrection]—
Of [which] of them shall she be [wife]?
For [the seven] had her to wife.

Jesus said unto them—
Are ye not [for this cause] deceiving yourselves, Knowing neither the Scriptures, nor the power of God?
For [when] from among the dead they rise>
They neither marry, nor are given in marriage,
But are like messengers in the heavens.

But [as touching the dead] that they [do rise],—
Have ye not read in the book of Moses, at the Bush,
How God spake unto him, saying—
[L] [am] the God of Abraham, and God of Isaac, and God of Jacob:—

He is not at' God of [dead] men, but of [living].
[Greatly] are ye deceiving yourselves.

§ 59. The Greatest Commandment.
Mt. xxii. 34–40; (Lu. x. 25–27.)

And one of the Scribes [coming near] [hearing them discussing, seeing that [well] he had answered them] began to question him—
Which is the chief commandment of all?

Jesus answered—
The chief is:
Hear! O Israel,—
[The Lord our God] is [one Lord];
Therefore shalt thou love the Lord thy God, with all' thy heart, and with all' thy soul,— and with all' thy mind; and with all' thy strength.

[The second] is this—
Thou shalt love [thy neighbour] [as thyself].
[Greater than these] [other' commandment] is there none.

The Scribe said unto him—
He is [One], and there is none other [than he];
And <to love him, with all' the heart, and with all' the understanding,—and with all' the might; and to love one's neighbour as one's self>5 is [abundantly more] than all' the whole burnt offerings and sacrifices.

And [Jesus] <seeing him, that [with intelligence he answered]> said unto him—
[Not far] [art thou] from the kingdom of God! And [no one] [any longer] was daring to [question] him.

§ 60. David's Son and Lord.
Mt. xxii. 41–46; Lu. xx. 41–44.

And Jesus [answering] was saying [as he taught in the temple]—
How say the Scribes that [the Christ] is [Son of David]?

David himself hath said [by the Holy Spirit]—
[The Lord] hath said unto [my Lord],
Sit thou on my right hand,
Until I put thy foes beneath thy feet.

David himself calleth him [Lord]: whence, then, is he [his own son]?
And [the great multitude] was hearing him gladly.

Who desire [in robes] to be walking about,
And salutations in the markets,
And first seats in the synagogues,

Who devour widows' houses,
And [for a pretence] are long in prayer:

§ 63. The Prophecy on Mount Olivet.
Mt. xxiv.; Lu. xxi.

Chapter 13.

1 And [as he was going forth out of the temple] one of his disciples saith unto him—
Teacher! see what manner of stones, and what manner of buildings!

2 And [Jesus] said unto him—
Art thou beholding these' great' buildings?
[In nowise] shall there be left here [stone upon stone] which shall [in any wise] not be thrown down.

3 And <as he was sitting within the mount of Olives, over against the temple> Peter and James and John and Andrew were questioning him [privately]— Tell us, [When] these things [shall be], and,
[What the sign] when all' these things shall be about to be concluded.

4 And [Jesus] began to be saying unto them—
Beware, lest anyone [deceive] you;

5 And [Jesus] will come on my name, saying,
| I am he!
| and [will deceive] many.

6 And <when ye shall hear of wars, and rumours of wars>

But be [ye] taking heed [unto yourselves]:
They will deliver you up into high-councils,
And [in synagogues] shall ye be beaten,—

10 And [before governors and kings] shall ye be set,
For my sake, [for a witness unto them].

11 And [unto all’ the nations, first[] must needs be proclaimed [the glad-message],

Now ||from the fig-tree|| learn ye [the parable]:—

<When alread[y] her young branch [becometh tender],
And [the leaves] are sprouting>
Ye observe that [near] is ||the summer||:

[Thus] ||ye also|| <when ye shall see these things coming to pass>
Observe ye, that [near] he is, ||at the doors||.

[Verily] I say unto you—
[In nowise] shall this generation pass away,
Until all these things shall happen:

1 |Now it was the Passover and the Unleavened [cakes], after two' days. And the High-priests and Scribes were seeking, how [with guile] they might secure, and slay him; 2 for they were saying—

Not in the feast, lest there be an uproar of the people.|

And <he being in Bethany, in the house of Simon the leper, as he was reclining> there came a woman, holding an alabaster-jar of perfume, pure spikenard, very costly; and breaking the jar she was pouring down [the perfume] upon [his head].

4 But there were some much displeased among themselves—

5 For this’ perfume could have been sold for above three hundred denaries, and given unto the destitute; and they were indignant with her. 6 But [Jesus] said—

Let her alone!

Why are ye reproaching [her]?a

[A seemly’ work] hath she wrought [in me];

7 For [always] have ye [the destitute] [[with you]], And [whenever ye please] ye can, unto them, {at any time} do well! But [[me]] not [always] have ye.

[What she had] she used,—She took it beforehand to anoint my body for the burial;

And [verily] I say unto you—

<Wheresoever the glad-message shall be proclaimed throughout the whole’ world>

|Also what she’ did| will be told for a memorial of her.

And [[Judas Iscariot, who was one of the twelve]] went away unto the High-priests, that, him, he might deliver up unto them. 11 Now [when they heard] they rejoiced, and promised to give him [silver]; and he was seeking how [at a favourable opportunity] he might [[deliver him up]].

Mt. xxvi. 17–30; Lu. xxii. 7–23; 1 Co. xi. 23–25.

12 And <on the first’ day of the unleavened cakes, when [the passover] they were slaying> his disciples say unto him—

Where wilt thou, we depart and make ready, that thou mayest eat the passover?

13 And he sendeth forth two of his disciples, and saith unto them—

Go your way into the city, and there will meet you a man [a jar of water] bearing,—follow him; 14 and [wheresoever he shall enter] say ye unto the householder—

|The teacher| saith, Where is my lodging, where [the passover, with my disciples] I may eat?

And [[he]] [[unto you]] will shew [[a large upper-room, spread ready]],—and [there] make ye ready for us.

16 And the disciples went forth, and came into the city, and found, according as he had said unto them,—and they made ready the passover.

17 And [when evening’ arrived] he cometh, with the twelve. 18 And <as they were reclining and eating> Jesus said—

[Verily] I say unto you—

|One from among you| will deliver me up, ||he that is eating with me]].b

19 They began to be grieved, and to be saying unto him, [one by one],—

Can it be [I]? 20 And [he] said unto them—

One of the twelve, ||he that is dipping with me into the {one} bowl||;

21 Because [the Son of Man| indeed, goeth his way,—According as it is written concerning him; But alas! for that man, through whom the Son of Man is being delivered up,—

|Well for him| [[if that’ man]] had not been born!

22 And [as they were eating] [[taking a loaf]] he blessed and brake, and gave unto them, and said—

Take! [this] is [[my body]];

23 And [[taking a cup]] he offered thanks, and gave unto them; and they [all] drank of it. 24 And he said unto them—

|This| is [[my blood of the covenant,]c that is to be poured out in behalf of many].

25 [Verily] I say unto you—

Ye [all] will find cause of stumbling.

Because it is written,—

I will smite the shepherd,

And [the sheep] will be scattered abroad;

28 But [after my arising] I will go before you into Galilee.

29 And [Peter] said unto him—

<Even if [all] shall find cause of stumbling>
Certainly not [l].

36 And Jesus saith unto him—

[Verily] I say unto thee,

[[Thou]] [this day] <in this’ night, before that twice’ a cock crow>

[Thrice] will deny me.

31 But he [most vehemently] was saying—

<Even though I must needs die with thee>

32 And they come into an estate the name of which is Gethsemane, and he saith unto his disciples—

Sit ye here, while I pray.

33 And he taketh Peter and James and John with him, and began to be exceedingly amazed, and in great distress; 34 and he saith unto them—

Encompassed with grief is my soul [unto death]:

Abide ye here, and be watching.

35 And [going forward a little] he fell upon the ground, and was praying that if it were possible’ the hour might pass from him; 36 and was saying—

Abba! O Father!

[All things] are possible to thee:

Bear aside this cup from me;

But not what [I] will,

But what [thou] wilt.

37 And he cometh and findeth them sleeping, and saith unto Peter—

Simon! art thou sleeping?

Hadst thou not strength [one’ hour] to watch?

38 Be watching and praying.

That ye enter not into temptation:

The [spirit] indeed, is willing,

But [the flesh] [weak].

39 And [again] departing, he prayed [the same’ thing] saying. 40 And [again] coming, he found them sleeping, for their eyes were being [weighed down],—and they knew not what to answer him.

41 And he cometh the third time, and saith unto them—

Ye are sleeping the remaining time and taking your rest:—

It is enough! the hour hath come!

Lo! the Son of Man is being delivered up into the hands of sinners.

42 Be rousing yourselves, let us be leading on!

Lo! [he that is delivering me up] hath drawn near[.]

from the High-priests and the Scribes and the Elders. 44 He that is delivering him up hath given an agreed sign unto them, saying—

<Whomsoever I shall kiss> [he] it is!

Secure him, and be leading away [safely].

45 And <coming, [straightway] stepping forward to

1 And <straightway, early, when they had made a council> the High-priests, with the Elders, and Scribes, and all the High-council |binding Jesus|, led him away, and delivered him up unto Pilate. 2 And Pilate questioned him—

16 And [the soldiers] led him away, inside the court, which is a judgment-hall,—and called together the whole band; 17 and they arrayed him in purple, and set upon him, when they had plaited it, a crown of thorns,—18 and began to saluting him—

Joy to thee! King of the Jews!

19 And were striking him on the head with a reed, and were spitting at him,—and, bowing their knees, were doing him homage. 20 And [when they had mocked him] they put off him [the purple], and put on him [his own garments]. And they lead him forth, that they may crucify him.

22 And they bring him unto the Golgotha place, which is, being translated, Skull-place. 23 And they would have given him [myrrhed wine],—who, however, received it not. 24 And they crucify him, and part asunder his garments, casting a lot upon them—who should have anything. 25 And it was the third hour, and they crucified him. 26 And the inscription of his accusation [had been inscribed]—

THE KING OF THE JEWS.

27 And [with him] they crucify [two'] robbers, one on his right hand, and one on his left. [25]d 29 And [the passers-by] were reviling him, shaking their heads, e and saying—

Aha! thou who wast pulling down the shrine, and building one in three days!

30 Save thyself,—coming down from the cross.

31 [Likewise] [the High-priests also] mocking one to another, [with the Scribes] were saying—

[Others] he saved, [Himself] he cannot save!

32 [The Christ, the King of Israel]—

Let him come down now from the cross, That we may see and believe.

And [they who had been crucified with him] were casting it in his teeth. 33 And [when it was the sixth hour] [darkness] came on all the land—until the ninth hour; 34 and [at the ninth'] hour Jesus [uttered a cry, with a loud voice]—

Eloi! Eloi! lama sabachthanei?
which is, being translated—

My God! {My God!} [to what end] didst thou forsake me? f

35 And [[some of the by-standers]] [having heard] were saying—

See! [Elijah] he calleth!

36 And one [running] filled a sponge with vinegar, and, putting it about a reed, was giving him to drink, g saying—

Stay! let us see whether Elijah is coming, to take him down!

37 But [Jesus] sending out a loud voice ceased to breathe. 38 And [the veil of the Temple] was rent into two [from top to bottom]. 39 Now the centurion, who was standing near, out over against him, [seeing] that [thus] he ceased to breathe, said—

[Truly] [this man] was God’s son!

40 And there were [women also] [from afar] looking on,—among whom were both Mary the Magdalene, and Mary the mother of James the Little and Joses, and Salome; 41 who [when he was in Galilee] used to follow him, and minister unto him,—and many other women, who had come up with him unto Jerusalem.

LUKE.

§ 1. The Prologue.

Chapter 1.

1 <Seeing, indeed, that [many] had taken in hand to re-arrange for themselves a narrative, concerning the facts which have been fully confirmed amongst us,—2 according as they who from the beginning became eye-witnesses and attendants of the Word delivered them unto us> it seemed good even to me <having closely traced from the outset all things accurately> to write unto thee [in order], most excellent Theophilus: 4 that <as touching the matters which thou hadst been taught by word of mouth> thou mightest obtain full knowledge ||of the certainty||.

§ 2. Zachariah and Elizabeth.

5 It came to pass [in the days of Herod, king of Judæa] that there was a certain priest, by name Zachariah, of the daily course of Abia; and that he had a wife of the daughters of Aaron, and [her name] was Elizabeth. 6 Now they were both righteous before God, walking in all the commandments and righteous appointments of the Lord, blameless; 7 and they had no child, inasmuch as Elizabeth was barren, and [both] had become [advanced in their days].

8 But it came to pass <as he was doing priestly service in the order of his daily course, before God, 9 according to the custom of his priesthood> it fell to his lot to offer incense, entering into the Temple of the Lord; 10 and [all the throng of the people] was praying outside, at the hour of the incense offering. 11 And there appeared unto him a messenger of the Lord, standing on the right hand of the altar of incense; 12 and Zachariah was troubled when he beheld, and [fear] fell upon him. 13 But the messenger said unto him—

Do not fear, Zachariah!

Inasmuch as thy supplication hath been hearkened to,—

And [thy wife Elizabeth] shall bring forth a son to thee,
And thou shalt call his name [John];
And there shall be joy to thee and exulting,
And [many] over his birth [shall rejoice];
For he shall be great before the Lord,
And [wine and strong drink] in nowise may he drink
And [with Holy Spirit] shall he be filled, [already’ from his mother’s womb];
And [many of the Sons of Israel] shall he turn towards the Lord their God;
And [he] shall go before him [in the spirit and power of Elijah],—c To turn the hearts of fathers unto children,
And the unyielding, into the prudence of the righteous,
And to prepare, for the Lord, ||a people made ready||.

18 And Zachariah said unto the messenger—
|Whereby| shall I know this? for ||I| am |aged|, and [my wife] advanced in her days.

19 And the messenger, answering, said unto him—
||am Gabriel,‖—he that standeth near before God; and have been sent forth to speak unto thee, and to deliver the joyful message unto thee, as touching these things.

20 And lo! thou shalt be silent, and not able to speak until the day when these things shall come to pass; because thou didst not believe in my words,—the which shall be fulfilled for their season.

21 And the people were expecting Zachariah, and began to marvel that he should tarry in the Temple;
22 and when he came forth he was not able to speak unto them, and they perceived that [a vision] he had seen in the Temple,—and [he] continued making signs unto them, and remained dumb.

23 And it came to pass when the days of his public ministration were fulfilled that he departed unto his house. 24 And [after these’ days] Elizabeth his

§ 3. The Message of Gabriel to Mary.

Now in the sixth month was the messenger Gabriel sent forth from God, into a city of Galilee, the name of which was Nazareth,— unto a virgin, betrothed to a man whose name was Joseph, of the house of David; and the name of the virgin was Mary, and entering in unto her, he said—

Joy to thee, favoured one!
The Lord be with thee!

And she, at the word, was greatly troubled, and began to deliberate. And of what kind this salutation might be. And the messenger said unto her—

Do not fear, Mary,
For thou hast found favour with God,—

And lo! thou shalt conceive in thy womb,
And bring forth a son,
And shalt call his name Jesus:
The same shall be great,
And Son of the Most High shall be called,
And the Lord God will give unto him the throne of David his father,—

And he shall reign over the house of Jacob unto the ages,
And of his kingdom there shall be no end.

But Mary said unto the messenger—

How shall this thing be,
Seeing that a man I know not?

And, answering, the messenger said unto her—

The Holy Spirit shall come upon thee,
And power of the Most High shall overshadow thee;
Wherefore even that which is to be born
Holy shall be called,

Son of God.

And lo! Elizabeth thy kinswoman, even she hath conceived a son [in her old-age];—

And this month is the sixth to her, the so-called barren one;

Because no declaration from God shall be void of power.

And Mary said—
Lo! the handmaid of the Lord!
Might it come to pass unto me, according to thy declaration.
And the messenger departed from her.

§ 4. Mary visits Elizabeth. Mary’s Song of Triumph.

And Mary, arising in these days, journeyed into the hill country with haste, into a city of Judah,— and entered into the house of Zachariah, and saluted Elizabeth. And it came to pass that as Elizabeth heard the salutation of Mary the babe leapt in her womb, and Elizabeth was filled with Holy Spirit, and lifted up her voice with loud exclamation, and said—

[Blessed art thou among women,
And is the fruit of thy womb;
And whence to me is this?]
That the mother of my Lord should come unto me?

For lo! as the sound of thy salutation came into mine ears>
The babe in my womb leapt in exultation.

And is she who hath believed, that there shall be a perfecting of the things which have been spoken to her from the Lord!

And Mary said—
My soul doth magnify the Lord,
And my spirit hath exulted upon God my saviour;

Because he hath looked upon the humbling of his handmaid;

For lo! from the present time all the generations will pronounce me happy.

Because he that is mighty hath done for me great things,
And is his name;

And his mercy is unto generations and generations,
To them who revere him;

§ 5. John’s Birth and Zachariah’s Song of Triumph.

And [to Elizabeth] was the time fulfilled, that she should be bringing forth, and she gave birth to a son. 58 And her neighbours and kinsfolk heard, that the Lord had magnified his mercy with her, and they were rejoicing with her. 59 And it came to pass on the eighth day that they came to circumcise the child, and were calling it by the name of its father ||Zachariah||. 60 And his mother, answering, said—Nay! but he shall be called [John].

And they said unto her—There is ||no one from among thy kindred|| who is called by this name!

And they began making signs unto his father, as to what he might be wishing it to be called.

And [asking for a small tablet] he wrote, saying—[John] is his name! and they marvelled all. 64 And his mouth was opened instantly, and his tongue [loosed], and he began to speak, blessing God.

And fear came upon all the neighbours themselves; and throughout all’ the hill-country of Judæa were all these matters being much talked of; 66 and all who heard laid [them] up in their hearts, saying—What then shall his child be? for [even the hand of the Lord] was with him.

Chapter 2.

Now it came to pass [in those days] that there went forth a decree from Cæsar Augustus, for all’ the inhabited earth to be enrolled: 2 [this'] enrolment] first’ was made, a while Cyrenius was governor of Syria: and all were journeying to be enrolled, each one unto his own city. 4 And Joseph also went up from Galilee, out of a city Nazareth, into Judæa, into the city of David which is called Bethlehem; because he was of the house and family of David: 5 to enrol himself, with Mary who was betrothed to him, [she being with child].
6 And it came to pass [while they were there] that the days were fulfilled for her to give birth; 7 and she gave birth to her firstborn son, and wrapped him in swaddling clothes, and laid him in a manger, because there was no room for them in the inn. 8 And there were shepherds in the same country, dwelling in the fields, and keeping the watches of the night over their flock. 9 And [a messenger of the Lord] stood over them, and [a glory of the Lord] shone round about them; and they feared [a great fear]. 10 And the messenger said unto them—
Be not afraid!
For lo! I bring you good tidings of a great joy,
The which shall be for all the people: 11 That there hath been born unto you, this day [a saviour],—Who is Christ the Lord—b
[In the city of David]!
12 And [this] to you’s is [a sign]:
Ye shall find a babe, wrapped in swaddling clothes, and lying in a manger.
13 And [suddenly] there came to be, with the messenger, the throng of the heavenly host, praising God, and saying—
Glory, in the highest, unto God! 14 And [on earth] peace, [among men of goodwill].c
15 And it came to pass <when the messengers had departed from them into heaven> that [the shepherds] began to say one to another—
Let us go through forthwith as far as to Bethlehem, and see this thing which hath come to pass, [which the Lord’ hath made known to us].
16 And they came, with haste, and found both Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in the manger. 17
Now [when they beheld] they made known concerning the thing which had been told them as to this child. 18 And [all’ who heard] marvelled concerning the things which had been told by the shepherds unto them;
but [Mary] was closely observing [all] these things, putting them together in her heart.
20 And the shepherds returned, giving glory and singing praise unto God, over all things which they had heard and seen, [according as it had been told unto them].

§ 7. The Circumcision, and the Presentation in the Temple. Simeon and Anna.
21 And <when eight days were fulfilled for circumcising him> then was his name called [Jesus],—which it was called by the messenger,
[before he was conceived in the womb].
22 And <when the days of their purification, according to the law of Moses, were fulfilled>d
they took him up into Jerusalem, to present [him] unto the Lord,— 23 according as it is written in the law of the Lord—
[Every male that is a firstborn] 24 and to give a sacrifice, according to that which is said in the law of the Lord—
A pair of turtle-doves, or two young pigeons.e 25 And lo! there was [a man] in Jerusalem, [whose name] was Simeon; and [this man] was righteous and devout, awaiting the consolation of Israel, and Holy Spirit was upon him; 26 and it had been intimated to him by the Holy Spirit, that he should not see death, before he had seen the Christ of the Lord. 27 And he came, in the Spirit, into the temple; and <when the parents brought in the child Jesus, that they might do according to that which was customary by the law concerning it> 28 [even he] welcomed it into his arms, and blessed God, and said—
29 [Now] dost thou dismiss thy servant, O
Sovereign,
According to thy declaration—in peace;
30 Because mine eyes have seen thy salvation, 31 Which thou hast prepared in face of all' the peoples:

35 And [thou]! [through thy very' soul] shall pass a sword, That [reasonings] may be revealed, out of many hearts.
36 And there was one Anna, a prophetess, daughter of Phanuel, of the tribe of Asher;—[the same] advanced in many days; having lived with a husband seven years from her virginity. 37 and [she] had been a widow for as long as eighty-four years,—who left not the temple, [with fastings and supplications] rendering divine service night and day;—38 and [in that very' hour] coming near, she began to give thanks unto God, and to speak concerning him unto all* who were waiting for the redemption of Jerusalem.
39 And [when they had finished all things that were according to the law of the Lord> they returned into Galilee, into their own city, Nazareth.

§ 8. Jesus, at twelve years of age, found in the Temple.
41 And his parents used to journey yearly into Jerusalem, at the feast of the passover. 42 And [when he became twelve years, and they went up, according to the custom of the feast, 43 and completed the days, and then were returning> the boy Jesus remained behind in Jerusalem,—and his parents noticed it not; 44 but [supposing him to be in the company] went a day’s journey, and then began to seek for him among their kinsfolk and acquaintances. 45 and [not finding him] returned unto Jerusalem, seeking him. 46 And it came to pass, that [after three days] they found him in the temple, sitting amidst the teachers,—both hearkening unto them, and questioning them. Now all* who heard him were beside themselves, because of his understanding and his answers. 48

And [when they behold him] they were astounded, and his mother said unto him—
   Child! [why] hast thou dealt with us [thus]?
   Lo! [thy father and I] in anguish were seeking thee.
49 And he said unto them—
   Why was it that ye were seeking me? Perceived ye not, that [in the courts of my Father] I must needs be?
50 And [they] understood not the thing which he spake to them. 51 And he went down with them, and came to Nazareth, and was submitting himself unto them. And [his mother] was closely observing all* these things in her heart. 52 And [Jesus] went on advancing in wisdom, and in stature, in favour with God and men.*

Chapter 3.

1 Now <in the fifteenth year of the supremacy of Tiberius Cæsar,—Pontius Pilate being governor of Judea, and Herod being tetrarch of Galilee, and Philip his brother> tetrarch of Ituraea and the country of Trachonitis, and Lysanius, tetrarch of Abilene,— 2 in the High-priesthood of Annas and Caiaphas> came a word of God* unto John the son of Zechariah in the desert; 3 and he came into all* the country about the Jordan, proclaiming an immersion of repentance into remission of sins: as it is written in the book of the discourses of Isaiah the prophet:—

A voice of one crying aloud! [In the desert] prepare ye the way of the Lord, [Straight] be making his paths; 5 [Every' chasm] shall be filled up, And [every' mountain and hill] be made low; And the [crooked] places shall become [straight], And the [rugged] places, smooth ways;— 6 And all* flesh shall see the salvation of God.*
7 He was saying, therefore, unto the multitude who were going forth to be immersed by him—Broods of vipers! who suggested to you, to flee from the coming' wrath?

a Is. xlvi. 13.
b 1 S. ii. 26.
Bring forth, therefore, fruits worthy of repentance, and do not begin to be saying within yourselves—

[As our father] we have [[Abraham]];

For, I say unto you—God is able [out of these stones] to raise up children unto Abraham.

And [already] [even the axe] unto the root of the trees’ is being laid;[a] [every’ tree, therefore, not bringing forth {good} fruit] is to be hewn down, and [into fire] to be cast.

And the multitude began to question him saying—

[What] then, shall we [do]?

And, answering, he said unto them—

[He that hath two’ tunics] let him share with him that hath none, and [he that hath food][i] [in like manner] let him be doing.

And there came [even tax-collectors] to be immersed; and they said unto him—

Teacher! [what] shall we [do]?

And [he] said unto them—

<Nothing more than what is appointed you> exact ye.

Then were questioning him |soldiers| also| saying—

What shall [even we] do?

And he said unto them—

Molest ye [no one], neither accuse falsely; and be content with your supplies.

Now <as the people were in expectation and all were deliberating in their hearts, concerning John,—whether by any means [he]| might be [the Christ]> 16 John answered, saying unto all—

[If] indeed, [with water] am immersing you, but he that is mightier than I [comethl, the thong of whose sandals I am not worthy to unloose,—

[he] will immerse you in Holy Spirit and fire:

whose fan is in his hand, to clear out his threshing-floor, and to gather the wheat into his granary; but [the chaff] will he burn up with fire unquenchable.

18So then indeed <as to many’ things and various’ he exhorted> and continued telling his glad-message unto the people. 19 But [[Herod the tetarch]]< being reproved by him concerning added this also unto all,—[he locked up John in prison].

Herodias, the wife of his brother, and concerning all’ the wicked things Herod had done>

Now it came to pass <when one and all the people were immersed> [Jesus also] <having been immersed> and being at prayer> heaven was opened; 22 and the Holy Spirit descended, in bodily’ appearance, as a dove, upon him,—and [a voice out of heaven] came—

[Thou] art my Son, the Beloved, [in thee] I delight.[d]

Chapter 4.

1 And [Jesus, full of Holy Spirit] returned from the Jordan, and was led in the Spirit in the desert; forty days,—being tempted by the adversary; and he did eat nothing in those days,—and [when they were concluded] he hungered. And the adversary said to him—

2 If thou art God’s Son, speak unto this stone; it become bread.

3 And Jesus answered him—

4 It is written:

   Not [on bread alone] shall [man] live, but every word of God.

5 And, leading him up, he shewed him all the kingdoms of the inhabited earth, in a moment of time. And the adversary said to him—

6 Unto thee will I give this authority, all together, and their glory; because [unto me] hath it been delivered up, and [to whomsoever I please] I give it:

7 If thou wilt worship before me, it shall all be thine.

8 And, answering, Jesus said to him—

9 It is written:—

   The Lord thy God shall thou worship, and render divine service.

And, he led him into Jerusalem, and set him upon the pinnacle of the temple,—and said to him—

10 If thou art God’s Son, cast thyself from hence, [down]; for it is written—

Wherefore [with the tax-collectors and sinners] are ye eating and drinking?

31 And, answering, Jesus said unto them—

[No need] have [the whole] of a physician, but [they who are sick].

32 I have not come to call [righteous] men, but [sinners], unto repentance.

§ 19. “Then will they fast.”
Mt. ix. 14–17; Mk. ii. 18–22.

33 But [they] said unto him—

[The disciples of John] do fast much, and [supplications] do make,—likewise also the disciples of the Pharisees; but [thine] do eat and drink!

34 Jesus however, said unto them—

[Can] ye make [the sons of the bridechamber] fast [while the bridegroom is with’ them]?

35 But there will come days, [even when the bridegroom shall be taken from them], [then] will they fast [in those’ days].

36 Moreover, he went on to speak [a parable also] unto them—

[No one] rendering a patch from a new mantle, patcheth it upon an old’ mantle; otherwise, at least, both [the new] he will rend, and [with the old] [the patch which is from the new] will not agree.

37 And [no one] poureth new wine into old skins; otherwise, at least, the new wine [will burst the skins] and will [itself] be poured out, and the skins be destroyed.

38 But [new wine] [into unused skins] must be poured.

39 {||No one|| [having drunk old] desireth new; for he saith, ||The old|| is [mellow].}

§ 20. The Disciples pluck Ears of Corn on Sabbath.
Mt. xii. 1–8; Mk. ii. 23–28.

Chapter 6.

1 And it came to pass [on a Sabbath] that he was passing along through cornfields, and his disciples were plucking and eating the ears of corn, rubbing them with their hands. 2 But [certain of the Pharisees] said—

Why are ye doing what is not allowed on the Sabbath?)?

3 And, making answer unto them, Jesus said—

Have ye never read [even this], what David did when he hungered, [he] and they who were with him—[How he entered into the house of God, and [the presence-bread] receiving, did eat, and gave to them who were with him, which it is not allowable to eat, [save alone, to the priests]?]

5 And he was saying to them—

The Son of Man is [Lord of the Sabbath].

Mt. xii. 9–13; Mk. iii. 1–6.

6 And it came to pass [on another Sabbath] that he entered into the synagogue, and was teaching, and there was a man there, and [his right hand] was withered. 7 Now the Scribes and the Pharisees were narrowly 4 watching him, whether [on the Sabbath] he healeth,—that they might find whereof to accuse him. 8 But [he] knew their reasonings, and said to the man who had the [withered] hand—

Arise, and stand forward in the midst! And, arising, he stood forward. 9 And Jesus said unto them—

I ask you, whether it is allowed [on the Sabbath] [to do good or to do harm],—[life] [to save] or [to destroy].

10 And [looking round upon them all'] he said unto him—

Stretch forth thy hand! and [he] did so, and his hand was restored.

Mk. iii. 13–19: cp. Mt. x. 2–4.

And it came to pass [in these days] that he went forth into the mountain to pray, and was spending the night in the prayer-house⁵ of God. ¹³ And [when it became day] he called his disciples, and chose from them [||twelve||, whom also he named ||Apostles||],—¹⁴ Simon, whom also he named Peter, and Andrew his brother; and James and John; and Philip and Bartholomew; ¹⁵ and Matthew and Thomas; and James, son of Alphæus, and Simon, who was called Zealot; and Judas, [son] of James, ¹⁶ and Judas Iscariot, who became betrayer;—¹⁷ and [coming down with them] he stood upon a level place, also a great multitude of his disciples,—and a great throng of the people, from all' Judea and Jerusalem and the sea-coast of Tyre and Zidon, who had come to hearken unto him and to be healed from their diseases; ¹⁸ and [they who were molested by impure spirits] were being cured; ¹⁹ and [all'] the multitude were seeking to touch him, because [||power||] [from him] was coming forth, and healing all'. ²⁰

§ 23. The Sermon on a Level Place. ²
Cp. Mt. v.–vii.

And ||he||, lifting up his eyes towards his disciples, was saying:— ²¹ ||Happy|| ye destitute, ²² For ||yours|| is the kingdom of God. ²³ ||Happy|| ye that hunger now, For ye shall be filled. ²⁴ ||Happy|| ye that weep now, For ye shall laugh.

||Happy|| are ye, whosoever men shall hate you, and whosoever they shall separate you, and reproach you, and cast out your name as evil [for the sake of the Son of Man]: be rejoiced in that' day, and leap, for lo! [your reward] is great in heaven; for [||according to the same things|| were their fathers doing unto the prophets.

But alas! for you, ye wealthy, For ye are duly receiving* your consolation. ²⁵ Alas! for you, ye who are filled full now, For ye shall hunger. ²⁶ Alas! ye that laugh now, For ye shall mourn and weep. ²⁷ Alas! whenever all' men shall [speak well of you], for [||according to the same things|| were their fathers doing unto the false prophets. ²⁸ But [||unto you|| I say [||who are hearkening||]: ²⁹ Be loving your enemies; ³⁰ Be doing [good] unto them that hate you; ³¹ Be blessing them that curse you; ³² Be praying for them that wantonly insult you. ³³ <To him who is smiting thee upon the one cheek> be offering [the other also]; ³⁴ And <from him who is taking away thy mantle> [thy tunic also] do not forbid²: ³⁵ <To every' one asking thee> give, ³⁶ And <from him that taketh away thy possessions> ask them not back. ³⁷ And <according as ye desire that men' be doing unto you> be ye doing unto them [in like manner].³ ³⁸ And <if ye love them that love you> what sort' of thanks are there for you'? for [||even sinners|| love [such as love them]. ³⁹ {For} <if ye even do good unto them that do good unto you> what sort' of thanks are there for you'? [||Even sinners|| [the same] are doing. ⁴⁰ And <if ye lend to them from whom ye are hoping to receive> what sort' of thanks are there for you'? [||Even sinners|| [unto sinners] do lend, that they may receive back [as much]. ⁴¹ But love your enemies, and do good and lend, hoping for [||nothing] back; and your reward shall be [great], and ye shall be sons of the Most High,—for [||he|| is [gracious] unto the ungrateful and wicked. ⁴²

LUKE – Chapter 7.

36 Become ye compassionate, according as [your Father] is [compassionate];
And do not judge, and in nowise shall ye be judgeda;
And do not condemn, and in nowise shall ye be condemned;
Release, and ye shall be released;
Give, and it shall be given unto you: <good measure, pressed down, shaken together, running over> will they give into your lap;
for <with what measure ye mete> shall it be measured back unto you.b

39 He spake, moreover, a parable also unto them:
Can [the blind] guide [the blind]? will not [both] fall into [a ditch]?c

40 A disciple is not above the teacherd; but [when trained] every one shall be as his teacher.

41 But why beholdest thou the mote that is in the eye of thy brother, while [the beam that is in thine own eye] thou dost not consider? 42 How canst thou say to thy brother—
Brother! let me cast out the mote that is in thine eye,— [thysel]f [the beam’ in thine own eye] not beholding? Hypocrite! cast out [thysel]f [the beam] out of thine own eye, and [then] shalt thou see clearly, to cast out [the mote] that is in the eye of thy brother.e

43 For a good’ tree doth not produce worthless’ fruit, neither again doth [a worthless tree] produce good fruit. 44 For [every’ tree] [by its own’ fruit] becometh known. For not [of thorns] do they gather figs’, neither [of a thorny bush] do they gather [a bunch of grapes].f 45 [The good’ man] [out of the good’ treasure of the heart] bringeth forth that which is good; and [the wicked man] [out of the wicked heart] bringeth forth that which is wicked; for [out of an overflowing of heart] speaketh [his mouth].

And why call ye me Lord! Lord! and not do the things that I say?g

47 <Every’ one coming unto me, and hearkening unto my words, and doing them> I will suggest to you, whom he is like: 48 He is like unto a man building a house, who [he] dugged, and deepened, and laid a foundation upon the rock,—and [a flood] coming, the stream burst against that house, and was not strong enough to shake it, because it had been [well] built.

49 But <he that hath heard and not done> is like unto a man having built a house upon the earth, without a foundation,—against which the stream burst, and [straightway] it fell in; and it came to pass, that [the crash of that house] was [great].h

1 <After he had completed all’ his sayings within the hearing of the people> he entered into Capernaum.

2 And [a certain centurion’s servant] being sick, was on the point of dying,—who was, by him, [highly prized]. 3 But [hearing about Jesus] he sent forth unto him elders of the Jews, requesting him that he would come and bring his servant safely through. 4 And [they] [coming near unto Jesus] began beseeching him earnestly, saying—[Worthy] is he for whom thou mayest do this, for he loveth our nation, and [the synagogue] [he] built for us.

5 And [Jesus] was journeying with them. But <he> [by this time] being not far from the house> the centurion sent friends, saying unto him—
Lord! do not trouble thyself, for I am of no consideration, that [under my roof] thou shouldest enter. 7 Wherefore, neither deemed I [myself] worthy to come unto thee,—but speak with a word, and let my servant be healed.

8 For [I too] am a man ranked [under authority], having [under myself] soldiers; and I say to this one— Go! and he goeth,—and to another— Come! and he cometh,—and to my servant— Do this! and he doeth it.

§ 25. The Son of the Widow of Nain is raised from the dead.

And it came to pass thereafter, that he journeyed unto a city called Nain, and there were journeying with him, his disciples and a great multitude. Now [as he drew near unto the gate of the city] then lo! there was being brought forth, one dead, the only-begotten son of his mother,—and [she] was a widow; and [a considerable multitude of the city] was with her.

And ||beholding her|| [the Lord] was moved with compassion over her, and said to her—

Be not weeping!

And [going forward] he touched the coffin, and the bearers stood still; and he said—

Young man! [to thee] I say, Arise!

And the dead man sat up, and began to speak; and he gave him to his mother.

And fear seized them [all], and they began to glorify God, saying—

[A great prophet] hath been raised up amongst us!

and—

God hath visited his people!

And this report went forth throughout the whole’ of Judaea, and all’ the surrounding country.

§ 26. John sends Disciples to question Jesus.

Mt. xi. 1–19.

And John’s disciples carried tidings unto him concerning all’ these things. And [calling unto him certain two of his disciples] John sent unto the Lord, saying—

Art [though] the Coming One, or [a different one] are we to expect?

And [coming near unto him] the men said—

[John the Immerser] hath sent us unto thee, saying,

Art [though] the Coming One, or [another] are we to expect?

In that very’ hour he cured many from diseases, and plagues, and wicked spirits; and [unto many blind] gave he the favour to see.

22 And, answering, he said unto them—

Go and bear tidings unto John, as to what ye have seen and heard:

[The blind] are receiving sight,

[The lame] walk,

[Lepers] are cleansed, and [the deaf] hear,—

[The dead] are raised,

[The destitute] are told the glad-message;

And [happy] is he, whosoever shall not find occasion of stumbling in me!

And [the messengers of John having departed] he began to say unto the multitudes, concerning John—

What went ye forth into the desert to gaze at?

A reed, by a wind, shaken?

But what went ye forth to see?

A man [in soft’ garments] arrayed?

Lo! [they who in splendid apparel] and luxury’ are found] are [in the kingly courts].

But what went ye forth to see?

A prophet? Yea! I say unto you,—

And abundantly more than a prophet.

[This] is he concerning whom it is written—

Lo! I am sending forth my messenger before thy face,

Who shall prepare thy way before thee.

I say unto you—

[A greater] <among them that are born of women> [than John] is there none; but [he that is least in the kingdom of God] is greater’ than he.

And [all the people, when they heard, and the tax-collectors] justified God, having been immered with the immersion of John; but [the Pharisees and the lawyers] had set aside [the counsel of God against themselves] not being immersed by him.

unto what] then, shall I liken the men of this generation?

And unto what are they like?

They are like unto the children sitting [in a market-place], and calling one to another, who say—

We played the flute for you, and ye danced not,

We waied, and ye wept not.

For John the Immerser hath come, [neither eating bread nor drinking wine], § 27. A Sinful Woman washes Jesus’ feet.

And a certain one of the Pharisees was requesting him, that he would eat with him; and entering into the house of the Pharisee he reclined. 37 And lo! [a woman, who indeed was in the city’ a sinner]; and [when she found out that he was reclining in the house of the Pharisee] providing an alabaster-jar of perfume, 38 and standing behind, near his feet, weeping|| with the tears began she to be wetting his feet, and [with the hair of her head] was wiping off [the tears], and was tenderly kissing his feet, and anointing them with the perfume. 39 But the Pharisee who had invited him [seeing it] spake within himself, saying,

||This one|| if he were the prophet would have been taking note, [who and of what sort] is the woman, who is even touching him, that she is a sinner.

And, making answer, Jesus said unto him— Simon! I have [unto thee] something to say.

[He] then—
Teacher, speak!—saith he.

||Two’ debtors| there were, to a certain creditor,|the one| owed five hundred denaries, and |the other| fifty. 42 <They not having wherewith to pay> he forgave [both]. Which of them, therefore, will love him ||more?||

Making answer, Simon said—

I suppose, that he to whom |the more, he forgave|,
And |he| said unto him—

|Rightly| hast thou judged.

And |turning towards the woman|| unto Simon| he said—

Seest thou this’ woman? I entered into thy’ house: [water to me, on my feet] thou didst not give,—but ||she|| [with her tears] hath wetted my feet, and [with her hair] wiped off [the tears]. 45 |A kiss, to me| thou didst not give,—but ||she|| [from the time I came in] hath not ceased tenderly kissing my feet. 46 |With oil, my head| thou didst not anoint,—but ||she|| [with perfume] hath anointed [my feet]. 47 |For which cause| I say unto thee—[Her many sins have been forgiven,] because she hath loved [much]; but |he to whom little is forgiven]|litle| loveth.

And he said unto her— Thy sins have been forgiven.
And they who were reclining together, began to be saying within themselves—
Who is [this], that [even forgiveth sins]?
But he said unto the woman—

|[Thy faith| hath saved thee,— Go thy way into peace.

§ 28. Carrying the Joyful Message from place to place, Women minister unto him.

Chapter 8.

And it came to pass [in due course] that he was passing through, city by city and village by village, proclaiming, and delivering the glad-message of the kingdom of God,—and |the twelve| were with him; 2 and certain women, who had been cured from evil spirits and infirmities,—Mary, the one called Magdalene, from whom seven demons had gone forth, 3 and Joana, wife of Chuza steward of Herod, and Susanna, and many others,—who indeed were ministering unto them out of their possessions.

§ 29. The Parable of the sower.
Mt. xiii. 1–9; Mk. iv. 1–9.

And <seeing that a great multitude were coming together, and they who from every city were journeying forth unto him> he spake through means of a parable:—

The sower went forth to sow his seed,—and <as he sowed> [Some] indeed, fell beside the pathway, and was trodden down; and |the birds of heaven| devoured it.

a Or (WH); “a.”

b Proof of previous forgiveness—of which this assurance is a public confirmation.
6 And [other] fell down upon the rock; and, growing, was withered, because it had not moisture.

7 And [other] fell amidst thorns; and, growing together, [the thorns] choked it.

8 And [other] fell into good ground; and, growing, brought forth fruit [a hundredfold].
[These things] saying, he went on to cry aloud—
[He that hath ears to hear] let him hear.

§ 30. The Sower Explained.
Mt. xiii. 10–23; Mk. iv. 10–20.

9 But his disciples began to question him—
What might [this very] parable be?

10 And [he] said—
[Unto you] hath it been given, to get to know the sacred secrets of the kingdom of God; but [unto the rest] in parables,—in order that, seeing, they may not see, and, hearing, they may not understand.

11 Now the parable [is this]:—[The seed] is [the word of God], 12 And [those beside the pathway] are they who have heard; [afterwards] cometh the adversary, and catcheth away the word from their heart, lest [believing] they should [be saved]. 13 And [those upon the rock] are they who [as soon as they hear] [with joy] welcome the word; and [these] not having [root] are they who [for a season] believe,—and [in a season of testing] draw back. 14 And [that which in among the thorns' fell] [these] are they who have heard; and [by anxieties and wealth and pleasures of life being borne along] are choked up, and bear not to perfection.

But [that in the good' ground] [these] are they who indeed [in a noble and good heart having heard the word] hold fast, and bear fruit with endurance.

16 And [no one having lit a lamp] covereth it up with a vessel, or [beneath a couch] putteth it; but [upon a lamp-stand] putteth it, that [they who come in] may see the light. 17 For there is no secret, which shall not be made manifest; neither a hidden thing, which shall in anywise not be made known, or not come [where it can be seen].

18 Be taking heed therefore how ye hear; for [whosoever shall have] it shall be given unto him; and [whosoever shall not have] [even what he seemeth to have] shall be taken from him.

§ 31. “My Mother and My Brethren”.
Mt. xii. 46–50; Mk. iii. 31–35.

19 And his mother and brethren came near unto him, and were unable to reach him, because of the multitude. 20 And it was reported to him—
[Thy mother and thy brethren] are standing outside, desiring [to see] thee.

21 But [he] answering, said unto them—
[My mother and my brethren] are [these]—they who [the word of God] are hearing and doing.

§ 32. A Storm rebuked.
Mt. viii. 23–27; Mk. iv. 35–41.

22 And it came to pass, on one of the days, that [he] entered into a boat, and his disciples; and he said unto them—
Let us pass over unto the other side of the lake. And they set sail. 23 Now [as they were sailing] he fell asleep. And there came down a hurricane of wind upon the lake, and they began to be filled [and to be in peril]. 24 And [coming near] they roused him up, saying—Master! Master! we perish!
And [he, roused up] rebuked the wind, and the surging of the water; and they ceased, and it became a calm. 25 And he said unto them—
Where was your faith?
But [struck with fear] they marvelled, saying one to another—
Who then is [this]—that [even unto the winds] he giveth orders [and unto the water], and they hear unto him.

What have I in common with thee, O Jesus, Son of [God] the Most High?

for he was about to charge the impure spirit to come out from the man. For many times had it snatched him away; and he used to be bound with chains and fetters [for a safe-guard], and was wont to break in pieces the bonds, and to be driven by the demon into the deserts.

And Jesus questioned him—

What name hast thou?

And [he] said—

Legion!

because many demons had entered into him.

And they were beseeching him that he would not order them [into the abyss] to depart.

Now there was there, a herd of a good many swine, feeding in the mountain; and they besought him, that he would suffer them [into those] to enter; and he suffered them. 33 And the demons, going forth from the man ’ entered into the swine ’; and the herd rushed down the cliff, into the lake, and were choked.

And they who had been feeding them [seeing what had happened] fled, and carried tidings into the city, and into the country-places. 35 And they went forth to see what had happened; and came unto Jesus, and found the man from whom the demons ’ had gone forth [sitting], clothed, and of sound mind, near the feet of Jesus,—and they were struck with fear. 36 And they who had seen it [reported unto them] how the demonized man was saved. 37 And one and all of the throng of the surrounding country of the Gerasenes [requested him, to depart from them]; because [with a great fear] were they oppressed. And [he] entering into a boat [returned]. 38 And the man from whom the demons had gone forth [began to beg of him] that he might be with him; but he dismissed him, saying—

Be returning unto thy house, and telling forth what great things [God], for thee, hath done. And he departed, [through all’ the city] proclaiming what great things [Jesus] had done for him.

§ 34. The Daughter of Jairus raised, and the Woman with Flow of Blood cured.

Mt. ix. 18–26; Mk, v. 21–43.

40 Now [when Jesus returned] the multitude welcomed him back, for they were all expecting him. 41 And lo! there came a man, whose name was Jairus, and [the same] was a ruler of the synagogue,—and [falling down near the feet of Jesus] he began beseeching him to enter into his house; 42 because he had [an only-begotten daughter], about twelve years old, and [she] was dying.

Now [as he withdrew] [the multitudes] were hemming him in. 43 And [a woman] <with a flow of blood of twelve years standing, who indeed could, from no one, be cured> 44 [coming near behind] touched the fringe of his mantle; and [instantly] was stayed the flow of her blood. 45 And Jesus said—

[Who] is it that touched me?

And [when all were denying] Peter said—

Master! [the multitudes] are hemming thee in, and pressing along.

46 But [Jesus] said—

Some one touched’ me, for [I] took note of power, gone out from me.

47 And <the woman seeing that she had not escaped notice> trembling, came, and [falling down before him] reported before all’ the people [for what cause she had touched him] and how she was healed instantly! 48 And [he] said to her—

Daughter! [thy faith] hath saved thee:

Go thy way into peace.

49 <While yet he is speaking> there cometh one from the synagogue ruler’s, saying—

Thy daughter [is dead];

[No further] be troubling the teacher.

50 But [Jesus] hearing, answered him—

Do not fear!

[Only believe] and she shall be saved.

51 And [when he came into the house] he suffered no one to enter with him, save Peter and John and James, and the father of the girl, and the mother.

52 And they were all weeping, and beating themselves, for her. And he said—

Be not weeping; for she died not, but is sleeping.
53And they were deriding him, knowing that she died. 54But [he] grasping her hand called aloud, saying—

O girl! arise!

55And her spirit returned, and she rose up instantly, and he ordered that something should be given her to eat. 56And her parents were beside themselves. But [he] charged them to tell [no one] what had happened.

§ 35. The Twelve sent forth.
Mt. x. 1–14 ff; Mk. vi. 7–13.

Chapter 9.

1And [calling together the twelve] he gave them power and authority over all’ the demons, and to be curing [diseases]; 2and sent them forth, to be proclaiming the kingdom of God, and to be healing; 3and said unto them—

[Nothing] take ye for the journey,—

Neither staff, nor satchel, nor bread, nor silver,
Nor to have [two’ tunics].

4And [into whatsoever house ye enter]
[There] abide, and [hence] be going forth.

5And [as many soever as shall not welcome you]
||In going forth from that city|| [the dust of your] feet shake ye off [for a witness against them].

6And they went forth, and were passing through, along the villages,—delivering the glad-message, and effecting cures in every direction.

§ 36. Herod at a loss about Jesus.
Mt. xiv. 1–12; Mk. vi. 14–29.

7Now Herod the tetrarch heard of all the things which were coming to pass, and was utterly at a loss, because of its being said [by some], that [John] had been raised from the dead; 8and [by some], that [Elijah] had appeared; and [by others] that [some prophet of the ancients] had arisen. 9But Herod said—

||John|| I myself beheaded; but [who is this], concerning whom I am hearing such things as these?

And he was seeking to see him.

§ 37. The Miracle of the Five Loaves.
Mt. xiv. 13–21; Mk. vi. 30–44; Jn. vi. 1–13.

10And the Apostles [returning] related to him what great things they had done. And [taking them aside] he retired privately, into a city called Bethsaida. 11But ||the multitudes|| [getting to know] followed him; and [giving them welcome] he began speaking unto them concerning the kingdom of God,—and [that] had need’ of cure] he healed. 12And [the day] began to decline; and the twelve [coming near] said to him—

Dismiss the multitude, that <going into the surrounding’ villages and hamlets> they may lodge, and find provisions; because [here, in a desert’ place] are we.

13But he said unto them—

Give [ye] them to eat.

15And they did so,—and made [one and all] recline.

16And <taking the five’ loaves, and the two’ fishes> [looking up into heaven] he blessed them, and brake [them] up, and went on giving to the disciples, to set before the multitude; 17and they did all’ eat and were filled. And that which remained over to them [was taken up],—[of broken pieces] twelve baskets.

§ 38. Peter’s Good Confession.
Mt. xvi. 13–20; Mk. viii. 27–30.

18And <it came to pass, when he was praying in solitude> [the disciples] were with him. And he questioned them, saying—

Who do the multitudes say that I am?

19And they, answering, said—

John the Immerser;

But some, Elijah,
And others, That [some prophet of the ancients] hath arisen.

20And he said to them—

But who say [ye] that I am?

And [Peter] answering, said—

The Christ of God!

21||He|| however, sternly admonishing them, gave charge that [unto no one] should they be telling this; 22saying—

The Son of Man must needs’ suffer [many things] and be rejected by the Elders and High priests and Scribes, and be slain,—and |on the third’ day| [[arise]].

§ 39. Taking up the Cross.
Mt. xvi. 24–28; Mk. viii. 34–38.

23 And he was saying |unto all|—
   <If any one intendeth after me’ to come>
   Let him deny himself, and take up his cross daily,—and be following me.a 24 For <whosoever intendeth [his life]b to save>
   Shall lose it;
   But <whosoever shall lose his life for my sake>
   [The same] shall save it.c
25 For what doth a man profit,
   Who hath gained the whole world,
   But hath lost, or been made to forfeit,
   [himself]?
26 For <whosoever shall be ashamed of me, and of my’ words> |[of him]| |[the Son of Man] will be ashamed, whosoever he shall come in his glory, and that of the Father, and of the holy’ messengers.
27 But I tell you of a truth—
   There [are] some of those [here] standing, who shall in nowise taste of death, [until they see the kingdom of God].

§ 40. The Transformation of Jesus.
Mt. xvii. 1–8; Mk. ix. 2–13; cp. 2 P. i. 16–18.

28 And it came to pass |after these words, d about eight days| <taking with him Peter and John and James> he went up into the mountain to pray. 29
   And it came to pass |while he was praying| that [the appearance of his face] was changed, and [his clothing] became white, [effulgent]. 30 And lo! [two men] were conversing with him, who, indeed, were Moses and Elijah,—31 who [appearing in glory] were speaking as to his departure, which he was about to fulfil in Jerusalem. 32 Now |Peter, and they who were with’ him| had become heavy with sleep; but [waking up] they saw his glory, and the two’ men who were standing with him.
33 And it came to pass |when they were being parted
   from him| Peter said unto Jesus—
   Master! it is |delightful| for us to be [here]: Let us, therefore, make three tents, one for thee, and one for Moses, and one for Elijah:—
   not knowing what he said. 34 Now |while he was saying these things| there camee a cloud, and it began to overshadow them,—and they were overcome with fear as they entered into the cloud.
35 And |[a voice] came out of the cloud, saying—
   [This] is my Son |[the Chosen One]’:
   [Unto him] be hearkening.
36 And ||when the voice came| there was found
   [Jesus alone]. And they held their peace, and |unto no one| reported they, in those’ days, any of the things which they had seen.

§ 41. Jesus cures a Demoniac whom the Disciples could not cure.
Mt. xvii. 14–21; Mk. ix. 14–29.

37 And it came to pass |on the next’ day, when they came down from the mountain| that there met him a great multitude. 38 And lo! |a man from the multitude| uttered a cry, saying—
   Teacher! I beg of thee, to look upon my son, because [my only begotten] he is. 39 And lo! |a spirit| taketh him, and |[suddenly] he crieth out,—and it convulseth him—with foaming, and with difficulty departeth from him, sorely bruising him.
40 And I begged of thy disciples, that they would cast it out, and they could not.
41 And, making answer, Jesus said—
   O faithless and perverted generation! how long shall I be with you, and bear with you? Bring [hither] thy son.
42 And |while yet’ he was coming| the demon tare him, and mangled him. But Jesus rebuked the impure spirit, and healed the boy, and gave him back to his father. 43 And they were all being struck with astonishment, [at the majesty of God].

§ 42. Jesus warns of His Rejection.
Mt. xvii. 22, 23; Mk. ix. 30–32.

And |while all’ were marvelling at all’ things
which he was doing| he said unto his disciples:
44 Lay [ye] up in your ears, these words; for [the Son of Man] is about to be delivered up [into the hands of men].
45 But [they]| understood not this saying, and it had become veiled from them, that they might not grasp it,—and they were afraid to question him [concerning this saying].

§ 43. True Greatness.
Mt. xviii. 1–5; Mk. ix. 33–37.

46 But there entered a reasoning among them, as to who of them should be greatest.
47 And [Jesus] <perceiving the reasoning of their heart> [taking a child] placed it near himself,— 48 and said unto them—
   <Whosoever shall give welcome unto this’ child, on my name> [unto me] giveth welcome;
   And <whosoever unto me> giveth welcome—giveth welcome unto him that sent me forth.a
   For [[he who is least among you all]] [the same] is [great].
49 But John [answering] said—
   Master! we saw some one [in thy name] casting out demons,—and we forbade him, because he followeth not with us.
50 And Jesus said unto him—
   Do not forbid; for [whosoever is not against you] is [for you].

§ 44. The Face of Jesus set towards Jerusalem.

51 And it came to pass, <when the days for taking him up were on the point of being fulfilled> [[even he himself]] set [his face] to be journeying unto Jerusalemb; 52 and he sent messengers before his face,—and, taking their journey, they entered into a village of Samaritans, [so as to prepare for him].
53 And they welcomed him not, because [his face] was for journeying unto Jerusalem. 54 And the disciples James and John [seeing it] said—
   Lord! wilt thou, that we bid fire come down from heaven, and destroy? them?
55 But [turning] he rebuked them.d
56 And they journeyed into a different’ village.

§ 45. Three Would-be Followers put to the Test.
Mt. viii. 18–22.

57 And [as they were journeying on the road] one said unto him—
   I will follow thee, whithersoever thou shalt depart.
58 And Jesus said unto him—

||The foxes|| have [dens], and ||the birds of heaven]| [nests]; but ||the Son of Man|| hath not where [his head] he may recline.

59 And he said unto another—
   Be following me!

But [he] said—
   Suffer me, [first] to depart, and bury my father.
60 And he said unto him—
   Leave [the dead] to bury their own’ dead;
   But [[thou]] departing, be declaring the kingdom of God.
61 And [yet another] said—
   I will follow thee, Lord;
   But [first] suffer me to bid adieu to them that are in my house.
62 But Jesus said {unto him}—
   ||No one, laying the hand on a plough and looking unto the things behind] is [fit] for the kingdom of God.

§ 46. The Mission of the Seventy {Two}.

Chapter 10.

1 And [after these things] the Lord appointed seventy {two} others, and sent them forth two and two before his face, into every’ city and place whither [he himself] was about to come.
2 And he was saying unto them—
   ||The harvest|| indeed, is [great],
   But [[the labourers]] [few];
   Beg ye, therefore, of the Lord of the harvest,
   That he would thrust forth [labourers] into his harvest.e
3 Withdraw! Lo! I send you forth as lambs amid wolves.
4 Be not carrying purse, or satchel, or sandals,
And [no one along the road] salute ye;
5 And <into whatsoever house ye enter>
   [First] say Peace to this house!
6 And <if the son of peace be [there]>
   [Your peace] shall rest upon it;
   But ||otherwise, at least|| [unto you] shall it return.
7 And [in the self-same’ house] abide ye,
   Eating and drinking such things as they have;
   For [worthy] is the labourer [of his hire]:

a Mt. x. 40; Mk. ix. 37; Jn. xiii. 20.

b The recurrence of Luke’s narrative to the Lord’s progress towards Jerusalem is most impressive; cp. ver. 53, 57; chap. x. 1, 38; xiii. 22, 33; xiv. 25; xviii. 31; xix. 11, 28.

c 2 K. i. 10–12.

e Mt. ix. 37, 38.

f Or: “enter first> say”—a question of punctuation.
Be not removing from house to house.
And <into whatsoever city ye shall enter, and they bid you welcome>
Be eating such things as are set before you;
And be curing the sick that are therein,
And be saying unto them—
The kingdom of God hath drawn nigh upon you.
But <into whatsoever city ye shall enter, and they do not welcome you> [Going forth into the broadways thereof] say ye:
<Even the dust that cleaveth unto you, out of your city, unto our feet> do we wipe off against you;
Nevertheless [of this] be taking notice—
The kingdom of God hath drawn near.
I tell you, ||For them of Sodom, in that day|| more tolerable will it be, [than for that city].
Alas for thee, Chorazin!
Alas for thee, Bethsaida!
Because <if [in Tyre and Zidon] had been done the works of power which have been done in you>
[Of old, in sackcloth and ashes’ sitting] they would have repented.
Moreover ||for Tyre and Zidon|| more tolerable will it be, in the judgment, than [for you].
And ||thou, Capernaum||—
||Unto heaven|| shalt thou be uplifted?
||Unto hades|| thou shalt be brought down?
<He that hearkeneth unto you> [unto me] doth hearken,
And <he that setteth you’ aside> doth set [me] aside;
And <he that setteth [me] aside> doth set aside ||him that sent me|.
And the seventy {-two} returned, with joy, saying—
Lord! ||even the demons|| submit themselves unto us, in thy name!
And he said unto them—
I was beholding Satan, when [like lightning, out of heaven] he fell!
Lo! I have given you the authority—

---

To be treading upon serpents\(^a\) and scorpions,
[And over all’ the power of the enemy].,—
And [nothing, unto you] shall in anywise do harm;
Notwithstanding [in this] be not rejoicing—
That [the spirits] unto you’ submit themselves;
But be rejoicing—
That [your names] are inscribed in the heavens!
[In the self-same’ hour] exulted he in the Holy Spirit, and said—
I openly give praise unto thee, Father!
Lord of heaven and earth!
In that thou hast hid these things from the wise and discerning,
And hast revealed them unto babes,—
Yea, O Father! that [||so|| hath it become [a delight] before thee.
||All things|| unto me have been delivered up by my Father;
And [no one] knoweth, who the Son’ is [save the Father],—
And who the Father’ is, [save the Son],
And he to whomsoever the Son may be minded to reveal him.\(^b\)
And [turning unto his disciples, privately]\(^c\) he said—
||Happy|| the eyes, that see what ye see!

And to hear what ye hear, and they heard not.|\(^d\)

||[In the law]| what is written? how dost thou read?
And [he] answering, said—

Of few things is there need, or [of one]; [Mary] in fact, hath chosen [the good part],—one which shall not be taken away from her.

§ 49. “Lord! teach us to pray.”

Chapter 11.

And it came to pass [when he was in a certain place praying, as he ceased] one of his disciples said unto him—

Lord! teach us to pray,
As [John also] taught his disciples.

And he said unto them—

<Whosoever ye are praying> say—

Father!
Hallowed be thy name,
Come may thy kingdom,
[Our needful bread] be giving us, day by day;
And forgive us our sins,
For [even we ourselves] forgive every one indebted to us;
And bring us not into temptation.

And he said unto them—

[Who from among you] shall have a friend, and shall go unto him at midnight, and say unto him—

Friend! supply me with three' loaves, forasmuch as [a friend of mine] hath come off a journey unto me, and I have not what I can set before him;

and [he] [from within] shall answer, and say—

Be not disturbing me,—[already] the door hath been fastened, and [my children, with me] are [in bed]; I cannot rise and give thee?

I say unto you—<Even though he will not give him, rising because of his being a friend of his> [because, at least, of his importunity] he will rouse himself, and give him as many as he needeth.

[II] therefore, [unto you] say—

b Or, “going up again”—i.e., to Jerusalem, a much higher locality.

c A beautiful and suggestive Gr. emendation, made by WH.
Be asking, and it shall be given to you,
Be seeking, and ye shall find,—
Be knocking, and it shall be opened unto you.

For [whosoever asketh] receiveth,
And [he that seeketh] findeth,—
And [to him that knocketh] shall it be opened:§

But which’ is the father [from among yourselves],
Whom the son will askc for [a fish],
Who [instead of a fish] will give him ||[a serpent]]?

Or shall also ask [an egg],
Who will give him ||[a scorpion]]?

If therefore ||[ye]|| being [evil] know how to be givinge ||[good gifts] unto your children>
||[How much rather] will [the heavenly Father] give Holy Spirit unto them that ask him!

§ 50. Jesus accused of casting out Demons in Beelzebul.
Mt. xii. 22–37; Mk. iii. 20–30.

And he was casting out a demon that was dumb; and it came to pass when the demon’ went out] the dumb began speaking. And the multitudes marvelled; 15 but [some from among them] said—
||Ind Beelzebul,e the ruler of the demons|| is he casting out the demons;

and [others] ||putting him to the test] ||a sign out of heaven] were seeking from him.

But [he] knowing their thoughts, said unto them—
||Every’ kingdom, against itselff divided] is laid waste,
And [a house, against a house [divided]]] falleth;

And <if [even Satan] against himselfg hath become divided> how shall his kingdom stand’?
Because ye are saying that [in Beelzebul] am I casting out the demons.

But <if ||I] in Beelzebul] am casting out the demons>
In whom are ||[your sons]] casting them out?
Wherefore ||[they]] shall be ||[your’ judges].

But <if [with the finger of God] ||I]f am casting out the demons>
Then doubtless unawares hath come upon you [the kingdom of God].

<Whensoever [the mighty one, armed] may be guarding his own’ dwelling>g [in peace] are his goods;

But <whensoever [a mightier than he] shall come upon and vanquish him>
[His panoply] he taketh away [wherein he was trusting],
And [his spoils] he distributeth.

[He that is not with me] is [against me];
And [the that gathereth not with me] scattereth.

<Whensoever [the impure’ spirit] goeth out from the man] it passeth through waterless’ places, seeking rest; and [not finding it] {[then]} it saith—

I will return unto my house [whence I came out];—

and [coming] findeth it {empty,} swept, and adorned. 26 [Then] goeth it, and taketh along with itself, otherh more wicked than itself—[seven], and, entering in, fixeth its dwelling there; and [the last state of that man] becometh ||[worse than the first]].

Now it came to pass while he was saying these things] that a certain woman out of the multitude [lifting up her voice] said unto him—

Happy the womb that bare thee!
And the breasts which thou didst suck!

But [||he|| said—
Yea rather!—
Happy they who hear the word of God, and observe it!

§ 51. The Sign of Jonah and The Wisdom Solomon.
Mt. xii. 38–42.

And [as the multitudes were thronging together] he began to be saying—
||[This generation] is [a wicked generation]:
||[A sign] it is seeking,
And [a sign] shall not be given it,—
||[Save the sign of Jonah]]

For <according as [Jonah] became [unto the Ninevites] a sign>h
||[So] shall be [the Son of Man also] ||unto this generation].

Cp. chap. viii. 16; Mt. v. 15; Mk. iv. 21.

||No one|| having lighted [a lamp] || into a covered place|| putteth it, nor [under the measure]; but upon the lampstand, that they who enter may see [the light].

||The lamp of thy body|| is thine eye:
<Whensoever ||thine eye|| may be [single]>
||The whole of thy body|| is lighted up;
But <whensoever it may be [useless]>|
| Even thy body is darkened.

Be looking to it, therefore, lest [the light that is in thee] be [darkness].

<If, therefore, [thy whole body] is lighted up,
Not having any part darkened>
The whole [shall be lighted up] as whensoever [the lamp, with its radiance] may be giving thee light.9

§ 53. “Alas for you, Pharisees and Lawyers!”

Cp. Mt. xxiii.

And [when he had spoken] a Pharisee was requesting him that he would dine* with him; and, entering, he reclined. 38 And [the Pharisee] beholding, marvelled that he was not [first] immersed, before the dinner. 39 And the Lord said unto him:

Now ||ye, the Pharisees|| [the outside of the cup and of the tray] do make pure;
But [your inward part] is full of plunder and wickedness.

Simple ones!
Did not ||he who made the outside|| [the inside also] make?

40 Notwithstanding [as to the things within] give alms,
And lo! [everything] is [pure unto you].

41 But alas for you, the Pharisees!
Because ye tithe the mint, and the rue, and every’ garden herb,
And pass by justice, and the love of God.
But [these things] it was biding to do,
And [those] not to pass by.

42 Alas for you, the Pharisees!
Because ye love the first seats in the synagogues,
And the salutations in the market-places!

43 Alas for you!
Because ye are as the secret tombs:
[Even the men that are walking above them] know it not.

44 And [making answer] one of the Lawyers saith unto him—
Teacher! [these things] saying, [us also] dost thou insult!

45 And [he] said—
And [for you, the lawyers] alas!
Because ye lade men with burdens hard to be borne,
And [yourselves] [with one’ of your fingers] touch not the burdens.

46 Alas for you!
Because ye build the tombs of the prophets,
And your fathers slew them!

47 Hence [witnesses] are ye, and find consenting pleasure in the works of your fathers:
Because [they] indeed, slew them,
And [ye] are building [their tombs].

48 [For this cause] the Wisdom of God hath said—
I will send forth, unto them, prophets and apostles,—
And [some from among them] will they slay, And [some] persecute:

49 That the blood of all’ the prophets which hath been shed from the foundation of the world, [may be sought out] from this generation,—

50 From the blood of Abel, unto the blood of Zachariah who was destroyed betwixt the altar and the house;
Yea! I say unto you—
[It shall be sought out from this generation].

51 Alas for you, the lawyers!

52 a Or: “vault,” “crypt.”

b Mt. vi. 22, 23.

c Or: “breakfast.”
Because ye took away the key of knowledge:
[Yourselves] entered not,
And [them who were entering] ye hindered.

And <when [from thence] he came out> the Scribes and the Pharisees began, with vehemence, to be hemming him in, and trying to make him speak off-hand concerning many things,—54 lying in wait for him, to catch something out of his mouth.

§ 54. Various Instructions for Disciples and for the Multitude.

Chapter 12.

1 <Amongst which things, when the ten thousands of the multitude were gathered together, so that they were treading one upon another> he began to be saying [unto his disciples] [first]—

Be keeping yourselves free from the leaven of the Pharisees,a the which is [hypocrisy],

2 But [nothing] hath been [covered up]
Which shall not be uncovered,
And hidden
Which shall not be made known.

Because <as many things as [in the darkness] ye have said>
[In the light] shall be heard;
And <what to the ear ye spake, in the chambers>
Shall be proclaimed on the housetops.b

And I say unto you [my friends]—
Do not be put in fear of them who kill the body, And [after these things] have nothing more uncommon which they can do.

But I will suggest to you whom ye should fear—
Fear him who [after killing] [hath authority to cast into gehenna],— Yea, I say unto you—
[Him] fear ye.c

Are not [five] sparrows sold for two farthings?
And [not one from among them] hath been forgotten before God.d

But [even the hairs of your head] have all¹ been numbered:
Be not afraid: [Many' sparrows] ye excel.

And I say unto you—

<Whosoever shall confess me before men>
[Even the Son of Man] will confess him, before the messengers of God;

But <he who denied me before men>
Shall be denied before the messengers of God.

And <whosoever shall say a word against the Son of Man>
It shall be forgiven him;

But <unto him who [against the Holy Spirit] speaketh profanely>
It shall not be forgiven.e

But <whenever they shall be bringing you in before the synagogues, and the rulers, and the authorities>
Do not be anxious how {or what} ye shall answer, or what ye shall say;

For [the Holy' Spirit] shall teach you, in that very' hour, what ye ought to say.f

And one from amongst the multitude said unto him—
Teacher! bid my brother divide with me the inheritance.

But [he] said unto him—
Man! who hath appointed me a judge or divider over you?g

And he said unto them—
Mind and be guarding yourselves from all¹ covetousness;
For not [in one’s abundance] doth his life spring out of his possessions.

And he spake a parable unto them, saying—
[A certain rich man’s estate] bare well.

And he began to deliberate within himself, saying—
What shall I do? because I have not where I can gather my fruits.

And he said—
[This] will I do,—I will pull down my barns, and [greater ones] build, and gather [there] all¹ my wheat and good things; 19 and will say to my soul—
Soul! thou hast many¹ good things [lying by for many years]:
Be taking thy rest, eat, drink, } be making merry!

But God said unto him—
| For this cause I say unto you,—a
| Be not anxious for the life, b what ye shall eat,
| Nor yet for {your} body, what ye shall put on;
| For [the life] is more than the food,
| And [the body], than [the clothing].

Consider well the ravens—
That they sow not, neither do they reap,
Which have neither chamber nor barn,—
And [God] feedeth [them]!
By how much do [ye] excel [the birds]?
And [who from among you] [though anxious] can [unto his stature] add a cubit?

If then, [not even the least thing] ye can do> Why [concerning the rest] are ye anxious?
Consider well the lilies, how they grow:
They toil not, neither do they spin,
And yet I say unto you—
[Not even Solomon, in all’ his glory] was arrayed like one of these.

But <if God thus adorneth [the grass] Which is [in a field] to-day’,
And to-morrow [into an oven] is cast>
[How much rather you] O little-of-faith?
[Ye] therefore, be not seeking what ye shall eat
And what ye shall drink,
And be not held in suspense;
For [after all these things] do [the nations of the world] seek,—
But [your’ Father] knoweth that ye need these things.

[Notwithstanding] be seeking his kingdom,—
And [these things] shall be added unto you."d

Be not afraid, the dear’ little flock!
For your Father delighteth to give you [the kingdom].
Sell your possessions, and give alms,
Make for yourselves purses that wax not old,— Treasure unfailing, in the heavens,
46 The lord of that servant [will have come]—
On a day when he is not expecting,
And in an hour when he is not taking note,—
And will cut him asunder,
And [his] part [with the unfaithful] will appoint.
And <that’ servant, who had come to know the will of his lord,
And neither prepared, nor wrought unto his will>
Shall be beaten with many’ stripes;
Whereas <he who had not come to know,
And did things worthy of stripes>
Shall be beaten with few’ stripes.
And <every one to whom was given much’> [Much] shall be sought from him;
And <he to whom they committed much’>
[For more than common] will they ask him.
49 [Fire] came I to cast upon the earth,—
And what’ can I wish, if [already] it hath been [Kindled]?
50 But [an immersion] have I, to be immersed with,
And how am I distressed, until it be ended!
51 Suppose ye, that [peace] I am come to give in the earth?
Nay, I tell you, but rather division.
52 For there shall be [henceforth] five’ in one’ house [divided],— Three against two, and two against three:
53 There shall be divided—
Father against son, and son against father, Mother against daughter, and daughter against the mother,—b
Mother-in-law against her daughter-in-law, and daughter-in-law against the mother-in-law.
54 And he went on to say [even unto the multitudes]— <Whenever ye see a cloud springing up from the west>
[Straightway] ye are saying— |A thunderstorm] is coming!
And it happeneth’ thus.
55 And <whenever a south wind, blowing>
Ye say— |A scorching heat] will there be!
And it cometh to pass’.
56 Hypocrites! the face of the earth and of the heaven] ye know how to scan;
But ||this season|| how know ye not to scan?c

57 Why, moreover, [even from yourselves] judge ye not what is just?
58 For <as thou art going along with thine adversary unto a ruler>
|On the way] take pains to get a release from him;
Lest once he drag thee along unto the judge,
And [the judge] deliver thee up to the punisher,—
And [the punisher] cast thee into prison:
59 I tell thee—
In nowise shalt thou come out from thence,
Until [even the last fraction] thou pay1d

§ 55. All must Repent: The Barren Fig-tree.

Chapter 13.

1 Now there were present some ||in that very season|| bringing tidings to him, concerning the Galilæans whose blood Pilate had mingled with their sacrifices. 2 And, answering, he said unto them—
Suppose ye, that [these Galilæans] had become [sinners beyond all] the Galilæans, because [these things] they have suffered?
3 Nay! I tell you, but ||except ye repent|| ye [all, in like manner] shall perish.
4 Or <those’ eighteen, upon whom fell the tower in Siloam, and slew them> suppose ye that [they] had become [debtors] beyond all’ the men who were dwelling in Jerusalem? 5 Nay! I tell you, but [except ye repent] ye [all, in the same way] shall perish.
6 And he went on to speak this parable:—
A certain man had ||a fig-tree||, planted in his vineyard, and he came seeking fruit therein, and found none. 7 And he said unto the vinedresser—
Lo! ||three years|| I come, seeking fruit in this fig-tree, and find none. Cut it down!
Why doth it make ||even the ground|| useless?
8 And [he] answering, saith unto him—
Sir! let it alone this’ year also’, until such time as I dig about it, and throw in manure,— and if it may bear fruit for the future;…but [otherwise, certainly] thou shalt cut it down.

§ 56. The Woman bowed together, healed on Sabbath.

And he was teaching in one of the synagogues, on the Sabbath. And lo! a woman having a spirit of weakness eighteen years,—and was bowed together, and unable to lift herself up [at all]. And, seeing her, Jesus called her and said to her—

Woman! thou art loosed from thy weakness,—and laid on her his hands; and [instantly] she was made straight again, and began glorifying God.

But the synagogue-ruler, answering, <being greatly displeased> that [on the Sabbath] Jesus had healed> began saying unto the multitude—

||Six' days|| there are, in which men ought to get their work done;
||On them|| therefore, come and be healed, and not on the day of rest.

The Lord answered him, and said—

Hypocrites! Doth not ||each one of you|| [on the Sabbath] loose his ox or ass from the manger, and, leading it away, give it drink? But ||this woman|| <being a daughter of Abraham, whom Satan had bound, lo! eighteen' years> was there not a needs-be that she should be loosed from this bond [on the day of rest]?

And <as he was saying [these] things> all’ who had been setting themselves against him were being put to shame; and [all’ the multitude] were rejoicing over all’ the glorious things which were being brought to pass by him.

§ 57. The Mustard Seed and the Leaven.

Mt. xiii. 31–33; Mk. iv. 30–32.

He went on to say, therefore—

||Whereunto|| is the kingdom of God [like]? And [whereunto] shall I liken it?

It is [like] unto a grain of mustard seed, which a man took and cast into his own garden; and it grew, and became a tree, and [the birds of heaven] lodged amongst its branches.

And [again] he said—

Whereunto shall I liken the kingdom of God?

It is [like leaven], which a woman took and hid in three measures of flour, until [the whole] was leavened.

§ 58. The Narrow Door: “Lord! open to us.”

And he was journeying on, city by city and village by village, and making [progress] unto Jerusalem.

And one said unto him—

Lord! are they [few] who are being saved?

And [he] said unto them—

Be striving to enter through the narrow’ door; for [many] I say unto you, will seek to enter, and will not be able,—when once the householder shall rouse himself, and lock the door, and ye begin to stand [outside], and to knock at the door, saying—

Lord! open to us;

and he shall answer and say unto you—

I know you not, whence ye are.

[Then] will ye begin to say—

We did eat and drink in thy presence, And [in our broadways] thou didst [teach];

And he will speak, saying unto you—

I know not whence ye are;

Depart from me, all workers of unrighteousness.

[There] will be weeping and gnashing of teeth, as soon as ye see Abraham and Isaac and Jacob and all’ the prophets, in the kingdom of God, and [yourselves] being thrust forth outside.

And they shall have come from east and west, and from north and south, and be made recline in the kingdom of God.

And lo! there are [last], who shall be [first], And there are [first], who shall be [last].

§ 59. Jesus fears not Herod: Laments over Jerusalem.

In that very’ hour came near certain Pharisees, saying unto him—

Go forth, and be journeying hence, because [Herod] desireth to slay thee.

And he said unto them—

Go and tell this fox, Lo! I am casting out demons, and [cures] am I finishing, to-day, and to-morrow,— and [on the third] I am to be made perfect. Nevertheless, I must needs [to-day, and to-morrow, and the following] be journeying on, because it is impossible that a prophet perish [outside Jerusalem].

Jerusalem! Jerusalem! she that slayeth the prophets, and stoneth them that are sent unto her! [How often] have I desired to gather together thy children, like as a hen, her own' brood, under her wings,—and ye did not desire! 35 Lo! your house is left to you.a

{And} I say unto you—

In nowise shall ye see me, until ye say,—

[Blessed] is he that cometh in the name of the Lord!b

§ 60. At a Pharisee’s on Sabbath Jesus heals one of Dropsy. “Come higher!” The Great Supper.

Chapter 14.

1 And it came to pass <when he entered into the house of one of the rulers of the Pharisees, on a Sabbath, to eat bread> that ||[they]|| were narrowly watching him. 2 And lo! there was \{a certain man\} who had the dropsy, before him. 3 And Jesus, answering, spake unto the Lawyers and Pharisees, saying—

Is it allowed, on the Sabbath, to cure, or not? But ||[they]|| held their peace. 4 And taking hold \[of him\] he healed and dismissed him,— and \[unto them\] said—

[Which’ of you] shall have a son or an ox, that \[into a pit\] shall fall, and will not straightway pull him up ||on the day of rest|c

6 And they could not return an answer unto these things.

7 And he go on to speak, unto the invited, a parable,—observing how \[the first couches\] they were choosing; saying unto them—

8 <Whensoever thou hast been invited by anyone unto a marriage feast> do not recline on the first couch; lest once \[a more honourable than thou\] have been invited by him, and he that invited both thee’ and him’ should come, and say unto thee—and \[then\] thou shouldst begin, with shame, \[the last place\] to occupy.

Give \[unto this one\] place!

10 But <whensoever thou hast been invited> pass on and fall back into the last’ place, that

[w]hennonsoever he that hath invited thee shall come\] he may say unto thee—

Friend! come close up [higher].

[Then] shalt thou have honour before all’ who are reclining together with thee.d

Because [everyone’ who exalteth himself] shall be abased;
And [he that abaseth himself] shall be exalted.e

Moreover he went on to say \[unto him also who had invited him\]—

<Whensoever thou mayest be making a dinner or a supper> do not call thy friends, or thy brothers, or thy kinsfolk, or rich neighbours,—lest once \[they also\] invite thee in return, and it become a recompense unto thee.

But <whensoever an entertainment| thou mayest be making> invite the destitute, the tried, the lame, the blind; 14 and \[happy\] shalt thou be, that they have not wherewith to recompense thee, for it shall be recompensed unto thee \[in the resurrection of the righteous].

And one of those reclining together \[hearing these things\] said unto him—

[Happy] whoever shall eat bread in the kingdom of God!

But \[he\] said unto him—

[A certain man] was making a great supper, and invited many; 17 and he sent out his servant, at the hour of the supper, to say unto the invited—

Be coming! because \[even now\] is it \[ready].

And they all began, one after another to excuse themselves.

[The first] said unto him—

[A field] have I bought, and have need to go out and see it:

I request thee, hold me excused.

And \[another\] said—

[Five’ yoke of oxen] have I bought, and am going my way to prove them;

I request thee, hold me excused.

And \[another\] said—

[A wife] have I married, and \[for this cause\] I cannot come!

And, going near, the servant reported unto his lord these things. ||[Then]|| [provoked to anger]

the master of the house said unto his servant—
Go out quickly, into the broadways and streets of the city,—and [the destitute, and tried, and blind, and lame] bring thou in here.

22 *And the servant said—
Lord! what thou didst order, hath been done; and |yet| there is |room|.

23 *And the lord said unto the servant—
Go out among the highways and fences, and compel* them to come in; that my house may be filled.

24 *For, I say unto you—
|Not one of those men who had been invited| shall taste of my supper.

25 *And there were journeying together with him many multitudes; and |turning| he said unto them—

26 If anyone cometh unto me, and hateth not his own father, and mother, and wife, and children, and brothers, and sisters, further also, even his own life* he cannot be my disciple.

27 Whoever beareth not his own cross, and cometh after me cannot be my disciple.*b

28 For |who from among you, wishing to build a tower| doth not first’ sit down and count the cost,—whether he hath sufficient for completion; 29 lest once, |he having laid a foundation, and not being able to finish| |all* who are looking on| should begin to mock at him’, 30 saying—

|This* man| began to build, and was not able to finish!

31 Or |what king| <moving on to encounter |another king| in battle| will not sit down first and take counsel, whether he is able’ [with ten thousand] to meet him who [with twenty thousand] is coming against him. 32 And |if not, by any means| <while he is yet’ afar off| he sendeth [an embassy], and requesteth the conditions of peace.

33 *Thus| therefore <everyone from amongst you, who doth not bid adieu unto all’ his own’ possessions| cannot be my disciple.

34 Good therefore is the salt; but <if even the salt| become tasteless*> wherewith shall it be seasoned? 35 ||Neither for land nor for manure| is it |fit|: |outside| they cast it!*
|He that hath ears to hear| let him hear.

§ 62. The Lost Sheep, Lost Silver, and Lost Son.

Chapter 15.

1 But all the tax-collectors and the sinners were |unto him| drawing near, to be hearkening unto him; 2 and both the Pharisees and the Scribes were murmuring, saying—

|This man|| unto sinners| giveth welcome, and eateth with them.

3 *And he spake unto them this parable, saying—

4 ||What man from among you| <having a hundred* sheep,d and losing, from among them, |one| doth not leave the ninety-nine in the wilderness and go his way after the lost one, until he find it? 5 And |finding it| he layeth it upon his shoulders, | rejoicing; 6 and |coming unto his house| calleth together the friends and the neighbours, saying unto them—

Rejoice with me! because I have found my sheep that was lost!

7 *I say unto you—
|Thus| |joy in heaven|| will there be, over one* sinner repenting, rather than over ninety-nine* righteous persons, who indeed have |no need| of repentance.

8 *Or |what woman| <having |ten pieces of silver*e if she lose one piece| doth not light a lamp, and sweep the house, and seek carefully, until she find it? 9 And |having found it| she calleth together her female friends and neighbours, saying—

Rejoice with me! because I have found the piece of silver which I had lost.

10 Thus| I say unto you there ariseth joy in presence of the messengers of God, over one sinner repenting.

11 *And he said—
|A certain man| had two* sons. 12 And the younger of them said unto the father—

But his elder son was in a field; and <as, in coming, he drew near unto the house> he heard music and dancing,— 25 and, calling near one of the youths, he inquired what these things could be. 27 And [he] said unto him,—

[Thy brother] hath come,
And thy father hath sacrificed the fatted calf,
Because [safe and sound] hath he received him back.

28 But he was provoked to anger, and would not go in. And [his father] [coming out] began to entreat him. 29 But [he] answering said unto his father—

Lo! [so many years as these] do I serve thee,
And [at no time] [a commandment of thine] have I transgressed,—
And [unto me, at no time] hast thou given a kid, that [with my friends] I might make merry;

But <when [this thy son, who had devoured thy living with harlots] came> thou didst sacrifice [for him] [the fatted' calf].

30 But [he] said unto him—

Child! [thou] [always] art [with me],
And [all that is mine] is [thine];

32 But [to make merry and rejoice] there was need,
Because [this thy brother]—
Was [dead] and hath come to life again,
And was lost, and is found.

§ 63. The Prudent Steward.

Chapter 16.

1 And he went on to say [unto his disciples also]—
There was [a certain rich man], who had a steward, and [the same] was accused to him as squandering his goods. 2 And, accosting him, he said unto him—

What is this I hear of thee?
Render the account of thy stewardship, for thou canst no longer be steward.

3 And the steward said within himself—
What shall I do, because my lord taketh away the stewardship from me? [Dig] I cannot: [to beg] I am ashamed.

4 I know what I will do, that <when I am removed out of the stewardship> they may welcome me into their own houses.

14 Now the Pharisees, who were [lovers of money] were hearing all these things, and were openly sneering at him. 15 And he said unto them—

[[Ye]] are they who justify themselves before men,

But [[God]] knoweth your hearts;

16 [The law and the prophets] were until John,—b

20 And [a certain beggar, by name Lazarus] used to be cast near his gate, full of sores, and to long to be fed from the crumbs that fell from the table of the rich man: nay! even [the dogs] used to come and lick his sores. 22 And it came to pass that the beggar died, and was carried away by the messengers, into the bosom of Abraham. § 65. Care, Fidelity, Forgiveness, Faith and Humility enjoined.

Chapter 17.

And he said unto his disciples:—
It is [impossible] that occasions of stumbling should not come,
Notwithstanding, alas! for him through whom they do come²⁰.

It profiteth him, if [a mill-stone] is hung about his neck,
and he is cast into the sea,
Than that he cause [one] of these little ones to stumble.

Be taking heed to yourselves,—
|If thy brother sin> rebuke him,
And <if he repent> forgive him;

<Even if [seven times a day] he sin against thee, and [seven times] turn to thee, saying I repent> thou shalt forgive him.

And the apostles said unto the Lord—
Bestow on us faith!

6 And the Lord said—
|If ye have faith like a grain of mustard-seed>
Ye should be saying unto [this] mulberry-tree—

Be uprooted! and be planted in the sea,—
And it should obey you.

But [who from among you] having [a servant] plowing or keeping sheep, [when he hath come out of the field] will say to him—
|Straightway> come, and recline;—

on the contrary, will not say to him—
Make somewhat ready, that I may dine,—and [girding thyself] be ministering unto me, until I have eaten and drunk; and [after these things] [thou] shalt eat and drink?

Doth he offer thanks unto the servant, because he hath done the things enjoined?

|Thus| [ye also] <when ye have done all' the things enjoined upon you> say—
|Unprofitable servants> are we,—

|What we were bound to do| we have done!

§ 66. Ten Lepers cleansed.

And it came to pass <during the journey unto Jerusalem> that [he] was going through the midst of Samaria and Galilee.
And <as he was entering into a certain village> there met him ten leprous men, who stood still, afar off;

and [they] lifted up a voice, saying—

Jesus! Master! have mercy on us!

And [beholding] he said unto them—

Go your way, and show yourselves unto the priests."
And it came to pass [as they withdrew] they were cleansed.
But [one from among them] <beholding that he was healed> returned, [with a loud voice] glorifying God,— and fell prostrate at his feet, giving him thanks;

and [he] was a Samaritan.
And Jesus, answering, said—

Were not [the ten] cleansed?
|But| [where] are [the nine]?

Have none been found returning to give glory to God, [save this one of another race]?

And he said unto him—
Arise and go thy way: [thy faith] hath saved thee.

²⁰ Mt. xvi. 7.

Lev. xiii. 49; xiv. 2 ff.
§ 67. When and How the Kingdom of God comes.

20 And <being questioned by the Pharisees>
When cometh the kingdom of God?> he answered them and said—
The kingdom of God cometh not with narrow watching;
21 Neither shall they say— Lo, here! or There!
For lo! [the kingdom of God] is [among you].
22 But he said unto the disciples—
There will come days—
When ye will long to see [one of the days of the Son of Man],
And shall not see,
And they will say unto you—Lo there! or Lo here!
Do not [depart, and do not] pursue.
24 For <just as [the lightnings]], [flashing out of the one part under heaven] [unto the other part under heaven] shineth>
||So|| shall be, the Son of Man.
25 But [first] he must needs suffer [many things],
And be rejected by this generation.
26 And <as it came to pass in the days of Noah>
||So|| will it be, even in the days of the Son of Man:
27 They were eating, they were drinking,
They were marrying, they were being given in marriage,—
Until the day that Noah entered into the ark,
And the flood came, and destroyed them all.
28 ||In like manner|| <as it came to pass in the days of Lot>
They were eating, they were drinking,
They were buying, they were selling,
They were planting, they were building,—
29 But <on the day Lot came out from Sodom>
It rained fire and brimstone from heaven, and destroyed them all:—
30 ||According to the same things|| will it be on the day the Son of Man is revealed.
31 ||In that day|| <he that shall be on the housetop, and his utensils in the house>
Let him not go down, to take them away!

And <he that is in the field>
|In like manner| let him not turn unto the things behind.\(^g\)
32 Bear in mind the wife of Lot!
<Whosoever shall seek to make his life\(^b\) his own> shall lose it,
33 But <whosoever shall lose it> shall give it a living birth.
34 I say unto you—
||On the selfsame' night|| there shall be two' men on {one} bed,—
|The one| shall be taken near, and |the other| left behind;
35 There shall be two' women grinding together',—
|The one| shall be taken near, and |the other| left behind.\(^{36}j\)
36 And, answering, they say unto him—
|Where|, Lord?
And |he| said unto them—

1 And he was speaking a parable unto them, as to its being needful for them always’ to pray, and not be faint-hearted; \(^2\) saying—
|A certain judge| there was in a certain city,—

3 And |a widow| there was, in that city;
And she kept coming unto him, saying—
Vindicate me from mine adversary!
4 And he was unwilling for a time;
But |after these things| he said within himself—
<Although |neither God| I reverence, |nor man| I respect>\(^e\)
5 Yet |if only because this widow annoyeth me| I will vindicate her,—
Lest |persistently coming| she wholly wear me out.

   Nevertheless <though [the Son of Man] do come>
   Will he, after all, find the^b faith on the earth?

§ 68. The Pharisee and the Tax-collector.
9 And he spake <even unto certain who were confident in themselves that they were righteous, and were despising the rest> this parable:—
10 [Two men] went up into the temple to pray, [One] a Pharisee, and [the other] a tax-collector.
11 ||[The Pharisee] [taking his stand] these’ things unto himself^a was praying:
   O God! I thank thee, that I am not like the rest of men,— Extortioners, unjust, adulterers,
   Or [even as this’ tax-collector];
12 I fast twice in the week,
   I give a tenth of whatsoever things I gain!
13 But [the tax-collector] afar off standing,—
   Would not so much as lift up [his eyes] unto heaven,
   But kept smiting his own breast, saying—
   O God! be propitiated unto me, the sinner!
14 I tell you—
   This one went down justified, unto his house, [rather than that one];
   Because [every’ one who exalteth himself] shall be abased,
   But [he that abaseth himself] shall be exalted.^c

§ 69. Babes brought to Jesus.
Mt. xix. 13–15; Mk. x. 13–16.
15 And they were bringing unto him [even the babes], that he might touch [them]; but the disciples, seeing it, began to rebuke them.
16 But [Jesus] called them near, saying—
   Suffer [the children] to be coming unto me, and do not hinder them;
   For [of such] is the kingdom of God.

17 Verily I say unto you— [Whosoever shall not welcome the kingdom of God, as a child] in nowise shall enter thereinto.

§ 70. The Rich Ruler: One thing Lacking.
Mt. xix. 16–30; Mk. x. 17–31.
18 And a certain [ruler] questioned him, saying—
   Good Teacher! [by doing what] shall I inherit life age-abiding?
19 But Jesus said to him—
   [Why] callest thou me [good]?
   [None] is good [save one]—||[God]|.
20 [The commandments] thou knowest:—
   Do not commit adultery,
   Do not commit murder,
   Do not steal,
   Do not bear false witness,—
   Honour thy father and mother.^d
21 And [he] said—
   [All these things] have I kept from my youth.
22 And Jesus, hearing, said unto him—
   ||[Yet one thing] unto thee, is lacking:
   [Whatsoever’ thou hast] sell, and distribute unto the destitute,—
   And thou shalt have treasure in {the} heavens; And come! be following me.
23 But [he] hearing these things, became encompassed with grief; for he was rich exceedingly. 24 And Jesus, beholding him, said—
   ||[With what difficulty] shall they who have money, enter into the kingdom of God,
25 For it is [easier] for a camel, to enter [through the eye of a needle],
   Than for [a rich man] to enter [into the kingdom of God].

   [Who, then] can be saved?
27 And [he] said—

   Lo! [we] have left our own possessions, and followed thee!^e

Mt. xx. 17–19; Mk. x. 32–34.

And [taking aside the twelve] he said unto them—
Lo! we are going up unto Jerusalem, and all the things will be finished, which have been written through means of the prophets, respecting the Son of Man;
For he will be delivered up unto the nations, and be mocked, and insulted, and spit upon,— and [having scourgéd him] they will slay him, and [on the third day] will he ||arise||.

Mt. xx. 20–34; Mk. x. 46–52.

And it came to pass <as he was drawing near unto Jericho> [a certain blind man] was sitting beside the road, begging. And <hearing unto a multitude moving along> he enquired, what this might be. And they told him—
Jesus of Nazareth is passing by!
And he cried aloud, saying—
Jesus, son of David! have mercy upon me!
And [they that were going before] began to rebuke him, that he might hold his peace.
But [he] by so much the more was crying out—
O Son of David! have mercy upon me!
And [standing still] Jesus commanded him to be led unto him; and, when he had drawn near, he questioned him—
What desirest thou? I should do unto thee?
And [he] said—
Lord!…that I may recover sight!
And [Jesus] said unto him—
Recover sight! [Thy faith] hath saved thee.
And [instantly] he recovered sight, and began to follow him, glorifying God. And [all’ the people] beholding, gave praise unto God.

§ 73. Zacchæus, the Rich Tax-collector.

Chapter 19.

And [having entered] he was passing through Jericho; and lo! a man, by name called Zacchæus, and [he] was a chief tax-collector, and [he] was rich. And he was seeking to see Jesus, what sort of man he was, and could not for the multitude, because [in stature] he was [small].
And [running forward unto the front] he got up a sycamore-tree, that he might see him; for [by that way] he was about to pass. And <as he came up to the place> [looking up] Jesus said unto him—
Zacchæus! make haste, and come down; For [[to-day]] ||in thy house|| I must needs abide.
And he made haste, and came down, and received him joyfully. And all, when they beheld, began to murmur, saying—
||With a sinful’ man|| hath he gone in to lodge!
But [taking his stand] Zacchæus said unto the Lord—
Lo! ||the half of my possessions||, Lord, [unto the destitute] I give;
And <if [from anyone] I have taken aught by false accusation>
I give back fourfold.
And Jesus said unto him—
[[This day, salvation]] ||unto this house|| hath come,—
For that [he too] is [a son of Abraham];
For the Son of Man came, to seek and to save what was lost.

§ 77. “By what Authority?”

Chapter 20.

1 And it came to pass, on one of the days, <as he was teaching the people in the temple, and telling § 78. The Vineyard and the Husbandmen.

Mt. xxi. 33–46; Mk. xii. 1–12.

9 And he began [unto the people] to be speaking this parable:—

A man planted a vineyard,f

And let it out to husbandmen,

And went from home for a long time.

10 And [in due season] he sent unto the husbandmen [a servant],

That [of the fruit of the vineyard] they might give him;

But [the husbandmen] having beaten him, sent him away empty.

11 And he [further] sent another servant;

But [they] <beating [that one also] and dishonouring him> sent him away empty.

12 And he [further] sent a third;

But [they] bruising [this one also] thrust him out.

13 And the lord of the vineyard said—

What shall I do? I will send my son, the beloved,—

[It may be] that [him] they will respect.

NB: Even now—in spite of all that has happened—the joyful message is not withdrawn.

e Or: “tell me, then.”
f Is. v. 1.
14 But the husbandmen, seeing him, began to deliberate one with another, saying— ||This|| is [the heir! Let us slay him, that [ours] may be [the inheritance].
15 And [thrusting him forth outside the vineyard] they slew him. What, then, will the lord of the vineyard do unto them?
16 He will come, and destroy these husbandmen, and give the vineyard unto others. But [when they heard it] they said—
   Far be it!
17 But [he][ looking at them] said—
   What, then, is this that is written,—
   <A stone which the builders’ rejected>
   [The same] hath become, head of the corner?\(^a\) 18 <Every one who falleth on that’ stone>
   Will be sorely bruised,
   But <on whomsoever it shall fall>
   It will utterly destroy him.

§ 79. Of Tribute to Cæsar.
Mt. xxii. 16–22; Mk. xii. 13–17.
20 And [watching narrowly] they sent forth suborned men, feigning themselves to be [righteous], that they might lay hold of a word of his, so as to deliver him up unto the rule and the authority of the governor.
21 And they questioned him, saying—
   Teacher! we know that [rightly] thou speakest and teachest, and respectest no person, but [in truth] [the way of God] dost teach:
   Is it allowable for us to give [unto Cæsar] tribute, or not?
22 But [observing their' villainy] he said unto them—
23 Shew me a denary. [Of whom] hath it an image and inscription?
   And [they] said—
   Of Cæsar.
24 And [he] said unto them—
   Well then! render the things of Cæsar [unto Cæsar],
   And the things of God [unto God].

25 And they could not lay hold of the saying, before the people; and [marvelling at his answer] they held their peace.

§ 80. Whose Wife, in the Resurrection?
Mt. xxii. 23–33; Mk. xii. 18–27.
27 But there came near certain of the Sadducees, they who say [Resurrection] there is none! and questioned him, \(^b\) saying—
   Teacher! [Moses] wrote for us,
   If one’s brother die, having a wife,
   And [he] be childless>
   That his brother shall take the wife,
   And raise up seed unto his brother.\(^b\)
29 [Seven’ brethren] therefore, there were,—
   And [the first] taking a wife, died childless,
   And [the second,\(^3\) and the third] took her,—
   Yea [likewise] [even the seven];
   They left no children, and died:
30 ||Later on|| [the woman also] died.
31 <The woman, therefore, in the resurrection>
   Of which of them doth she become wife?
   For [the seven] had her to wife.
32 And Jesus said unto them—
   <The sons of this age>
   Marry, and are given in marriage,— 33 But <they who have been accounted worthy
   [That age] to obtain,
   And the resurrection that is from among the dead>
   Neither marry, nor are given in marriage;
   For they cannot [even die any more],—

And first seats in the synagogues,
And first couches in the chief meals,—
Who devour the houses of widows,

Mk. xii. 38–40; chap. xi. 43.

Chapter 21.

1 And looking up he saw the |rich| who were casting their gifts into the treasury,— and he saw a certain poor widow, casting in thither two mites;b and he said—
|Of a truth| I say unto you—
||This destitute widow|| |more than they all| hath cast in;

But ||she|| |out of her deficiency| ||all’ the living that she had|| hath cast in.

§ 84. The Prophecy of the Overthrow of Jerusalem, and of the Coming of the Son of Man.
Mt. xxiv.; Mk. xiii.

And <certain saying, of the temple—
|With beautiful stones and offerings| hath it been adorned!>
he said—

6 <As to these things, which ye are looking upon>
There will come days, in which there will not be left here |stone upon stone| which will not be taken down.
7 And they questioned him, saying—
Teacher! |when| therefore, will these things be?
And |what the sign| when these things shall be about to come to pass?
8 And |he| said—
Be taking heed ye be not deceived;
For |many| will come upon my name, saying—
I am he,—
and—
|The season| hath drawn near!
Do not go after them.
9 But <whenever ye shall hear of wars and revolutions>
Be not terrified,—
For these things |must needs| come to pass first,c
But |not immediately| is the end.
10|Then| said he unto them—
There will rise up,
|Nation against nation,
And kingdom against kingdom;d
11 <As well great earthquakes, as also |in places| pestilences and famines> will there be,
<As well objects of terror, as also |from heaven| great signs> will there be.
12 And before |all these things|
They will thrust upon you their hands, and persecute you,
Delivering you up into the synagogues and prisons,—
When ye have been led away before kings and governors, for the sake of my name;
But it shall turn out to you for a witness.
14 Settle, then, in your hearts, not to be studying beforehand, how to make defence;
15 For |I| will give you a mouth and wisdom, which one-and-all’ who are setting themselves against you, shall be unable to withstand or gainsay.
16 But ye will be delivered up |even by parents, and brethren, and kinsfolk, and friends|,
And they will put to death some from among you;

Observe ye, that [near] is the kingdom of God!
|Verily| I say unto you—
In nowise shall this generation pass away, Until [all things] shall happen:
|Heaven and earth| will pass away,
But [my word] in nowise will pass away.
But be taking heed unto yourselves,
Lest once your hearts be made heavy—
With debauch and drunkenness and anxieties about livelihood,
And that day come upon you suddenly [as a snare],—

43 And |arising from prayer| he came unto his of their grief; 46 and he said unto them—

Why are ye slumbering?
Arise! and be praying, lest ye enter into temptation.

§ 89. The Betrayal.
Mt. xxvi. 47–56; Mk. xiv. 43–52; Jn. xviii. 1–12.
47 ||While yet’ he was speaking| lo! a multitude; and
|he that was called Judas, one of the twelve| was leading them on,—and he drew near unto Jesus, to kiss him. 48 But |Jesus| said to him—
Judas! ||with a kiss|| |the Son of Man| dost thou deliver up?
49 And they who were about him |seeing what would be| said—
Lord! shall we smite with the sword?
50 And a certain one from among them smote |the
High-priest’s| servant, and took off his right ear. 51
But Jesus, answering, said—
Let be—as long as this!… b
And |touching the ear| he healed him.
52 And Jesus said unto the High-priests, and Captains of the temple, and Elders, |who had come against him—
||As against a robber|| have ye come out |with swords and clubs|?
53 |Daily| was I with you, in the temple, and yet ye stretched not forth your hands against me!…

Mt. xxvi. 57, 58, 69–75; Mk. xiv. 53, 54, 66–72;
Jn. xviii. 15–18, 25–27.

54 And [having arrested him] they led him away, and took him into the house of the High-priest; and [Peter] was following afar.
And [they having kindled up a fire in the midst of the court, and taken seats together] Peter was for sitting among them. 56 But  said—
||This one also] was [with him].
57 But [he] denied, saying—
I know him not, woman!
58 And ||after a little|| [another] beholding him, said—
||Thou also] art [from among them].
But [Peter] said—
Man! I am not.
59 And ||about one hour having passed|| [a certain other] began stoutly to insist, saying—
||Of a truth|| [this one also] was with' him; for indeed he is [a Galilæan].
60 But Peter said—
Man! I know not what thou art saying!
And [instantly' while yet' he was speaking] a cock crew. 61 And the Lord turned, and looked at Peter; and Peter was put in mind of the declaration of the Lord, how he had said to him—
<Before [a cock] crow this day>
Thou wilt deny me thrice!
62 {And [going forth outside] he wept bitterly.}

§ 91. Jesus is mocked and taken before the Jewish Council.
Mt. xxvi. 57–68; Mk. xiv. 53–65; Jn. xviii. 24.

63 And [the men who held him bound] kept mocking him, with blows; 64 and [blindfolding him] questioned him, saying—Prophesy! which is he that smote thee?
65 And [many other things, with profane speech] were they saying unto him.
66 And [when it became day] the Eldership of the people was gathered together—both High-priests and Scribes,—and they led him away into their high-council, saying—
<If thou] art the Christ> tell us!
67 But he said unto them—

<If I should tell [you] in nowise would ye believe,
68 And <if I should put questions> in nowise would ye answer;
69 But [henceforth] shall the Son of Man be seated on the right hand of the power of God.2
70 And they all said—
[Thou] then, art the Son of God?
And [he] unto them' said—
[Ye] say [it],—because [I] am.6
71 And [they] said—
What [further] need have we [of witness]? [We ourselves] have heard it from his mouth.

§ 92. Jesus before Pilate and Herod.
Mt. xxvii. 2, 11–26; Mk. xv. 1–15;
Jn. xviii. 28–33, 38–40.

Chapter 23.

1 And one and all’ the throng of them [arising] led him unto Pilate. 2 And they began to accuse him, saying—
||This one found we, perverting our nation, and forbidding to give [tribute unto Caesar],—and affirming himself to be [an anointed king].
3 And [Pilate] questioned him, saying—
Art [thou] the king of the Jews?
And [he] answering him, said—
[Thou] sayest.4
4 And [Pilate] said unto the High-priests and the multitudes, [Nothing] find I, worthy of blame, in this man.
5 But [they] began to be urgent, saying—
He is stirring up the people, teaching along all’ Judæa, even beginning from Galilæe unto this place.
6 <Now [Pilate] hearing [that]> questioned whether the man was [a Galilæan]. 7 And <getting to know that he was of the jurisdiction of Herod> he sent him back unto Herod, [he also] being in Jerusalem in these' days.
8 And [Herod] seeing Jesus, rejoiced exceedingly; for he had been [a considerable number of times] wishing to see him,—because he had heard concerning him, and was hoping [some sign] to behold [by him] brought to pass.
9 And he went on to question him in a good many words; but [he] answered him [nothing].

4 Or (WH): “Dost [thou] say it?”

---

a Dan. vii. 13; Ps. cx. 1 ff.
b Or (WH): “Say [ye] that I am?”
And the High-priests and the Scribes stood vehemently accusing him. And Herod with his soldiery threw about him a gorgeous robe, and sent him back unto Pilate.

And they became friends—both Herod and Pilate—on the self-same day, one with another; for they had previously been at enmity between themselves.

And [Pilate] calling together the High-priests, and the Rulers, and the people said unto them—

Ye brought unto me this man, as one turning away the people, and lo! in your presence examining him, found nothing in this man worthy of blame, in respect of the things whereof ye were making accusation against him. Nay! nor Herod; for he hath sent him back unto you,—and lo! nothing worthy of death hath been done by him. So, then, chastising him I will release him. But they cried aloud, with the whole throng, saying—

Away with this man! and release unto us Barabbas:—

who indeed because of a certain revolt which had occurred in the city, and of murder had been thrown into prison.

[Again] however, [Pilate] called out unto them, wishing to release Jesus. But [they] called out in return, saying—Crucify! crucify him!

But [he, the third time] said unto them—

Why? what base thing hath this man done? [Nothing worthy of death] found I in him. [Chastising him, then] I will release him!

But they became urgent with loud voices, claiming to have him crucified; and their voices began to prevail.

And [Pilate] consented, that their request should be granted; and released him who [for revolt and murder] had been cast into prison, whom they claimed,—whereas [Jesus] delivered he up unto their will.

§ 93. The Crucifixion.

Mt. xxvii. 27–56; Mk. xv. 16–41; Jn. xix. 16–37.

And [as they led him away] they laid hold of a certain Simon, a Cyrenian, coming from the country,—they laid on him the cross, that he might bear it after Jesus.

And there was following him a great throng of the people, and of women, who were smiting themselves and lamenting him. But, turning towards them, Jesus said—

Daughters of Jerusalem! Do not weep for me; But [for yourselves] be weeping, and for your children.

For lo! days are coming, in which they will say—

Happy the barren! Even the wombs that never bare, And the breasts that never gave suck.

[Then] will they begin to say—

Unto the mountains, Fall upon us! And unto the hills, Cover us!

Because if in moist wood these things they are doing,—

In [the dry] what shall happen?

And there were being led, two other evil-doers also, to be lifted up. And when they came into the place which was called Skull> there they crucified him; and the evil-doers, one indeed on the right hand, and the other on the left. [[But Jesus] was saying—

Father! forgive them; For they know not what they do.]]

And [when they were parting his garments] they cast lots. And the people were standing, looking on. But the rulers were sneering, saying—

Others he saved, let him save himself,— If [this] is [the Christ of God, the Chosen].

Moreover the soldiers also mocked him,—coming near, offering vinegar unto him, and saying—

<If thou art the King of the Jews> save thyself.

Now there was an inscription also, over him—

[THE KING OF THE JEWS] this!

[WH omit this verse.]

And [one of the suspended’ evil-doers] began to defame him—

Art not ||thou|| the Christ?

Save thyself and us!

But the other, a answering, rebuked him, and said—

Neither fearest ||thou|| [God], in that thou art [in the same’ judgment]?

And [well] indeed, justly,—for |things worthy of what we have done| are we duly receiving,

But [this’ man] [nothing amiss] hath done.

And he went on to say—

Jesus! remember me, whenoever thou shalt come into thy kingdom.

And he said unto him—

[Verily] I say unto thee this day:

[With me] shalt thou be in Paradise.

And it was already about the sixth hour, and [darkness] came upon the whole’ land, until the ninth hour,— the sun failing; and the veil of the temple was rent in the midst.

And [calling out with a loud voice] Jesus said—

Father! ||into thy hands|| I commend my spirit. d

And [this] saying, he ceased to breathe.

And the centurion, beholding that which came to pass, began to glorify God, saying—

||In very deed|| [this man] was [righteous].

And ||all the multitudes who had been drawn together unto this spectacle| <having looked upon the things that came to pass> |smiting their breasts| began to return. 49 But all’ they who were acquainted with him, were standing afar off, e women also who had followed with him from Galilee,—beholding these things.

§ 94. The Burial.

Mt. xxvii. 57–61; Mk. xv. 42–47; Jn. xix. 38, 42.

And lo!  52 |the same| going unto Pilate, claimed the body of Jesus. 53 And, taking it down, he wrapped it in a fine Indian cloth, and laid him in a tomb hewn in stone,—where no one as yet was lying.

And it was a day of preparation, and ||a Sabbath| was about to dawn. 55 And the women, they who had come out of Galilee with him, [following after] observed the tomb, and how his body was laid. 56 And, returning, they made ready spices and perfumes.

§ 95. The Resurrection.

1 but ||on the first day of the week, i at early dawn|| unto the tomb| came they, bringing the spices which they had prepared'. 2 And they found the stone, rolled away from the tomb; 3 but [when they entered] they found not the body [||of the Lord’ Jesus]]. 4 And it came to pass <while they were perplexing themselves concerning this> that lo! [two men] stood near them, in dazzling j raiment. 5 And <they becoming afraid’, and bending their faces unto the ground> they said unto them—

Why seek ye the Living One with the dead?

[[He is not here, but hath arisen:]]

Saying |as to the Son of Man|

That he must needs be delivered up into the hands of sinful men, k Chap. xviii. 31–33.

And lo! two from among them, on the selfsame day, were journeying unto a village, distant sixty furlongs from Jerusalem, the name of which was Emmaus; and they were conversing one with another, about all these things which had occurred. And it came to pass, as they were conversing and reasoning together, that Jesus himself (drawing near) was journeying with them; but their eyes were held, so as not to know him.

And he said unto them—

What are these things which ye are debating one with another, as ye walk along?

And they came to a stand, sad in countenance.

But one, by name Cleopas, answering, said unto him—

Art thou lodging alone in Jerusalem, and knowest not the things which have come to pass therein in these days?

And he said unto them—

What things?

And they said unto him—

The things concerning Jesus the Nazarene, who became a prophet, mighty in work and word, before God and all the people:

In what way also our High-priests and Rulers delivered him up unto a sentence of death, and crucified him.

We however, were hoping that he was the one destined to redeem Israel!

But indeed, even with all these things, this brings on the third day, since these things happened:

Nay! certain women also, from amongst us, have made us beside ourselves, in that they went early unto the tomb; and not finding his body, came, saying—that a vision of messengers they had seen, who were afforning him to be alive.

And certain of them who were with us departed unto the tomb, and found so, according as the women had said; but they saw not.

And said unto them—

O thoughtless ones! and slow in heart to rest your faith upon all things which the prophets have spoken:

Was it not needful for the Christ these very things to suffer, and to enter into his glory?

And beginning from Moses, and from all the prophets, he thoroughly explained to them, in all the Scriptures, the things concerning himself.

And they drew near unto the village, whither they were journeying; and made for journeying further. And they constrained him, saying—

Abide with us; because it is towards evening, and the day hath already declined.

And he went in to abide with them.

And it came to pass, when he reclined with them, taking the loaf he blessed, and breaking it, went on to give unto them. And their eyes were opened, and they knew him; and vanished from them. And they said one to another—

Was not our heart burning, as he was speaking to us in the way, as he was opening to us the Scriptures?

And arising in that very hour they returned unto Jerusalem, and found the eleven, and them who were with them.

Saying—

In truth the Lord hath arisen, and hath appeared unto Simon!

And went on to relate the things that had passed on the journey, and how he was made known unto them in the breaking of the loaf.

Now as these very things they were telling, he himself stood in their midst, and saith unto them—

Peace to you!!

But being agitated and becoming afraid they began to imagine, that upon a spirit they were looking. And he said unto them—

Why are ye troubled? and for what cause do reasonings arise in your hearts?

See my hands, and my feet,—that it is I myself;:

And they gave unto him a piece of boiled fish;

g Or: “every man coming into the world.” The arrangement in the text=“It (namely, the real light that enlighteneth every man) was coming into the world”; and seems more correct as leading up to a climax: He was coming...he came! (ver. 11).
Ver. 10, in that view, becomes parenthesis: “He was coming”
(ver. 9); “nay, in some deep sense, he was already in the world” (ver. 10); nevertheless, in the simple, historical sense, “into his own possessions, he openly came” (ver. 11).

h “The word paralambanomai, to receive to one’s house, perfectly expresses the nature of the welcome which the

If the abode prepared had opened in this way, it would immediately have become the starting point for the conquest of the world (Ps. cx. 2, 3). Instead, an unheard of event took place.”—Godet.

§ 2. The Witness of John the Forerunner.

19 And [this] is the witness of John, when the Jews sent forth unto him, out of Jerusalem, priests and Levites,—that they might question him—
Who art [thou]?
20 And he confessed, and did not deny,—and he confessed—
[thou] art not [the Christ];
21 and they questioned him—
What then? Art [thou] Elijah?
and he saith—
I am not;
[The prophet] art [thou]?
and he answered—
No!
22 So they said unto him—
[Who] art thou?—that an answer we may give, unto them who sent us,—
What sayest thou [concerning thyself]?
23 He said—
[thou] art a Voice, of one crying aloud:—
[In the desert] make ye straight, the way of the Lord; according as said Isaiah the prophet.
24 And they had been sent forth from among the Pharisees: and they questioned him, and said unto him—
Why, then, dost thou immerse,—if [thou] art not [the Christ], nor [Elijah], nor [the Prophet]?
25 John answered them, saying—
[thou] immerse [in water]. [In the midst of you] standeth one, whom [ye] know not;—
26 after me] coming:—Of whom [thou] art not worthy that I should unloose the thong of the sandal.
27 These things] [in Bethany] came to pass, beyond the Jordan, where John was, immersing.
28 On the morrow] he beholdeth Jesus, coming unto him, and saith—
See! the Lamb of God, who taketh away the sin of the world.
29 [This] is he, of whom [thou] said—
[After me] cometh a man, Who [before me] hath advanced,
Because [my Chief] was he.
And [thou] knew him not,
But <that he might be manifested unto Israel> [therefore] came [thou] [in water] immersing.
30 And John bare witness, saying—
I have gazed upon the Spirit, descending like a dove, out of heaven,—and it abode upon him.
31 And [thou] knew him not,—
But <that he sent me to immerse in water> [he] [unto me] said—
<Upon whomsoever thou shalt see the Spirit descending and abiding upon him> [the same] is he that immerseth in Holy Spirit.
32 [thou therefor] have seen, and borne witness—
That [this] is [the Son of God].

§ 3. The First Disciples of Jesus.

33 On the morrow, again was John standing, and [from among his disciples] [two]; and, looking at Jesus, he saith—
See! the Lamb of God!
34 and the two disciples hearkened unto him speaking, and they followed Jesus. But Jesus, turning, and looking at them following, saith unto them—
What seek ye?
35 And [they] said unto him—
Rabbi! which meaneth, when translated, Teacher Where abidest thou?
36 He saith unto them—
Be coming, and ye shall see.
They came, therefore, and saw where he abode, and with him they abode that day. It was about the tenth [hour].
37 One of the two that heard from John and followed him was Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter; the same findeth, first, his own brother Simon, and saith unto him—
We have found the Messiah! which is, when translated, Anointed. He led him unto Jesus. Jesus, looking at him, said—
[Thou] art Simon, the son of John,— [Thou] shalt be called, Cephas; which is to be translated, Peter.
And [on the morrow] he desired to go forth into Galilee. And Jesus findeth Philip, and saith unto him—

Be following me!

Now Philip was from Bethsaida, of the city of Andrew and Peter. [Philip] findeth [Nathanael] and saith unto him—

<His, of whom wrote Moses in the law, and the Prophets> have we found.—Jesus, son of Joseph, him from Nazareth!

And Nathanael said unto him—

||Out of Nazareth|| can any good thing come? Philip saith unto him—

Come, and see!

Jesus saw Nathanael coming unto him, and saith concerning him—

See! [truly] an Israelite, in whom is no [guile].

Nathanael saith unto him—

||Whence|| dost thou [know] me? Jesus answered, and said unto him—

<Before Philip called thee,—when thou wast under the fig-tree> I saw thee.

Nathanael answered him—

Rabbi! ||thou| art [the Son of God]; ||Thou| art [King] of Israel.

Jesus answered, and said unto him—

<Because I said unto thee I saw thee under the fig-tree> believest thou?

|A greater thing than these| shalt thou see!

And he saith unto him—

||Verily, verily|| I say unto you: Ye shall see heaven—when set open, And [the messengers7 of God] ascending and descending7 unto| the Son of Man.

§ 4. The Marriage in Cana—First Sign.

Chapter 2.

1 And ||on the third day|| [a marriage] took place, in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was’ there;4—2 and Jesus also was invited, with his disciples, unto the marriage. 3 And [wine falling short] the mother of Jesus saith unto him—

|Wine| have they none!

4 And Jesus saith unto her—

What part can I take with thee, O woman?e ||Not yet|| hath come [mine hour].

5 His mother saith unto them who are ministering—

<Whatever he may say to you> do!

6 Now there were there, six stone’ water-vessels, placed [according to the purification of the Jews]; holding each, two or three measures.

7 Jesus saith unto them—

Fill the vessels with water.

And they filled them up to the brim. 8 And he saith unto them—

Draw out now, and be bearing unto the master of the feast.

And they bare. 9 And <when the master of the feast had tasted the water> now made [wine], and knew not whence it was,—though [they who were ministering] knew, even they who had drawn out the water> the master accosted the bridegroom, 10

and saith unto him—

||Every’ man|| [first] the good’ wine setteth out; And <when they had been well-supplied> [the inferior];—

||Thou|| hast kept the good’ wine until [even now].

11|This, beginning of his signs| did Jesus, in Cana of Galilee, and manifested his glory; and his disciples believed on him.

§ 5. The First Cleansing of the Temple.

12|After this| he came down into Capernaum,—he| and his mother and brethren, and his disciples; and [there] they abode, not many’ days. 13 And [near] was the passover of the Jews; and [Jesus] went up unto Jerusalem. 14 And he found, in the temple, them that were selling oxen and sheep and doves, also the money-changers sitting. 15 And <making a scourge out of rushes> [all of them] thrust he forth out of the temple, both the sheep and the oxen; and [the money-changers’ small coins] poured he forth, and [the tables] he overturned; 16 and unto them who were selling [the doves] he said—

Take these things hence!

d As not needing to be “called.”

e The mother being already there (ver. 1), probably as relative or near friend, had naturally accepted a measure of providing care. If so, Jesus hereby merely excuses himself from being yoked in as her helper, and yet may and must have declined her guidance with respectful tenderness.

18The Jews therefore answered, and said unto him—[What sign] dost thou point out to us, in that these things thou dost?

19Jesus answered, and said unto them—
   Take down this shrine; And [in three’ days] will I raise it.d

20The Jews, therefore, said—
   [In forty’ and six’ years] was this shrinee built.
   And [thou][ in three’ days] wilt raise it!

21But [he] was speaking concerning the shrine of his body. 22 <When, therefore, he had been raised from among the dead> his disciples remembered, that [this] he had been saying; and they believed in the Scripture, and in the word which Jesus had spoken.

23 Now <when he was in Jerusalem, during the passover, during the feast> [many] believed on his name, viewing his signs which he was doing.

24|Jesus himself|| however, was not trusting himself unto them, by reason of his understanding them all, 25
   and because he had |no need| that anyone should bear witness concerning man; for ||he|| understood what was in man.

Chapter 3.

1 There was’ however, a man from among the Pharisees, [Nicodemus] his name,—ruler of the Jews. 2 [The same] came unto him, by night, and said unto him—
   Rabbi! we know that [from God] thou hast come,
   [a teacher];
   For [no one] can be doing [these’ signs] which

3 Jesus answered, and said unto him—
   [Verily, verily] I say unto thee:
   <Except one be born from above>fe
   He cannot see the kingdom of God.

4 Nicodemus saith unto him—
   [How] can a man be born, when he is |old|?

Can he <into the womb of his mother, a second time> enter, and be born?

5 Jesus answered—
   ||Verily, verily|| I say unto thee:
   <Except one be born of water and spirit>
   He cannot enter into the kingdom of God.

6 ||That which hath been born of the flesh|| is’
   [flesh];
   And ||that which hath been born of the spirit||
   is’ [spirit].

7 Do not marvel, that I said unto thee:
   Ye must needs be born from above.

8 ||The spirit|| [where it pleaseth] doth breathe,
   And [the sound thereof] thou hearest;
   But knowest not, whence it cometh and whither it goeth:
   [Thus] is every’ one who hath been born of the spirit.

9 Nicodemus answered, and said unto him—
   [How] can these things [come about]?

10 Jesus answered, and said unto him—
   Art [thou] the teacher of Israel, and [these things] knowest not?

11 ||Verily, verily|| I say unto thee:
   [What we know] we speak,
   And [of what we have seen] we bear witness,—
   And [our witness] ye receive not.

12 <If [the earthly things] I told you, and ye believe not>
   How <if I should tell you the heavenly things> will ye believe?

13 And [no one] hath ascended into heaven,
   Save he that |out of heaven| descended,—g
   ||The Son of Man||.

14 And <just as [Moses] lifted up the serpent in the desert>
   ||So|| must [the Son of Man] be lifted up,—
   That [whosoever believeth in him]h
   May have life age-abiding. i

16 For God |so’ loved| the world,
   That [his] Only Begotten Son he gave,—
   That [whosoever’ believeth on him]
   Might not perish,
   But have life age-abiding.

17 For God [sent not] his Son into the world,
   That he might judge the world,

||[Because he hath not believed on the name of the Only’ Begotten’ Son of God]].

19 And [this] is the judgment:
That [the light] hath come into the world,— And men loved, rather’ the darkness than the light,
For [wicked] were their [works].

20 For [whosoever’ doth practise corrupt’ things]| Hatcheth the light
And cometh not unto the light,
Lest his works should be reproved;

21 But [he that doeth the truth] Cometh unto the light, That his works may be [made manifest], That [in God] have they been wrought.

§ 7. Further Testimony of the Forerunner, as the Bridegroom’s Friend.

22|After these things| came Jesus, and his disciples, into the Judæan’ land; and [there] was he tarrying with them, and immersing. 23 And John also was immersing in Ænon, near to Salim, because [many waters] were there; and they were coming, and being immersed;—24 for [not yet] had John been cast into prison.

25|There arose, therefore, a questioning, from among the disciples of John, with a Jew,—concerning purification. 26 And they came unto John, and said unto him—
Rabbi! <he who was with thee beyond the Jordan, unto whom [thou] hast borne witness> see! [the same] is immersing; and [all] are coming unto him.

27|John answered, and said—
A man can receive [nothing], except it have been given him out of heaven.

28 ||[Ye yourselves]| [unto me] bear witness, that |[I]|b said—
||[I] am not the Christ;

29 but—
I am sent before ||[That One].d
||[He that hath the bride] is [bridegroom];
But <the friend of the bridegroom, who standeth by and hearkeneth unto him> |greatly| rejoiceth, by reason of the voice of the bridegroom.
|This’, my’ joy| therefore, is fulfilled.

30 ||[That One] it behoveth to increase,— But ||[me] to decrease.

unto a city of Samaria, called Sychar, near the parcel of ground which Jacob gave unto Joseph his son. Now Jacob’s fountain was there. [Jesus], therefore, <having become toil-worn with the journey> was sitting thus, upon the fountain. It was about the sixth hour. There cometh a woman of Samaria to draw water. Jesus saith unto her—

Give me to drink!

for [his disciples] had gone away into the city, that [food] they might buy. The Samaritan woman, therefore, saith unto him—

How dost thou know me? and who art thou? [for Jews] have no dealings with [Samaritans].

Jesus answered, and said unto her—

<If thou hast known the free gift of God, and who it is that is saying unto thee, Give me to drink> [thou] wouldst have asked him’t, and he would have given thee living’ water.

She saith unto him—

Sir! not even a bucket hast thou,—and [the well] is [deep];—[Whence] then, hast thou the living’ water?

Art [thou] greater’ than [our father Jacob], who gave us the well,—and [himself] out of it drank, and his sons, and his flocks?

Jesus answered, and said unto her—

<Whosoever drinketh of this water> Will thirst [again];

But <whosoever shall drink of the water which [ll] will give him> In nowise shall thirst, unto times age-abiding,—

But <the water which I will give him> Shall become, within him, [a fountain of water], [Springing up unto life age-abiding].

The woman saith unto him—

Sir! give me this’ water, that I thirst not, neither being come hither to draw.

He saith unto her—

Go, call thy husband, and come hither!

The woman answered, and said {unto him}—

I have no husband.

Jesus saith unto her—

[Well] saidst thou, [A husband] I have not; for [five’ husbands] thou hast had,—and [now] he whom thou hast, is not thy [husband]:

[This’ true thing] hast thou spoken.

The woman saith unto him—

Sir! I perceive that [a prophet] art [thou]:—

[Our fathers] [in this mountain] worshipped; And [ye] say, that [in Jerusalem] is the place, where [to worship] it behoveth.

Jesus saith unto her—

Believe me, woman!

There cometh an hour, when <neither in this mountain, nor yet in Jerusalem> shall ye worship the Father.

[Ye] worship, that which ye know not; [We] worship, that which we know:

Because [salvation] is [of the Jews].

But there cometh an hour, and [now] is’,—

When [the real’ worshippers] shall worship the Father in spirit and truth;

For [even the Father] is seeking [such as these] as his worshippers.

God is [spirit];

And [they that worship him] [In spirit and truth] must needs worship.

The woman saith unto him—

I know that [Messiah] cometh, who is called Christ,— <Whensoever [he] shall come> he will tell us [everything].

Jesus saith unto her—

[If, that speak unto thee] am he.

And [hereupon] came his disciples, and they began to marvel, that [with a woman] he was talking. [No one] however, said—

What seekest thou? or— Why talkest thou with her?

The woman, therefore, left her water-vessel, and went away into the city, and saith unto the men—

Come! see a man, that told me all things that ever I did:

Can [this] be [the Christ]?

They came forth out of the city, and were coming unto him.

In the meantime] the disciples were requesting him, saying—

Rabbi! eat.

But [he] said unto them—

[ll] have [food] to eat, of which [ye] know not.

The disciples, therefore, began to say, one to another—

---

a Or: “bounty.”
Hath anyone brought him, to eat?

34 Jesus saith unto them—
||My food|| is, that I should do the will of him that sent me, and complete [his work].

35 Are [ye] not saying—
<Yet’ [a fourmonth] it is> and [the harvest] cometh?

36 Lo! I say unto you—
Lift up your eyes, and gaze at the fields,—
That [white] are they unto [harvest].

37 For [herein] doth the saying [hold good],—
|One| is the sower,
And [another] is the reaper.a

38 ||I| sent you forth, to be reaping that whereon
||ye| have not toiled:
|Others| have toiled,
And ||ye| into their toil have entered.

39 And ||of that city|| [many] believed on him—of the Samaritans,—by reason of the word of the woman in bearing witness—

He told me all things that ever I did.

40 <When, therefore, the Samaritans came unto him> they went on to request him to abide with them; and he abode there two’ days. 41 And ||many’ more|| believed by reason of his discourse; 42 and ||unto the woman| began to say—

||Yesterday, at the seventh hour|| the fever left him.

8 Jesus saith unto him—

Rise! take up thy couch, and be walking.

9 And [straightway] the man was made well and took up his couch, and began to walk. Now it was Sabbath, on that’ day. 10 The Jews, therefore, were saying, unto him who had been cured—

It is [Sabbath]; and it is not allowable for thee to take up thy couch:—

11 who however answered them—

<He that made me well> [him] unto me said—

Take up thy couch, and be walking.

12 They questioned him—

Who is the man that said unto thee, Take up [thy couch], and be walking?

13 But [the healed one] knew not [who] it was; for [Jesus] had turned aside, [a multitude] being in the place. 4 ||After these things|| Jesus findeth him, in the temple, and said unto him—

See! thou hast hast become [well]:—

[No more] be committing sin, lest [some worse thing] do thee’ befall.

15 The man went away, and told the Jews, that it was [Jesus] who had made him well.

16 And [on this account] were the Jews persecuting Jesus, because [these things] he had been doing [on Sabbath]. 17 But [he] answered them—

[My Father] [until even now]| is working;

And [I]| am working.|b

18 ||On this account|| therefore [the rather] were the Jews seeking to slay him,—because [not only was he breaking the Sabbath> but was calling God [his own Father]], making [himself] [equal] with [God].

19 Jesus, therefore, answered, and went on to say unto them—

||Verily, verily|| I say unto you:

The Son cannot be doing, of himself, [a single thing],—

Save anything he may see [the Father] doing; For <whatsoever [he] may be doing>

[These things]| the Son also, in like manner| doeth.

20 For [the Father] dearly loveth the Son,

And [all things] pointeth out to him, which [himself] is doing;

And [greater works than these] will he point out to him,

That [ye] may marvel.

21 For <just as the Father waketh up the dead, and quickeneth them>

[In like manner] [the Son also] [whom he pleaseth] doth quicken."c

22 For neither doth [the Father] judge anyone,—

But [all the judging]| hath given unto the Son:

That [all] may honour the Son,

Just as they honour the Father:

<He that doth not honour the Son>

Doth not, in fact, honour the Father who sent him.5

24 ||Verily, verily|| I say unto you:

<He that heareth [my word], and believeth in him that sent me>

Hath life age-abiding,

And [into judgment] cometh not,

But hath passed over, out of death into life.

25 ||Verily, verily|| I say unto you:

There cometh an hour, and now is,

When [the dead] shall hearken unto the voice of the Son of God,

And [they who have hearkened] shall live.

26 For <just as [the Father] hath life [in himself]>

[In like manner] [unto the Son also] hath he given, [life] to have, [in himself];

27 And [authority]| hath he given him, to be executing [judgment],—

Because |Son of Man| is he!

28 Do not be marvelling at this:

Because there come an hour, in which [all they in the tombs] shall hearken unto his voice, 29 and shall come forth,—

<They who [the good things] have done>

Unto a resurrection [of life];

But <they who the corrupt things] have practised>

Unto a resurrection [of judgment].

Chapter 6.

1 After these things|| Jesus went away across the sea of Galilee, that is, of Tiberias; 2 and there was following him a great multitude, because they had been viewing the signs which he did upon such as were sick. 3 But Jesus had gone up into the mountain, and |there| was sitting with his disciples. 4 Now the passover was near, the feast of the Jews. 5 So then Jesus, <lifting up his eyes, and beholding that a great multitude was coming unto him> saith unto Philip—

Whence are we to buy loaves, that these may eat?

6 But |this| he was saying, to test him; for |he himself| knew, what he was about to do.

7 Philip answered him—

||Two hundred denaries-worth of loaves|| are not sufficient for them, that ||each one|| may take |a little.

8 One from among his disciples, Andrew, the brother of Simon Peter, saith unto him—

9 There is a little lad here, that hath five' barley loaves, and two' small fishes,—

8 But ||these||—what are they |for such numbers|?

10 Jesus said—

Make the people recline.
Now there was much grass in the place. So the men reclined, to the number of about five
Jesus therefore took the loaves, and [giving thanks] went on distributing unto them that reclined; [in like manner] of the small fishes also: as much as they were wishing. 12 And [when they were well-filled] he saith unto his disciples—

Gather up the broken pieces left over, that nothing be lost.

So they gathered them up, and filled twelve baskets, with broken pieces out of the five loaves,—which were left over by them who had eaten. 14 [The people] therefore, [seeing what signs he wrought] began to say—

[This] is, of a truth, the prophet who was to come into the world.

§ 12. Jesus walks on the Lake.
Mt. xiv. 22–36; Mk. vi. 45–56.

[Jesus] therefore <getting to know> that they were about to come, and seize him, that they might make him king> retired again into the mountain [himself, alone]. 16 But [when evening came] his disciples went down unto the sea; 17 and [entering into a boat] were going across the sea into Capernaum. And [dark, already] had it become, and [not yet] had Jesus reached them; 18 moreover the sea <by reason of a great wind that blew> was rising high. 19 <Having therefore rowed about twenty-five or thirty furlongs> they observe Jesus, walking upon the sea, and [near the boat] coming; and they were affrighted.

But [he] saith unto them—

It is [I]: be not affrighted!

They were willing, therefore, to receive him into the boat; and [straightway] the boat was at land, whither they had been slowly going.

[On the morrow] [the multitude that was standing on the other side of the sea] saw that there was not [another small-boat] there, save one,—and that Jesus entered not [along with his disciples] into the boat, but that [alone] his disciples departed:—

howbeit there came two boats out of Tiberias, near the place where they did eat the bread, after the Lord had given thanks:—

<When, therefore, the multitude saw, that [Jesus] was not there, nor yet his disciples> [they themselves] got into the small boats, and came unto Capernaum, seeking Jesus; 25 and <finding him on the other side of the sea> they said unto him—

Rabbi! [when] camest thou [hither]?

Jesus answered them, and said—

[Verily, verily] I say unto you:

Ye seek me,

Not because ye saw signs,

But because ye did eat of the loaves and were filled.

Be working,

Not for the food that perisheth,

But for the food that endureth unto life age-abiding,—

Which [the Son of Man] unto you, will give;

For upon [the same] hath the Father [even God] set his seal.

They said, therefore, unto him—

What are we to do, that we may be working the works of God?

Jesus answered, and said unto them—

[This] is the work of God:

That ye believe on him whom [he] hath sent forth.

They said, therefore, unto him—

What, then, art thou doing [by way of sign],

That we may see, and believe in thee:

What art thou working?

[Our fathers] did eat [the manna] in the desert,—

Just as it is written:

[Bread out of heaven] he gave them to eat.

Jesus said unto them—

[Verily, verily] I say unto you:

[Not Moses] gave you the bread out of heaven;

But [my Father] giveth you the real’ bread out of heaven.

For [the bread of God] is

That which is coming down out of heaven,

And giving [life] unto the world.

They said, therefore, unto him—

Sir! [evermore] give us this bread.

Jesus said unto them—

[I] am the bread of life:

[He that cometh unto me] in nowise shall hunger,

And [he that believeth on me] in nowise shall thirst [any more].

|Unto me| will have come,
And him that cometh unto me
In nowise will I cast out,—

38 Because I have come down from heaven,—
Not that I should be doing my own will,
But the will of him that sent me.

39 And this is the will of him that sent me,
That <of all> that which he hath given me>

40 For this is the will of my Father,
That <every one> that vieweth the Son,

And this should raise him up, at the last day.

41 The Jews, therefore, began to murmur concerning him, because he said—

How is it then, that he now saith:

42 Jesus answered, and said unto them—
Be not murmuring, one with another:

43 It is written in the prophets,—
And they shall be, all, the instructed of God:

52 The Jews, therefore, began to strive one with another, saying—
How can this one |give his flesh to eat?

||Verily, verily|| I say unto you—
|Except ye eat the flesh of the Son of Man, and drink his blood|—
Ye have not life within yourselves.

54 He that feedeth upon my flesh,

Hath life age-abiding,
And will raise him up at the last day;

55 For |my flesh| is |true| food,
And |my blood| is |true| drink:

56 <He that feedeth upon my flesh,
And drinketh my blood>

And || in him’.

57 <Just as the living’ Father sent me,—
And I live by reason of the Father>

58 |This is the bread, which |out of heaven| came down:—
Not just as your fathers did eat—and died!
|He that feedeth upon this bread>
|Shall live unto times age-abiding.

59 These things said he, as in a synagogue| he was teaching, in Capernaum. ||Many| of his disciples therefore, |when they heard| said—

Chapter 7.

1 And after these things Jesus was walking in Galilee; for he was not wishing in Judaea to be walking, because the Jews were seeking to slay him. 2 But the feast of the Jews was near, that of the pitching of tents. 3 His brethren, therefore, said unto him—

Remove hence, and withdraw into Judaea, that thy disciples also may view thy works which thou art doing.

For no one anything in secret doeth, and yet is seeking himself to be well-known. 4 If these things thou art doing manifest thyself unto the world.

5 For not even his brethren were believing on him.

6 Jesus, therefore, saith unto them—

||My' season|| not yet is here; But ||your' season|| at any time is ready: The world cannot hate you'; But ||me|| it hateth,

Because ||I|| bear witness concerning it, That ||the works thereof|| are ||wicked||.

7 And ||Ye|| go up unto the feast: ||I|| not yet am coming up unto this feast, Because ||my' season|| not yet hath fully come. 8 And <these things> having said unto them> he was still abiding in Galilee. 10 But <when his brethren had gone up unto the feast> [then] ||he also|| went up,—not openly, but as it were in secret. 11 |The Jews| therefore, were seeking him in the feast, and were saying—

Where is that one? 12 and there was great ||murmuring|| about him, among the multitudes: ||some|| indeed, were saying—

|Good| is he! {but} ||others|| were saying—

Not so! but he is leading the multitude astray. 15 |No one|| nevertheless, was speaking ||openly|| about him, because of their fear of the Jews.

14 |Presently|| however, <the feast' being at its height> Jesus went up unto the temple and was teaching. 15 The Jews, therefore, began to marvel, saying—

|How| doth this one know ||letters||, not having learned?

16 Jesus, therefore, answered them, and said—

||My' teaching|| is not mine', but his who sent me.

17 |If any one intend [his will] to do| He shall get to know concerning the teaching—

Whether it is ||of God||, Or ||I|| from myself am speaking. 18 |He that |from himself| doth speak| His own glory is seeking:

|He that seeketh the glory of him that sent him| ||The same|| is |true||,

And ||injustice|| in him is there none. 19 Did not ||Moses|| give you the law? And yet ||not one of you|| doeth the law!—|Why| seek ye [to slay] me?

The multitude answered—

---

a Or (WH): “the.”

b Or (WH): “that it be well-known.”
21 Jesus answered, and said unto them—
||For this cause|| |Moses| hath given you ||circumcision||,—
Not that [of Moses] it is, but of the fathers;—
And [on Sabbath] ye circumcise a man.
22 〈If [circumcision]〉 a man receiveth [on Sabbath],
That the law of Moses may not' be broken’>
|With me| are ye bitter as gall,
Because ||a whole’ man|| I made |well| on Sabbath?
23 Be not judging according to appearance,
But [just’ judgment] be judging.
24 So then, some of them of Jerusalem were saying—
Is not [this] he whom they are seeking to kill?
25 And yet, see! |with freedom of speech| he is talking,
And ||nothing|| |unto him| do they say:—
Have the rulers perhaps come to know |of a truth|
That [this] is ||the Christ||?
26 But ||as for this one|| we know whence he is;
|The Christ, however, whenever he shall come| no one gettesth to know whence he is.
27 Jesus, therefore, cried aloud in the temple, teaching, and saying—
|Both me| ye know, and ye know whence I am’,—
And yet |of myself| have I not come,
But he is real, k who sent me, whom ||ye|| know not.
28 ||| know him,
Because |from him| I am,
And [he] sent me forth.
29 They were seeking therefore to seize him; and yet no one laid on him his hand, because [not yet] had come his hour.c
30 But ||from amongst the multitude|| [many] believed on him, and were saying—
|The Christ, whenever he cometh>
|Greater’ signs|| will he do, than those which [this one] did?

— the great’—day of the feast|e
Jesus was standing, and he cried aloud, saying—
<If any man thirst>
Let him come unto me and drink:
38 <He that believeth on me>—just as said the Scripture,—f |Rivers|| |from within him| shall flow, |of living water|.
39 Now |this| spake he concerning the Spirit which they who believed on him were about to receive; for |not yet| was there Spirit, g because ||Jesus| |not yet| was glorified!
40 ||Some from amongst the multitude|| therefore, having hearkened unto these words, were saying—
|This|| is, in truth, |the prophet|.
41 ||Others| were saying—
|This|| is |the Christ|.
42 Hath not the Scripture said:
|Of the seed of David|h
And |from Bethlehem,| the village where David was>
Cometh the Christ?
43 ||A division|| therefore, arose in the multitude, because of him. 44 ||Certain|| indeed, from among

46 So then the officers came unto the High-priests and Pharisees, and ||they|| said unto them—

|For what cause| have ye not brought him?

47 The officers answered—

||Never|| man spake thus!

48 The Pharisees, therefore, answered them—

Surely ||ye also|| have not been led astray?

Surely |none of the rulers| hath believed in him,

|Nor of the Pharisees|?

49 But ||this multitude, that take no note of the law|| are ||laid under a curse.

50 Nicodemus saith unto them—he that came unto him formerly, being |one| from among them—

51 Surely ||our law|| doth not judge the man, unless it hear first from him, and get to know what he is doing?

52 They answered and said unto him—

Surely ||thou also|| art not |of Galilee|?

Search and see! that ||out of Galilee|| a prophet is not to arise.

§ 15. The Light and the Darkness in Conflict.

Chapter 8.

12 ||Again|| therefore, |unto them| spake Jesus, saying—

||I|| am the light of the world.

||He that followeth me|| shall in nowise walk in darkness,

But shall have the light of life.

13 The Pharisees, therefore, said unto him—

||Thou|| [concerning thyself] bearest witness:

||Thy witness|| is not true.

14 Jesus answered, and said unto them—

<Even though ||I|| bear witness concerning myself>

||True|| is my witness,

Because I know whence I came, and whither I go;

But ||ye|| know not whence I come, and whither I go.

15 ||Ye|| |according to the flesh| do judge:

||I|| am judging no one.

16 And <even if ||I|| am judging>

||My' judging|| is |genuine|,—

Because |alone| am I not,

But ||I|| and the Father who sent me;

17 And |in your own law| it is written,

That ||two’ men’s witness|| is |true|:

18 ||I|| am the one bearing witness of myself,

And the Father who sent me is bearing witness concerning me.

19 They were saying unto him, therefore—

||Where|| is thy father?

Jesus answered—

Neither ||me|| do ye know, nor yet my Father:

<If ||me|| ye had known> |my Father also| had ye known.

20 ||These’ sayings|| spake he in the treasury, teaching in the temple, and yet |no one| seized him, because |not yet| had come his hour.

21 He said unto them again, therefore—

||I|| go, and ye shall seek me,—and yet |in your sin| shall ye die:

<Whither ||I|| go> ||ye|| cannot come.

22 The Jews, therefore, were saying—

Can it be that he will kill himself, that he saith,

<Whither ||I|| go> ||ye|| cannot come?

23 And he was saying unto them—

||Ye|| are |of the realms below|,

||I|| am |of the realms above|:

||Ye|| are |of this’ world|.

||I|| am not of this world.

24 Therefore said I unto you,

Ye shall die in your sins;

For <if ye believe not that ||I|| am he> ye shall die in your sins.

25 They were saying unto him, therefore—

Who art ||thou||?

Jesus said unto them—

<First and foremost>

Even what I speak unto you.

26 ||Many things|| have I |concerning you| to speak, and to judge;

But ||he who sent me|| is |true|,

And ||I|| <what things I heard from him> |the same| speak I unto the world.

h Prob: “What I speak, that I am: my speech revealeth my person.”
They noted not that [as touching the Father] unto them he was speaking.

Jesus, therefore, said—

<Whensoever ye shall lift up the Son of Man> ||Then|| shall ye know, that ||I|| am he, And ||of myself|| am doing ||nothing||; But <just as the Father taught me> ||the same things|| am I speaking.

And ||he that sent me|| is ||with me||; He hath not left me ||alone||, Because ||I|| the things that please him ever do.

<As he was speaking these things> ||many|| believed on him. Jesus was saying, therefore, unto the Jews who had believed on him—

<If ||ye|| abide in my' word> ||Of a truth|| my disciples ye are;
And ye shall know* the truth, And ||the truth|| shall make you free.

They made answer unto him—

|Seed of Abraham| are we, And [unto no one] have been brought into bondage [at any time]: How sayest ||thou|| Free shall ye be made?

Jesus answered them—

||Verily, verily|| I say unto you:
<Every one who committeth sin> Is ||a slave|| ||of sin||;
Now ||the slave|| doth not abide in the house ||evermore||.
||The Son|| abideth ||evermore||.

<If then ||the Son|| shall make you free> ||Really’ free|| shall ye be.

I know that ye are ||seed of Abraham||; But ye are seeking to kill me, Because ||my’ word|| findeth no place in you.

<What things ||I|| have seen with the Father> I am speaking;
||Ye|| also, then, <what things ye have heard from your father> are doing.b

They answered and said unto him—

||Our father|| is ||of fornication||. Jesus saith unto them—

<If ||children of Abraham|| ye are> ||The works of Abraham|| are ye doing.

But ||now|| ye are seeking [to kill me],—

||A man who [the truth, unto you] hath spoken, Which I have heard from God||: ||This|| [Abraham] did not.

||Ye|| are doing the works of your father. They said unto him—

||We|| ||of fornication|| were not born: [One’ father] have we—||God||.

Jesus said unto them—

<If ||God|| had been your father|| ye had been loving me’, For ||I|| [from God] came forth, and am here; For ||not even of myself|| have I come, But ||he|| sent me forth.

|Wherefore| is it, that |my’ speech| ye do not understand?| Because ye cannot hear |my’ word.

||Ye|| are |of your father—the adversary|. And ||the covetings of your father|| ye choose to be doing.

||He|| was |a murderer| from the beginning, And |in the truth|| he stood not; Because truth is not in him:

<Whensoever he speaketh falsehood> |Of his own|| he speaketh; Because |false|| he is, and |the father of it||.

But <as for me> <Because |the truth|| I speak> ye do not believe me.

Which of you convicteth me of sin?

<If ||truth|| I speak> |wherefore| do ||ye|| not believe me?

||He that is of God|| heareth |the sayings of God||; ||Therefore|| do ||ye|| not hear, because |of God|| ye are not.

The Jews answered, and said unto him—

Do ||we|| not ||well|| say: ||Thou|| art |of a Samaritan||, and hast |a demon||?

Jesus answered—

||I|| have not |a demon||, But honour my Father; And ||ye|| dishonour me.

But ||I|| seek not my glory: There is |one who seeketh and judgeth.

||Verily, verily|| I say unto you: <If anyone shall keep |my’ word|>

§ 16. Jesus heals a Blind Man; and avows himself The Good Shepherd.

Chapter 9.

1 And [passing along] he saw a man, blind from birth. And his disciples questioned him, saying—Rabbi! who sinned, this man or his parents, That [blind] he should be born?

2 Jesus answered—Neither [this man] sinned nor his parents; But...that the works of God should be made manifest in him.

3 We must needs be working the works of him that sent me, while it is [day]; There cometh a night, when [no one] can work.

4 <Wherewith I may be in the world> I am [the light] of the world.

5 [These things] having said, he spat on the ground, and made clay with the spittle, and laid the clay upon his eyes; and said unto him—Withdraw! wash in the pool of Siloam,—which is to be translated, Sent. He went away, therefore, and washed, and came [seeing],

6 <The neighbours, therefore, and they who used to observe him aforetime—that he was [a beggar]> were saying—Is not [this] he that used to sit and beg?

7 [Others] were saying—'Tis [the same]. [Others] were saying—Nay! but he is [like him]. [He] was saying—[I] am he.

8 So they were saying unto him—How [then] were thine eyes opened?

9 [He] answered—[The man that is called Jesus] made [clay], and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me: Withdraw unto the pool of Siloam, and wash.

10 <Going away, therefore, and washing> I received sight.

11 And they said unto him—Where is [he]? He saith—I know not.

12 They bring him unto the Pharisees—[him at one’ time blind] Now it was Sabbath, on the day when Jesus made [the clay], and opened his eyes. Again therefore, the Pharisees also questioned him, as to how he received sight. And [he] said unto them—[Clay] laid he upon mine eyes, and I washed,—and do see.

13 Certain’ from among the Pharisees, therefore, were saying—This’ man is not [from God], because [the Sabbath] he keepeth not.

14 Others [however] were saying—How can a sinful man [such signs as these’] be doing? And there was [a division] among them.

One out of the many examples in John in which hina scarcely—“in order that.”
So they were saying unto the blind man, again—

What dost thou say concerning him, in that he opened thine eyes?

And he said—

[A prophet is he.]

The Jews, therefore, did not believe, concerning him, that he was blind, and received sight,—until they called the parents of him that had received sight. 19 and questioned them, saying—

Is [this] your son, of whom [ye] say, that [blind] he was [born]?

How, then, seeth he [even now]?a

His parents, therefore, answered, and said—

We know that [this] is our son, and that [blind] he was born;

But [how he now seeth] we know not,
Or [who opened his eyes] [we] know not,—

Question [him], he is [of age].

[He] [concerning himself] shall speak.

These things said his parents, because they were in fear of the Jews,—for [already] had the Jews agreed together, that <if anyone should confess [him] to be Christ> an excommunicant from the synagogue should he be made.

[For this cause] his parents said—

He is [of age],—question [him].

So they called the man a second time—[him] who had been blind, and said unto him—

Give glory unto God!

[We] know that [this’ man] is [a sinner].

[He] therefore, answered—

[Whether he is a sinner]? I know not:
[One thing] I know,—That <whereas I was [blind]> [now] I see!

They said, therefore, unto him—

What did he unto thee? How opened he thine eyes?

He answered them—

I told you just now, and ye did not hear:

Why [again] do ye wish to hear?

Are [ye also] wishing to become [his disciples]?

And they reviled him, and said—

[Thou] art [the disciple] of that man;b

But [we] are [Moses’] disciples:—

[We] know, that [unto Moses] hath God spoken;

But [as for this man] we know not whence he is.

The man answered, and said unto them—

Why! [herein] is [the marvel]:

That [ye] know not whence he is,

[And yet he opened mine eyes].

We know that [God] [unto sinners] doth not hearken:

But <if one be [a worshipper of God] and be doing [his will]>[unto this one] he hearkeneth.

[Out of age-past time] hath it never been heard, that anyone opened the eyes of one who [blind] had been born.

If this man were not’ from God> he could have done nothing.

They answered and said unto him—

[In sins] wast [thou] born altogether;

And art [thou] teaching [us]?

And they cast him out. 3 e Jesus heard that they had cast him out: and [finding him] said—

Dost [thou] believe on the son of Man?

He answered {and said}—

And [who] is he, Sir, that I may believe on him?

Jesus said unto him—

Thou hast both seen him and [he that is speaking with thee] is [he].

And [he] said—

I believe, Sirid and worshipped him. 39 And Jesus said—

<For judgment> [I] unto this world] came:

That [they who were not seeing] might’ see,

And [they who were seeing] might become [blind].

They of the Pharisees who were with’ him [heard] these things, and said unto him—

Are [we also] [blind]?

Jesus said unto them—

<If [blind] ye had been> ye had not had sin;

But <now> ye say, We see> [your sin] [abideth].5

Chapter 10.

1  [Verily verily] I say unto you:—

<He that entereth not [through the door] into the fold of the sheep,

But goeth up from another place>

[That man] is [a thief] and [a robber].

a As if to say: “Was he ever blind?”
b Spoken with disdain.
c Cp. chap. vi. 37.
d Or: “Lord”; but same word as in ver. 36.
e Cp. chap. xv. 24.
But <he that entereth through the door> is shepherd of the sheep:

To him the porter openeth, and the sheep hear him: his own sheep knoweth his voice, and leadeth them forth.

As soon as [all his own] he hath put forth [Before them] he moveth on, and the sheep follow him', because they know his voice;

But [a stranger] will they in nowise follow, but will flee from him, Because they know not the voice of strangers.

This similitude spake Jesus unto them; but those men understood not what he was speaking unto them.

Jesus, therefore, said [again]—Verily, verily, I say unto you:—

I am the door: All as many as came before me are thieves and robbers; but the sheep hearkened not unto them.

I am the door. Through me if anyone enter, He shall be saved, and shall find;

The thief cometh not, to steal the sheep: But the shepherd of the sheep, only the father knoweth.

The thief came, That life they might have, and [above measure] might have.

I am the good shepherd: The good shepherd layeth down his life for the sheep.

The hireling — <Even because he is no shepherd, Whose own the sheep are not> he saith, Vieweth the wolf coming, and leaveth the sheep, and fleeth,— And the wolf seizeth them and scattereth,— Because a hireling he is, and hath no care for the sheep.

I am the good shepherd, And know my own, And [my own] know me',—

Just as [the Father] knoweth me', And [I] know the Father; And [my life] I lay down for the sheep.

And [other sheep] have I, which are not of this fold:

Those also I must needs bring, And unto my voice will they not hear, And there shall come to be One flock.

Therefore doth the Father love me, Because I lay down my life, That I may may receive it:

No one forced it from me, But I lay it down of myself, and Authority have I, to lay it down, and authority have I, to receive it: This commandment received I from my Father.

A division [again] took place among the Jews, because of these words. But many from among them were saying—

A demon hath, and is raving,— Why unto him do ye hearken?

Others said—

These sayings are not those of one demonized,— Can a demon open the eyes of the blind?

§ 17. The Feast of Dedication—Conflict renewed.

The feast of dedication took place at that time, in Jerusalem: it was winter, and Jesus was walking in the temple, in the porch of Solomon.

The Jews, therefore, surrounded him, and were saying unto him—

How long holdest thou our lives? in suspense?<If thou art the Christ> tell us plainly.

Jesus answered them—

I told you, and ye believe not: The works which I am doing in the name of my Father

The same bear witness concerning me.

h Or (WH): "forceth."

But ye believe not, because ye are not of my sheep.

||My sheep|| unto my voice hearken,— And ||I|| know [them], And they follow me,—

And ||I|| give unto them life age-abiding, And in nowise shall they perish, unto times age-abiding;

And no one shall carry them off out of my hand.

|What ||my Father|| hath given me| is |something greater than all|; c
And ||no one|| can carry off out of the hand of my Father:

||[and the Father]|| are [one],

The Jews again lifted up stones, d that they might stone him. 35 Jesus answered them— ||Many works|| have I showed you, |noble ones, from my Father|:
For which of those works are ye stoning me?

The Jews answered him—
||Concerning a noble work|| are we not stoning thee;

But concerning profane speech,—

And because ||thou|| being |a man|, art making thyself |God|.

Jesus answered them—
Is it not written in your law:

\[|I|| said \quad Ye are |gods|!\]

<If [those] he called gods, unto whom ||the word of God|| came—

And the Scripture cannot be broken—>

<Of him whom |the Father| hallowed and sent forth into the world> are ||eye\| saying—

Thou speakest profanely,
Because I said ||Son of God| I am?

But <if I am doing them>

<Even though |in me| ye believe not> ||In the works|| believe,—

That ye may get to know and go on to know,
That the Father is ||in me||
And ||I|| am |in the Father|.

They were |therefore| again seeking to take him; and he went forth out of their hand.

40 And he went away again, beyond the Jordan, unto the place where John was at the first, immersing; and he abode there.

41 And ||many|| came unto him, and were saying— ||John|| indeed, did not so much as [one] sign; But ||all things, whatsoever John said concerning this one|| were |true|.

42 And ||many|| believed on him there.

§ 18. The Raising of Lazarus.

Chapter 11.

1 Now a certain man was sick, Lazarus of Bethany, of the village of Mary and Martha her sister. 2 And Mary was she who anointed the Lord with perfume, 3 and wiped his feet with her hair—whose brother Lazarus was sick.

3 The sisters, therefore, sent out unto him saying— Lord, see! |he whom thou tenderly lovest| is sick.

4 But Jesus hearing, said—

||This sickness|| is not unto death,

But for the glory of God,—

That the Son of God may be glorified thereby.

5 Now Jesus loved Martha, and her sister, and Lazarus. 6 <When, therefore, he heard that he was sick> ||then|| indeed, he abode in the place where he was, two days. 7 ||Then, after this|| he saith unto the disciples—

Let us be leading on into Judaea |again|.

8 The disciples say unto him—

Rabbi! |just now| were the Jews seeking to stone thee—

And |again| goest thou thither?

9 Jesus answered—

Are there not ||twelve| hours|| in the day?

<If one walk in the day> he doth not stumble,

Because |the light of this world| he seeth;

10 But <if one walk in the night> he stumbleth,

Because |the light| is not in him.

11|These things| he said, and [after this] he saith unto them—

|Lazarus, our dear friend| hath fallen asleep;
But I am going, that I may awake him.

12|The disciples, therefore, said unto him—

Lord! |if he have fallen asleep| he will recover.

13 But Jesus had spoken concerning his death; whereas [they] supposed that [concerning the taking of rest in sleep] he had been speaking.

14 Jesus, therefore [then] said unto them [plainly]—
[Lazarus] died; 15 and I rejoice, for your sake—that ye may believe,—that I was not there;
But let us be going unto him.

16 Thomas, therefore, the one called Didymus, said unto his fellow-disciples—
Let [us also] be going, that we may die with him.

17 Jesus, therefore, coming, found that [four’ days already’] had he been in the tomb. 18 Now Bethany was near Jerusalem, about fifteen furlongs off; 19 and [many from among the Jews] had come unto Martha and Mary, that they might console them concerning their brother. 20 [Martha] therefore, [when she heard that Jesus’ was coming] went to meet him; but [Mary] [in the house] remained sitting. 21 Martha, therefore, said unto Jesus—
Lord! [if thou hadst been here] my brother had not died;

22 And [now] I know, that [whatsoever thou shalt ask of God] [God] will give unto thee.

23 Jesus saith unto her—
Thy brother shall rise.

24 Martha saith unto him—
I know that he shall rise, in the resurrection, in the last’ day.

25 Jesus said unto her—
||I|| am the resurrection [and the life]:
<He that believeth on me>
|Even though he die shall live again!

26 And <no’ one who livest again> and believeth on me>
Shall in anywise die |unto times age-abiding|.

Believest thou this?

27 She saith unto him—
Yea, Lord! [I] have believed,
That ||thou’ art the Christ, the Son of God,—
||He who [into the world] should come||.

28 And this’ saying, she went away, and called Mary her sister, [secretly] saying—
[The teacher] is present, and calleth thee.

29 And [she] [when she heard] was roused up quickly, and was coming’ unto him. 30 [Not yet] however, had Jesus come into the village, but was still in the place where [Martha] met him. 31 [The Jews, therefore, who were with her in the house and consoling her]| <seeing Mary, that quickly’ she arose and went out> followed her, supposing that she was withdrawing unto the tomb, that she might weep there. 32 [Mary] therefore, [when she came where Jesus was] [seeing him] fell at his feet, saying unto him—
Lord! [if thou hadst been here] my brother had not died.

33 [Jesus] therefore, <when he saw her weeping,> and the Jews who came with her weeping was indignant in the spirit, and troubled himself, 34 and said—
Where have ye laid him?
They say unto him—
Lord! come and see.

35 Jesus wept. 36 The Jews, therefore, were saying—
See! how tenderly he loved him!

37 But [some from among them] said—
Could not this man, who opened the eyes of the blind, have caused that [this one also] should not have died?

38 [Jesus], therefore, <[again] being indignant within himself> cometh unto the tomb. Now it was a cave, and [a stone] was lying thereon.

39 Jesus saith—
Take ye away the stone!
Martha, the sister of the deceased, saith unto him—
Lord! [by this time] he stinketh, for it is [four days].

40 Jesus saith unto her—
Said I not unto thee that <if thou wouldst believe> thou shouldst see the glory of God?

41 So they took away the stone. And [Jesus] lifted up his eyes on high, and said—
Father! I thank thee, thou didst hear me:

[If] indeed, knew that [always] unto me thou dost hearken;
But [for the sake of the multitude standing around] I spake,— 43 And [these things] having said, [with a loud voice] he cried out—

Lazarus! come forth!

44 He that was dead came forth, bound feet and hands with bandages, and [his face] [with a napkin] was bound about. Jesus saith unto them—

Loose him, and let him go.

45 Many therefore from among the Jews, who had come unto Mary, and gazed on what he did, believed on him; 46 but [certain from among them] went away unto the Pharisees, and told them what Jesus had done.

47 The High-priests and Pharisees, therefore, brought together a high-council, and were saying—

What are we to do, in that [this' man] doeth [many' signs]?

48 [If we let him alone thus] [all] will believe on him, and the Romans will come, and take away [both our place and nation].

49 But [a certain one from among them, Caiaphas] [being [High-priest] for that year] said unto them—

[Ye] know [nothing at all]; 50 nor do ye take into account, that it is profitable for you that [one' man] should die for the people, 4 and not [the whole' nation] perish.

51 [This] however, [from himself] he spake not, but [being [High-priest] for that year] he prophesied, that Jesus was about to die for the nation; 52 and [not for the nation only] but that [the scattered children of God also] he might gather together into one. 53 [From that' day] therefore, they took counsel, that they might put him to death.

54 [Jesus] therefore, [no longer openly] was walking among the Jews, but departed thence, into the country near the desert, unto a city called [Ephraim]; and [there] abode, with his disciples. 55 Now the passover of the Jews was at hand, and many went up unto Jerusalem, out of the country, before the passover, that they might purify themselves. 56 They were therefore seeking Jesus, and were saying one to another, [in the temple] standing—

How seemeth it unto you? that he will in nowise come unto the feast?

57 Now the High-priests and the Pharisees had given commands, that [if anyone came to know where he was] he should inform [them], so that they might seize him.

§ 19. The Anointing at Bethany.
Mt. xxvi. 6–12; Mk. xiv. 3–8.

Chapter 12.

1 [Jesus] therefore, [six' days before’ the passover] came unto Bethany, where Lazarus was, whom Jesus had raised from among the dead.

2 So they made for him a supper, b there; and [Martha] was ministering, but [Lazarus] was one of them who were reclining with him.

3 [Mary] therefore, [taking a pound of pure nard perfume, very precious] anointed the feet of Jesus, 6 and wiped, with her hair, his feet; and [the house] was filled with the fragrance of the perfume. 4 {But} Judas Iscariot, one of his disciples, he that was about to deliver him up, saith—

5 Why was [this' perfume] not sold for three hundred' denaries, and given unto the destitute?

6 Howbeit he said this, [not that for the destitute he cared] but because [a thief] he was, and holding [the bag] used to carry away [what was cast therein]. 7 Jesus, therefore, said—

Let her alone, that [for the day of my burial] she may observe it;

For [the destitute] [always] have ye with you, whereas [me] not always have ye.

The great multitude of the Jews, therefore, got to know that he was [there], and came [not on account of Jesus only'] but that [Lazarus also] they might see, whom he had raised from among the dead. 10 But the High-priests took counsel [that Lazarus also] they might put to death;

11 because [many' of the Jews] [by reason of him] were withdrawing, and believing on Jesus.

palm trees, and went out to meet him, and began crying aloud—Hosanna!
Blessed is he that is coming in the name of the Lord—
||Even the King of Israel!!
14 And Jesus, finding a young ass, took his seat thereon, just as it is written—15 Do not fear, O daughter of Zion!
Lo! thy king cometh,
Sitting upon the colt of an ass!
16 ||These things|| his disciples noticed not, at the first; but <when Jesus was glorified> [then] remembered they that [these things] had [for him] been written,—and that [these things] they had done unto him. 17 The multitude, therefore, that was with him when he called [Lazarus] out of the tomb, and raised him from among the dead, was bearing witness. 18 [On this account] the multitude met him also, because they heard that he had done [this sign].
19 ||The Pharisees|| therefore, said among themselves—
Ye observe that ye are profiting nothing: See! [the world] [after him] hath gone away.

§ 21. The Hour is Come. Final Appeals to the Jews.
20 Now there were certain Greeks, from among them who were coming up that they might worship in the feast. 21 ||These|| therefore, came unto Philip, him who was from Bethsaida of Galilee,—and were requesting him, saying—
Sir! We desire to see [Jesus].
22 Philip cometh, and telleth Andrew: Andrew and Philip come, and tell Jesus. 23 But ||Jesus|| answered them, saying—
The hour hath come, that the Son of Man should be glorified!
24 ||Verily, verily|| I say unto you:
<Except [the kernel of wheat] shall fall into the ground, and die>
[It] [alone] abideth;
But <if it die>
|Much' fruit| it beareth.
25 <He that loveth' his life>
Losteth it;
But <he that hateth his life|| in this world>
[Unto life|| age-abiding]| shall guard it. 26 <If| with me| anyone be ministering>
With me| let him be following;
And <where|| I|| am>
[There] || my' minister also| shall be.
27 ||Now|| is my soul troubled,—
And what can I say?
Father! save me from this hour?
But ||on this account|| came I unto this hour.
Father, glorify thy name!
28 There came, therefore, a voice out of heaven—
I both have glorified it, and will glorify it again.
29 |So| [the multitude that was standing by, and heard it]| were saying—
It hath [thundered].
|Others| were saying—
||[A messenger]| unto him| hath spoken.
30 Jesus answered, and said—
||Not for my sake|| hath this voice come, but ||for your sake|.
31 ||Now|| is there |a judging| of this world,—
||Now|| the ruler of this world shall be cast out;
And ||I|| <if I be lifted up out of the earth> will draw [all]| unto myself.
32 But |this| he was saying, signifying |by what manner' of death| he was about to die.
33 The multitude, therefore, answered him—
||We|| have heard, out of the law, that ||the Christ|| abideth evermore;
How then dost ||thou|| say,—
It behoveth the Son of Man to be lifted up?
Who is this' Son of Man?
35 Jesus, therefore, said unto them—
||Yet' a little while|| [the light] is [among you]:
<Walk, while ye have [the light]>,

§ 22. The Last Supper. Jesus washes his Disciples’ Feet, and Comforts their Troubled Hearts.

Chapter 13.

1 Now ||before the feast of the passover|| Jesus <knowing that his hour had come, that he should remove out of this world unto the Father> [having loved his own that were in the world|| [unto the end]|| loved them. ||2 And <[supper] being in progress, [the adversary] having already thrust into the heart of Judas son of Simon Iscariot, that he should deliver him up,—||3 [Jesus] knowing that [all things] the Father had given unto him, into his hands, and that [from God] he had come, and [unto God] he was going>—

rouseth himself out of the supper, and layeth aside his garments, and taking a linen cloth, girded himself. ||Next|| he poureth water into the wash-basin, and began to be washing the feet of the disciples, and to be wiping them with the linen cloth wherewith he was girded. ||6 So he cometh unto Simon Peter. He saith unto him—

Lord, dost ||[thou]|| wash my’ feet?

Jesus answered, and said unto him—

<What ||[I]|| am doing> ||[thou]|| knowest not [as yet];
Howbeit, thou shalt get to know ||[hereafter].

Peter saith unto him—
In nowise shalt thou [ever] wash my’ feet.
Jesus answered him—

<If I wash thee not> thou hast no part with me’.

Simon Peter saith unto him—
Lord! not my feet only, but my hands also, and my head.

Jesus saith unto him—

That ye should go your way and bear |fruit|,—
And |your fruit| should abide: |Because |[from the beginning]| ye are |with me|.
That <whatsoever ye should ask the Father in my name| he might give unto you.
|These things|| I command you,
That ye be loving one another.|
|If |[the world]| is hating |you>, |I told you not—
Ye are getting to know that |[me], before you| it hath hated.
|If |[of the world] ye had been|
||The world|| of its own| had been fond; |Whensoever the Advocate> shall come>
But <because |[of the world]| ye are not, |Ye may remember, that |[thereof] I told you.|
On the contrary |[I]| chose you out of the world>
||Therefore|| the world| doth hate you.
Remember the word which |[I]| spake unto you:
A servant is not greater than his lord.|
A servant is not greater than his lord.|
|If |[me] they persecuted| |you| too| will they persecute,—
|If |[my word] they kept| |your own also| will they keep.
|but |all these things|| will they do unto you, on account of my name,
Because they know not him that sent me.
|<Had I not come and spoken unto them>|

11 ||These things|| have I spoken unto you,
That |[my own'] joy|| in |you| may be,
And |[your joy]| may be made full.
12 ||This|| is my own' commandment,
That ye be loving one another,
Just as I loved you.
13 ||Greater' love than this'|| hath |no one],
That |[his life]| one should lay down in behalf of his friends.|
14 ||Ye|| are |friends of mine|,
If ye be doing that which |[I]| am commanding you.
15 ||No longer|| do I call you |servants|,
For |[the servant]| knoweth not what |[his lord]| is doing.
But |[you]| I have called |friends|,
Because <all things which I heard from my Father> made I known unto you.
16 Not |[ye]| chose |me|,
But |[I]| chose you, and placed you,
That ye should go your way and bear |fruit|,—
And |your fruit| should abide:
That <whatsoever ye should ask the Father in my name| he might give unto you.
17 ||These things|| I command you,
That ye be loving one another.|
18 |<If |[the world]| is hating |you>,
Ye are getting to know that |[me], before you| it hath hated.
|<If |[of the world] ye had been|
||The world|| of its own| had been fond;
But <because |[of the world]| ye are not,
On the contrary |[I]| chose you out of the world>
||Therefore|| the world| doth hate you.
20 Remember the word which |[I]| spake unto you:
A servant is not greater than his lord.|
A servant is not greater than his lord.|
|If |[me] they persecuted| |you| too| will they persecute,—
|If |[my word] they kept| |your own also| will they keep.
21 But |all these things|| will they do unto you, on account of my name,
Because they know not him that sent me.

For <if I should not depart>

||The Advocate|| would in nowise come unto you,—

But <if I go>

I will send him unto you.

8 And <having come>

||He|| will reprove the world—

Concerning sin,
And concerning righteousness,
And concerning judgment:

9 <Concerning sin, indeed>

Because they are not believing on me;

But <concerning righteousness>

Because [unto the Father] I go my way, and [no longer] do ye behold me;

And <concerning judgment>

Because [the ruler of this world] hath been judged.

12 ||Yet many things|| have I [unto you] to be saying,—

But ye cannot bear them [just now];

13 Howbeit <as soon as ||he|| hath come’—

The Spirit of truth>

He will guide you into all truth;

For he will not speak from himself, But [whatsoever he heareth]| he will speak, And [the coming things] will he announce unto you.

14 ||He|| shall glorify me;

For [of mine] shall he receive, and announce unto you.

15 <All things, whatsoever the Father hath> are [my own];

||Therefore|| said I—

||Of mine|| shall he receive, and announce unto you.

16 <A little while> and [no longer] ye behold me;

And <again’ a little while> and ye shall see me,

17 Some of his disciples, therefore, said one to another—

What is this which he is saying to us:—

<A little while> and ye behold me not,

And <again a little while> and ye shall see me; And—

Because I go my way unto the Father?

18 They were saying, therefore—

What is this which he saith:—A little while? We know not [what he is saying].

19 Jesus took note, that they were wishing to question him, and said unto them—

||Concerning this|| are ye enquiring one with another,—

Because I said:—

<A little while> and ye behold me not,

And <again a little while> and ye shall see me?

20 ||Verily, verily|| I say unto you—

||Ye|| shall weep and lament,

But [the world] shall rejoice:

||Ye|| shall be griefed,

But [your grief] [into joy] shall be turned.

21 ||A woman|| <as soon as she is about to bring forth>

Hath [grief], because her hour hath come’;

But <as soon as she hath given birth to the child> ||No longer|| remembereth she the anguish,

By reason of the joy, that a human being into the world hath been born.

22 And [ye] therefore, [now] indeed have [grief];

But [again] will I see you,

And your’ heart shall rejoice,—

And [your joy] [no one] shall force from you.

23 And [in that’ day] shall ye request me [nothing]:—

||Verily, verily|| I say unto you—

<Whatsoever ye shall ask the Father>

He will give you [in my name].

24 ||Until even now|| ye have asked nothing in my name:

Be asking, and ye shall receive,—

That [your joy] may be made full.

25 [These things] [in similitudes] have I spoken unto you:

There cometh an hour,

When [no longer in similitudes] will I speak unto you,

But [openly, concerning the Father] will I tell you.

26 <In that’ day>

||In my name|| shall ye ask:—

And I say not that [||] will request the Father for you;

27 For [||the Father himself|| dearly loveth you, Because [||ye|| have dearly loved me’, And believed that [||| from the Father| came forth:—

28 I came forth out of the Father, And have come into the world,— [Again] I leave the world, And go [unto the Father].

29 His disciples say—

See! [||now|| openly] art thou speaking, And [not a single similitude] art thou using:

30 [||Now] we know, that thou knowest all things, And hast [no need] that one be questioning thee’.

[||Hereby|| do we believe, [||That [from God] thou camest forth]].

31 Jesus answered them—

[As yet] ye believe:

32 Lo! there cometh an hour, and hath come, That ye should be scattered, [each] unto his own home; and [||me||, [alone] should leave;— And yet I am not [alone], But [||the Father|| is [with me].

33 [||These things|| have I spoken unto you, That [||in me|| ye may have [peace]: [||In the world|| ye have [tribulation]; But be taking courage,— [||I|| have overcome the world.

§ 23. Jesus prays for His Disciples.

Chapter 17.

1 [||These things|| spake Jesus, and [lifting up his eyes unto heaven] said:—

Father! The hour is come! Glorify thy Son,

That [||the Son|| may glorify [thee],—

2 Even as thou gavest him authority over all’ flesh, That <as touching whatsoever thou hast given him>

He might give unto them [life age-abiding],

3 And [||this|| is the age-abiding’ life,

That they get to know thee, [the only’ real’ God],

And him whom thou didst send, [||Jesus Christ]].

4 [||I|| glorified thee on the earth, [The work] finishing, which thou hast given me that I should do.

And [||now|| glorify me—[thou, Father]],

With’ thyself, with the glory which I had, before the world’s’ existence, [||with|| thee].

5 I manifested thy name, unto the men whom thou gavest me out of the world:

[Thine] they were, And [to me] thou gavest them, And [thy word] have they kept:

6 [||Now|| have they come to know,

That [||all things, as many as thou gavest me|| are [from thee];

8 And [||the declarations which thou gavest me|| have I given them,

And [they] received them, and came to know in truth,

That [from thee] came I forth,— And they believed That [thou] didst send me forth.

9 [||I|| [concerning them] make request: Not [concerning the world] do I make request, But concerning them whom thou hast given me,

Because [thine] they are,—

And [||all my’ possessions|| are [thine],

And [||thy’ possessions|| [mine],

10 And I have been# glorified in them.

11 And [||no longer|| am I in the world, And [they]| are in [the world],— And [||I|| unto thee| am coming.

Holy Father! Keep them in thy name which thou hast given me,

That they may be one, as [||we]|

<When I was with them>

[||I|| kept them in thy name which thou hast given me,— And I kept watch,
And [none from among them] went the destruction,—a
Save the son of destruction,
That [the Scripture] might be fulfilled.

But [now][1] unto thee] am I coming;
And [these things] am I speaking in the world,
That they may have my own joy fulfilled in themselves.

[1] have given them thy word,
And [the world] hated them,
Because they are not of the world—
Even as [1] am not of the world.

I request not, that thou wouldst take them out of the world,
But that thou wouldst keep them out of the evil:
[Of the world] they are not,
Even as [1] am not of the world.

Hallow them in the truth:
[Thine own word] is [truth]:
<Even as thou didst send me’ forth into the world>
[1] also] send them’ forth into the world;
And [on their behalf][1][b] hallow myself,
That [they also] may have become hallowed in truth.

<Not however concerning these alone’> do I make request,
But [concerning them also who believe [through their word] on me][1]:
That they [all] may be [one],—
Even as [thee][1] Father, in me’,
And [1] [h] in thee’,—
That [they also] [in us] may be;—
That [the world] may believe that [thee] didst send me forth.

And [1] [the glory which thou hast given to me] have given to them’,
That they may be one,
Even as [we] are [one],—
[1] in them’ and [thee] in me’;
That they may have been perfected into one,—
That the world may get to know,
That [thee] didst send me forth,e

And didst love them’ even as thou didst love [me].

Father!
<As touching that which thou hast given me> I desire—
That <where [1] am>
[They also] may be [with me],
That they may behold my own glory which thou hast given me,—
Because thou lovedst me, before the foundation of the world.

Righteous Father!
And so [the world] came not to know thee;
But [1] [came to know thee,
And [these] came to know that [thee] didst send me forth;
And I made known unto them thy name, and will make known,—
That [the love wherewith thou lovedst me]
[In them] may be,
And [1] in them.

§ 24. Jesus arrested and taken before the High-priest.

Peter’s Denial

Mt. xxvi. 47–75; Mk. xiv. 43–72; Lu. xxii. 47–71.

Chapter 18.

1 [Having said these’ things][Jesus] went out, with his disciples, across the winter-torrent of the Kedron,\footnote{Mt. xxvi. 36; Mk. xiv. 32; Lu. xxii. 39.} where was a garden,—\footnote{Ie: “the Cedars.”} into which he entered, [he] and his disciples.

2 Now [Judas also] who was delivering him up, knov’ the place: because [of] had Jesus been gathered there, with his disciples. \footnote{Ver. 11.} [Judas] therefore <receiving the band, and officers [from among the High-priests and {from among} the Pharisees]> cometh thither, with lights and torches and weapons. \footnote{Vers. 8, 23.} [Jesus] therefore, [knowing all’ the things coming upon him] went forth, and saith unto them—

[Whom] seek ye?

5 They answered him—
Jesus, the Nazarene.
He saith unto them—
[1] am he.
Now Judas also, who was delivering him up, was standing with them. 6 <When, therefore, he said unto them ||I|| am he> they went backwards, and fell to the ground.

7 [Again] therefore, he questioned them—
   Whom seek ye?

And they said—
   Jesus, the Nazarene.

8 Jesus answered—
   I told you ||I|| am he ||If, then, ye seek me'|| let these go their way:—

9 that the word might be fulfilled' which he had said—
   <As touching them whom thou hast given me> I lost from among them, [not so much as one].

10||Simon Peter, therefore, having a sword[ drew it, and smote the High-priest's servant, and cut off his right ear. Now the name of the servant was Malchus. 11 Jesus, therefore, said unto Peter—
   Thrust the sword into its sheath:—
   <The cupb which the Father hath given me> shall I in anywise not drink it?

12||The band, therefore, and the captain, and the officers of the Jews[,] apprehended Jesus,[c] and bound him,[c] and led him unto Annas, first; for he was father-in-law of Caiaphas, who was the High-priest of that year. 14 Now Caiaphas was he that gave counsel[d] unto the Jews, that it was profitable for [one] man[,] to die in behalf of the people.[c] 15 And Simon Peter[e] was following with Jesus, also another' disciple. But [that disciple] was known unto the High-priest, and entered in, with Jesus, into the court of the High-priest;

16whereas ||Peter|| remained standing at the door outside. The other disciple, therefore, that was known of the High-priest [went out] and spake unto the portress, and brought in Peter. 17 The female servant, therefore, the portress, saith unto Peter—
   Art [thou also] from among the disciples of this man?
   ||He|| saith—
   I am not!

18Now the servants and the officers were standing by, having made [a] coal fire because it was [cold],—and were warming themselves; and Peter also was with them, standing and warming himself.

19 ||The High-priest||, therefore, questioned Jesus concerning his disciples, and concerning his teaching. 20 Jesus answered him—
   ||I|| openly] have spoken [unto the world],—
   ||I|| [ever] taught [in synagogue, and in the temple, where all' the Jews' gather together]; and [in secret][ spoke nothing:

21 Why questionest thou me'? question them who have heard, what I spake unto them. See! ||these|| know what ||I|| said.

22And <when [these things] he had said> [one of the officers who was standing by] gave a smart blow to Jesus, saying—
   ||Thus|| answered thou [the High-priest]?

23 Jesus answered him—
   <If [with abuse] I spake> bear witness of the abuse;
   But <if with respect> [why] smitest thou me'?

24Annas therefore sent him forth, bound, unto Caiaphas the High-priest.

25 Now Simon Peter was standing and warming himself, They said, therefore, unto him—
   Art [thou also] from among his disciples?
   ||He|| denied, and said—
   I am not!

26Saith one from among the servants of the High-priest, being [kinsman] of him whose ear Peter cut off,—
   Did not ||I|| see thee [in the garden with him]?

27||Again|| therefore, Peter denied. And [straightway] a cock crew.

§ 25. Jesus before Pilate.

Mt. xxvii. 1; Mk. xv. 1; Lu. xxiii. 1.

28So they lead Jesus from Caiaphas unto the judgment-hall. Now it was early; and [they themselves] entered not into the judgment-hall, that they might not be defiled, but might eat the passover. 29 Pilate, therefore, went forth outside unto them, and saith,—
   What accusation bring ye against this man?

30They answered and said unto him—

If this one had not been doing mischief, he would not have delivered him up.

Pilate, therefore, said unto them—

[Ye] take him, and [according to your law] judge ye him.

The Jews said unto him—

[Unto us] it is not allowed to kill anyone!—

that [the word of Jesus] might be fulfilled, which he spake, signifying [by what manner of death] he was about to die.

Pilate, therefore, entered again into the judgment-hall; and addressed Jesus, and said unto him—

Art thou the king of the Jews?

Jesus answered—

[Of thyself] art thou this thing saying; or did others tell thee concerning me?

Pilate answered—

Art thou a Jew? [Thine own nation, and the High-priests] delivered thee up unto me! [What] hast thou done?

Jesus answered—

[My kingdom] is not of this world: [If of this world had been my kingdom] [mine own officers] would have been striving, that I should not be delivered up unto the Jews:

But [now] [my kingdom] is not from hence.

Pilate, therefore, said unto him—

And yet [thou] art [not a king]?

Jesus answered—

[Thou] sayest, that [a king] I am:—

[I] for this have been born, and [for this] have come into the world,—that I may bear witness unto the truth:

[Every one who is of the truth] hearkeneth unto my voice.

Pilate saith unto him—

[What] is truth?

And [this saying] [again] went he out to the Jews, and saith unto them,— [II] find in him [a not a single fault].

Howbeit ye have [a custom], that [some one] I should release unto you [during the passover]:—

Are ye minded, then, that I release unto you the king of the Jews?

So they cried aloud again, saying—

Not this man, but Barabbas!

Now [Barabbas] was a robber.

Chapter 19.

Then Pilate, therefore, took Jesus, and scourged him. And [the soldiers], plaiting a crown out of thorns, placed it upon his head; and [a purple robe] cast they about him; and kept coming unto him, and saying—

Joy to thee! O King of the Jews!—

and were giving unto him smart blows.

And Pilate went forth again outside, and saith unto them—

See! I lead him unto you outside, that ye may take knowledge, that [no single fault] do I find in him.

Jesus, therefore, came forth outside, wearing the thorn crown, and the purple mantle. And he saith unto them—

Lo! the Man!

<When, therefore, the High-priests and the officers saw him> they cried aloud, saying—

Crucify! Crucify!

Pilate saith unto them—

[Ye] take him, and crucify; for [II] find not in him [a fault].

The Jews answered him—

[We] have [a law], and [according to the law] he ought to die, because [Son of God] [himselves] he made.

<When, therefore, Pilate heard this word> he was the more afraid; and entered into the judgment-hall again, and saith unto Jesus—

[Unto me] dost thou not speak? Knowest thou not, that [authority] have I to release thee, and [authority] have I to crucify thee?

Jesus answered him—

Thou couldst have had no authority against me [at all], if it had not been given unto thee from above.

Mt. xxvii. 32 ff.; Mk. xv. 21 ff.; Lu. xxiii. 26 ff.

They took possession, therefore, of Jesus. 17 And <bearing for himself the cross> he went forth unto the so-called Skull-place, which is named, in Hebrew, Golgotha; 18 where [him] they crucified; and [with him] other two, on this side and on that, and [in the midst] [Jesus]. 19 And Pilate wrote a title also, and placed on the cross; and there was written—

20[This’ title] therefore, read many’ of the Jews, because [near] was the place to the city where Jesus was crucified; and it was written in Hebrew, in Latin, in Greek. 21 The High-priests of the Jews, therefore, were saying unto Pilate—

Do not be writing The King of the Jews; but that [he] said [King of the Jews] I am.

Pilate answered—

[What I have written] I have written!

21[The soldiers] therefore, when they had crucified Jesus, took his garments and made four’ parts, [unto each’ soldier] a part; [also the tunic].

Howbeit, the tunic was without seam, [from above] woven throughout. 24 They said, therefore, one to another—

Let us not rend it, but cast lots for it, [whose] it shall be;—

that [the Scripture] might be fulfilled—

They parted my garments amongst them, And [for my vestment] they cast lots:—b [Yes verily] [the soldiers] these’ things did.

25 And there were standing by the cross of Jesus, his mother, and his mother’s sister, Mary the wife of Clopas, and Mary the Magdalene.

26[Jesus] therefore, <seeing his mother and the disciple whom he loved> saith unto his mother—

O woman, see! thy son!

They therefore, cried aloud—

Away! away! Crucify him!

Pilate saith unto the Jews—

I have written!—c

The Jews therefore, <since it was [a preparation], that the bodies might not remain upon the cross during the Sabbath,—for that Sabbath day> was [great] requested Pilate that their legs might be broken, and they be taken away.

The soldiers, therefore, came; and [of the first, indeed] brake the legs, and of the other who was crucified with him,—33 but coming [unto Jesus] <when they saw that [already] he was dead> they brake not his legs;—34 but [one of the soldiers] [with a spear] pierced [his’ side], and there came out, straightway, [blood and water].

And [he that hath seen] hath borne witness; and [genuine] is his’ testimony, and [he] knoweth that he saith [what is true], that [ye also] may § 27. The Burial.

Mt. xxvii. 57–61; Mk. xv. 42–47; Lu. xxiii. 50–56.

38 But [after these things] Joseph from Arimathæa <being a disciple of Jesus>, having kept it secret for fear of the Jews requested Pilate, that he might take away the body of Jesus; and Pilate gave permission. He came, therefore, and took away his body. 39 There came, moreover, Nicodemus also—he that came unto him by night at the first,—bearing a roll of myrrh and aloes, about a hundred pounds' weight.\(^d\) So they received the body of Jesus, and bound it in linen-bandages with the spices,—just as it is [a custom] with the Jews to prepare for burial.

41 Now there was, in the place where he was crucified, a garden; and in the garden an unused tomb, wherein [as yet] no one had been laid.\(^e\) So [there] <by reason of the preparation of the Jews, because [near] was the tomb> laid they Jesus.

Mt. xxviii. 1–10; Mk. xvi. 1–11; Lu. xxiv. 1–12.

Chapter 20.

1 But [on the first day of the week] Mary the Magdalene cometh early, while it is yet [dark], unto the tomb,—and beheldeth the stone, already taken away out of the tomb.\(^f\) She runneth, therefore, and cometh unto Simon Peter, and unto the other' disciple whom Jesus dearly loved, and saith unto them—

They have taken away the Lord out of the tomb, and we know not where they have laid him.

2 Peter, therefore, went out, and the other disciple,—and they were going unto the tomb; and the two were running together, and [the other disciple] outran Peter, and came first unto the tomb;\(^g\) and, stooping aside, beheldeth, lying, the linen-bandages, [nevertheless] he entered not.\(^h\) So Simon Peter also cometh, following him, and entered into the tomb, and vieweth the linen-bandages lying,—\(^i\) and the napkin, which was upon his head, not [with the linen-bandages] lying, but apart, folded up into one' place.\(^j\) Then entered, therefore, the other' disciple also, who had come first unto the tomb, and he saw and believed.\(^k\) For [not yet] knew they the Scripture, that he must needs [from among the dead] [arise].

10 The disciples, therefore, departed again, by themselves.

11 Howbeit [Mary] remained standing against the tomb, outside, weeping. So then [as she wept] she stooped aside into the tomb,\(^l\) and beheldeth two' messengers, [in white garments] sitting, one at the head, and the other at the feet, where had been lying the body of Jesus.\(^m\) And [they] say unto her—

Woman! why weepest thou?

She saith unto them—

They have taken away my Lord, and I know not where they have laid him.

14[These things saying] she turned round, and seeth Jesus standing, and knew not that it was [Jesus].\(^n\) Jesus saith unto her—

Woman! why weepest thou? Whom seekest thou?

[She] <supposing he was [the gardener]> saith unto him—

Sir! <If thou hast borne him hence> tell me where thou hast laid him; and [I] will take him away.

16 Jesus saith unto her—

Mary!

[She] turning' saith unto him, in Hebrew—

Rabboni! which meaneat [Teacher].

17 Jesus saith unto her—

Be not detaining me,\(^o\) for [not yet] have I ascended unto the Father;

But be going unto my disciples, and say unto them—

I am ascending unto my Father and your Father, and my God and your God.

18 Mary the Magdalene cometh, bringing tidings unto the disciples—

I have seen the Lord!

and that these things he had said unto her.

<It being late, therefore, on that day, the first of the week,—a and [the doors] having been made fast where the disciples were, for fear of the Jews> Jesus came, and stood in the midst, and saith unto them—

Peace be unto you!

And [this] saying he pointed out both his hands and his side unto them. The disciples, therefore, rejoiced, seeing the Lord.

Jesus, therefore, said unto them [again]—

Peace be unto you!

<Just as [my Father] sent me’ forth>

||I, also|| send you’.

And [this] saying, he breathed strongly, and saith unto them—

Receive ye Holy Spirit:

<Whosoever sins ye shall remit

They are remitted unto them,

<Whosoever ye shall retain

They are retained.d

But ||[Thomas, one of the twelve, the one called Didymus]|| was not with them when Jesus came. 25 The other disciples, therefore, were saying unto him—

We have seen the Lord!

But |he| said unto them—

<Except I see |in his hands| the print of the nails, and press my finger into the print of the nails, and press my hand into his side> in nowise will I believe.

And |eight days after|| his disciples again’ were within, and Thomas with them. Jesus cometh—the doors having been made fast—and stood in the midst, and said—

Peace be unto you!

|Then|| saith he unto Thomas—

Reach thy finger hither, and see my hands, and reach thy hand, and press into my side,—and become not disbelieving, but believing.

Thomas answered, and said unto him—

My Lord, and my God!

Jesus saith unto him—

<Because thou hast seen me> hast thou believed?

§ 29. Manifestation at the Lake of Tiberias.

Chapter 21.

1 ||After these things|| Jesus manifested himself again, unto the disciples, by the sea of Tiberias; and manifested himself [thus]:—

2 There were together, Simon Peter, and Thomas, who was called Didymus, and Nathanael, who was from Cana of Galilee, and the sons of Zebedee, and [two other] of his disciples.

3 Simon Peter saith unto them—

I go a fishing!

They say unto him—

||We also|| go with thee!

They went out, and got up into the boat, and [during that night] they caught nothing.

4 But <morning’ by this’ time drawing on> Jesus stood upon the beach; [nevertheless] the disciples knew not that it was [Jesus].

5 Jesus, therefore, saith unto them—

Children! perhaps ye have nothing to eat?

They answered him—

No.

6 And |he| said unto them—

Cast the net |on the right’ side of the boat|,—and ye shall find.

They cast, therefore; and |no longer| were they able |to draw| it, for the multitude of the fishes. 7 That disciple, therefore, whom Jesus loved, saith unto Peter—

It is ||the Lord|!

||Simon Peter|| therefore, |hearing that it was the Lord'| girded about him |his upper garment|,—for he was naked; and cast himself into the sea; 8 but ||the other’ disciples| came [by the little boat],—for they were not farther from the land than about two hundred cubits off,—dragging the net of fishes. 9 So |when they got out upon the land| they...
behold a coal fire lying, and fish lying over, and bread. 10 Jesus saith unto them—
Bring of the fish which ye caught just now.
Simon Peter, therefore, went on board, and drew the net on to the land,—full of large fishes, a hundred and fifty-three; and [though they were so'] many] the net was not rent. 12 Jesus saith unto them—

Come! break your fast.
[[Not one]] of the disciples was venturing to ask him—

Who art [[thou]]? knowing that it was [the Lord]. 13 Jesus cometh, and taketh the bread, and giveth unto them; and the fish [in like manner].

[[This, already]] is the third’ time Jesus was manifested unto the disciples, after he was raised from among the dead.

§ 30. Peter restored to his Apostleship. Conclusion.

15<When, therefore, they had broken their fast> Jesus saith unto Simon Peter—Simon, son of John! lovest thou me more than these?
He saith unto him—
Yea, Lord! [[thou]] knowest that I am fond of thee.
He saith unto him—
Be feeding my lambs.d

16He saith unto him [again, the second time]—
Simon, son of John! lovest thou me?
He saith unto him—
Yea, Lord! [[thou]] knowest that I am fond of thee.
He saith unto him—
Be shepherding my sheep.e

17He saith unto him [the third time]—
Simon, son of John! art thou fond of me? Peter was grieved, that he said unto him [the third time] Art thou fond of me? and he said unto him—
Lord! [[all things]] [thou] knowest: thou perceivest that I am fond of thee.
Jesus saith unto him—
Be feeding my sheep.f

18[[Verily, verily]] I say unto thee—

<When thou wast younger> thou usedst to gird thyself, and to walk whither thou didst choose;
But <when thou shalt become aged> thou shalt stretch out thy hands, and [another] shall gird thee, and bear thee [whither thou dost not choose].

19Now [this] he said, signifying [by what’ manner’ of death] he should glorify God. And [having said this’] he saith unto him—

Be following me.

20Peter, turning about, beholdeth the disciple whom Jesus loved, following,—who also reclined during the supper upon his breast, and said—
Lord, who is it that is delivering thee up? 21 Peter, therefore, seeing [this one] saith unto Jesus—

Lord! and [[this one]] what?

22Jesus saith unto him—

<If I will that [[he]] remain until I come> what is that to thee?

[[Thou]] be following me’,

23This’ word, therefore, went forth unto the brethren, that [that disciple] should not die. Howbeit, Jesus did not tell him, he should not die; but <If I will that [he] remain until I come> what is that to thee?

24[[This]] is the disciple who beareth witness concerning these things, and who hath written these things; and we know that [[true]], is [his witness].

25Now there are many other things also, which Jesus did, which, indeed, <if they were to be written one by one> not even the world [[itself]], I suppose, would contain [the books which must be written].

And the Scribes and the Pharisees bring a woman, caught in adultery; and [setting her in the midst] they say unto him—

Now [in the law] Moses {unto us} gave command to stone [such as these]. What, then, dost [thou] say?

{[This] however, they were saying, by way of testing him,—that they might have whereof to accuse him}. But [Jesus] stooping down [with his finger] wrote in the ground. <When, however, they still continued questioning him> he lifted himself up and said {unto them}—

<He of you [that is without sin] let him first cast at her a stone;

And [they who heard] began to go out, one by one, beginning from the elders,—and he was left [alone]; [the woman also] being [in the midst].

ACTS OF APOSTLES.

§ 1. The Prologue: Jesus appears unto his Disciples, gives them charge, and ascends.

Chapter 1.

1 [The first narrative indeed, made I, concerning all things, O Theophilus, which Jesus began both to do and teach, until the day when having given command unto the apostles, whom [through Holy Spirit] he had chosen, he was taken up; unto whom he also presented himself alive, after he had suffered, by many sure tokens, throughout forty days making himself visible unto them, and speaking the things concerning the kingdom of God. And being in company with them, charged them, from Jerusalem to absent themselves, but—

To abide around the promise of the Father which ye have heard of me,

Because John indeed, immersed with water; But ye in Holy Spirit shall be immersed,

After not many of these days.

2 [They] therefore, having come together began to question him, saying—

Lord! art thou [at this time] duly establishing the kingdom unto Israel?

He said unto them—

It is [not yours] to get to know times or seasons which the Father hath put in his own' authority;

But ye shall receive power, when the Holy Spirit cometh upon you, and ye shall be my witnesses, both in Jerusalem and in all Judæa and Samaria, and as far as the uttermost part of the land.

And having said these things, as they were beholding, he was lifted up, and a cloud caught him away from their eyes. And <while they were looking steadfastly into heaven, as he was going his way> then lo! two men had taken their stand beside them, in white garments,— who also said—

Men of Galilee! why stand ye looking into heaven?

This Jesus, who hath been taken up from you into heaven shall [so come] in like manner as ye yourselves have gazed upon him going into heaven.

§ 2. The Disciples return to Jerusalem.

12 [Then] returned they into Jerusalem, from a mountain called Olivet, which is nigh unto Jerusalem, a Sabbath day’s journey.

And when they had entered, into the upper-story went they up, where remained behind—both Peter and John and James and Andrew, Philip and Thomas, Bartholomew and Matthew, James the son of Alphaeus and Simon the zealot, and Judas the son of James. These all were giving constant attention, with one accord, unto the prayer, with certain women, and Mary the mother of Jesus, and with his brethren.

§ 3. Speech of Peter, and Choice of Matthias.

15 And Peter, standing up in the midst of the brethren, said,—and there was a multitude of names, of one accord, about a hundred and twenty,—

Brethren! It was needful for the Scripture to be fulfilled which the Holy Spirit spake beforehand, through the mouth of David, concerning Judas,—who became guide unto them who apprehended Jesus; for that he had come to be reckoned among us, and obtained the lot of this ministry.—

18 [This man] therefore had possessed himself of a field out of the reward of unrighteousness,—and falling headlong burst asunder in the midst, and forth gushed all his bowels; and it became known unto all’ them who were dwelling in § 4. The Day of Pentecost.

Chapter 2.

1 And <when the day of pentecost> was filling up [the number of days] it they were all together with one intent;—\( ^{2} \) when there came, suddenly, out of heaven, a sound, just as of a mighty rushing wind,—and it filled all’ the house where they were sitting; \( ^{3} \) and there appeared unto them—parting asunder—tongues, like as of fire, and it sat upon each one of them; \( ^{4} \) and they were all filled with Holy Spirit, and began to speak with other kinds’ of tongues, just as [the Spirit] was giving unto them to be sounding forth. \( ^{5} \) Now there were in Jerusalem, sojourning’ Jews, reverent men, from every nation, who were under heaven; \( ^{6} \) and [this sound occurring] the throng came together, and was thrown into confusion, because each one severally heard in his own’ language, them who were speaking; \( ^{7} \) yea they were beside themselves, and did marvel, saying—

Lo! are not [all’ these] who are speaking, ||Galileans||?

8 How then do ||we|| hear, each one in our own’ language in which we were born? \( ^{9} < \) Parthians and Medes and Elamites, and those dwelling in Mesopotamia, Judea also and Cappadocia, Pontus and Asia, \( ^{10} \) Phrygia also and Pamphylia, Egypt and the parts of the Libya that is towards Cyrene, and the sojourning’ Romans,—both Jews and proselytes, \( ^{11} \) Cretans and Arabians> we do hear them speaking, in our own’ tongues, the magnificent things of God.

12 But they were all beside themselves, and were utterly at a loss, saying [one to another]—

What doth this please to be?

13 While ||[other]|| in mockery| were saying—

||With sweet wine|| are they drunken!

14 But [taking his stand] ||Peter, with the eleven| lifted up his voice, and sounded out unto them—

Ye men of Judæa, and all ye who are sojourning in Jerusalem!

Let ||[this]|| unto you’ be [known],

And give ear unto my declarations;—

15 For not, as ||[ye]|| suppose, are these men drunken, for it is the third hour of the day;—

16 But [this] is that which hath been spoken through the prophet Joel—\( ^{f} \)

And it shall be, in the last days, saith God,

I will pour out of my Spirit upon all’ flesh;

And your sons and your daughters shall prophesy,

And ||[your young men]|| [visions] shall see,

And ||[your elders]|| [in dreams] shall dream,—

And <even upon my men-servants and upon my maid-servants,

In those days> will I pour out of my Spirit,

And they shall prophesy;

And I will set forth wonders in the heaven above,

And signs upon the earth beneath,—

For [David] saith concerning him—

Brethren! it is [allowable] to say with freedom of speech unto you, concerning the patriarch
David.—That he both died, and was buried, and [his tomb] is among us until this day.

<Being then a prophet, and knowing that [with an oath] God had sworn unto him [of the fruit of his loins, to seat on his throne]]>

||with foresight|| spake he concerning the resurrection of the Christ—

That neither was he abandoned unto hades,
Nor did his flesh see corruption."

||The same’ Jesus|| hath God raised up, whereof
||all’ we|| are witnesses!

<By the right hand of God> therefore, having been exalted, Also [the promise of the Holy hath poured out this which [||yourselves|| do see and hear.

For [David] hath not ascended into the heavens;
but he saith [||himself||]—

And [when they heard this] they were pricked to § 5. The Lame Man Healed.

Chapter 3.

1 Now [Peter and John] were going up into the temple, for the hour of prayer—the ninth; 2 and [a certain man] who had been [lame from his mother’s womb] was being carried,—whom they used to lay daily at the door of the temple—the [door] called Beautiful, that he might ask alms of those who were entering into the temple:

2 who [seeing Peter and John about to enter into the temple] was requesting to receive [daily] alms. 4 But Peter looking steadfastly at him—with John—said:

> Look on us!

5 And [he] gave heed unto them, expecting to receive [something from them]. 6 But Peter said—

> [Silver and gold] have none,

But [what I have] [the same] unto thee’ do give:

> [In the name of Jesus Christ the Nazarene]—

WALK!

7 And [laying hold of him by the right’ hand] he raised him up; and [instantly] his feet and ankles strengthened;—8 and [leaping forward] he stood, and walked, and entered with them into the temple [walking, and leaping, and praising God] 9 And all’ the people saw him, walking and praising God; 10 and they began to recognise him, that [the same] was he who [for the alms] used to sit at the Beautiful’ Gate of the temple;—and they were filled with amazement and transport at what had happened unto him. 11 And [as he held fast Peter and John] all’ the people ran together unto them, in the portico which is called Solomon’s,—greatly amazed. 12 And Peter [seeing it] made answer unto the people:

> Ye men of Israel!

> Why marvel ye at this man?

Or [upon us] why are ye intently looking, as though [by our own’ power or godliness] we had made him walk?

13 <The God of Abraham and Isaac and Jacob,—

> The God of our fathers>

Hath glorified his servant Jesus:—

Whom [ye] indeed, delivered up and denied to Pilate’s face, 14 [When he had adjudged to release him];

But [ye] denied [the Holy and Righteous One],

And claimed a man that was a murderer, to be granted you;

But [the Princely Leader of Life] ye slew:—

Whom [God] raised from among the dead, whereof [we] are [witnesses].

16 And [by the faith of his name]

> Unto this man whom ye see and know hath his name given strength,—

Yea [the faith which is through him] hath given unto him this perfect soundness, over against you all’!

17 And [now] brethren, I know that [by way of ignorance] ye acted,—

> [Just as even your rulers].

18 Howbeit [God]—

> [what things he had before declared, through the mouth of all’ the prophets, for his Christ to suffer]>— > did [thus] fulfill!

19 Repent ye, therefore, and turn,—unto the blotting out of your sins;

To the end that, in that case, there may come seasons of refreshing from the face of the Lord, 20 And he may send forth him who had been fore-appointed for you—

> [Christ Jesus]:

21 Unto whom, indeed, heaven must needs give welcome, until the times of the due establishment of all things, of which God hath spoken through the mouth of his holy’ age’-past prophets.

22 <Moses] indeed, said—

> [A prophet] unto you shall the Lord God raise up, among your brethren, [like unto me]:

> Unto him] shall ye hearken, respecting all things, whatsoever he shall speak unto you;

And it shall be—

§ 6. The Arrest of Peter and John.

Chapter 4.

1 But [as they were speaking] unto the people] the High-priests\(^{4}\) and the Captain of the temple and the Sadducees, came upon them.\(^{2}\) being tired out because of their teaching the people, and announcing [in Jesus] the resurrection from among the dead;\(^{3}\) and they thrust on them their hands, and put them in custody for the morrow, for it was evening [already].\(^{4}\) Howbeit [many of them that heard the word] believed; and the number of the men became about five thousand.

And it came to pass, upon the morrow, that there were gathered together of them, the rulers and the elders and the scribes, in Jerusalem;

6 also Annas, the high-priest, and Caiaphas, and John, and Alexander, and as many as were of high-priestly descent;—\(^{7}\) and [setting them in the midst] they began to enquire—
\([\text{In what manner of power, or in what manner of name}] \text{ did }[\text{ye}] \text{ do this?}\)

8 [Then Peter, filled with Holy Spirit] said unto them—
Ye rulers of the people, and elders!

9 [If we] this day, are to be examined for doing good to a sick man,— \([\text{In whom}] \text{ this man hath been made well}\>
10 Be it [known] unto you all], and unto all\(\text{ the people of Israel:}

That <in the name of Jesus Christ the Nazarene,—
Whom [ye] crucified,
Whom [God] raised from among the dead>
\([\text{In him}] \text{ doth }[\text{this}] \text{ man stand by, in your presence, }[\text{whole}]\).\(^{11}\)

11 [This] is the stone, set at nought by you the builders,
Which became the head of the corner\(^{2}\);
And there is [in no one else] [salvation],
For [neither is there any other name] under heaven,
Which hath been set forth among men,
In which we must needs be saved.

And <looking at [Peter’s] boldness of speech, and John’s, and having discovered that they were unfettered and obscure men> they began to marvel, recognising them also, that they had been [with Jesus];\(^{14}\) <seeing [the man also] standing with them, even the [man] who had been cured> they had [nothing] wherewith to contradict.\(^{15}\)
Howbeit <ordering them to go forth [outside the high-council]> they began to confer one with another,\(^{16}\) saying—
What are we to do with these men?
For, indeed, <that a notable sign hath come to pass through their means> [unto all’ who are dwelling in Jerusalem] is manifest, and we cannot deny [it]!

17Nevertheless <lest it further spread abroad among the people> let us charge them with threats, to be [no more] speaking upon this name [to any soul of man].\(^{f}\)

18 And [calling them] they gave them the sweeping charge,—Not to be sounding aloud [nor even to be teaching] upon the name of Jesus.\(^{19}\) But [Peter and John] [answering] said unto them—

§ 7. The Apostles Triumphant.

23 But [when they had been let go] they came unto their own [friends], and told as many things as [unto them] [the High-priests and Elders] had said. 24 And [they, having heard] [with one accord] uplifted voice unto God, and said—

O Sovereign!a

[Thou] art he that made the heaven, and the earth, and the sea, and all things that are therein.b

25 Who <by our father, through means of the Holy Spirit, even by the mouth of David thy servant> said—

Unto what end did nations rage,
And [peoples] busy themselves with empty things?

The kings of the earth [stationed themselves],
And [the rulers] were gathered together, with one intent,

[Against the Lord, And against his Christ].c

26 For they were gathered together, of a truth, in this city, against thy holy’ servant Jesus, whom thou hadst anointed,—[both Herod, and Pontius Pilate, with them of the nations, and peoples of Israel];—28 to do whatsoever [thy hand and thy counsel] marked out beforehand to come to pass.

27 [As to the present things], then, O Lord,—Look upon their threats, and grant unto thy servants [with all freedom of utterance] to be speaking thy word, by stretching forth thy hand for healing, and by the coming to pass [of both signs and wonders] [through the name of thy holy servant Jesus]].

28 And [when they had made supplication] the place was shaken in which they were gathered together, and they were filled, one and all, with the Holy’ Spirit, and began speaking the word of God with freedom of utterance.

29 And [the throng of them that believed] had one heart and soul, and not so much as one was saying that [aught of his goods] was [his own], but they had all things common. 30 And [with great power] were the apostles giving forth their witness of the resurrection [of the Lord Jesus]; great favour also was upon them all’. 31 For there was not so much as anyone [lacking] among them; for [as many as were possessors of lands or houses] [selling them] were bringing the prices of the things that were being sold, and laying them at the feet of the Apostles, while on the other hand they were distributing unto each one, in so far as any one had [need]. 32 And <Joseph, who had been surnamed Barnabas, by the Apostles, which is to be translated Son of Exhortation,—a Levite, a Cyprian by nation> [having a field] sold it, and brought the money, and laid it at the feet of the Apostles.

§ 8. Ananias and Sapphira.

Chapter 5.

1 But [ sold a possession. 2 and kept back part of the price, his wife also being privy’ to it; and [bringing a certain part] [at the feet of the Apostles] he laid it. 3 But Peter said—

Ananias! wherefore did Satan fill thy heart, that thou shouldst deal falsely with the Holy Spirit, and keep back part of the price of the field?

4 [While it remained] was it not [as thine own] it remained? and [when sold] was it not [in thine own’ authority] that it still continued? Why was it that thou didst contrive in thy heart this deed? Thou hast not dealt falsely [with men] but [with God].

5 And [as Ananias heard these words] he fell, and expired. And there came great fear upon all’ that heard; 6 but the young men [rising up] wrapped him about, and, bearing him forth, buried him. 7 <And it came to pass, after about three’ hours’ interval> that his wife [not knowing what had happened] came in. 8 And Peter began to say unto her—

Tell me! was it [for so much] ye gave up [the field]?
And [she] said—
Yea! for so much.
9 And [Peter] [said] unto her—
Why was it agreed by you to put to the proof the Spirit of the Lord?

c Or: “Anointed One.” Ps. ii. 1, 2.
Lo! [the feet of them that have buried thy husband] are at the door, and they shall bear thee forth.

10 And she fell instantly at his feet, and expired.

11 And the young men [coming in] found her dead; and, bearing her forth, they buried her with her husband. And there came great fear upon the whole assembly, and upon all [them that heard these things.

12 And [through the hands of the Apostles] were coming to pass many signs and wonders, among the people; and they were all with one accord in the portico of Solomon;—13 howbeit [of the rest] [no one] durst join himself unto them,—nevertheless the people continued to magnify them; 14 and [the more] were being added [when they believed in the Lord] throns both of men and women;—15 so that [even into the broad-ways] were they bringing forth the sick, and laying them on small couches and beds, in order that [if Peter were coming along] [even perchance his shadow] might overshadow some one of them. 16 Moreover even the throng of the cities all round Jerusalem was coming together, bearing sick folk, and such as were harassed by impure spirits,—[who] indeed, were being cured [one and all].

§ 10. The Authorities, foiled, are advised by Gamaliel.

17 But the High-priest [arising], and all [who were with him,—being the sect of the Sadducees,—were filled with jealousy; 18 and thrust their hands upon the Apostles, and put them in a public ward. 19 But [a messenger of the Lord] [by night] opened the doors of the prison; and [leading them out] said—

20 Be going your way, and [taking your stand] be speaking, in the temple, unto the people, all the declarations of this Life.

21 Now [when they heard this] they entered, under the dawn, into the temple, and began teaching. And the High-priest and they who were with him [arriving] called together the high-council, and all [the senate of the sons of Israel; and sent off unto the prison, to have them brought.

22 And [the officers who came to the place] found them not in the prison; and, returning, brought tidings, 23 saying—

24 Now [when both the captain of the temple and the High-priests heard these words] they were utterly at a loss concerning them—what perhaps this might come to. 25 But some one [entering] brought tidings unto them—

Lo! [the men whom ye put in the prison] are in the temple, standing, and teaching the people!

26 [Then] the captain with the officers [departing] brought them—not with violence,—for they were afraid of the people, lest they should be stoned; 27 but, leading them in, set them in the high-council. And the High-priest questioned them, 28 saying—[Strictly] did we charge you not to be teaching upon this name; and lo! ye have filled Jerusalem with your teaching, and are minded to bring down upon us [the blood of this man].

29 But Peter and the Apostles [answering] said—It is needful [to be yielding obedience] unto God [rather than unto men]:—

30 [The God of our fathers] hath raised up Jesus,—whom [you] got into your hands, [suspending him upon a tree]:—

31 [Him, as Princely-leader and Saviour] hath God exalted unto his right hand,—to give repentance unto Israel, and remission of sins. And [we] are witnesses of these things,—also the Holy Spirit, which God hath given unto them who are yielding obedience unto him.

32 And [they, when they heard this] were cut to the heart, and were making up their minds to slay them. 34 But a certain man, rising up in the high-council, by name Gamaliel, a law-teacher honoured by all [the people, gave orders to put the men] [outside, for a little],—35 and said unto them—

Men of Israel! Be taking heed unto yourselves, what ye are about to inflict [upon these men].

36 For [before these days] there rose up one Theudas, affirming [himself] to be somebody,—unto whom was inclined a number of men, about four hundred; who was slain, and [all as many as had been trusting in him] were disbanded, and came to nothing.

37 [After him] rose up Judas the Galilæan, in the days of the enrolling, and drew a people into revolt after him; and [he] perished, and [all, as many as had trusted in him] were scattered.

38 [Now, therefore] I say unto you—Stand aloof from these men, and let them alone; because [if] of men be this project or this work> it will be overthrown,— but [if it is] [of God] ye will not be able to overthrow them: lest once [even fighters against God] ye be found.

40 And they were persuaded by him; and [calling unto them the Apostles] they [with beating] charged them not to be speaking upon the name of Jesus; and let them go.

41 [They], therefore, went rejoicing from the presence of the high-council; in that they had been accounted worthy [in behalf of The Name] to suffer dishonour. 42 And <every' day in the temple, and at home> they ceased not to be teaching, and telling the good news as to the Anointed' Jesus.

§ 11. Murmering among the Disciples: Seven chosen to minister.

Chapter 6.

1 But [in these days] <the disciples [multiplying]> there arose a murmuring of the Grecian Jews against the Hebrews, in that [their widows] were being overlooked in the daily ministry.

2 And the Twelve, calling near the throng of the disciples, said—

It doth not seem [right] that [we], forsaking the word of God, should be ministering unto tables.

3 But look out for yourselves, brethren, seven men from among you, who can be well-attested, full of Spirit and wisdom,—whom we will appoint over this need;

4 But [we] <unto prayer and unto the ministry of the word> will give constant attention.

5 And the word [was pleasing] in the sight of all’ the throng; and they selected Stephen, a man full of faith and Holy Spirit, and Philip and Prochorus and Nicanor and Timon and Parmenas and Nicholas, a proselyte of Antioch; 6 whom they set before the Apostles, and [praying] they laid upon them their hands. 7 And [the word of God] went on growing, and the number of the disciples in Jerusalem continued to multiply [exceedingly]; [a great’ multitude of the priests also] were becoming obedient unto the faith.

§ 12. Stephen stirs up Opposition.

8 Now [Stephen] [full of favour and power] began to do great wonders and signs among the people. 9 But there rose up certain of those out of the synagogue which is called [the synagogue] of them of Libertium and Cyrene and Alexandria, and certain of them from Cilicia and Asia,— disputing with Stephen; 10 and they could not withstand the wisdom and the Spirit with which he was speaking. 11 [Then] they set on men who were saying—

We have heard him speaking profanea things against Moses and God.

12 And they stirred upb the people and the elders and the scribes; and [coming upon him] they caught him away, and led him into the high-council. 13 And they set up false witnesses, who said—

[This man] ceaseth not speaking things against thisc holy place and the law; 14 for we have heard him saying—

[This Jesus the Nazarene] will overthrow this place, and will change the customs which [Moses] delivered unto us.

15 And [looking steadfastly at him] [all’ they who were sitting in the high-council] saw his face, as if the face of a messenger.d

Chapter 7.

1 And the High-priest said—

Are these things [so]?

2 And [he] said—

Brethren and fathers, hearken! [The God of Glory]e appeared unto our father Abraham, while he was in Mesopotamia, before he dwelt in Haran,— and said unto him—

Get thee forth, out of thy land, and from among thy kindred, and come unto the land whichf unto thee I will point out.g
And he gave unto him seed after him:

And he gave it unto him in possession, and unto his seed after him; when as yet he had not a child.

But God spake thus——

His seed shall be a sojourner in a foreign land, and they will bring it unto him in possession, and unto his seed after him, when as yet he had not a child.

And he gave unto him a covenant of circumcision; and thus he begat Isaac, and circumcised him on the eighth day; and Isaac, Jacob, and Jacob, the twelve patriarchs.

And the patriarchs, being jealous of Joseph, gave him up into Egypt; and [God] was with him.

And he appointed him governor over Egypt, and all its tribulations, and gave him favour and wisdom before Pharaoh king of Egypt, and he appointed him governor over Egypt and all its house.

And there came a famine upon all Egypt, and Canaan, and great tribulation, and [our fathers] could not find pasture.

But Jacob, hearing there was corn in Egypt, sent off our fathers [first]; and the second time Joseph was made known unto his brethren, and the race of Joseph was made manifest unto Pharaoh.

And Joseph, sending forth, called for Jacob his father, and all the kindred, consisting of seventy-five souls; and Jacob went down into Egypt. And he died, [he] and our fathers; and were brought over into Shechem, and laid in the tomb which Abraham had purchased, for a price of silver, of the sons of Hamor in Shechem.

Now just as the time of the promise was drawing near wherein God had agreed with Abraham> the people grew, and were multiplied in Egypt,—until there arose another sort of king over Egypt, who had not known Joseph. The same [dealing craftily with our race] ill-treated our fathers, so as to cause their babes to be exposed, to the end they might not be suffered to live.

In which season [Moses] was born, and was exceeding goodly,—who was nourished up three months in the house of his father; but [when he was exposed] the daughter of Pharaoh rescued him, and nourished him for herself as a son. And so Moses was trained in all the wisdom of the Egyptians, and was mighty in his words and works.

And [when there was being fulfilled unto him a period of forty years] it came up on his heart, to look after his brethren the sons of Israel and [seeing one being wronged] he defended him, and avenged him that was getting wronged, smiting the Egyptian. But he supposed his brethren [would understand] that [God] through his hand would give them deliverance; whereas they understood not.

[On the following day also] he appeared unto them, as they were contending, and would have reconciled them in peace, saying——

Men! ye are [brothers]!

Wherefore wrong ye one another?

But the that was wronging his neighbour thrust him away, saying——
Who hath appointed thee to be ruler and judge over us?

Art thou wishing to kill me in the same way thou didst kill, yesterday, the Egyptian?

And Moses fled at this saying, and became a sojourner in the land of Midian, where he begat two sons. And when forty years were fulfilled there appeared unto him in the desert of Mount Sinai a messenger, in a flame of fire, in a bush. And Moses seeing it marveled at the sight; and as he was going near to observe there came a voice of the Lord—

The same is he that came to be in the assembly in the desert, with the messenger who was speaking with him in Mount Sinai, and with our fathers, the he who welcomed living utterances, to give unto us:

Unto whom our fathers would not become obedient, but thrust him away, and turned in their hearts unto Egypt, saying unto Aaron—

Make as gods who shall go before us; For as for this Moses who brought us forth out of Egypt,

We know not what hath befallen him!

And so they fell to calf-making in those days, and offered sacrifice unto the idol, and rejoiced in the works of their hands.

But God turned and delivered them up to be doing divine service unto the host of heaven,—

Just as it is written in a book of the prophets—Victims and sacrifices did ye offer unto me, forty years in the desert, O house of Israel? Nay! but ye took with you the tent of Moloch, and the star of the god Rephan,—

The forms which ye made to bow down unto them:

Therefore will I carry you away beyond Babylon.

The same was with our fathers in the desert, according as he who was speaking unto Moses gave instructions to make it according to the model which he had seen.

Which our fathers succeeding to brought in with Joshua, when taking possession of the nations, which God put out from before our fathers until the days of David;

Who found favour before God, and asked to find a habitation for the God of Jacob.

But Solomon built him a house.

Chapter 8.

1 And ||Saul|| was taking pleasure with them in his death. Moreover there arose, in that day, a great persecution against the assembly which was in Jerusalem; {and} ||all|| were scattered abroad throughout the countries of Judæa and Samaria, except the apostles. 2 Howbeit reverent men assisted, at the burial of Stephen, and made great lamentation over him. 3 But ||Saul|| went on to lay waste the assembly, {along the houses} going in, and {dragging off both men and women} was delivering them up into prison.

§ 15. Philip preaches in Samaria.

4 ||They, indeed, therefore, who were scattered abroad|| passed through, telling the good-news of the word; 5 and ||Philip|| ||going down unto the city of Samaria|| proclaimed unto them the Christ. 6 And the multitudes began to give heed unto the things that were being spoken by Philip, with one accord, when they heard him, and saw the signs which he was working. For ||from many who had impure spirits|| {shouting with a loud voice} they were going out, and {many that were paralysed and lame} were cured. 8 And there came to be great joy in that city.

9 But ||a certain man named Simon|| was already in the city, practising magical arts, and astonishing the nation of Samaria,—saying that himself was someone great. 10 unto whom all were giving heed, from small even to great, saying— 11 ||This|| is the Power of God, which is called Great.

11 And they were giving heed to him, because that ||for a considerable time|| {with his magical arts} he had astonished them. 12 But <when they believed Philip telling the good news concerning the kingdom of God, and the name of Jesus Christ> they proceeded to be immersed, both men and women. 13 And ||Simon himself also|| believed; and {having been immersed} was in constant attendance on Philip,—and <beholding

14 And the Apostles who were in Jerusalem, hearing that Samaria had welcomed the word of God, sent out unto them Peter and John;

15 who, indeed, going down, prayed for them, that they might receive Holy Spirit;— for not yet had it [upon any one of them] fallen, but [only, to begin with] they had been immersed into the name of the Lord Jesus. 16 ||Then|| proceeded they to lay their hands upon them, and they were receiving Holy Spirit.

18 But Simon, seeing that through means of the laying on of the hands of the Apostles, the Spirit was being given, offered unto them money, saying— Give unto me also this authority,— In order that on whomsoever I may lay my hands, he may receive Holy Spirit.

20 And Peter said unto him— ||Thy silver, with thee|| go to destruction! Because the free-gift of God, thou didst suppose could [with money] be obtained!

21 Thou hast neither part nor lot in this matter; For is not upright before God.a

22 Repent, therefore, from this thy baseness, And entreat of the Lord— Whether [after all] the purpose of thy heart shall be forgiven thee;

23 For I see that thou servest as A gall-root of bitterness, And a bond of unrighteousness.D

24 And Simon, answering, said— Entreat ye, in my behalf, unto the Lord; That may come upon me, Of the things whereof ye have spoken!

25 They, therefore, having fully borne witness, and spoken the word of the Lord, began their return unto Jerusalem, and unto many villages of the Samaritans were they telling the glad tidings.

§ 16. The Conversion of an Ethiopian Eunuch.

26 And a messenger of the Lord spake unto Philip, saying— Arise, and be journeying along southward, unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza,—[the same] is desert.

27 And, arising, he journeyed. And lo! a man of Ethiopia, a eunuch, one in power under Candace queen of the Ethiopians, who was over all’ her treasure, had come to worship in Jerusalem; and was returning, and sitting in his chariot and was reading the prophet Isaiah. 29 And the Spirit said unto Philip—

Go near, and join thyself unto this chariot!

30 And running near Philip heard him reading Isaiah the prophet, and said— Dost thou, then, understand what thou art reading?

31 And he said— How indeed should I be able—unless someone shall guide me? And he called upon Philip, to come up and sit with him. 32 Now the passage of Scripture which he was reading was this:

||As a sheep|| unto slaughter, was he led, And before him that sheareth it, is dumb> ||So he openeth not his mouth.

33 ||In his humiliation|| his judgment was taken away,— ||His generation|| who shall describe? Because is taken away from the earth.D

34 And the eunuch making answer unto Philip, said—

I pray thee! Of whom, is the prophet saying this?

||Of himself|| or ||of some different person||?

35 And Philip, opening his mouth, and beginning from this scripture, told him the glad tidings of Jesus. And as they were journeying along the way, they came unto a certain water,—and the eunuch saith—

Lo! water!

What doth hinder my being immersed? [c]

38 And he commanded the chariot to stand still; and they went down, both, into the water, [both Philip and the eunuch],—and he immersed him. But when they came up out of the water, [the Spirit of the Lord] caught away Philip, and [the eunuch] saw him no more; for he was going on his way rejoicing. 40 Now Philip was found at Azotus; and passing through he was telling the glad tidings unto all the cities, until he came unto Caesarea.

§ 17. The Conversion of Saul.
Chap. xxii. 6, ff.; xxvi. 12, ff.

Chapter 9.

1 But ||Saul|| <yet breathing> threatening and slaughter against the disciples of the Lord> ||going unto the High-priest|| asked from him letters for Damascus, unto the synagogues; to the end that <if he should find any> who were of The Way, whether men or women ||might bring them|| unto Jerusalem. ||But as he was journeying|| it came to pass that he was drawing near unto Damascus, and ||suddenly|| there flashed around him a light out of heaven;

4 and ||falling unto the earth|| he heard a voice saying unto him—

Saul! Saul! why ||me|| art thou persecuting?

5 And he said—

Who art thou, Lord?

And ||I|| am Jesus, whom ||thou|| art persecuting!

6 But rise up, and enter into the city, and it shall be told thee what thou must do.

7 But ||the men who were accompanying him|| stood speechless,—hearing indeed the voice, but beholding ||no|| one. ||And Saul arose from the earth, and ||his eyes being opened|| he could see ||nothing||; and ||taking him by the hand|| they led him into Damascus,—||and he was three days without seeing, and did neither eat nor drink. ||Now there was a certain disciple in Damascus, by name Ananias; and ||the Lord|| said unto him in a vision—

Ananias!

and ||he|| said—

Lo! ||I|| am here, Lord!

11 And the Lord ||said|| unto him—

Rise! go into the street which is called Straight, and seek ||in the house of Judas|| one Saul, by name, of Tarsus.

For ||lo!|| he is praying,—||and hath seen a man ||in a vision||, Ananias by name, coming in and laying on him his hands, to the intent he should see.

13 And Ananias ||answered||—

Lord! I have heard from many, concerning this man,—||how many evil things, unto thy saints|| he hath done, in Jerusalem;

14 And ||here|| he hath authority from the High-priests, to bind all’ them that call upon thy name.

15 But the Lord said unto him—

Be going thy way; for ||a choice vessel unto me|| is this man, to bear my name before both ||the nations and kings, and the sons of Israel;|| will let him understand how many things he must needs ||for my name|| suffer.

17 And Ananias departed, and entered into the house; and ||laying upon him his hands|| said—

Saul, brother!

||The Lord|| hath sent me,—

Jesus, who appeared unto thee in the way by which thou wast coming,—

That thou mayest recover sight, and be filled with Holy Spirit.

18 ||straightway|| there fell from him—from his eyes,—as it were scales; he recovered sight also, and ||arising, was immersed||: ||and, receiving food, gained strength. And he came to be with the disciples who were ||in Damascus, certain days;|| and ||straightway, in the synagogues|| he began proclaiming Jesus, that

||This|| is the Son of God.

21 And all’ who were hearing were astonished, and began to say—

Is not ||this|| he who destroyed, in Jerusalem, them that invoke this name; and ||here, for this purpose|| had come, in order that he might lead them ||unto Jerusalem;|| unto the High-priests?

22 But ||Saul|| was the more gaining power; and was confounding the Jews who dwelt in Damascus, shewing, by comparison, that—

||This|| is the Christ.

23 Now <when a considerable number of days were being fulfilled> the Jews took counsel together to kill him; ||but their plot was made known unto Saul,—and they were even narrowly watching the gates, both day and night, that they might kill him; but the disciples, taking him by night, ||through the wall|| let him down, lowering him in a basket.

26 And ||when he had arrived in Jerusalem|| he made attempts to join himself unto the disciples; and ||all|| were afraid of him, not believing that he was a disciple. 27 But ||Barnabas|| taking him, brought him unto the apostles, and related unto them,— how [in the way] he had seen the Lord, and that he had spoken unto him; and how [in Damascus] he had spoken boldly in the name of Jesus. 28 And he was with them, coming in and going out in Jerusalem, speaking boldly in the name of the Lord; 29 and was both speaking and discussing with the Grecian Jews,—but [they] were setting to work to kill him.

30 And the brethren [discovering it] brought him down into Cæsarea, and sent him away unto Tarsus. 31 So then ||the assembly, throughout the whole’ of
Judæa and Galilee and Samaria|| had peace, building itself up, and going on in its way in the fear of the Lord; and [by the advocacy of the Holy’
Spirit] was being multiplied.

§ 18. Æneas healed at Lydda.

32 And it came to pass that ||[Peter]|| going through all [quarters] went down unto the saints also dwelling in Lydda. 33 And he found there a certain man, by name Æneas, who [for eight years] had been lying prostrate upon a bed, for he was paralysed. 34 And Peter said unto him—
Æneas! Jesus Christ healeth thee!
Arise, and smooth thy bed for thyself.
And [straightway] he arose. 35 And all’ who dwelt in Lydda and Saron [saw him],—and [they] turned unto the Lord.

§ 19. Dorcas raised at Joppa.

36 Now ||in Joppa|| there was a certain female disciple, by name Tabitha, which, being translated, means Dorcas {a Gazelle}. ||[The same]|| was full of good works and alms which she was doing.8

37 And it came to pass, in those days, that she, sickening, died; and, bathing her, they laid her in an upper room. 38 Now <Lydda being [nigh] unto Joppa> [the disciples] hearing that Peter was therein, sent off two’ men unto him, beseeching
him—
Do not delay to come through unto us!
39 And Peter, arising, went with them,—whom [when he arrived] they brought up into the upper room; and there stood by him all’ the widows, weeping, and showing the tunics and mantles—whatsoever things [Dorcas] was making while she was with them. 40 But Peter [putting them all outside] knelt down and prayed, and [turning towards the body] said—
Tabitha, arise!
And [she] <opening her eyes, and seeing Peter> sat up. 41 And [giving her his hand] he raised her up;
and, calling the saints and the widows, presented her [living]. 42 And it became [known] throughout the whole of Joppa, and many believed upon the Lord. 43 And it came to pass that [for a considerable number of days] he abode in Joppa, with one Simon, a tanner.

Chapter 10.

1 But <a certain man in Cæsarea, by name
Cornelius, a centurion of the band called Italian,— 2 devout, and fearing God with all’ his house, doing many alms unto the people, and supplicating God continually> 3 saw, in a vision, manifestly, as if about the ninth hour of the day, a messenger of God, coming in unto him, and saying unto him— Cornelius!
4 And [he] <looking steadfastly at him, and becoming [full of fear]> said—
What is it, Lord?8b
And he said unto him—
[Thy prayers and thine alms] have gone up for a memorial before God.
5 [Now] therefore, send men unto Joppa, 6 and fetch one Simon who is surnamed Peter,— 6 [the same] is a guest with one Simon a tanner, whose house is by the sea.
7 And [when the messenger who had been speaking with him had departed] <calling two of the domestics, and a devout soldier of them that constantly attended him, 8 and relating everything unto them> he sent them off unto Joppa. 9 Now <on the morrow, as those men were journeying, and unto the city> drawing near> Peter went up on the housetop to pray, about the sixth hour; 10 but he became hungry, and wished to eat,—and [while they were making ready] there came upon him a trance; 11 and he beheldeth heaven opened, and

Ver. 32; chap. xi. 13.
[coming down] a kind of vessel, like a large linen cloth, [by its four corners] being let down upon the earth, in which were all’ the quadrupeds and creeping things of earth and birds of heaven. And there came a voice unto him—

Rise, Peter! sacrifice and eat.

But Peter said—

By no means! Lord! because [at no time] have I eaten anything common or unclean.

And a voice again, a second time, unto him—

<What things hast thou> be not making common.

Now this took place thrice; and straightway was the vessel taken up into heaven.

And as within himself Peter was doubting what the vision which he had seen might mean, I lo! [the men who had been sent by Cornelius] hav ing sought out the house of Simon stood at the gate, and, calling, enquired whether [Simon who was surnamed Peter] was there’ being entertained. And as Peter was pondering over the vision the Spirit said—

Lo! two men, seeking thee.

But rise, go down, and be journeying with them, nothing doubting; because have I sent them.

And Peter, going down’ unto the men, said—

Lo! I am he whom ye are seeking: What is the cause for which ye are come?

And they said—

Cornelius! a centurion, a man righteous and fearing God, well-attested by the whole’ nation of the Jews hath been divinely instructed by a holy messenger, to send for thee unto his house, and to hear words from thee.

Inviting them in therefo re, he entertained them; but [on the morrow] he rose up and went forth with them, and certain of the brethren who were from Joppa went with him; and [on the morrow] he entered into Cæsarea. And Cornelius was expecting them, having called together his kinsfolk and intimate’ friends.

And when it came about that Peter entered— Cornelius met him, and [falling at his feet] did homage. But Peter raised him up, saying— Arise! I also myself am [a man].

And conversing with him he went in, and findeth many come together; and said unto them—

Ye well know, how unlawful it is, for a Jew to be joining himself, or coming in, unto one of another race.

And yet hath God pointed out that I should be calling no man common or unclean.

Wherefore even without gainsaying came I when sent for. I ask, therefore, for what reason ye sent for me.

And Cornelius said—

Four days ago, counting unto this very hour I was keeping the ninth hour as one of prayer, in my house. And lo! a man stood before me, in bright clothing, and said—

Cornelius! Thy prayer hath been heard, and thine alms have been remembered before God.

Send, therefore, unto Joppa, and fetch Simon who is surnamed Peter. The same is being entertained in the house of one Simon a tanner, by the sea.

Immediately therefore, I sent unto thee: Thou also hast well done in coming. Now therefore all well before God are present, to hear all things that have been enjoined upon thee by the Lord.

And Peter, opening his mouth, said—

Of a truth I find, that God is no respecter of persons; but in every nation he that feareth him and worketh righteousness is acceptable unto him.

As touching the word he hath sent unto the sons of Israel, announcing the glad tidings of peace through Jesus Christ—the same is Lord of all! ye yourselves know what hath come to pass throughout the whole of Judea, beginning from Galilee, after the immersion which John proclaimed, respecting Jesus who was of Nazareth;—

How anointed him with Holy Spirit and with power. Who went about, doing good and healing all’ that were oppressed by the adversary, because God was with him.

Mt. xxiii. 39.

But Peter saying—

Surely then

Then answered Peter—

While Peter was yet speaking these words> the Holy Spirit fell upon all who were hearing the word. And the faithful of the circumcision who had come with Peter were amazed,—in that upon the nations also the free-gift of the Holy Spirit had been poured out; for they heard them speaking with tongues, and magnifying God. Then answered Peter—

Surely then the water can no man forbid, that these should not be immersed,—seeing that they have received as well.

And he commanded them to be immersed. Then requested they him, to abide still some days.

§ 21. Peter’s defence to Them of the Circumcision.

Chapter 11.

Now the Apostles and the brethren who were throughout Judea heard that the nations also had welcomed the word of God. And <when Peter came up unto Jerusalem> they of the circumcision began to find fault with him, saying—

He went in unto men uncircumcised, and did eat with them.

But Peter making a beginning went on to set forth the matter unto them in order, saying—

[I] was in the city of Joppa, praying, and saw, in a trance, a vision;—a sort of vessel, like a large sheet, by four corners being let down out of heaven, and it came even unto me: into which steadfastly looking, I began to observe, and saw the quadrupeds of the earth, and the wild beasts, and the creeping things, and the birds of heaven.

Moreover I heard a voice also, saying unto me—

Rise, Peter! sacrifice and eat.

But I said—

By no means! Lord, because a common or unclean thing hath entered into my mouth.

And a voice answered, a second time, out of heaven—

What things hath cleansed be not making common.

And took place thrice,—and the whole was drawn up again into heaven; and lo! immediately three men halted at the house wherein we were, sent from Cæsarea unto me. And the Spirit bade me go with them, nothing doubting.

And there went with me, these six brethren also; and we entered into the house of the man, and he related to us how he had seen the messenger in his house, standing, and saying—

Send away unto Joppa, and fetch Simon, who is surnamed Peter: who shall speak words unto thee, whereby thou shalt be saved, and all thy house.

And as I began to be speaking the Holy Spirit fell upon them, just as upon us also, at the beginning.

And I was put in mind of the word of the Lord, how he used to say—[John] indeed, immersed with water; But ye shall be immersed in Holy Spirit.

If therefore the like free-gift God gave unto them, as even unto us, when we had believed upon the Lord Jesus Christ> who was || the like free-gift God gave unto them, as even unto us, when we had believed upon the Lord Jesus Christ> who was || that could withstand God?

And having heard these things they held their peace, and glorified God, saying—

Hence even unto the nations God hath granted repentance unto life.

§ 22. The Dispersion (chap. viii. 1): the Faith spreads as far as Antioch in Syria, whither Barnabas is sent, Saul is brought, and Agabus comes with tidings of a famine.

19[They, therefore, who had been scattered abroad by reason of the tribulation that took place on account of Stephen] passed through as far as Phœnicæ and Cyprus and Antioch, [unto no one] speaking the word, save alone unto Jews.

20And there were some from among them, Cyprians and Cyrenians, who, indeed, [coming unto Antioch] began speaking [even unto the Grecian Jews], announcing the glad tidings as to the Lord Jesus; and the hand of the Lord was with them, and a great number—they who believed—turned unto the Lord. 22 And the matter was reported in the hearing of the assembly that was in Jerusalem, concerning them; and they sent forth Barnabas, as far as Antioch; 23 who arriving, and seeing the favour which was of God rejoiced, and went on to beseech all [with the purpose of their heart] to abide in the Lord; 24 because he was a good man, and full of Holy Spirit and faith; and a considerable multitude were added unto the Lord.

25 He went away, however, unto Tarsus, to seek up Saul; 26 and, finding him, he brought him unto Antioch. And so it was with them, that [for a whole year] they were brought together in the assembly, and taught a considerable multitude; also that the disciples [first in Antioch] were called Christians.

27 Now [in these days] there came down from Jerusalem, prophets, unto Antioch. 28 And one from among them, by name Agabus, [rising up] gave a sign, through means of the Spirit, that [a great famine] was coming over all the inhabited earth; which, indeed, came to pass under Claudius. 29 And according as any one [of the disciples] was being prospered they each one of them set apart [something] for ministering, to send unto the brethren [who dwelt in Jerusalem]; 30 which thing they also did, sending it unto the Elders, through the hand of Barnabas and Saul.

§ 23. Herod slays James, and imprisons Peter. Peter delivered: Herod smitten.

Chapter 12.

1 Now [in the course of that season] Herod the king thrust forth his hands to harm some of them of the assembly,—2 and slew James the brother of John with a sword: 3 and seeing that it was acceptable unto the Jews he went on to apprehend Peter also (now they were the days of unleavened bread),—4 [whom also having seized] he put into prison, delivering him up unto four quaternions of soldiers, to be guarding him,—intending [after the passover] to bring him up unto the people. 5 [Peter], therefore, was kept in the prison; but [prayer] was earnestly being made by the assembly, unto God, concerning him. 6 And [when Herod was about to bring him forth] [on that night] was Peter sleeping between two soldiers, bound with two chains, guards also, [before the door] were keeping the prison. 7 And lo! a messenger of the Lord stood over him, and a light shone in the cell; and smiting the side of Peter he roused him up, saying—Rise up quickly! And his chains fell off out of his hands. 8 And the messenger said unto him—Gird thyself, and bind on thy sandals. And he did so. And he saith unto him—Throw around thee thy mantle, and be following me.

9 And, coming out, he began following, and knew not that it was true which was coming about through means of the messenger; but supposed that [a vision] he was beholding. 10 And passing through the first ward and the second they came unto the iron gate that leadeth into the city, the which [of its own accord] opened unto them; and, coming out, they went on through one street, and straightway the messenger was parted from him. 11 And [Peter] coming to himself said—Now know I of a truth, that the Lord hath sent forth his messenger, and taken me out of the hand of Herod, and all the expectation of the people of the Jews.

12 And, considering the matter, he came unto the house of Mary, the mother of John who was surnamed Mark, where a considerable number were gathered together and praying. \(^{13}\) And when he had knocked at the door of the porch> there came unto it a maiden to hearken, by name Rhoda; \(^{14}\) and [recognizing the voice of Peter] \([\text{by reason of her joy}]\) she opened not the porch,—but [running in] bare tidings, that Peter was standing before the porch. But [they] unto her said—

 Thou art raving! \(^{15}\) [She] however, kept on strongly declaring that it was. But [they] were saying—

 It is his [messenger]. \(^{16}\) And [Peter] continued knocking; and, opening, they saw him, and were amazed. \(^{17}\) But [making a sign to them with his hand to hold their peace] he related to them how [the Lord] had brought [him] forth out of the prison; and he said—

 Carry tidings unto James and the brethren, as to these things. And, going out, he went his way unto some other place. \(^{18}\) And [when it became day] there was no small commotion among the soldiers, as to What, then, Peter had become! \(^{19}\) And [Herod] <seeking after and not finding, him> having examined the guards ordered them to be led away [to death]; and [going down from Judæa unto Cesarea] stayed there. \(^{20}\) Now he was bitterly hostile to them of Tyre and Zidon; but [with one accord] they came unto him, and [persuading Blastus, who was over the bed-chamber of the king] they were suing for peace; because their country was fed by the king’s. \(^{21}\) And [on an appointed day] [Herod] <putting on royal apparel, and seating himself upon the tribunal> proceeded to deliver an oration unto them. \(^{22}\) And [the populace] began to shout—

 [A god’s] voice, and not [a man’s]! \(^{23}\) And [instantly] there smote him, a messenger of the Lord, because he gave not the glory unto God; and [becoming worm-eaten] he expired. \(^{24}\) And [the word of the Lord] went on growing and multiplying. \(^{25}\) And [Barnabas and Saul] returned unto Jerusalem, fulfilling the ministering, taking with them John who was surnamed Mark.

\item Now there were in Antioch, distributed through the existing’ assembly,—prophets and teachers: both Barnabas and Symeon who was called Niger, and Lucius the Cyrenian, Manaen also, Herod the tetrarch’s foster-brother, and Saul. \(^{2}\) And [as they were publicly ministering unto the Lord and fasting] the Holy Spirit said—

 Separate forthwith unto me, Barnabas and Saul, unto the work whereunto I have called them. \(^{3}\) [Then] fasting and praying, and laying their hands upon them> they sent them away. \(^{4}\) [They], therefore, [being sent forth by the Holy Spirit] went down unto Seleucia, and [from thence] sailed away unto Cyprus; \(^{5}\) and, coming to be in Salamis, they declared the word of God in the synagogues of the Jews;—and they had [John also] as an attendant.

 And [passing through the whole’ island, as far as Paphos] they found a certain man, a magician, a false-prophet, a Jew, whose name was Bar-jesus; \(^{7}\) who was with the proconsul, Sergius Paulus, an intelligent man. [The same] calling for Barnabas and Saul sought to hear the word of God. \(^{8}\) But Elymas the magician,—for so, when translated, is his name,—withstood them; seeking to turn aside the proconsul from the faith. \(^{9}\) But Saul [who is also Paul] <filled with Holy Spirit, looking steadfastly at him> said—

 [Now] therefore, lo! [the hand of the Lord] is upon thee, and thou shalt be blind, not seeing the sun, until a fitting time.

Acts 13:15 And [setting sail from Paphos] Paul’s company came into Perga of Pamphylia; but [John] withdrawing from them returned unto Jerusalem.
14 [They] however, passing through from Perga arrived at Antioch of Pisidia; and [going into the synagogue on the sabbath-day] sat down. 15 And <after the reading of the law and the prophets> the synagogue-rulers sent unto them, saying—

Brethren! <if there is in you a word of exhortation unto the people> say on.
16 And Paul <standing up> making a sign with his hand> said—
Ye men of Israel! and such as revere God! hearken:—

[The God of this people Israel] chose our fathers, and [the people] he exalted, by their sojourn in the land of Egypt,—and [with a high arm] brought them out of it;
and [for the time of about forty years] bare with their manners in the desert; 19 and <overthrowing seven nations in the land of Canaan> gave them their land as an inheritance—about four hundred and fifty years.

And [after these things] he gave them judges, until Samuel the prophet. 21 And [from that time] they asked for themselves a king, and God gave them Saul, son of Kish, a man of the tribe of Benjamin, during forty years; 22 and [setting him aside] raised up [David] unto them for king,—of whom he also said [bearing witness]—

I have found David, the son of Jesse,— {A man} according to my heart, Who will do all’ my will.

23 [From this’ man’s seed] God hath [according to promise] brought unto Israel, a saviour—[Jesus]:

24 John beforehand proclaiming] before the face of his coming in, an immersion of repentance, unto all’ the people of Israel.
25 And <as John was fulfilling his course> he was saying—

Whom are ye supposing that [I] am? [I] am not he!
But lo! there cometh, after me,
One of whom I am not worthy [the sandals of his feet] to loosen.

26 Brethren! sons of the race of Abraham, and those who among you revere God,—unto you] hath this word of salvation been sent forth: 27 For <they who were dwelling in Jerusalem, and their rulers> not recognising him [fulfilled] [the very voices of the prophets which every’ sabbath are being read]; 28 and <though no single’ cause of death’ they found> yet claimed they of Pilate that he should be slain.

And <when they had finished all’ those things which concerning him] had been written> [taking him down from the tree] they put him in a tomb.

29 But [God] raised him from among the dead:
30 Who appeared, during many days, unto them who had come up with him from Galilee unto Jerusalem; who, indeed, [now] are his witnesses unto the people.
31 [We] therefore, [unto you] bring the good news, as to the promise which [unto our fathers] was made,—33 That God hath fulfilled [the same] for our children, [by raising up Jesus]:
As also [in the second psalm] it is written—

[My son] art [thou]:
[I] [this day] have begotten thee.

And <in that he raised him from among the dead, [no more] destined to return unto corruption> [on this wise] hath he spoken—

I will give unto you the faithful lovingkindnesses of David.

Wherefore also [in a different [place]] he saith—
Thou will not give thy man of lovingkindness to see corruption.

36 For [David] indeed, <unto his own’ generation’ having done service, by the counsel of God> fell asleep, and was added unto his fathers, and saw corruption;

38 Be it [known] unto you, therefore, brethren,—
That [through this man] unto you remission of sins is declared; 39 and <from all things from which ye could not [by the law of Moses] be justified> [by this man] everyone’ that believeth] [is justified].

Be taking heed, therefore, lest that |come upon you| which hath been spoken in the prophets—

37 See, ye despisers, and marvel, and disappear:
In that ||a work|| am ||/|] working in your days,—

||(A work|| which in nowise will ye believe, Though one relate it in full unto you.*

And <as they were going out> they kept on beseeching that |on the ensuing* sabbath| might be spoken unto them these things.

41 And |when the congregation was broken up| there followed many of the Jews, and of the devout proselytes, with Paul and Barnabas; who, indeed, [in speaking unto them] went on persuading them to abide in the favour of God.

42 But <when they were going out> they kept on beseeching that |on the ensuing* sabbath| might be spoken unto them these things.

44 And |on the coming* sabbath| [almost all’ the city] was gathered together, to hear the word of God.e

45 But <the Jews |seeing| the multitudes> were filled with jealousy,—and began speaking against the things which [by Paul] were being spoken, [defaming them]].

And Paul and Barnabas |speaking boldly| said—
||Unto you|| was it necessary, that the word of God [should first’ be spoken]::

<Seeing ye are thrusting it from you, and |unworthy| are judging yourselves of the age-abiding’ life> lo! we turn unto the nations; 47 for [so] hath the Lord commanded us—

I have set thee for a light of nations, That thou mayest be for salvation unto the end of the earth.d

And they of the nations [hearing] [this]] began to rejoice, and to be glorifying God, and they believed—[as many as had become disposed for life age-abiding]].

49 And the word of the Lord went on to be carried through the whole country. 50 But [the Jews] urged on the devout women of the higher class, and the chief men of the city, and roused up a persecution against Paul and Barnabas,—and thrust them out from their bounds. 51 But [they] <shaking off the dust of their feet against them> came into Iconium.

Chapter 14.

1 And it came to pass, in Iconium, that they together entered into the synagogue of the Jews, and so spake, that there believed, both of Jews and Greeks, a great’ throng. 2 But [the unpersuaded’ Jews] roused up and provoked the souls of them of the nations against the brethren.

3 ||A good while, therefore, tarried they|| using boldness of speech [in dependence] upon the Lord, who was bearing witness unto his word of favour, granting [signs and wonders] to be coming to pass through their hands. 4 And the throng of the city was divided; and [some] indeed were with the Jews, while [some] were with the apostles. 5 But <when there took place an assault both of them of the nations and of the Jews, with their rulers, to maltreat and to stone them> 6 they became aware of it, and fled unto the cities of Lycaonia, Lystra and Derbe, and the surrounding country; 7 and [there] were they announcing the glad tidings.

8 And ||a certain man in Lystra, impotent in his feet|| was sitting,—lame from his mother’s womb, who never had walked. 9 ||This man|| hearkened unto Paul, as he was speaking,—who <looking steadfastly at him, and seeing he had faith to be made well> 10 said, with a loud voice—

Stand up on thy feet, erect!

And he sprang up, and began to walk about.

11 And ||the multitudes|| [seeing what Paul had done] lifted up their voice, in the speech of Lycaonia—

||The gods, made like unto men|| have come down unto us!

12 And they went on to call Barnabas, Jupiter, and Paul, Mercury, seeing that [the] was the leader of discourse. 13 Also ||the priest of the Jupiter that was before the city|| <bringing bulls and garlands unto the gates> [with the multitudes] would have offered sacrifice. 14 But the apostles Barnabas and

Paul, [hearing] of it, rending asunder their own mantles, sprang forward amidst the multitude, crying aloud, and saying—

Men! why [these things] are ye doing? ||We also] of like nature with you are ||men], bringing you the good news, that ||from these’ vain things|| ye should be turning unto a living God:—

Who made heaven and the earth and the sea and all’ things therein;

Who [in the bygone’ generations] suffered all’ the nations to be going on in their own ways,—

Although [not without witness] he left himself, ||doing good||, ||From heaven] upon you giving [rain] and fruitful seasons, Filling [with food and gladness] your hearts.

||Even these things|| saying, |scarcely] restrained they the multitudes from offering sacrifice unto them.

But there came thither, from Antioch and Iconium, |Jews|, and <persuading the multitudes, and stoning Paul> they dragged him outside the city, supposing him to be dead.

Howbeit, |the disciples surrounding’ him| he rose up, and entered into the city. And |on the morrow| he went forth, with Barnabas, unto Derbe.

<Delivering the good news unto that city also, and making a good number of disciples> they returned unto Lystra, and unto Iconium, and unto Antioch,— confirming the souls of the disciples, beseeching them to abide in the faith, and |declaring| that ||Through many’ tribulations|| must we enter into the kingdom of God.

Moreover <appointing unto them by vote, in each assembly, |elders|, praying with fastings> they commended them unto the Lord on whom they had believed. And |passing through Pisidia| they came into Pamphylia;

and |speaking in Perga’ the word| they came down unto Attalia; and |from thence| they set sail for Antioch, whence they had been given up unto the favour of God for the work which they had fulfilled. And |when they had arrived and gathered together the assembly> they began recounting how many things God had done with them, and that he had opened |unto the nations| ||a door of faith]]. And they spent no little time with the disciples.

§ 25. Must Gentiles be Circumcised? The Question settled in Jerusalem.

Chapter 15.

1 And ||certain persons|| coming down from Judea began to teach the brethren— <Except ye be circumcised according to the custom of Moses> ye cannot be saved.

2 And <when Paul and Barnabas had had no little dissension and discussion with them> it was arranged, that Paul and Barnabas and certain others from among them should go up unto the Apostles and Elders in Jerusalem, concerning this question. ||They||, therefore, |being set forward by the Assembly| began passing through Phoenicia and Samaria, fully relating the conversion of them of the nations, and were causing great joy unto all’ the brethren. And |having arrived in Jerusalem| they were welcomed by the Assembly and the Apostles and the Elders; and they recounted all things God had done with them.

5 But there [had] stood forth some of those who |from the sect of Pharisees| had believed, saying— It is needful to be circumcising them, also to charge them to be keeping the law of Moses.

6 And the Apostles and Elders |were gathered| together to see about this matter. And |when much’ discussion had arisen| Peter standing up, said unto them—

Brethren! ||Ye yourselves|| well know that ||in days long past|| amongst you God chose that ||through my mouth|| the nations should hear the word of the glad tidings, and believe. And ||the heart-observing’ God|| bare witness,— |unto them|| giving the Holy Spirit, just as |even unto us|; and made no’ distinction at all’ betwixt us and them, |by their faith| purifying their hearts.

10 ||Now|| therefore, why are ye proving God, that ye should put a yoke upon the neck of the disciples, which ||neither our fathers, nor we|| have been able to bear.

11 But ||through the favour of the Lord Jesus|| we believe we shall be saved, in like manner as |even they|.

And all the throng held their peace, and began to hearken unto Barnabas and Paul relating how many signs and wonders God had done among the nations [through them]. And [after they held their peace] James answered, saying—

Brethren! hearken unto me.

||Symeon|| hath fully told how God [first] visited, to take out of the nations, a people for his name, and [with this] agree the words of the prophets, according as it is written—

||After these things|| will I return; a And will rebuild the tent of David that hath fallen, And [the ruins thereof] will I rebuild, And will set it up again:

That the residues of men may seek out the Lord, And all the nations upon whom my name hath been called.

Ca\(\text{ith\text{ }}\) the Lord that doeth these things, \(\text{b}\) ||Known from age-past times|.

Wherefore ||I|| judge, not to be troubling them who [from the nations] are turning unto God, but to write unto them,

To abstain from the pollutions of idols, And from fornication, And from what is strangled, And from blood.

For ||Moses|| out of ancient generations| hath ||in every city|| [them who proclaim him]; seeing ||that in the synagogues|| [every' sabbath] he is read.

||Then|| seemed it good, unto the Apostles and the Elders with the whole Assembly, to send [chosen] men from among them unto Antioch, with Paul and Barnabas,—even Judas who is called Barsabbas, and Silas, men taking a lead among the brethren: writing through their hand—

||The Apostles and the Elder' Brethren|| <unto the brethren [throughout Antioch and Syria and Cilicia] who are from among the nations> wish joy!

<Inasmuch as we had heard that [certain from among us] had troubled you with words, dismantling your souls,—unto whom we had given no instructions> It seemed good unto us [coming to be of one accord], that we should choose men and send them unto you, with our beloved Barnabas and Paul,

||men who have given up their lives in behalf of the name of our Lord Jesus Christ||.

We have sent, therefore, Judas and Silas, who also [themselves] by word of mouth can tell you the same things.

For it hath seemed good [unto the Holy Spirit, and unto us] ||no’ greater’ burden|| to be laying upon you, than these’ necessary things:—

To be abstaining from idol sacrifices, And from blood, And from what is strangled, And from fornication,—

From which [if ye keep yourselves] ye shall prosper. Fare ye well.

||They||, therefore, [being let go] came down unto Antioch; and [having gathered together the throng] delivered the letter, and [when they read it] [they rejoiced for the consolation].

And [both Judas and Silas] [being themselves also prophets] [with much discourse] consoled and confirmed the brethren. And [when they had spent a time] they were let go, in peace, from the brethren, unto them who had sent them. [\(34\)\]

§ 26. Paul and Barnabas, differing about Mark, separate: Barnabas, with Mark, sails for Cyprus; Paul, with Silas, journeys from Antioch round about to Trosa.

But ||Paul and Barnabas|| tarried in Antioch, teaching and telling the joyful tidings,—along with many others also,—of the word of the Lord. And [after certain days] ||Paul|| said unto Barnabas—

Let us now return, and visit the brethren in every city in which we have declared the word of the Lord, and see how they are.

And ||Barnabas|| was minded to take with them John also, called Mark; but Paul deemed it right <as to him who had withdrawn from them, back from Pamphylia, and had not gone with them unto the work> not to be taking with them [this] man. And there arose an angry feeling, so that they separated one from the other: and ||Barnabas|| [taking Mark] sailed away unto Cyprus, whereas ||Paul|| [choosing Silas] went forth.

committed unto the favour of the Lord by the brethren, and proceeded to pass through Syria and Cilicia, confirming the assemblies.

Chapter 16.

1 And he came even unto Derbe, and unto Lystra; and lo! [a certain disciple] was there, by name Timothy, son of a believing Jewish woman, but [whose father was a Greek],—2 who was well-attested by the brethren [in Lystra and Iconium].

3 ||The same|| would Paul have go forth [with him], and took and circumcised him, on account of the Jews who were in those places; for they one and all knew that [his father] was [a Greek].

4 And [as they passed through the cities] they were delivering unto them, for observance, the decrees which had been decided upon by the Apostles and Elders who were in Jerusalem.

5 ||The assemblies|| therefore, were being confirmed in the faith, and increasing in number [every day].

6 And they passed through the Phrygian’ and Galatian’ country, being forbidden by the Holy Spirit to speak the word in Asia; 7 but [coming along Mysia] they were attempting to journey [into Bithynia],—and [the Spirit of Jesus] suffered them not; 8 but [passing by Mysia] they came down unto Troas.

§ 27. Paul and his Companions come from Troas unto Philippi: Lydia—the Jailer—and others believe.

9 And [a vision, by night] [unto Paul] appeared:— [A man of Macedonia] there was, standing and beseeching him, and saying—

Come over into Macedonia, and bring us succour!

10Now [when [the vision] he had seen] [straightway] we sought to go forth unto Macedonia, concluding that God [had summoned us] to tell the glad tidings [unto them]. 11 ||Setting sail, therefore, from Troas|| we ran straight into Samothracia, and [on the morrow] unto New City, and [from thence] unto Philippi,—which, indeed, is the first city of the part of Macedonia—

[a colony]. And we were, in this’ city, spending certain days; 13 and [on the day of rest] we went forth outside the gate, beside a river, where we supposed there was [a place of prayer];—and [sitting down] we went on to speak unto the women [who had come together]. 14 And [a certain woman, by name Lydia, a seller of purple, of the city of Thyatira, devout towards God] was hearkening, whose heart [the Lord] fully opened, to be giving heed unto the things being spoken by Paul. 15 And [when she was immersed, and her house] she besought [us], saying—

<If ye have judged me to be [a believer in the Lord]> come into my house, and abide [there]. And she constrained us. 16 And it came to pass [as we were on our way unto the place of prayer] [a certain damsel, having a spirit of Python] met us,—who, indeed, [much gain] was presenting unto her masters [by divining]. 17 ||The same|| [following after Paul and us], kept crying aloud, saying—

[These’ men] are servants of the Most High God,—Who, indeed, are declaring unto you a way of salvation.

18 And [this] she continued to do for many’ days. But Paul [<worn out] and turning unto the spirit> said—

I charge thee, in the name of Jesus Christ, to come out from her.

And it came out the same’ hour. 19 And [her masters] [seeing] that their hope of gain had gone out] [laying hold on Paul and Silas] dragged them into the market-place, unto the rulers; 20 and [leading them forward unto the magistrates] said—[These’ men] are exceedingly troubling our’ city, they [being Jews], 21 And are declaring customs, which it is not allowable for us either to accept or to observe, [being Romans].

22 And the multitude rose up together against them, and [the magistrates] [rebuffing them] their mantles were giving orders to beat them with rods; 23 and [laying upon them many’ stripes] they thrust them into prison, charging the prison-keeper [safely] to be keeping them:

who, [a charge like this] receiving> thrust them into the inner prison, and [their feet] made he fast in the stocks. And [at midnight] Paul and Silas, [being at prayer] began singing praise unto God; and [the prisoners] unto them, did hearken. And [suddenly] [a great earthquake] took place,—so that the foundations of the prison were shaken, and all the doors were [instantly] set open, and the bonds of all were unfastened.

And <the prison-keeper> [being wakened] and seeing that the doors of the prison had been opened> [drawing his sword] was about to kill [himself], supposing [the prisoners] to have fled.

But Paul called out with a loud voice, saying— ||By no means|| do thyself harm, for we are ||one and all|| [here].

And [asking for a light] he sprang in, and becoming [agitated] fell down unto Paul and Silas, and [leading them forth outside] said—

Sirs! what must I be doing, that I may be saved?

And [they] said—

Believe on the Lord Jesus, and thou shalt be saved, ||thou, and thy house||.

And they spake unto him the word of God, [with all] who were in his house. And <taking them with him> in that hour of the night> he bathed them from their stripes, and was immersed [in, and his, and one, and all, on the spot]; and <leading them up into his house> he set near a table,—and exulted, having [with all his house] believed in God.

And <when [day] came> the magistrates sent off [the constables] saying—

Let those men go!

And the prison-keeper reported the words unto Paul—

The magistrates have sent, that ye be let go. ||Now|| therefore, going forth, be taking your journey in peace.

But [Paul] said unto them—

<Beating us [in public] uncondemned [men that are Romans]> they thrust us into prison;—

And [now, by stealth] are they thrusting us forth? Nay, verily! but let them come [themselves] and lead us’ out!

38 And [the constables] reported [unto the magistrates] these words; and they were struck with fear, when they heard that they were [Romans]; and came, and besought them, and [leading them out] went on to request them to depart from the city. And so [coming forth from the prison] they went unto Lydia, and [seeing the brethren] they comforted them, and went forth.

§ 28. Paul proceeds by Thessalonica and Berea to Athens.

Chapter 17.

1 And [travelling through Amphipolis and Apollonia] they came to Thessalonica, where was a synagogue of the Jews; and [according to Paul’s custom] he went in unto them, and [for three sabbaths] reasoned with them from the Scriptures,—opening up, and setting forth, that it was needful for [the Christ] to suffer, and to arise from among the dead; and [saying]

||This|| is the Christ,—||Jesus|| whom ||I|| am declaring unto you.

4 And [some from among them] were persuaded, and cast in their lot with Paul and Silas; also [of the devout] Greeks a great throng, and [of the chief women] not a few. But the Jews <being jealous> and taking unto themselves certain wicked men [of the rabble], and making a riot> were setting the city in an uproar; and [besieging the house of Jason] were seeking to lead them forth unto the populace,—

6 and [not finding them] they began dragging Jason and certain brethren unto the city-rulers, shouting—

<They who have thrown [the inhabited earth] into confusion> [the same] [hither also] are come,—unto whom Jason hath given welcome; and [these all] contrary to the decrees of Caesar are acting,—saying that there is another [king], ||Jesus||.

8 And they troubled the multitude and the city-rulers, when they heard these things; and [taking security from Jason and the rest] they let them go.

10 But [the brethren] [straightway, during the night] sent away both Paul and Silas unto Berea,
Is. xiii. 5. 12 And Paul [taking his stand] in the midst of the Hill of Mars, said—

For <passing through, and carefully observing your objects of devotion> I found an altar also, in which was inscribed—§ 29. Paul in Athens.

But <while [in Athens]> [Paul] was expecting them> his spirit within him [was being urged on], seeing how the city was given to idols.

So then, he began reasoning in the synagogue with the Jews, and with them who worshipped; and [in the market-place, every’ day] with them who happened to be at hand. 18 But [certain both of the Epicurean’ and of the Stoic philosophers] were encountering him; and some were saying—

And [others]—

Can we get to know what [this new teaching] is, which [by thee] is being spoken?

For [certain foreign things] art thou bringing into our hearing:

We are minded to get to know, therefore, what these things please to be!

Now [all Athenians and the sojourning’ foreigners] [unto nothing else] were devoting their leisure, than to be telling or hearing [something newer]. 22 And Paul [taking his stand] in the midst of the Hill of Mars, said—

Ye men of Athens!

§ 30. Paul in Corinth.

Chapter 18.

1 After these things Paul withdrew from Athens, and came unto Corinth; and finding a certain Jew, by name Aquila, of Pontus by birth, lately come from Italy, and Priscilla his wife, because Claudius had ordered all the Jews to be leaving Rome, he came unto them, and because he was of the same craft, he abode with them, and wrought, for they were tent-makers by their trade.

2 And he began reasoning in the synagogue every sabbath, and was persuading both Jews and Greeks.

3 <When, however, both Silas and Timothy had come down from Macedonia> Paul began to be urged on in the word, bearing full witness unto the Jews that Jesus was the Christ.

4 But as they began opposing and defaming, shaking out his garments, he said unto them—

5 Your blood be upon your own head! Pure am I:—

6 Henceforth unto the nations will I go.

7 And removing from thence he came into the house of a certain man by name Titius Justus, who worshipped God, whose house was adjoining unto the synagogue. But Crispus, the ruler of the synagogue, believed in the Lord, with all his house. And many of the Corinthians hearing were believing, and being immersed. And the Lord said by night, through means of a vision, unto Paul—

Be not afraid! but be speaking,—and do not hold thy peace;

8 Inasmuch as I am with thee, and no one shall set upon thee to harm thee; Inasmuch as I have [much people] in this city.

9 And he remained a year and six months, teaching among them the word of God.

10 But when Gallio was proconsul of Achaia, the Jews, with one accord, set upon Paul, and led him unto the judgment-seat. Contrary to the law is this one seducing men to be worshipping God.

11 He said unto the Jews—

12 But as Paul was about to open his mouth> Gallio said unto the Jews—

13 If, indeed, it had been some wrong or wicked recklessness, O Jews, with reason, in that case should I have been bearing with you.

14 But if, however, they are questions concerning discourse, and names, and law, that which ye have ye shall see to it yourselves; <A judge of these things> am I not disposed to be.

15 And he drove them from the judgment-seat.

16 But they all, laying hold of Sosthenes the ruler of the synagogue, began to strike him before the judgment-seat; and for none of these things did Gallio care.

17 <Paul> however, still further abiding a good many days with the brethren, bidding them adieu, set sail for Syria; and with him Priscilla and Aquila; having shorn his head [in Cenchreae], for he had a vow. And they came down to Ephesus; and as for them he left them there,—but himself entering into the synagogue he reasoned with the Jews.

18 And when they requested him for a longer time to abide he consented not; but bidding them adieu, and saying—

19 Again will I return unto you [God willing] he sailed away from Ephesus; and putting in at Cesarea, going up and saluting the assembly went down unto Antioch; and spending some time he went forth, passing through, in order, the country of Galatia and Phrygia, confirming all the disciples.

§ 32. Apollos at Ephesus: he goes into Achaia.

20 But a certain Jew, Apollos by name, an Alexandrian by birth, a learned man, came down to Ephesus, being mighty in the Scriptures. The same had been orally taught the way of the Lord, and being fervent in his spirit began speaking and teaching accurately, the things concerning Jesus, properly knowing, only the immersion of John. The same also began speaking boldly in the synagogue; and Priscilla and Aquila hearing him took him unto them, and

[more accurately] expounded unto him the way of God. 27 And <he being minded to pass through into Achaia> the brethren urgently wrote unto the disciples, to welcome him,—who [arriving] was very useful unto them who had believed [with his gift]: 28 for [with great force] began he confuting the Jews, publicly, shewing by the Scriptures that [Jesus] was [the Christ].

Chapter 19.

1 And it came to pass, [[while Apollos was in Corinth]] [Paul] passing through the upper parts, came to Ephesus, and found certain disciples; 2 and he said unto them—

||Holy Spirit| received ye, when ye believed?a
And [they] [said] unto him—
Nay! not even whether there is Holy Spirit| did we hear.
3 And he said—
Into what then, were ye immersed?
And [they] [said]—
Into John’s immersion.
4 Then said Paul—
||John|| immersed with an immersion of repentance,b [unto the people] saying, That [on him who was coming after him]| they should believe,—that is, [on Jesus].

5 And [when they heard [this]] they were immersed into the name of the Lord’ Jesus; 6 and <Paul laying hands’ upon them> the Holy Spirit came upon them, and they began speaking with tongues and prophesying. 7 And all’ the men were about twelve.

And [entering into the synagogue] he was speaking boldly for three months, reasoning and persuading concerning the kingdom of God.

But <when some were hardening themselves, and refusing to be persuaded, speaking evil of the Way before the throng> [withdrawing from them] he separated the disciples; [day by day] reasoning in the school of Tyrannus. 10 And [[this]] took place for two years, so that [all’ who dwelt in Asia] heard the word of the Lord [both Jews and Greeks].

11 ||Mighty works, also, not the ordinary|| God was working through the hands of Paul; 12 so that [even unto the sick] were being carried from his body,c handkerchiefs or aprons, and the diseases were departing from them, and [the wicked spirits] were going out. 13 But certain also of the wandering’ Jews, exorcists, took in hand to be naming, over them that had the wicked spirits, the name of the Lord Jesus, saying—

I adjure you, by Jesus whom [Paul] proclaimeth!
And there were seven’ sons of one Sceva, a Jew, a High-priest] who [this thing] were doing. 15 But the wicked spirit, answering, said unto them—

||Jesus|| {indeed} I am getting to know, and ||Paul|| I well-know,—but who are [ye]? 16 And the man in whom was the wicked spirit,

<springing upon them, mastering them both> prevailed against them, so that [naked and wounded] fled they out of that house. 17 And [[this]] became known, to all—both Jews and Greeks—who were dwelling in Ephesus; and fear fell upon them all’, and the name of the Lord’ Jesus was being magnified. 18 ||Many also of them who had believed|| were coming, [making open confession, and renouncing their practices]. 19 And ||a good many of them who had practised the curious arts|| [bringing together the books] were burning them before all; and they reckoned up the prices of them, and found them fifty thousand pieces of silver.

20||Thus, with might|| the Lord’s word was growing and prevailing.

21 Now [[when these things were fulfilled]] Paul purpose[d] in his spirit, [going through Macedonia, and Achaia] to be journeying unto Jerusalem,d saying—

||After I have been there|| [Rome also]|| must I see!
22 And <sending off, into Macedonia, two of them that ministered unto him, Timothy and Erastus> ||he himself|| held on awhile in Asia.

23 And there arose [during that season] no small disturbance concerning the Way. 24 For <one Demetrius by name, a silversmith, making {silver} shrines, of Diana> used to bring unto the craftsmen no little business; 25 [gathering whom together, and them who in such’ things wrought] he said—

Men! ye well know that [by’ this business] we have [our prosperity]; 26 and ye perceive and hear that [not only in Ephesus’, but well-nigh

in all' Asia> [this Paul] hath persuaded and turned away a considerable' multitude, saying that they are [no gods] which [with hands] are made. 27 And <not only is there danger, that this our heritage [into ill-repute] may come> but even that the temple ||[of the great Goddess Diana]|| [for nothing] may be counted; also that [even on the point of being pulled down] may be Her Majesty, whom [all' Asia and the habitable world] do worship.

28 Now <hearing this, and becoming full of wrath> they began crying aloud, saying—||[Great]|| is Diana of the Ephesians!

29 And the city was filled with the confusion; they rushed also with one accord into the theatre, carrying off with them, Gaius and Aristarchus, Macedonians, fellow-travellers of Paul. 30 But <Paul> being minded to enter among the populace> [the disciples] would not suffer him.

31 Moreover ||certain of the Asiarchs also|| [being his friends] sending unto him, were beseeching him not to adventure himself into the theatre.

32 ||[Others]|| indeed, were crying out [something else]; for the assembly had become confused, and ||[the greater part]|| knew not for what cause they had come together. 33 Howbeit ||[out of the multitude]|| they bare aloft one Alexander, the Jews thrusting him forward; ||[Alexander]|| however [waving his hand] was wishing to make his defence unto the populace. 34 But [recognising that he was a Jew] one' voice arose from all' for about two hours, as they cried aloud—

|Great| is Diana of the Ephesians!

35 Howbeit the town-clerk [having calmed the multitude] saith—

Ephesians! why, who is there of mankind, that doth not acknowledge [the city of Ephesians] to be temple-keeper of the Great' Diana, and of the [image] that fell from Jupiter?

<As these things, then, [cannot be denied]> it is needful that ye be calmed at once, and [nothing rash] be doing.

37 For ye have brought these men, neither as temple-robbers, nor as defaming our goddess.

38 <If then [Demetrius, and the craftsmen with' him] have [against anyone] an accusation> [courts] are being held, and there are [proconsuls]: let them accuse one another!

39 But <if after [something further] ye are seeking> [in the regular' assembly] shall it be settled.

40 For we are [even in danger of being accused of riot] concerning this day, [no cause at all] existing, by reference to which we shall be able to give a reason for this concourse.

41 And [these things] having said, he dismissed the assembly.

§ 34. Paul, leaving Ephesus, journeys through Macedonia and Greece back again by Philippi, thence to Troas and to Miletus.

Chapter 20.

1 But [after the tumult had ceased] Paul, sending for the disciples and exhorting them, took leave, and went forth to be journeying unto Macedonia.

2 <Passing through those parts, however, and exhorting them with much discourse> he came into Greece; 3 and [spending three months] <when a plot was laid against him by the Jews, as he was about to sail to Syria> he determined to turn back through Macedonia.

4 Now there were accompanying him, Sopater, son of Pyrrhus, a Berean; and [of the Thessalonians] Aristarchus and Secundus; and Gaius of Derbe and Timothy; and [of Asia] Tychicus and Trophimus. 5 And [these] came and were waiting for us at Troas. 6 And [we] sailed forth, after the days of unleavened bread, from Philippi, and came unto them in Troas in five days, where we tarried seven days.

7 And <on the first of the week, when we were gathered together to break bread> [Paul] went on to discourse with them, being about to depart on the morrow; and he prolonged his discourse until midnight. 8 Now there were a good many torches in the upper room, where we were gathered together. 9 And there sat, a certain young man by name Eutychus, in the window, who was getting overpowered by a deep sleep; and [while Paul was discoursing yet further], [being overpowered by his sleep] he fell, from the third story, down, and was taken up dead.

10 Going down, however, Paul fell upon him, and, embracing him, said—

Be not making confusion; for [his soul] is [in him].

11 And <going up, and breaking the loaf, and tasting,—[for a good while] also conversing, until dawn> [thus] he departed. 12 And they brought the boy alive, and were comforted beyond measure.
And if he had arranged, being about [himself] to go on foot. And when he fell in with us in Assos> we took him on board, and came into Mitylene; and from thence sailing away on the morrow we came over against Chios, and on the next day we thrust aside into Samos, and on the succeeding day we came into Miletus. For Paul had determined to sail past Ephesus, lest he should happen to lose time in Asia; for he hastened, if it were possible, for him, against the day of Pentecost to arrive [in Jerusalem].

§ 35. Paul’s Farewell Address to the Elders of Ephesus.

But he sent unto Ephesus, and called for the elders of the assembly. And when they were come to him he said unto them—[Ye yourselves] well know, [from the first day when I set foot in Asia] in what manner came to be [with you all] the time, doing service unto the Lord, with all humility and tears, and temptations which befell me through the plots of the Jews: in what manner I in nowise shrank from announcing unto you anything that was profitable and teaching you publicly and in your homes; bearing full witness, both to Jews and to Greeks, as to the repentance due unto God, and as to belief on our Lord Jesus.

And lo! [bound in my spirit] am journeying unto Jerusalem; the things which therein shall befal me not knowing,—save that [the Holy Spirit] from city to city doth bear me full witness, saying that [bonds and tribulations] await me. But for no cause whatever am I making my life dear to myself, so that I may finish my course, and the ministry which I have received from the Lord Jesus, to bear full witness as to the good news of the favour of God.

And lo! [I] know that no more shall ye see my face,—[ye all] among whom I have gone about proclaiming the kingdom.

Wherefore I take you to witness, on this very day, that am I from the blood of all; for I have not shrunk from announcing all’ the counsel of God unto you.

Be taking heed unto yourselves, and unto all’ the little flock in which the Holy Spirit hath set [you] as overseers,—to be shepherding the assembly of God which he hath acquired through means of the blood of his own.

Know, that there will enter, after my departure, grievous wolves into your midst, not sparing the little flock; and from among your own selves will arise men speaking distorted things, to draw away the disciples after themselves.

Wherefore, be on the watch, remembering that for three years, night and day I gave myself no rest, [with tears] admonishing each one.

Therefore, I commend you unto the Lord, and unto his word of favour,—is able to build up and give the inheritance among all the hallowed ones.

The silver or gold or apparel of no one> did I covet: [acknowledge that [for my necessities, and for those who were with me] hard wrought these hands! [In all things] I gave you to understand, that thus toiling it behoves to be helping the weak, also to be keeping in mind the words of the Lord Jesus, that [he himself] said—

Happy is it, rather to give than to receive!

And these things saying|| kneeling down with them all he prayed. And they all wept much, and [falling upon Paul’s neck] they were tenderly kissing him; being most distressed for the word which he had said,—That [no more] should they [his face] behold. And they accompanied him unto the ship.

§ 36. Paul sails to Tyre, Ptolemais, and Caesarea: thence is escorted to Jerusalem.

Chapter 21.

And it came to pass <when we set sail, having torn ourselves from them> running a straight course we came unto Cos, and [on the next day] unto Rhodes,—and from thence unto Paphos; and finding a ship crossing over to Phoenicia we set sail. And sighting Cyprus, and leaving it behind to the left we held on our voyage to Syria, and landed at Tyre; for there the ship was to discharge her cargo.

And finding the disciples we remained there seven days, and they [unto Paul] began to say, through the Spirit, that he would gain no footing in Jerusalem. And when it came to pass that we had completed the days we went forth, and continued our journey, all of them accompanying us, with wives and children, as far as outside the city; and kneeling down on the beach in prayer we tare ourselves from each other, and we went on board the ship, while [they] returned unto their homes.

And [we] finishing the voyage from Tyre reached Ptolemais, and [saluting the brethren] abode one day with them; and [on the morrow departing] we came to Cæsarea, and [entering into the house of Philip the evangelist] who was of the seven we abode with him.

Now—[this man] had four virgin daughters, who used to prophesy. And as we stayed on many days there came down a certain man from Judæa, a prophet, by name Agabus:

and coming unto us, and taking Paul’s girdle he bound his own’ feet and hands, and said—

Thus saith the Holy Spirit, the man whose this girdle is shall the Jews bind in Jerusalem, and deliver up into the hands of Gentiles. And when we heard these things both [we] and they of the place began beseeching him, not to go up unto Jerusalem. [Then] answered Paul—What are ye doing, weeping and breaking my heart? For not only to be bound, but to die in Jerusalem am ready, in behalf of the name of the Lord Jesus.

And as he was not to be persuaded] we ceased, saying—

The Lord’s will be done!

And after these days [making ready what we had] we started to go up unto Jerusalem; and there went certain also of the disciples from Cæsarea, along with us, who were to introduce us unto one with whom we might be entertained, one Mnason of Cyprus, an early disciple.

§ 37. Paul, in Jerusalem, is rescued from the Multitude by the Captain.

Now when we came to Jerusalem [[the brethren]] gladly’ welcomed us. And [on the next day] Paul went in with us unto James, and [all’ the elders] were present. And [saluting them] he went on to narrate’ one by one, each of the things which God had wrought among the nations through his ministry. And [they][ having heard, began glorifying God; and they said to him—

Thou observest, brother, [how many myriads] there are, among the Jews, who have believed, and [all] are [jealous for] the law. Now they have heard it rumoured concerning thee, that [an apostacy] art thou teaching [from Moses] unto all’ the Jews [who are among the nations], telling them, not to be circumcising their children, nor [by the customs] to be walking.

What, then, is it? [at all events][ they will hear that thou hast come. [This, then] do, which [unto thee] we say:—We have four men, who have a vow upon themselves. <Taking these unto thee> be purified with them, and spend something upon them, that they may shave their head; and all will get to know [[that the things which they have heard rumoured concerning thee]] are [nothing],—on the contrary [[thou thyself]] dost keep the ranks, guarding the law.

But <concerning them of the nations who have believed’> [we ourselves] sent, deciding that they should be guarding themselves, both as to idol sacrifice, and blood, and what is strangled, and fornication.

<Then Paul> taking unto him the men> on the next’ day, with them] being purified, began entering into the temple to declare the filling up of the days of the purification—until [the offering] had been presented for each one of them. <When, however, the seven’ days were on the point of being concluded [[the Jews from Asia’]] observing him in the temple] began to urge-on all’ the multitude, and thrust upon their hands, crying out—

Israelites! be giving help! ||This|| is the man who <against the people, and the law, and this place> is teaching |all men everywhere|; furthermore ||[even Greeks]|| hath he brought into the temple, and hath profaned this holy' place.

For they had before seen Trophimus, the Ephesian, in the city along with him, whom they were supposing |Paul| had brought ||into the temple||. 30 And the whole city was set in motion, and there took place a running together of the people, and |laying hold of Paul| they proceeded to drag him outside the temple, and |straightway| the doors were made fast.

<When, also, they were seeking to slay him> there was carried up information, unto the captain of the band, that all' Jerusalem was in confusion:—32 ||[who]| <instantly'> taking unto him soldiers and centurions> ran down upon them; and ||[they]| [seeing the captain and the soldiers] left off striking Paul. 33 ||Then|| the captain |drawing near| laid hold of him, and ordered him to be bound with two chains,—and began to enquire, who might be, and what he had done; 34 but ||[others]| were calling out |something else|, in the multitude; and so <as he could not get to know the certainty, because of the tumult> he ordered him to be brought into the castle. 35 And ||when he came unto the stairs|| so it was that he was borne along by the soldiers, because of the force of the multitude; 36 for the throng of the people was following, crying out—

Away with him!

But <when he was on the point of being taken into the castle> Paul saith unto the captain—

Is it allowed me, to say somewhat unto thee?

And |he| said—

|With Greek| art thou acquainted?

Not, then, art |thou|| the Egyptian, who |before these' days| stirred up to sedition, and led out into the wilderness the four-thousand' men of the Assassins?

And Paul said—

||[I]|| indeed, am a Jew, of Tarsus in Cilicia,—||a citizen|| of no obscure' city; but I beseech thee, give me leave to speak unto the people!

§ 38. Paul addresses the People: escapes Scourging: is set before the High-council.

And <when he had given leave> ||[Paul]| [standing upon the stairs] waved with his hand unto the people; and <when |great' silence| was secured> he addressed them in the Hebrew' language, saying—

Chapter 22.

1 Brethren and fathers! Hear ye |the defence| which I now make unto you:—

2 And <when they heard that [in the Hebrew' language] he had begun to address them> they kept the more' quiet'. And he saith—

3 ||[I]|| am a Jew, born in Tarsus of Cilicia, but nurtured in this city, at the feet of Gamaliel,—trained after the strictness of our ancestral' law; being |jealous for God| just as |all' ye| are this day; 4 and ||[this' way]| I persecuted unto the death, binding, and delivering up into prisons, both men and women:—3 5 as |even the High-priest|| beareth me witness, |and all' the Eldership|,—<from whom |letters also| accepting to the brethren>3 4 unto Damascus| was I journeying, to bring them who were there', bound unto Jerusalem, that they might be punished.

6 But it befell me <as I was journeying, and drawing nigh unto Damascus> that <about mid-day—suddenly—out of heaven> there flashed a great light all around me; 7 I fell also to the ground, and heard a voice saying unto me—

Saul! Saul! Why |me| art thou persecuting?

And ||[I]| answered—

Who art thou, Lord?

And he said unto me—

||[I]|| am Jesus the Nazarene, whom |thou|| art persecuting!

9 Now ||[they who were with me]| beheld, indeed, |the light| but heard not |the voice|6 of him that was speaking with me.

And said—

What shall I do, Lord?

And |the Lord| said unto me—

c In its completeness (accusative: genitive in ix. 7).
Arise, and be going thy way into Damascus, and [there] shall it be told thee, of all things which are appointed for thee to do.

11 But [as I could not see clearly owing to the glory of that light] [being led by the hand of them who were with me] I came into Damascus.

12 And [one Ananias, a man devout according to the law, well-attested by all] the Jews that dwelt there > [coming unto me, and standing over me] said—

Saul, brother! look up. a

And [in that very] hour looked up on him.

14 And [he] said—

|The God of our fathers| hath chosen thee, to get to know his will, and to see the Righteous One,—and to hear a voice out of his mouth. 15 Because thou shalt be a witness to him, unto all men, of the things which thou hast heard and seen.

And [now] what art thou going to do? b

Arise, and get thyself immersed, c and have thy sins bathed away, calling upon his name.

And it came to pass [when I had returned unto Jerusalem, and was praying in the temple] that I came to be in a trance,

18 and saw him, saying unto me—

Haste thee, and go forth speedily out of Jerusalem, inasmuch as they will not accept thy witness d concerning me.

19 And [for a large sum] this citizenship’ acquired!

And [Paul] said—

But [am even [free-] born]!

20 |[Straightway] therefore, they who were about to put him to the test, withdrew from him; and [even the captain] was struck with fear, when he found out he was [a Roman], and because [him] he had bound.

21 And said unto me—

Be taking thy journey; because [unto nations afar off] will send thee.

22 And they hearkened unto him as far as this’ word, and lifted up their voice, saying—

Away from the earth, with such a man as this, for it is not fit that he should live.

23 Now [as they were both making an outcry and tearing their mantles,—[dust] also were throwing into the air] 24 the captain ordered him to be brought into the castle, saying, that [with scourging] he should be put to the test,—that he might find out, for what cause they were |thus| clamouring against him. 25 But [|when they had stretched him out with straps]| [Paul] said unto the by-standing centurion—

|A Roman, and uncondemned| is it allowed you to be scourging?

26 And [when the centurion heard’ [that]] he went unto the captain, and reported, saying—

What art thou going to do? For [|this man| is |a Roman|?

27 And the captain, coming up, said to him—

Tell me! Art [|thou| a |[Roman]?? Any! And [he] said—

Ye!”

28 And the captain answered—

|[for a large sum] this citizenship’ acquired!

And [Paul] said—

But [|am even [free-] born]!

29 Therefore, they who were about to put him to the test, withdrew from him; and [even the captain] was struck with fear, when he found out he was [a Roman], and because [him] he had bound.

30 But [on the morrow] [being minded to get to know the certainty, as to why he was being accused by the Jews] he released him, and ordered the High-priests and all’ the High-council to come together; and [bringing down Paul] set him before them.

§ 39. Paul rebukes the High-priest; divides the Council; and is brought back to the Castle.

Chapter 23.

1 And Paul [looking steadfastly] at the High-council, said—

Brethren! [|in all’ good conscience| have used my citizenship for God, until this’ day.

2 And [|the High-priest, Ananias] ordered them that stood by him, to be smiting him on the mouth. 3 |[Then]| Paul [unto him] said—

God is about [to be smiting thee], thou whited wall! Dost [|thou|] then sit to judge me

b Or: “why dost thou delay?”

c Middle voice, not passive.

d Or: “will accept of thee no witness.”
according to the law, and [unlawfully] orderest me to be smitten?

§ 40. Paul’s life being conspired against, he is sent to Cæsarea unto the Governor Felix.

And [they who stood by] said—

|||The High-priest of God|| dost thou revile?

And Paul said—

I was not aware, brethren, that he was high-priest; because it is written—

|Of a ruler of thy people| shalt thou not speak injuriously.||

<But Paul, getting to know that the one part were Sadducees, and the other Pharisees> began to cry aloud in the council—

Brethren! ||I am a Pharisee, son of Pharisees:—||Concerning a hope, even of a rising again of the dead|| am I to be judged.

And [as this] he was saying, there arose a dissension of the Pharisees and Sadducees; and rent asunder was the throng. For ||Sadducees|| say, there is no rising again, nor messenger, nor spirit, whereas ||Pharisees|| confess them both. And there arose a great outcry, and certain of the Scribes of the party of the Pharisees, standing up, began to strive, saying—

||Nothing bad|| find we in this man;—but if [a spirit] hath spoken unto him, or a messenger>…

And [great dissension arising] the captain fearing lest Paul would be torn in pieces by them, ordered the troop to go down, and take him by force out of their midst, to bring him into the castle.

But [on the following night] the Lord, standing over him, said—

Be of good courage! for [as thou hast fully borne witness of the things concerning me, in Jerusalem] so must thou [in Rome also] bear witness.

And [when it became day] the Jews forming a conspiracy bound themselves under a curse, saying, that they would neither eat nor drink till they had slain Paul. And they were [more than forty] who [this’ sworn-confederacy] had formed.

And they went unto the High-priests and Elders, and said—

With a curse have we bound ourselves, to taste [nothing] until we have slain Paul.

||Now therefore, do ||ye, with the High-council|| make it appear unto the captain, that he should bring him down unto you, as though about to ascertain more exactly the things that concern him; and ||we|| <or ever he come near> are [ready] to kill’ him.

But Paul’s sister’s son [hearing] of the lying-in-wait, happening to be near, and coming into the castle,—reported it unto Paul. And Paul, calling unto him one of the centurions, said—

||This young man|| lead thou away unto the captain, for he hath somewhat to report unto him.

He therefore, taking him with him, brought him unto the captain, and saith—

||The prisoner’ Paul|| calling me unto him, requested me to bring [this’ young man] unto thee, as having somewhat to tell thee.

And the captain, [taking him by the hand, and going aside] began [privately] to ask—

What is it which thou hast to report unto me?

And he said—

||The Jews|| have agreed to request thee, that [tomorrow] thou wouldst bring [Paul] down into the High-council, as though about to ascertain something [more exact] concerning him.

Thou therefore, do not be persuaded by them, for there are lying in wait for him, from among them, [more than forty men],—who, indeed, have bound themselves under a curse, neither to eat nor drink, till they have killed him; and [now] are they ready, awaiting the promise [from thee].

||The captain|| therefore, dismissed the young man, charging him—

||Unto no one|| divulge thou, that [these things] thou hast shewed unto me.

And [calling certain two of the centurions] he said—

Make ye ready two hundred soldiers, that they may journey as far as Cæsarea,—and seventy horsemen, and two hundred spearmen, by the third hour of the night; [beasts also] provide, in order that [seating Paul thereon] they may bring him safely through unto Felix the governor.

a Lev. xix. 15. b Exo. xxii. 28. c Chap. xxiv. 21. d Gr. anathema.
And he wrote a letter, after this form:—
Claudius Lysias, unto the most excellent governor Felix, Joy!

|This man, having been apprehended by the Jews, and being about to be killed by them| I went down with the troop, and rescued; having learned that he was a Roman.|
|became a Roman| having been found to be accused concerning questions of their law, but of nothing worthy of death or bonds to be charged.|
|became a Roman| And when I was informed there would be a plot against the man, I sent him unto thee, charging his accusers also to be speaking against him before thee.|
|became a Roman| Well knowing thee to have been my countryman, and seeing that this man is accused of nothing worthy of death or bonds, I pray thee to hear me concerning him.|
|became a Roman| But I confess that this man is accused by you all concerning questions of their law, and that they have taken him to Jerusalem, and have brought him by night unto Antipatris; and when he was informed there would be a plot against the man, I sent him unto thee, charging his accusers also to be speaking against him before thee.|

According to their orders, taking up Paul, I brought him by night unto Antipatris; and on the morrow, leaving the horsem en to go on with him, I returned to the castle; and the others entering into Caesarea, and delivering the letter unto the governor, set Paul also before him. And when he had read it, and asked, of what province he was, and learned that he was from Cilicia, I myself will hear thee in full, said he, when thine accusers also are come; and gave orders that in the palace of Herod he should be kept under guard.

§ 41. Felix hears Paul’s case: Converses often with him; but leaves him bound.

Chapter 24.

And after five days came down the High-priest Ananias, with certain Elders and a certain orator Tertullus, and they informed the governor against Paul.

And when he was called Tertullus began to make accusation, saying—

Seeing that great peace we are obtaining through thee, and that reforms are being brought about for this nation through thy forethought; both in all ways and in all places are we accepting it, most excellent Felix, with all thankfulness.

But lest I too long detain thee I beseech thee to hear us concisely in thy considerateness.

For finding this man a pest, and moving sedition with all the Jews that are throughout the inhabited earth, a leader also of the sect of the Nazarenes, who also attempted to desecrate even the temple, whom we also seized from whom thou shalt be able by making examination concerning all these things to ascertain the things of which, we are accusing him.

Moreover, the Jews also were joining in the attack, saying that these things were so.

And Paul answered, when the governor had motioned him to be speaking,—

Well knowing thee to have been for many years judge unto his nation, cheerfully as to the things concerning myself I do make defence; seeing thou art able to ascertain that there are not more than twelve days, since I went up to worship in Jerusalem, and neither in the temple I found them me with any one disputing or causing a halt of the multitude, either in the synagogues or throughout the city, neither can they make good the things concerning which they are now accusing me.

But I confess this unto thee—that according to the Way which they call a Sect, I am rendering divine service unto my fathers’ God, believing in all the things which throughout the law and those which in the prophets are written:

Having hope towards God, which even these themselves do entertain—that a resurrection there shall certainly be, both of righteous and of unrighteous: even I myself am studying to have an unoffending conscience, towards God and men, continually.

Now after many years intending to do alms unto my nation I arrived—also to present offerings; among which they found me, purified in the temple, not with a multitude, nor with tumult; but certain Jews from Asia.

| And [some days having gone by] [Agrippa the king and Bernīcē] came down to Cæsarea, to salute Festus. And <as they were spending more days there> [Festus] repeated [unto the king], the things relating to Paul, saying—

§ 44. Paul before King Agrippa.

On the morrow, therefore, when Agrippa had come, and Bernice, with great display, and they had entered into the audience-chamber, with the captains of thousands and men of distinction of the city,—and Festus had given orders—Paul was brought. And Festus saith—

King Agrippa! and all ye men here present with us:

Ye observe this person, concerning whom [one and all] the throne of the Jews] have interceded with me, both in Jerusalem and here, crying aloud that he ought not to be living any longer.

But when I gathered, that [nothing] worthy of death had he committed; and [this man himself] having appealed unto the Emperor, I decided to send him—

Concerning whom [anything certain] to write unto my lord I have not; wherefore, I have brought him forth before you,—and especially before thee, King Agrippa! in order that [after examination had] I might have something I could write;

For [unreasonable, unto me] it seemeth, [when sending a prisoner] not also [the accusations against him] to signify.

Chapter 26.

And unto Paul said—

It is permitted thee [on thine own behalf] to be speaking.

Then Paul] stretching forth his hand] went on to make his defence.

Concerning all things of which I am accused by Jews, King’ Agrippa> I have been counting myself happy, that [[before thee] I am about, this day, to be making my defence; [especially]] as thou art [well-versed] in all the Jewish customs and questions. Wherefore, I beseech thee [patiently] to hear me.

My manner of life, then, from my youth, which [from its commencement] was formed among my nation, even in Jerusalem> know all’ Jews, inasmuch as they were aforetime observing me, from the outset,—if they please to bear witness,—that [according to the strictest’ sect of our own’ religion] I lived [a Pharisee].

And [now] <for the hope of the promise [unto our fathers] being brought to pass by God> am I standing to be judged,—unto which [hope] [our twelve-tribed’ nation] <with intensity, night and day, rendering divine service> is hoping to attain:—concerning which hope] I am being accused by Jews, O King!

What! [incredible] is it judged with you, that [God the dead’ doth raise]?

Therefore, imagined to myself, that [against the name of Jesus the Nazarene] it was needful [many’ hostile things] to bring about,—which also I did in Jerusalem, yea and [many’ of the saints] [I myself] [in prisons] shut up,—the authority [from the High-priests] having received: and <when they were to be put to death> I brought against them my vote; and <throughout all’ the synagogues’ oftimes’ punishing them> I would fain have compelled them to defame; and <being excessively’ maddened against them> I went on to pursue them as far as even the outlying’ cities.

12 ||Among which things|| <being on a journey unto Damascus, a with the authority and commission of the High-priests> 13 ||[at midday, on the road]|| I saw, O King, ||from heaven, above the splendour of the sun, shining around me|| a light, and [around] them who [with me] were journeying;

and <when we were all’ fallen to the ground> I heard a voice, saying unto me, in the Hebrew’ language—

Saul! Saul! why art thou persecuting?
It is hard for thee [against goods] to be kicking!

And, I, said—

Who art thou, Lord?
And [the Lord] said—

||I am Jesus, whom ||thou|| art persecuting!

But rise and stand upon thy feet; for ||to this end|| have I appeared unto thee,—

To appoint thee an attendant and a witness,
Both of the things as to which thou hast seen me,
And of those as to which I will appear unto thee:

Rescuing thee from among the people, and from among the nations,

Unto whom ||I|| am sending thee—

To open their eyes;
That they turn from darkness unto light,
And the authority of Satan unto God,
That they may receive remission of sins,
And an inheritance among them who have been made holy by the faith respecting me.

Wherefore, O King Agrippa,—
I became not disobedient’ unto the heavenly’ vision;

But—

<Both to them in Damascus, first, and in Jerusalem, Unto all’ the country of Judea also, and unto the nations>
I carried tidings—

That they should repent, and turn unto God,
And [works worthy of their repentance] should practise.

21 ||Because of these things|| Jews seized me in the temple, and were attempting to slay me with their own hands.

22 So then <having met with [the help that is from God]> ||until this day|| do I stand, witnessing to both small and great, [nothing else] saying, than those things which both [the prophets] ||and Moses|| did say should certainly come to pass:—

If to suffer the Christ was destined,
If <the first of a resurrection of the dead> he is about to carry tidings [of light] both unto the people, and unto the nations.

24 Now <as he was saying these’ things in his defence> ||Festus|| [with a loud’ voice] saith—
Thou art raving, Paul!
||Thy great learning|| is turning thee round unto [raving madness].

25 But Paul—

I am not raving (saith he), most noble’ Festus,— but [the declarations of truth’ and soberness’] am I sounding forth:

For well-knoweth [the king] concerning these things, unto whom [with boldness of utterance] am I speaking; for [that these things are not hidden from him] I am well persuaded,—for [not in a corner] hath this thing been done.

Believest thou, King Agrippa, in the prophets? I know that thou believest!

28 And ||Agrippa|| [said] unto Paul—
||Almost|| art thou persuading [me] to become a [Christian]!

29 And ||Paul|| [answered]—

I could pray unto God that <both almost’ and altogether, ’not only thou’ but all’ they who are hearing me this day> might become such,—as even ||I|| am, ||excepting these bonds||.

30 And the king rose up, and the governor, Bernicè also, and they who had been sitting with them;

31 and [retiring] they began conversing one with another, saying,

||Nothing worthy of death’ or of bonds’|| doth this man practise.

§ 45. Paul's Voyage and Shipwreck.

Chapter 27.

1 Now <when it was determined that we should sail for Italy> they proceeded to deliver Paul, and certain other prisoners, unto a centurion by name Julius, of an Augustan band. 2 And <going on board a ship of Adramittium, about to sail unto the places along the coast of Asia> we put to sea, there being with us Aristarchus, a Macedonian of Thessalonica; 3 and |on the next day| we put into Zidon,—and Julius, treating Paul |kindly|, gave him leave to go |unto his friends| and refresh himself; 4 and |from thence| putting out to sea we sailed under the lee of Cyprus, because the winds were contrary; 5 and |sailing across| the sea which is off Cilicia and Pamphylia| we came down to Myra, a city of Lycia. 6 And the centurion |there| finding a ship of Alexandria sailing for Italy| put us therein. 7 And |for a good many days sailing slowly, and getting with difficulty over against Cnidus, the wind not suffering us to get on| we sailed under the lee of Crete, over against Salmone; 8 and |with difficulty| coating it| we came to a certain place called Fair Havens, near to which was the city of Lasea.

9 And <when [a considerable] time] had passed, and sailing was already dangerous, because |even the Fast] had already gone by| Paul began to advise, 10 saying to them—

Sirs! I perceive that |with damage and great’ loss, not only of the cargo and of the ship, but even of our persons| shall the voyage certainly be attended.

11 But |the centurion| |by the master, and by the shipowner| was more persuaded, than by the things which |by Paul| were spoken. 12 And <the harbour being [incommodious] to winter in> |[the more part]| advised to put to sea from thence, if by any means they might be able to reach Phenix, to winter, [which was] a harbour of Crete, looking north-east and south-east.

13 And |a south wind blowing softly| |supposing they had secured their purpose| weighing anchor, they began to sail close in shore along Crete. 14 But |after no long time| there beat down from it a tempestuous wind, called Euraquilo,—15 and |the ship being caught and we not being able to bring her head to the wind| we let her go, and were borne along.

16 And |running under the lee of some small island| called Cauda| we were able, with difficulty, to make ourselves masters of the boat,—17 which, hoisting up, they began to use |[helps]|, under-girding the ship; and |fearing lest [on the sand-bank of Africa]| they should run aground |[lowering the gear]| |[so]| were they borne along. 18 But |we being exceedingly tempest-tossed| |on the next day| they began to throw |[cargo]| overboard; 19 and |on the third day with their own hands| |[the tackling of the ship] they cast away. 20 And |[sun nor stars]| appearing for many days, and |no small tempest| lying upon us| in the end |[all hope that we should be saved] began to be taken from us. 21 But |when they had been [long without food]| |then| Paul, standing in the midst of them, said—

Ye ought, indeed, Sir! |[yielding to me]| not to have sailed away from Crete, to get this damage and loss...

22 And |[now]| I recommend you to be of good courage; for |[loss of life]| shall there be |none at all| from among you,—only the ship.

23 For there stood by me this’ night <belonging unto the God whose I am, unto whom also I am doing divine service> |[a messenger]|, saying—

Be not afraid, Paul! for |[before Cæsar]| must thou needs stand.

And lo! God hath granted to thee as a favour, all’ them who are sailing with thee.

Wherefore, be of good courage, Sirs; for I believe in God—that |[so]| it shall be, according as it hath been told me.

25 |[Upon a certain island]| however, must we needs be wrecked.

26 And <when [the fourteenth] night] had come, and we were being driven to and fro in the Adriatic> |[about midnight]| the sailors suspected that some country was |[nearing] them;

27 and |[sounding] they found twenty fathoms,—and |going a little’ further, and again’ sounding| they found fifteen fathoms. 29 And |fearing lest haply| |[on rocky places] we should be wrecked| |out of

Wherefore, I beseech you to take some food,—for [this] lays a foundation for your* safety; for [of no one of you] shall a hair of the head perish.

And [when they were satisfied with food] they began lightening the ship, casting out the wheat into the sea. And [when day came] they could not recognise [the land]; but perceived [a certain bay] having a beach,—upon which they were minded, if they could, safely to bring the ship. And [casting off the anchors] they let them go into the sea,—[at the same time] loosening the lashings of the rudders, and [hoisting up the foresail to the wind] they made for the beach. But [falling into a place where two seas met] they ran the ship aground; and [the foreship sticking fast] remained immovable, while [the stern] began to break up, from the violence [of the waves]. Now [the soldiers’ counsel] turned out to be, that they should kill [the prisoners], lest any one should swim out and escape; but [the centurion] <being minded to bring Paul safely through> hindered them of their purpose, and ordered such as were able to swim, to cast themselves overboard and [get first’ to the land].—<Except [these] abide in the ship> [ye yourselves] cannot be saved!

Then [the soldiers] cut away the ropes of the boat, and let her fall off. [until day was about to dawn] Paul continued to beseech one and all to take some food, saying—

This day is [the fourteenth day] that [in suspense, fasting] ye are completing,—having helped yourselves [to nothing].

Wherefore, I beseech you to take some food,—for [this] lays a foundation for your safety; for [of no one of you] shall a hair of the head perish.

And [having said these things, and taken a loaf] he gave thanks unto God before all, and [breaking it] began to eat. And [all becoming] [of good cheer] [they also] helped themselves to food. Now we were, in the ship, in all’, about seventy-six* souls.

And [when they were satisfied with food] they began lightening the ship, casting out the wheat into the sea. And [when day came] they could not recognise [the land]; but perceived [a certain bay] having a beach,—upon which they were minded, if they could, safely to bring the ship. And [casting off the anchors] they let them go into the sea,—[at the same time] loosening the lashings of the rudders, and [hoisting up the foresail to the wind] they made for the beach. But [when the sailors] were seeking to flee out of the ship, and had lowered the boat into the sea, by pretext, as though out of the prow they had been about to reach anchors> Paul said unto the centurion, and unto the soldiers—

And [the natives] began to shew us no common’ philanthropy; for [kindling a fire] they received us all,’ because of the rain that had set in, and because of the cold. But [when Paul had gathered a certain lot] [of firewood] into a bundle, and laid it on the fire> [a viper] [by reason of the heat] coming forth, fastened on his hand. And [when the natives saw the brute, hanging out from his hand> they began to say [one to another]—[Doubtless] this man is [a murderer], whom <though brought safely through out of the sea> [Justice] hath not suffered [to live].

[He] however, [shaking off the brute into the fire] suffered no harm; whereas [they] were expecting, that he was about to become inflamed, or to fall down suddenly dead;—but [when they had been long’ expecting, and had observed nothing unusual] happening unto him> they changed their minds, and began to say he was a god.

Now [in the neighbourhood of that place] were lands, belonging to the chief man of the island, by name Publius,—who [making us welcome] [for three days] hospitably entertained us. And it so happened that [the father of Publius] [with feverish heats and dysentery distressed] was lying prostrate: unto whom Paul entering in and praying, laid his hands on him, and healed him. And [when this’ happened] [the rest also, even they in the island who were sick] were coming in and getting cured; who also [with many’ honours] honoured us, and [when we were about to sail] put on board such things as we might need.

And [after three’ months] we sailed in a ship which had wintered in the island, [a ship] of Alexandria, whose ensign was The Twin Brothers; and [touching at Syracuse] we tarried three days; whence [going round] we reached Rhegium; and [after one’ day] [a south wind springing up] [on the second day] we came to Puteoli; where [finding brethren] we were

* Or (WH): “in all two hundred and seventy-six.”
entreated to tarry [with them] seven days;—and [thus, towards Rome] we came. 15 And when from thence the brethren heard the tidings concerning us> they came to meet us, as far as The Market of Appius and the Three Taverns—seeing whom Paul thanked God, and took courage.

§ 47. Paul in Rome.

16 And when we entered into Rome Paul was suffered to abide by himself, with the soldier that guarded’ him.

17 And it came to pass, after three days, that he called together those who were the chief of the Jews; and when they came together he began to say unto them—

||[II]|| brethren, <though I had done [nothing against] the people, or the customs of our fathers> [as a prisoner]| out of Jerusalem| was delivered into the hands of the Romans;—

18 who, indeed, [when they had examined me] were minded to set me at liberty, because there was [nothing worthy of death] in me.

19 But [as the Jews spake against it] I was constrained to appeal unto Caesar,—not as though [against my nation] I had anything to bring by way of accusation.

20 ||For this’ cause|| therefore, have I called for you, to see and to speak with you; for ||on account of the hope of Israel|| [this chain] have I about me!

21 And [they] said unto him—

||We|| have neither received [letters concerning thee] from the Jews, nor hath anyone of the brethren [who hath arrived] reported or spoken concerning thee, anything ill.

22 But we deem it well, that [from thee] we should hear what are thine opinions; for, indeed, [concerning this sect] it is [known to us] that [everywhere] is it spoken against.

23 And [having arranged with him a day] there came unto him, to the lodging, a larger number, unto whom he proceeded to expound, bearing full witness as to the kingdom of God, and persuading them concerning Jesus, both from the law of Moses, and from the prophets,—from morning till evening. 24 And [some] indeed, were persuaded by the things that were spoken, whereas [others] disbelieved; 25 and <not being [agreed] among themselves> they began to leave,—Paul having said one thing—

||[Well]| did [the Holy Spirit] speak through Isaiah the prophet, unto your fathers,

26 saying—

Go thy way unto this people, and say—

Ye shall [surely hear] and yet will in nowise understand,

And [surely see] and yet will in nowise perceive;

27 For the heart of this people [hath become dense],

And [with their ears, heavily] have they heard,

And [their eyes] have they closed,—

Lest once they should see with their eyes,

And [with their ears] should hear,

28 When I would certainly heal them.||

29 Be it [known unto you] therefore, That [unto the nations] hath been sent forth this’ salvation of God: ||they|| will also hear. ||

30 And he abode two whole years in his own’ hired house, and made welcome all’ who were coming in unto him,—31 proclaiming the kingdom of God, and teaching the things concerning the Lord Jesus Christ, with all’ freedom of speech ||without hindrance||.

Chapter 1.

1 Paul, a servant of Jesus Christ,a
   A calledb apostle,
   Separated unto the glad-message of God—
   Which he promised beforehand, through his prophets, in holy scriptures—
2 Concerning his Son,—
   Who came to be of the seed of David, according to flesh,
3 Who was distinguishedc as the Son of God—
   By powerd and a resurrection of the dead,—
e Jesus Christ our Lord;
4 Through whom we have received favour and apostleship, For obedience of faith among all the nations, in behalf of his name, f Among whom are ||ye also|| called of Jesus Christ:
5 <Unto all’ that are in Rome, beloved of God, calledg saints>
   Favour unto you, and peace,
   From God our Father and Lord Jesus Christ.
6 ||First|| indeed, I give thanks unto my God, through Jesus Christ, concerning you all’h, But have been hindered, until the present,—
7 In order that ||some’ fruit|| I might have among you also, even as among the other’ nations.
8 ||Thus|| the eagerness on my’ part—
   ||Unto you also who are in Rome||
   To announce the joyful message.
9 For I am not ashamed of the joyful message;
   For it is ||God’s power|| unto salvation, to every one that believeth,
   Both to Jew {first} and to Greek;
10 For ||a righteousness of God|| is therein revealed,—
    Even as it is written—
    But ||he that is righteous|| by faith shall live.m
11 If [by some means, even now, at any time] I may have a way opened, in the will of God, to come unto youk;
12 For I am longing to see you,
   That I may impart some spiritual gift unto you, To the end ye may be established,—
13 That is to say—There may be a mutual encouragement among you, Each by the other’s faith, [Both yours and mine].
14<Both to Greeks and to Barbarians,
   Both to wise and to unwise> [a debtor] I am:
15 ||Thus|| the eagerness on my’ part—
   ||Unto you also who are in Rome||
   To announce the joyful message.
16 For I am not ashamed of the joyful message;
   For it is ||God’s power|| unto salvation, to every one that believeth,
   Both to Jew {first} and to Greek;
17 For ||a righteousness of God|| is therein revealed,—
    Even as it is written—
    But ||he that is righteous|| by faith shall live.m
18 For there is being revealed an anger of God from heaven—
   Against all’ ungodliness and unrighteousness of men
   Who ||the truth, in unrighteousness|| do hold down;—

Inasmuch as what may be known of God is manifest among them,
For God unto them hath made it manifest,—
For the unseen things of him [from a world’s creation] <By the things made being perceived> Are clearly seen,
| Even his eternal power and divinity, —
To the end they should be without excuse;
Inasmuch as <having come to know God> Not [as God] did they glorify him, or give him thanks,
But were made fruitless in their reasonings, And darkened was their undiscerning’ heart.
Professing to be wise a they were made foolish,
And exchanged the glory of the incorruptible God, for the likenessb of an image of a corruptible man, and of birds and fourfooted beasts and reptiles:
Wherefore God gave them up in the covetings of their hearts, unto impurity, so as to be dishonouring their bodies among them,—
| Indeed, exchanged away the truth of God for the falsehood, And rendered worship and service unto the creature rather than unto the Creator,— Who is blessed unto the ages. Amen!
For this cause God gave them up unto dishonourable passions;
For even their females exchanged away the natural use into that which is against nature,—
| In like manner also even the males],<Leaving the natural use of the female> Flamed out in their eager desire one for another,
|Males with males [the indecency] effecting,— And the necessary recompence of their error > within themselves duly receiving;—
And even as they did not approve to be holding [God] in acknowledgment> God gave them up unto a disapproved’ mind,

To be doing the things that are not becoming,—
Filled with all’ unrighteousness, wickedness, greed, baseness, Full of envy, murder, strife, deceit, evil disposition, Whisperers, detractors, haters of God, insolent, arrogant, vain boasters, inventors of vices, [unto parents] unyielding,
Without discernment, regardless of covenants, without natural affection, unmerciful;—
| Indeed, <having acknowledged [the righteous sentence of God]— That [they who such things as these’ do practise] are [worthy of death]>
Not only [the same things] are doing, But are even delighting together with them who are practising [them].

Chapter 2.

Wherefore inexcusable thou art, O man [whoever’ judgest];
For wherein thou judgest some one else [thyself] thou dost condemn,—
For [the very things] thou’ dost practise [who art judging];
We know, however, that [the sentence of God] is according to truth, against them who [such things as these] do practise.
And reckonest thou this, O man—
Who dost judge them who [such things] do practise, and yet art doing the same>
That [thou shalt escape the sentence of God]? Or <the riches of his kindness, and forbearance, and long-suffering> dost thou despise,—
Not knowing that [the kindness of God] unto repentance is leading thee?
But [according to thy hardness, and [thine] impenitent’ heart>
Art treasuring up for thyself anger, in a day of anger and revelation of the righteous judgment of God,—
Who will render unto each one according to his works?—

4 Far be it! But let [God] prove to be [true], albeit [every man] be false!
   Even as it is written—
   That thou mightest be declared righteous in thy words,
   And overcome when thou art in judgment.
5 But <if |our unrighteousness| commendeth |God’s| righteousness> |what shall we say? Surely |not unrighteous| is God who visiteth with his anger?
   ||After the manner of men|| I am speaking,—
6 Far be it! Else how shall God judge the world?
7 But <if |the truth of God| |by my’ falsehood| hath the more abounded unto his glory> Why |any longer| am ||even I|| as a sinner| to be judged?
8 And why not <according as we are injuriously charged, {and} according as some affirm that we say> Let us do the bad things, that the good ones may come? |whose sentence| is |just|| What then? do we screen ourselves?
   Not at all! For we have before accused both Jews and Greeks of being ||all under sin||;
10 Even as it is written—
   There is none righteous, |not even one|,
   There is none that discerneth, There is none that seeketh out God.
12 ||All|| |have turned aside, ||Together|| have become useless,
   There is none that doeth kindness, Not so much as one:
13 ||A sepulchre, opened|| is their throat,
   ||With their tongues|| have they used deceit,
   ||The poison of asps|| is under their lips,
14 ||Whose mouth|| |of cursing and bitterness| is full,
15 ||Swift|| are their feet to shed blood;
   ||Destruction and misery|| are in their ways,
   And ||way of peace|| have they not known;
18 There is no fear of God before their eyes.
19 Now we know,
   That <whatsoever things the law saith> ||To them who are within the law|| it speaketh,

   In order that ||every’ mouth|| may be stopped,
   And all the world come ||under penal sentence|| unto God.
20 Inasmuch as ||by works of law|| |shall no’ flesh be declared righteous |before him|,—
   ||Through law|| in fact, is discovery of sin.
21 But |now| ||apart from law|| |a righteousness of God| hath been manifested,
   Borne witness to by the law and the prophets,—
22 A righteousness of God, through faith in {Jesus} Christ, unto all’ that have faith;
   For there is no distinction,—
23 For ||all|| have sinned, and fall short of the glory of God;
24 Being declared righteous freely by his’ favour, through the redemption that is in Christ Jesus:—
25 Whom God hath set forth as a propitiatory covering, through faith in his’ blood,
   For a showing forth of his righteousness,
   By reason of the passing-by of the previously' committed sins, |in the forbearance of God|,—
   With a view to a showing forth of his righteousness in the present’ season,
   That he might be’ righteous even when declaring’ righteous him that hath faith in Jesus.
27 Where, then, the boasting! It is excluded.
   Through what kind of law? ||Of works||?
   Nay! but through a law of faith:
28 For we reckon that a man |is to be declared righteous by faith| ||apart from works of law||.
29 Or |is God| the God ||of Jews only||, and not of the nations also?
   Yea! of the nations also:—
30 If, at all events, God is |one|,
   Who will declare righteous—
   The circumcision, by faith,

And the uncircumcision, through their faith.

31 Do we then make ||law|| void, through means of our faith? Far be it! On the contrary ||law|| we do establish!

Chapter 4.

1 What, then, shall we say—||as touching Abraham our forefather||?

2 For <if Abraham [by works] was declared righteous> he hath whereof to boast;—

   Nevertheless, not towards God,—

3 For what doth [the Scripture] say?

   And Abraham believed in God,

   And it was reckoned unto him as righteousness.\(^b\)

4 Now <unto him that worketh> [the reward] is not reckoned by way of favour, but by way of obligation,

5 Whereas <unto him that worketh not, but believe]eth on him that declareth righteous] the ungodly> his faith is reckoned' as righteousness.

6 Just as [David] also affirmeth the happiness of the man, unto whom [God] reckoneth righteousness, apart from works:—

7 ||Happy|| they whose lawlessnesses have been forgiven,

   And whose sins have been covered,

8 ||Happy|| the man [whose sin] the Lord will in nowise reckon.\(^c\)

9 ||This happiness|| then, [is it] for the circumcision, or for the uncircumcision?

For we say—

   His faith was reckoned' unto Abraham as righteousness.\(^d\)

10 How, then, was it reckoned? When he was [in circumcision], or in uncircumcision?

   Not in circumcision, but in uncircumcision;

   And ||a sign|| he received [namely] of circumcision.\(^e\)

   A seal of the righteousness of the faith which he had while yet uncircumcised;

   To the end he might be father of all' that believe during uncircumcision,

   To the end {the same} righteousness |might be reckoned unto them|,—

12 And father of circumcision—

   Unto them who are not of circumcision only, But who also walk in the steps of the faith [while yet uncircumcised] of our father Abraham.

13 For [not through means of law] doth the promise belong unto Abraham or unto his seed,—

   That he should be heir of the' world;

   But [through a righteousness by faith].

14 For <if [they who are of law] are heirs>

   Made void is faith,

   And of no effect is the promise.\(^h\)

15 For [the law] worketh out [anger],

   But <where there is no law> neither is there transgression.

16 ||For this cause|| it is by faith, in order that it may be by way of favour,

   So that the promise is [firm] unto all' the seed,—

   Not unto that by the law only,

   But unto that also [which is such] by the faith of Abraham;

   Who is father of us all',—

17 Even as it is written—

   ||Father of many' nations|| have I appointed thee:\(^i\)

   Before him whom he believed—||God||,

   Who causeth the dead to live,

   And calleth the things that are not as things that are:—

18 Who ||past hope|| [upon hope] believed,

   So that he became father of many' nations,—

   According to what had been said—

   So shall be thy seed;—\(^k\)

19 And <without becoming weak in his faith> he attentively considered his own' body, already deadened—He being a hundred years old, The deadening also of Sarah's womb; \(^j\)

Chapter 5.

1 <Having, therefore, been declared righteous by faith—>

   Let us have ||peace|| towards God,

   Through our Lord Jesus Christ,—

2 Through whom also we have had ||our introduction|| ||by our faith|| into this favour wherein we stand;—

   And let us boast in hope of the glory of God.

   And ||not only so|| But let us boast^d in our tribulations;

   Knowing that ||our tribulation|| worketh out ||endurance||.

   And ||our endurance|| a testing;

   And ||our testing|| hope,

   And ||our hope|| putteth not to shame.\(^e\)

   Because ||the love of God|| hath been poured out in our hearts, Through the Holy Spirit that hath been given unto us:

6 Seeing that ||Christ||

   <We being weak as yet—>

   ||Seasonably, in behalf of such as were ungodly|| died.

7 For ||scarcely in behalf of a righteous man|| will one die,—

   ||In behalf of the good man, indeed||

   ||peradventure|| one even dareth to die;

   But God [commendeth his own^f love unto us] ||in that—

   <We as yet being |sinners|>

   ||Christ|| ||in our behalf|| died.

9 ||Much more|| then, <having now been declared righteous by his blood>

   Shall we be saved [through him] from the anger.\(^f\)

10 For <if being |enemies|| We were reconciled unto God through the death of his Son>

   ||Much more|| <having been reconciled>

   Shall we be saved by his life.

11 And ||not only|| so, But are even boasting in God,

   Through our Lord Jesus ||Christ||,—

   Through whom ||now|| ||the reconciliation|| we have received.

12 ||For this cause||—

   <Just as |through one' man|| |sin| into the world' entered,

   And |through sin|| ||death||,—

   And ||so|| unto all’ men| death passed through,

   For that |all|| had sinned;—

   For ||until law|| |sin| was in the world,

   Although |sin|| is not reckoned, when there is' no law,—

14 ||Yet still|| death reigned' from Adam until Moses,

   Even over them who had not sinned after the likeness of the transgression of Adam,—||Who is a type^g of the Coming One||;—

15 But <not as the fault>

   ||So|| ||also|| the decree of favour,

   For <if ||by the fault of the one'|| the many| died>

   ||Much more|| ||the favour of God, and the free-gift in favour, by the one’ man Jesus Christ||

   unto the many| superabounded;—

16 And <not as through one that sinned>

   Is that which is freely given,—

   For ||the sentence of judgment|| indeed, was—

   ||Out of one |fault|| into condemnation,

   Whereas ||the decree of favour|| is—||Out of many’ faults|| into a recovery of righteousness.

17 For if [by the fault of the one'] [death] reigned through the one
   ||Much more] <they who [the superabundance of the favour and of {the free-gift of}] the righteousness do receive> ||[in life] shall reign through the one, ||[Jesus Christ].
18 Hence, then <as [through one'] fault] [the sentence was] unto all' men unto condemnation>
   ||[So] also, <through one' recovery of righteousness> [the decree of favour] is unto all men for<righteous acquittal unto life;
19 For <just as [through the disobedience of the one'] man[|] [sinners] the many were constituted>
   ||[So] also [through the obedience of the one] [righteous] the many shall<be constituted:—
   ||[Law] however, gained admission,\(^{c}\) in order that the fault might abound',
   But <where the sin abounded'> the favour greatly superabounded\(^{d, e}\):
21 In order that—
   <Just as [sin] reigned [in death]>
   ||[So] also ||[favour] might reign, through righteousness unto life age-abiding.\(^{e}\)
   ||Through Jesus Christ our Lord]].

Chapter 6.

1 What, then, shall we say?
   Are we still to continue in sin, that [favour] may abound?
2 Far be it!
   <We who have died unto sin> how [any longer] shall we live therein?
3 Or know ye not, that [we, as many as were immersed\(^{d}\) into Christ {Jesus}][\(^{e}\] [into his death] were immersed?
4 We were, therefore, buried together with him,\(^{b}\) through our immersion into his death,
   In order that—
   <Just as Christ was raised' from among the dead through the glory of the Father>
   ||[So] [we also] [in newness of life] should walk.
5 For <if we have come to be [grown together] in\(^{i}\) the likeness of his death>
   Certainly [in] that of his resurrection also shall we be.
6 [Of this] taking note—
   That [our old' man][\(^{k}\] was crucified together with him,
   In order that the sinful' body\(^{i}\) might be made powerless,
   That we should [no longer] be in servitude to sin;
7 For [he that hath died] hath become righteously acquitted from his sin.
8 Now <if we have died together with Christ> we believe that we shall also live together with him;
9 Knowing that <[Christ] having been raised from among the dead> [no more] dieth,—
   ||[Death] [over him] [no more] hath lordship,—
10 For [in that he died] [unto sin] died he [once for all],
   But [in that he liveth] he liveth unto God.
11 So [ye also] be reckoning yourselves to be—[Dead indeed unto sin],
   But [alive unto God, in Christ Jesus].
12 Let not sin, therefore, reign' in your death'-doomed body,
   That ye should be obedient to its covetings;
13 Neither be presenting your members, as weapons of unrighteousness, unto sin,
   But [present yourselves] unto God, as though alive [from among the dead], And your members, as weapons of righteousness unto God;
14 For [sin] [over you] shall not have lordship,
   For ye are not under law, but under favour.\(^{m}\)
15 What then?
   Shall we sin, because we are not under law, but under favour?
   Far be it!

16 Know ye not that <unto whom ye are presenting yourselves as servants for obedience> [Servants] ye are unto [him unto] whom ye are obedient, Whether of sin unto death, Or of obedience unto righteousness?

17 But thanks be unto God, that—<Whereas ye were servants of sin> Ye became obedient out of the heart unto the mould of teaching [into which ye were delivered];<Andrew freed from sin> ye were made servants unto righteousness;—[In human fashion] am I speaking, because of the weakness of your flesh;—For <just as ye presented your members as servants unto impurity and unto lawlessness> {for lawlessness}.||So, now|| present ye your members as servants unto righteousness, for sanctification.

19 For <when ye were [servants] of sin> ye were [free] as to righteousness;—

21 What fruit, therefore, had ye [then]—in things for which ye [now] are taking shame to yourselves?

20 For [the end of those things] is death.\[b\]

22 Whereas [now] <having been freed from sin, and made servants unto God> Ye have your fruit for sanctification, And [the end] [life age-abiding].

23 For [the wages of sin] is death; But [God’s gift of favour] is life age-abiding,\[c\] [In Christ Jesus our Lord].

Chapter 7.

1 Or are ye ignorant, brethren,—<For [unto them that understand\[d\] law] am I speaking>
That [the law] hath lordship over a man [as long as he liveth]?

2 For [the married' woman] [unto her living' husband] is bound by law\[e\]; But if [her husband have died] She hath received a full release from the law of her husband.

3 Hence then <her husband being alive>||An adulteress|| shall she be called—[If she become another man’s],
But <if the husband have died’> she is [free] from the law;
So that she is not an adulteress, though she become another man’s.

4 So, then, my brethren [ye also] were made dead unto the law through the body of the Christ, To the end ye might become\[f\] another’s—[[His who [from among the dead] was raised]],
In order that we might bring forth fruit unto God.

5 For <when we were in the flesh> ||[the susceptibilities\[g\] of sins which were through the law]|| used to be energized in our members, unto the bringing forth of fruit unto death;

6 But [now] we have received full release from the law, by dying [in that] wherein we used to be held fast,
So that we should be doing service—
In newness of spirit,
And not in obsoleteness of letter.

7 What, then, shall we say? Is the law sin? Far be it!
||On the contrary|| I had not discovered [sin] save through law,
For even [of coveting] I had not been aware, if [the law] had not kept on saying—Thou shall not covet:\[h\]

8 Howbeit sin, taking [occasion]—
||Through the commandment|| wrought out in me all’ manner of coveting;
For [apart from law] sin is dead;—

9 And [I] was alive, apart from law, [at one time], But <the commandment coming’><Sin sprang up to life,\[i\] whereas [I] died,— And the commandment which was unto life [was found by me] to be [itself] unto death;

10 For [sin]—taking [occasion]—
||Through the commandment|| completely deceived me,
And [through it] slew me;

11 So that [the law] indeed, is holy, and [the commandment] [holy, and righteous and good]].

\[a\] 1 Co. vii. 39.
\[b\] Chap. viii. 6.
\[c\] Ap: “Age-abiding.”
\[d\] Or: “acknowledge.”
\[e\] Exo. xx. 14, 17; Deu. v. 18, 21.
Did then, [that which is good] unto me become death?
Far be it!
But [it was] sin [that it might appear'] sin>
[through that which was good] unto me' working out death,
In order that [exceeding sinful] might sin become [through the commandment].
For we know, that [the law] is [spiritual],— however, am a creature of flesh,
Sold under sin;
For <what I wish not] the same I do:
Now if [what I wish not] the same I do:
I consent unto the law, that [it is] right.

Hence, I find the law <To me who wish' to be doing the right> That [unto me] [the wrong] lieth near:
I have, in fact, a sympathetic pleasure in the law of God; [according to the inner' man].
But I behold a diverse' law in my members,
Warring against the law of my mind,
And taking me captive in' the law of sin which existeth in my members:—

Wretched man am I!!
Who shall rescue me out of this body [doomed to death]?
{But} thanks be' unto God!—[Through Jesus Christ our Lord].
Hence, then,—

[I myself] [with the mind, indeed] am in servitude unto a law of God;
But [with the flesh] unto a law of sin.

Chapter 8.

Hence, there is now [no] condemnation, unto them who are in Christ Jesus;
For [the-law of the spirit of life in Christ Jesus][ hath set thee' free from the law of sin and of death;—
For <What was impossible by the law, in that it was weak through the flesh> [God][ by sending [his own' Son] in the likeness of sinful flesh, and concerning sin> Condemned sin in the flesh,
In order that [the righteous requirement of the law] might be fulfilled in us—Who [not according to flesh] do walk, But according to spirit;
For [they who according to flesh' have their being][The things of the flesh] do prefer,
But [they according to the spirit][The things of the spirit];
For [what is preferred by the flesh][ is] death,
Whereas [what is preferred by the spirit][ is] life and peace;—
Inasmuch as [what is preferred by the flesh][ is] hostile towards God,
For [unto the law of God] it doth not submit itself, neither in fact can it,—
[They, moreover, who in flesh' have their being][ cannot please ][God].
But [ye] have not your being in flesh, but in spirit,—
If at least [God's Spirit][ dwelleth in you];
And <if anyone hath not [Christ's Spirit]> [The same] is not his;—
But <if [Christ] is in you> [The body][ indeed, is dead by reason of sin, Whereas [the spirit] is life by reason of righteousness;
<If, moreover [the Spirit of him that raised Jesus from among the dead] dwelleth in you>
For we know, that all creation is sighing together, and travailing-in-birth-throes together, until the present,—

And not only so;

But even ourselves also, who have the first-fruit of the Spirit,—

With endurance are we ardently awaiting—[The redeeming of our body];—

For our hope have we been saved,

But is not hope, For what one beholdeth? why doth he hope for?

However, what we do not behold we hope for;

With endurance are we ardently awaiting [it];—

In the selfsame way moreover, even the Spirit helpeth together in our weakness,—

For what we should pray for as we ought we know not,

But the Spirit itself maketh intercession, with sighings unutterable.

And he that searcheth the hearts knoweth what is preferred by the Spirit—That he according to God he maketh intercession in behalf of saints;

We know, further, that unto them who love God

God causeth all things to work together, for good,—

Unto them who according to purpose are such as he hath called;

For whom he fore-approved He also fore-appointed, to be conformed unto the image of his Son, That he might be firstborn among many brethren,—

And whom he fore-approved [The same] he also called, And whom he called [The same] he also declared righteous, And whom he declared righteous [The same] he also made glorious:—

What, then, shall we say to these things? If [God] is for’ us> who [shall be] against’ us?

a Or (WH): “By reason.”
b Gal. iv. 6.
c Or: “unto.”
d 2 Co. v. 2.

Romans – Chapter 8.
<He, at least, who [his own’ Son] did not spare,
But in behalf of us all| delivered him up>
How shall he not also |with him|| all things| upon us’ in favour bestow?

Who shall bring an accusation against the chosen ones of God?
||God, who declareth righteousness|?

Who is he that condemneth?\(^a\)
||Christ {Jesus} who died?—
Nay! rather’ was raised |from among the dead},—
Who is on the right hand\(^b\) of God,
Who also is making intercession in our behalf|?

Who shall separate us from the love of the Christ?\(^c\)
Shall tribulation, or distress, or persecution, or famine, or nakedness, or peril, or sword?—
According as it is written—
||For thy sake| are we being put to death all’
the day long,
We have been reckoned as sheep |for slaughter|.—\(^d\)

Nay |in all these things|| we are more than conquering, ||Through\(^e\) him that hath loved us||.

For I am persuaded that—<Neither death nor life, nor messengers nor principalities, nor things present nor things to come, nor powers, nor height nor depth, nor any other created thing>
||Shall be able to separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord||.

Chapter 9.

\(^1\) ||Truth|| say I, in Christ, I utter no falsehood,—
<My conscience bearing witness’ with me in the Holy Spirit>|—

\(^2\) That I have [great grief] and incessant’ travail in my heart;

\(^3\) For I could have wished to be [accursed]\(^f\) |[even I myself]| from the Christ,
In behalf of my brethren my kinsmen according to the flesh;—
||Who|| indeed, are Israelites,

|Whose| are the sonship, and the glory, and the covenants, and the legislation, and the divine service, and the promises,

|Whose| are the fathers,
And |[of whom] is the Christ—according to the flesh—
He who is over all, God, blessed unto the ages.\(^g\)
Amen.

\(^5\) It is not, however, as though the word of God |had failed;
For |[not all’ they who are of Israel]| [the same| are Israel,
\(^6\) Neither |[because they are seed of Abraham]| are
[all] children,—
But |[In Isaac]| shall there be called unto thee a seed.\(^h\)

\(^7\) That is—|Not the children of the flesh| |[the same| are children of God;
But |[the children of the promise]| are reckoned as a seed.

\(^8\) For |[of promise]| is this word—
||According to this season| will I come,
And Sarah shall have a son.|
\(^9\) And <not only so>
But |when |[Rebekah also]| was with child |[of one]|—
Isaac our father,—
\(^1\) They, in fact, not being yet born, nor having practised anything good or bad,—
In order that the purpose of God |[by way of election]| might stand,—
Not by works, But by him that was calling>
It was said unto her—
||The elder| shall serve the younger|;
\(^1\) Even as it is written—
||Jacob|| have I loved, but ||Esau|| have I hated.\(^k\)

\(^1\) What, then, shall we say?  Is there injustice with God?  Far be it!

\(^1\) For |unto Moses| he saith—
I will have mercy upon whomsoever I can have\(^l\) mercy,

\(^a\) Is. 1. 8 f.
\(^b\) Ps. cx. 1.
\(^c\) Or (WH): “the love of God.”
\(^d\) Ps. xliiv. 22.
\(^e\) More fully: “Through means of.”

\(^f\) Gr: anathema.

\(^g\) Ap: “Age.”
\(^h\) Gen. xxii. 12.
\(^i\) Gen. xviii. 10.
\(^j\) Gen. xxv. 23.
\(^k\) Mal. i. 2 f.
\(^l\) Or: “am having.”
And I will have compassion upon whomsoever I can have compassion.\(^b\)

Hence, then, it is not of him that wisteth, nor of him that runneth,
But of the mercy-shewing God.

For the Scripture saith unto Pharaoh—
||Unto this end|| have I raised thee up,
That I may thus shew in thee my power,
And that I may declare my name in all the earth.\(^c\)

Hence, then,—
||[On whom he pleaseth] he hath mercy,
And ||[whom he pleaseth] he doth harden.|\(^d\)

Thou wilt say to me, then—
Why longer' findeth he fault?
For ||[his purpose] who hath withstood?

O man! Who, nevertheless, art ||[thou]|| that art answering again unto God?

Shall ||the thing formed|| say ||unto him that formed it||—\(^e\)

Why didst thou make me thus?

Or hath not ||the potter|| a right ||over the clay||—\(^f\)
||Out of the same' lump||,
To make some, indeed, into a vessel for honour,
And some for dishonour?

And ||[if] God—
Wishing to shew his anger, and to make known his power—
Bare, in much' patience, with vessels of anger,\(^g\) already fitted for destruction,

In order that he might make known the riches of his glory upon vessels of mercy which he prepared beforehand for glory,—

||[Whom] he also called, [even us]||
Not only from among Jews, But also from among the nations> [What then?]

As also ||[in Hosea] he saith—
I will call the Not-my-people ||[My people]||
And the Not-beloved ||[Beloved]||\(^h\)

And it shall be—
<In the place where it was said {to them}—
||[Not my people] are ||[ye]]>\(^i\>

||[There]|| shall they be called—
Sons of a Living God.|\(^j\)

||[Isaiah]|| moreover, exclaimeth over|| Israel—
<Though the number of the sons of Israel be' as the sand of the sea>
||[The remnant]|| shall be saved;

For ||{a complete and concise account}|| will the Lord make upon the earth.|\(^k\)

And ||[even as Isaiah hath before said]|—
<If||[the Lord of hosts] had not left us a seed>
||[As Sodom] had we become,
And ||[as Gomorrha] had we been made like.|\(^l\)

What, then, shall we say?
That ||[they of the nations]||
<Who were not in pursuit of righteousness>
Have laid hold of righteousness,—
A righteousness, however, which is by faith;

 Whereas ||[Israel]||
<Though in pursuit of a law of righteousness>
||[Unto a law]|| have not attained.

Wherefore?
Because <not by faith,
 But as by works> [have they sought it]:
They have stumbled at the stone of stumbling,\(^m\)
Even as it is written—
Lo! I lay in Zion,
A stone to strike against,
And a rock to stumble over,
And ||[he that resteth faith thereupon]|| shall not be put to shame.|\(^n\)

Chapter 10.

1 Brethren! ||the delight of my own's heart, and my supplication Godward, in their behalf|| are for salvation;

2 For I bear them witness, that they have ||{a zeal for God}||,—but not according to correct knowledge;

3 For <Not knowing ||God's|| righteousness,
 And ||{their own}|| seeking to establish>
||[Unto the righteousness of God]|| have they not submitted;

For Christ is [an end of law] ||[for righteousness]], unto every one that believeth.

For ||[Moses] writeth, that—

<As touching the righteousness that is by law>

||[The man that hath done' [it]] shall live thereby'';

Whereas ||[the righteousness by faith'] ||[thus] speaketh—

Do not说 in thy heart,

Who shall ascend into heaven?°

That is: To bring ||[Christ] down,

Or,

Who shall descend into the abyss?'°

That is: To bring up ||[Christ] from among the dead];

But what saith it?

||[Near thee] is [the declaration],

||[In thy mouth, and in thy heart]],—

That is, The declaration of the faith, which we proclaim:—

That ||[if thou shalt confess the declaration, with thy mouth—

That Jesus is ||[Lord]],

And shalt believe, with thy heart—

That ||[God] raised him from among the dead>

||[Thou shalt be saved]]];—

For ||[in heart]° it is to be believed unto righteousness,

And ||[by mouth]° it is to be confessed unto salvation.

For the scripture saith—

||[No' one that resteth faith thereupon] shall be put to shame'.

For there is no distinction—of Jew or Greek,—

For ||[the same [Lord]] is Lord of all,

Being rich unto all' who call upon him;

For ||[Whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord] shall be saved';—

How, then, shall men call upon one in whom they have not believed?

And how shall they believe in one of whom they have not heard?

And how shall they hear, without one to proclaim?

And how shall they proclaim, except they be sent?

Even as it is written—

How beautiful the feet of them that bring glad tidings of good things'!

But ||[not all] have become obedient unto the glad tidings;—

For ||[Isaiah] saith—

Lord! who believed what we have heard°?

Hence ||[our faith] cometh by something heard,

And ||[that which is heard] through a declaration of Christ.

But I say: Have they not' heard?

||[Yea indeed]—

||[Into all' the earth] hath gone forth their sound,

And ||[unto the ends of the inhabited world] their declarations'.

But I say: Hath ||[Israel] not come to know?

First ||[Moses] saith—

||[I] will provoke you to jealousy on account of a no-nation,

||[On account of an undiscerning nation] will I make you very angry.°

||[Isaiah] however, waxeth daring, and saith,—

I have been found by them who after me were not seeking,

[Manifest] have I become, unto them who for me were not enquiring;

Whereas ||[regarding Israel] he saith—

||[All' day long] have I stretched forth my hands unto a people unyielding and contradicting.'°

Chapter 11.

I say, then—

Hath God cast off' his people'?° Far be it!
For ||I also|| am an Israelite,— Of the seed of Abraham, Of the tribe of Benjamin:

2 God hath not cast off his people,\(^a\) whom he foreapproved.\(^b\)
Or know ye not, in [the account of] Elijah, what the scripture saith, when he intercedeth with God against Israel?

3 Lord! ||Thy prophets|| have they slain,
||Thine altars|| have they overthrown,
And ||I|| am left alone,
And they are seeking my life!\(^c\)
But what saith unto him the response?

4 I have left for myself seven thousand men, ||who||, indeed, have not bowed a knee unto Baal.\(^d\)
What then?

5 ||Thus|| then <in the present season also>||A remnant, by way of an election of favour||hath come into being.
6 <If, however, by favour> no longer of works; else ||favour|| no longer proveth to be ||favour||.

7 What then?
<That which Israel seeketh after> ||the same|| it hath not obtained:—
||The election||, however, have obtained it, and ||the rest|| have been hardened:—

8 Even as it is written—God hath given' unto them' a spirit of stupor;—eyes, not to see, and ears, not to hear,—until this very day;
And ||David|| saith—
Let their table be turned into a snare, and into a gin, and into a trap, and into a recompence unto them,
Darkened be their eyes, not to see,
And ||their back|| do thou continually bow down.\(^f\)

9 I say then—Did they stumble in order that they might fall?
Far be it! But ||by their fall|| ||salvation|| hath come unto the nations, to the end of provoking\(^e\) them to jealousy.

10 <If, moreover, ||their fall|| is the riches of a world,
And their loss, the riches of nations> ||How much rather|| their fullness?
11 ||Unto you|| however, am I speaking,—||you of the nations;

<Inasmuch, indeed, then, as ||I|| am an apostle to the nations,> ||my ministry|| I glorify,
If by any means I may provoke to jealousy my own' flesh, And save some from among them;—

13 For <if ||the casting away of them|| hath become the reconciling of a world>||What shall ||the taking of them in addition|| be, but ||life from among the dead||?
<If, moreover, ||the first fruit|| is holy> ||the lump|| [shall be] also;
And <if ||the root|| is holy> ||the branches|| [shall be] also.

15 <If, however, ||some of the branches|| have been broken out,
And ||thou|| being ||a wild olive|| hast been grafted in among them,
And hast become a joint partaker of the root of the fatness of the olive>
Be not boasting over the branches!
Howbeit <if thou boast> It is not ||thou|| that bearest ||the root||, But ||the root|| ||thee||!

17 Thou wilt say, then—
Branches were broken out, in order that ||I|| might he grafted in.

18 Well: ||By their want of faith|| they have been broken out,—
And ||thou|| ||by thy faith|| dost stand!—
Regard not ||lofty|| things, But be afraid; For <if ||God|| hath not spared ||the natural branches||>
Neither ||thee|| will he spare!

20 See, then, the kindness and the severity of God: ||Upon them who have fallen|| ||severity,—
But ||upon thee|| the kindness of God, If thou abide still in the kindness,—
Otherwise ||thou also|| shalt he cut out;
Whereas ||they also|| <unless they abide still in their want of faith>
Shall be grafted in,
For ||God is able|| again' to engraff them!

22 For <if ||thou|| out of the naturally' wild olive| was cut out,
And ||beyond nature|| hast been engraffed into the good olive>

How much rather shall these, the natural branches, be engrafted into their own olive tree?

25 For I wish not, ye should be ignorant, brethren, of this sacred secret, a <Lest within yourselves ye be presumptuous>

That a hardening in part hath fallen upon Israel, Until the full measure of the nations shall come in;

26 And so all’ Israel shall be saved: Even as it is written—

There shall come out of Zion the Deliverer,—
He will turn away ungodliness from Jacob;

27 And this, for them is the covenant [from me],
As soon as I take away their sins. c

28 As touching the joyful-message, indeed they are enemies for your sake, But as touching the election beloved for their father’s sake;

29 For not to be regretted are the gifts and the calling of God:

30 For just as ye at one time had not yielded unto God, And yet now have received mercy by [their] refusal to yield>

31 So these also have now refused to yield, by your own mercy, In order that themselves also should now become objects of mercy;

32 For God hath shut up all together, in a refusal to yield, In order that upon all he may bestow mercy.

33 Oh! the depth of the riches and wisdom and knowledge of God! How unsearchable his judgments! And untraceable his ways!

34 For who hath come to know the mind of the Lord? Or who hath become [his counselor]?

35 Or who hath first given unto him, and it shall be recompensed to him again? d

36 Because of him, and through’ him, and unto’ him] are all things:—

Unto him be the glory, unto the ages. e Amen!

Chapter 12.

1 I beseech you therefore, brethren, through the compassions of God, To present your bodies a living, holy sacrifice, [unto God] acceptable, f— Your rational divine service;

2 And be not configuring yourselves unto this age, But be transforming yourselves by the renewing of your mind, To the end ye may be proving what is the thing willed by God—the good and acceptable and perfect.

3 For I say <Through the favour which hath been given me>
Unto every one who is among you,— Not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think, But so to think as to think soberly— As unto each one [God] hath dealt a measure of faith.

4 For just as in one body we have [many members], j Yet all the members have not the [same] office;

5 So we, the many are one body] in Christ, Yet severally members one of another.

6 Now having gifts of favour [according to the favour given unto us] differing>— Whether prophesying> [let us use it] according to the proportion of our faith,

7 Or ministering> [use it] in our ministering,

8 Or he that teacheth> [let him use his gift] in his teaching,

9 Or he that exhorteth> in his exhorting, He that imparteth> [let it be] with liberality,

<In hope> rejoicing,
<In tribulation> enduring,

Bless them that persecute," Bless, and do not curse.
Rejoice with them that rejoice,
Weep with them that weep:
||The same thing|| one to another| regarding,—
Not |the lofty things| regarding,
But ||by the lowly|| being led along.
Be not getting presumptuous in your own opiniona:
||Unto no one|| evil for evil| rendering:
Providing honourable things before all| menb;
If possible—so far as dependeth on you> |with all’ men| being at peace:
Not avenging ||yourselves||, beloved, but give place unto their anger;

||I|| will recompense;—saith the Lordc;
But—

<If he thirst> be giving him drink;
For <this' doing> ||coals of fire|| shalt thou heap upon his head.f
Be not overcome by evil,
But overcome evil’ [with good].

Chapter 13.

1 Let ||every’ soul|| unto protecting authorities| be in subjectiong;
For there is no authority, save by God,
And ||they that are in being|| have |by God| been arranged,—

So that ||he who rangeth himself against the authority||
|Against the arrangement of God’| opposeth himself,
And ||they who oppose|| shall |unto themselves| |a sentence of judgment| receive.
For ||they who bear rule|| are not a terror unto the good’ work, but unto the evil.
Wouldst thou not be afraid of the authority?
||That which is good|| be thou doing, and thou shall have praise of the same;
For ||God’s minister|| is he unto thee, for that which is good.
But <if ||that which is evil|| thou be doing> be afraid!
For ||not in vain|| |the sword| he beareth;
For ||God’s minister|| he is,—an avenger, unto anger, to him who practiseth |what is evil|.
Wherefore it is |necessary| to be in subjection,—
Not only’ because of the anger,
But also’ because of the conscience;
For ||because of this|| are ye paying |tribute| also,—
For ||God’s ministers of state|| they are,
||Unto this very thing|| giving constant attendance.
Render unto all their dues,—
<Unto whom tribute> tribute,
<Unto whom tax> tax,
<Unto whom fear> fear,
<Unto whom honour> honour.
Nothing, to any|| be owing—save to be loving |one another|;
For ||he that loveth his neighbour|| hath given to ||law|| its fulfillment.
For <this—
Thou shall not commit adultery,
Thou shall not commit murder,
Thou shall not steal,
Thou shall not covet,—’
And if there is any different’ commandment>

Chapter 14.

1. ||Him that is weak in his faith|| receive ye,—Not for disputing opinions:—
   2. ||One|| indeed, hath faith to eat all things,
      Whereas ||he that is weak|| eateth ||herbs||:
   3. Let not ||him that eateth|| despise ||him that eateth not||,
      And let not ||him that eateth not|| judge ||him that eateth||;
      For ||God|| hath received him.
   4. Who art ||thou||, that judgest another's' domestic?||
      ||To his own master|| he standeth, or falleth;
      He shall, however, be made to stand,—
      For his master is able' to make him stand.
   5. {For} ||one|| indeed, esteemeth one day beyond another,
      Whereas ||another|| esteemeth every day:—
      Let ||each one|| in his own' mind be fully persuaded.
   6. <He that regardeth the day> ||Unto the Lord|| regardeth it,—
      And <he that eateth> ||Unto the Lord|| doth eat,
      For he giveth thanks unto God;
   7. And <he that eateth not> ||Unto the Lord|| doth not eat, and give God thanks.
   8. For ||none of us|| unto himself liveth,
      And ||none|| unto himself dieth;
   9. For both <if we live> ||Unto the Lord|| we live,
      And <if we die> ||Unto the Lord|| we die;
      ||The Lord's||
      Or whether we die> } we are;
   10. But |thou|| why dost thou judge thy brother?
      Aye! ||and thou|| why dost thou despise thy brother?
      For ||all of us|| shall present ourselves unto the judgment seat of God;
   11. For it is written—
      ||Living am ||[1], saith the Lord||
      ||Unto me|| shall bow every' knee,
      And ||every' tongue|| shall openly confess unto God;
   12. Hence, {then}, ||each one of us|| of himself shall give [account] unto God.
   13. ||No longer|| then, ||upon one another|| let us be sitting in judgment,
      But ||this|| judge ye, rather—
      Not to be putting a cause of stumbling before your brother, or an occasion to fall.
   14. I know and am persuaded in the Lord Jesus—
      That ||nothing|| is profane [of itself],—
      Save to him who reckoneth anything to be profane,
      ||Unto that man|| [it is] profane.
   15. <If, in fact, ||because of food|| thy brother is being grieved>||
      ||No longer, by the rule of love|| art thou walking:—
      Do not ||by thy food|| [that man] be destroying, on whose behalf Christ died!
   16. Therefore, suffer not to be defamed, your own' good thing;
   17. For ||the kingdom of God|| is not ||eating and drinking||,
      But righteousness and peace and joy in Holy Spirit;

18 For [the that [in this] doeth service unto the Christ]\]
   Is acceptable unto God,
   And approved unto men.
19 Hence, then, [the things pertaining to peace]\] let us pursue,
   And the things which belong to the upbuilding
   one of another:
20 Do not [for the sake of food]\] be throwing down\ the work of God!
   [All things]\ indeed, are pure\;
   But [ill] is it for the man who [with occasion of stumbling] doth eat,—
21 [Well] is it, not to eat flesh, nor to drink wine, nor [to do aught] whereby [thy brother] is caused to stumble.
22 [The faith which thou\ hast]\ have [to thyself]
   before God:
   [Happy] he that bringeth not judgment upon himself by that which he approveth;
23 But [the that is in doubt]\ [if he eat\] hath condemned himself,—
   Because [it was] not of faith,
   And [everything\ which is not of faith]\ is sin.

Chapter 15.
1 We are bound, however, [we, who are strong]\]
   [The weakness of them who are not strong]\ to be bearing,
   And not [unto ourselves]\ to give pleasure.
2 Let [each one of us]\ [unto his neighbour]\ give pleasure—
   For what is good, unto upbuilding;
3 For [even the Christ]\ [not unto himself] gave pleasure,
   But, even as it is written—
   [The reproaches of them that were reproaching thee]\ fell upon me:—
4 [Whatsoever things, in fact, were written aforetime]\ [All]\ for our own\ instruction] were written,—
   In order that <through endurance, and through the encouragement of the Scriptures> we might have their [hope].
5 Now may [the God of the endurance, and of the encouragement]\]
   Give you [the same thing]\ to be regarding amongst one another, [according to Christ
   Jesus];
6 In order that [with one accord, with one\’s mouth]\ ye may be glorifying the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ.
7 Wherefore receive ye one another,
   Even as [Christ also]\ hath received us\ unto the glory of God:—
8 For I affirm [Christ] to have become\ [a minister of circumcision],
   In behalf of the truth of God,—
   To confirm the promises of the fathers,
   And that [the nations]\ [for mercy] should glorify God:—
   Even as it is written—
   [For this cause]\ will I openly confess unto thee among nations,
   And [unto thy name]\ will strike the strings;\]
9 And [again] he saith—
   Be glad, ye nations, with his people\;
10 And again—
   Be giving praise, all\ ye nations, unto the Lord,
   And let all\ the peoples repeat his praise;\]
11 And [again, Isaiah]\ saith—
   There shall be the root of Jesse,
   And he that ariseth to rule nations,—
   Upon [him]\ shall [nations] hope.\] 12 Now [the God of the hope]\ fill you with all\’ joy and peace [in believing],
   So that ye may surpass\ in the hope,
   In the power of Holy Spirit.
13 But I am persuaded, my brethren,—
   Even [I myself]\ concerning you:
   That [ye yourselves]\ also, are Full of goodness,
   Filled with all\’ knowledge,
   Able also [unto one another]\ to be ministering admonition:
14 Howbeit [the more boldly]\ have I written unto
   you,—

In some measure, as bringing it back to your minds,—
By reason of the favour given unto me from God,— 16 That I should be a public minister of Christ Jesus unto the nations, Doing priestly service with the glad-message of God,
In order that the offering up of the nations might prove to be acceptable,
Being hallowed in Holy Spirit:
17 I have, therefore, {my} boasting in Christ Jesus, in the things pertaining to God,—
18 For I will not dare to speak anything
Save of the things which Christ hath wrought out for himself] through me, for the obedience of nations,—
By word and deed,
19 By the power of signs and wonders,
By the power of {Holy} Spirit;
So that I <from Jerusalem, and in a circuit as far as Illyricum> have fulfilled the glad-message of the Christ,— 20 Although {thus}—as ambitious to be announcing the glad-message,—
Not where Christ had been named,
Lest ||upon another’s foundation|| I should be building;
21 But, even as it is written—
They* shall see, unto whom had been announced no tidings concerning him,\(^b\)

24 <As soon as I am journeying to Spain>—
I am hoping, in fact, [when journeying through] to get sight of you, And [by you] to be set forward thither,—If [with your company] I have first’ in some’ measure been satisfied.
25 But ||now|| I am journeying unto Jerusalem,\(^e\) ministering unto the saints;

26 For Macedonia and Achaia have been well-pleased to make ||a certain fellowship|| for the destitute of the saints who are in Jerusalem,—\(^f\)
27 They have been well-pleased, indeed,—
And ||their debtors|| they are;
For <if |with their spiritual things| the nations have come into fellowship>
They are bound also |with their own carnal things| to minister publicly unto them.
28 ||[This]|| then, having completed, and sealed unto them this fruit>
I will come back, by you, unto Spain:—
29 And know that <when I come unto you>
||In the fullness of the blessing of Christ|| I shall come.
30 I beseech you, moreover, ||brethren||,
<Through our Lord Jesus Christ,
And through the love of the Spirit>
To strive together with me, in your prayers on my behalf unto God,— 31 In order that I may be delivered from them who do not yield in Judæa,
And ||my ministry which is unto Jerusalem|| may prove to be ||acceptable unto the saints||;
In order that |with joy| coming unto you through God’s will| I may together with you find rest.
33 Now ||the God of peace|| be with you all.
Amen.

For ||she also|| hath proved to be |a defender of many|, and |of my own self|;
3 Salute ye Prisca and Aquila, my fellow-workers in Christ Jesus,—

Chapter 1.

1 Paul, a called' apostle of Jesus Christ, through God's will,—
   And Sosthenes the brother,—

2 Unto the assembly of God which is in Corinth,
   Sanctified in Christ Jesus,
   Called' saints,—
   With all' who call upon the name of our Lord
   Jesus Christ [in every' place],—||their Lord and ours]:

3 Favour unto you, and peace,
   From God our Father
   and Lord Jesus Christ.

4 I give thanks unto my God, at all times, concerning you,
   By reason of the favour of God given unto you in Christ Jesus,—

5 That ye have been enriched in him—
   In all discourse and in all knowledge;

6 Even as ||the witness of the Christ|| hath been confirmed in you,

7 So that ye come short in no' gift of favour,— Ardently awaiting the revelation of our Lord
   Jesus Christ:

8 Who will also confirm you unto the end,
   Unaccusable in the day of our Lord
   Jesus Christ;

9 ||Faithful|| is God, through whom ye have been called into the fellowship of his Son Jesus Christ our Lord.

10 But I beseech you, brethren,
   Through the name of our Lord Jesus Christ,—
   That ||the same thing|| ye [all] be saying,
   And that there be not, among you, [divisions];
   But that ye be fitly joined together—
   In the same' mind,
   And in the same' judgment.

---

11 For it hath been signified unto me, concerning you, my brethren,—
   By them who are of [the household of]
   Chloe,—
   That there are [strifes among you].

12 Now I mean this,—
   That [each one of you] is saying—
   ||[I]|| indeed, am of Paul,
   But ||[I]|| of Apollos,
   But ||[I]|| of Cephas,
   But ||[I]|| of Christ:
   The Christ [is divided]!

Was ||Paul|| crucified for you?
Or ||[into'] the name of Paul|| were ye immersed?

14 I give thanks, that none of you did I immerse—
   Save Crispus and Gaius,

15 Lest any should say—
   ||[Into my own' name]|| I immersed;—

16 Yea! I immersed the house [of Stephanas] also,—
   ||[Besides]|| I know not whether [anyone else] I immersed.

17 For Christ sent me not, to be immersing,
   But to be telling the good news,—
   Not with wisdom of discourse,
   Lest [void] should be made ||the cross of the
   Christ||.

18 For ||the discourse which concerneth the
   Cross||
   ||[Unto them, indeed, who are perishing]|| is [foolishness];
   But ||unto them who are being saved—unto us|| it is [God's power].

19 For it is written—
   I will destroy the wisdom of the wise,
   And [the discernment of the discerning] will
   I set aside.!
20 Where is the wise? Where is the scribe?a Where is the disputer of this age? Hath not God made foolish' the wisdom of the world? For seeing that [in the wisdom of God] The world [through its wisdom] did not get to know God> God was well-pleased—<Through the foolishness of the thing proclaimed> to save them that believe. Seeing that Both [[Jews]] [for signs] do ask, And [[Greeks]] [for wisdom] do seek, Whereas [[we]] proclaim a Christ who hath been crucified,— [Unto Jews] indeed, an occasion of stumbling, And [unto Gentiles] foolishness; But <unto the called themselves'— Both Jews and Greeks> [[Christ]] [God's] power, and [God's] wisdom. Because [[God's foolish thing]] is [wiser than men], And [[God's weak thing]] [mightier than men]. For be looking at the calling of you, brethren,— That [there were] Not many' wise, according to flesh, Not many' powerful, Not many' high-born:

On the contrary— [[The foolish things of the world]] hath God chosen, That he might put to shame them who are wise, And [[the weak things of the world]] hath God chosen, That he might put to shame the things that are mighty, And <the low-born things of the world>, And the things that are despised> hath God chosen,— [[[And] the things that are not]],— That [the things that are] he might bring to nought; So that no' flesh should boast before God. But [[of' him]] are [[ye]] [in Christ Jesus],— Who hath been made wisdom unto us, [from God],— Both righteousness, and sanctification, and redemption:

In order that [even as it is written]— [[[He that boasteth]]] [[[In the Lord]]] let him boast.b

Chapter 2.

1 [[I]] therefore, brethren, [when I came unto you], Came [not' with excellency of discourse or wisdom] Declaring unto you the mysteryc of God;

2 For I had not determinedd to know anything among you, Save Jesus Christ,—and [him] as one who had been crucified!

3 [[I]] therefore, [in weakness, and in fear, and in much trembling] Came to be with you,

4 And [[my discourse, and what I proclaimed]] Were not in suasive' words [of wisdom], But in demonstration of Spirit and power':

5 In order that [your faith] might not be In men's wisdom,

6 But in God's power.

7 [[Wisdom]] however, we do speak [among the full-grown],— [Wisdom] indeed,

8 Not of this age, Nor of the rulers of this age, who are to come to nought;

9 But we speak [God's] wisdom, in a sacred secret,¿ That hidden [wisdom], Which God marked out beforehand, before the ages, for our glory,—

10 Which [[none of the rulers of this age had come to know]], For [[had they known]], not, in that case, [[the Lord of the glory]] would they have crucified!

11 But [even as it is written]—<The things which eye hath not seen, and ear hath not heard>, And upon the heart of man have not come up,—

Chapter 3.

10 ||unto us|| in fact, hath God revealed through the Spirit;
For [the Spirit] ||unto all things|| maketh search,
Yea! the deep things of God.
11 For who of men knoweth the things of a man,—
Save the spirit of the man that is in him?
|Thus| ||even the things of God|| hath no one come to know,
Save the Spirit of God.
12 But ||as for us||—
|Not the spirit of the world| have we received,
But the Spirit which is of God,—
That we might know the things which [by God] have been given in favour unto us;—
13 Which we also speak—
|Not in words| taught of human wisdom],
But in such as are taught of [the] Spirit,
||By spiritual words| spiritual things| explaining.
14 But ||a man of the soul|| doth not welcome the things of the Spirit of God,
For they are [foolishness unto him], and he cannot get to know them,
Because [spiritually] are they examined;
15 But ||the man of the spirit||,
On the one hand, examineth all things,
But, on the other, ||the himself|| ||by no one| is examined.
16 For who hath come to know the mind of the Lord, that shall instruct him?c
But ||we|| have [the mind of Christ].

Are ye not [fleshly], and [after the manner of men] walking?
4 For <as soon as one beginneth to say—
||I|| indeed, am of Paul!
And another—
||I|| of Apollos!>
Are ye not ||men||?
5 What then is Apollos? and, What is Paul?
Ministers through whom ye believed, and ||each|| as the Lord [gave] to him.
6 ||I|| planted,
||Apollos|| watered,—
But ||God| caused to ||grow||.
7 So that, ||neither is |he that planteth| anything,
Nor, ||he that watereth,—
But ||God| who causeth to ||grow||.
8 Moreover ||he that planteth and he that watereth|| are [one]:—
|Howbeit, ||each one|| ||his own’ reward| shall receive,—according to his own’ labour.
9 For we are ||God’s|| fellow-workmen:
Ye are ||God’s| farm, God’s| building]].
10 <According to the favour of God which hath been given unto me>
|As a wise’ master-builder| I laid [a foundation],
Whereas ||another| is building thereon;
But ||let each one|| see, how he buildeth thereon;
11 For ||other foundation||| can’t |no one| lay, than that which is lying,
Which is ||Jesus Christ]].
12 But ||if anyone is building, upon the foundation—
|Gold, silver, precious stones,
Wood, hay, straw>||
13 ||Each’ one’s work|| shall be made [manifest];
For ||the day|| will make it plain,
Because [by fire] is it to be revealed,—
And ||each’ one’s work|| ||of what sort it is| the fire itself’ will prove:—
14 ||If |anyone’s’ work| shall abide, which he build>||
|A reward| shall he receive,—
15 ||If |anyone’s’ work| shall be burnt up>
He shall suffer loss,
But shall ||himself|| be saved—
Though ||thus|| ||as through fire]].

c Is. xi. 13.
d Gal. v. 20; 2 Co. xii. 20.

16Know ye not
That ye are a shrine of God,
And that [the Spirit of God] is within you, doth dwell?
17If anyone doth mar the shrine of God>

| God || will mar him;
For the shrine of God is holy,—
And such are ye.
18Let no one be deceiving himself:—
If anyone imagineth himself to be wise, among you, in this age>
Let him become foolish, that he may become wise;
19For the wisdom of this world is foolishness with God;
For it is written—

He that taketh the wise in their knavery,—

And again—

The Lord taketh note of the speculations of the wise, that they are vain."
20So then, let no one be boasting in men;
For all things are yours,
<Whether Paul, or Apollos, or Cephas, or the world, or life, or death, or things present, or things to come>
All are yours,
And ye are Christ’s, —
And Christ is God’s."

Chapter 4.

1Let a man so be reckoning of us, as officers of Christ,
And stewards of sacred secrets of God.
2Here furthermore, it is sought in stewards,
That faithful one be found.
3With me however, it counteth for the very smallest thing,
That by you I should be examined, or by a human’ day."
Nay! I am not even examining myself,
For of nothing, to myself am I conscious;
Nevertheless not hereby am I declared righteous,
But he that doth examine me is the Lord.
5So then not before the fitting time be judging anything,—

Until the Lord shall come, who will both bring to light the hidden things of darkness,
And make manifest the counsels of the hearts;
And the praise shall come to each one from God.

6But these things, brethren, have I transferred unto myself and Apollos for your sakes,
That ye might learn the lesson—
Not beyond the things that are written…!
That ye do not puff yourselves up individually, for this one against that,
For who maketh thee to differ? and what hast thou which thou didst not receive?
But if thou didst even receive it> why dost thou boast, as though thou hadst not received it?

8Already ye have become full, —
Apart from us ye are become kings!
And I would indeed ye had become kings,
That ye also with you might have together become kings!
9For I think that God hath set forth us the apostles, to be last of all, as men devoted to death,—
In that a spectacle have we been made unto the world,—both unto messengers and unto men.
10We are foolish for Christ’s sake, but ye prudent in Christ;
We are weak, but ye mighty;
Ye all-glorious, but we dishonoured.
11Until the present time we both hunger and thirst, and are naked, and are buffeted, and are wanderers, and toil, working with our own hands:
Being reviled we bless,
Being persecuted we hold on,
Being defamed we beseech:
As the sweepings of the world have we become, the offscouring of all—until even now.
14Not to shame you> write I these things;
But as my beloved children I admonish you.
15For though myriads of tutors ye should have in Christ>
Yet not many’ fathers;
For <in Christ Jesus, through means of the joyful message> ||[I] begat [you].
16 I beseech you, therefore,—become |imitators* of me.
17 ||For this cause| sent I unto you, Timothy,—
Who is my beloved and faithful child in the Lord,
Who shall put [you] in mind of my ways which are in Christ {Jesus},
Even as ||everywhere, in every’ assembly|| I teach.
18 But <as though I were not coming unto you>
Some are puffed up!
19 Howbeit, I will come quickly unto you,—
If [the Lord] please,—
And will get to know—
<Not the speech of them who are puffed up>
But [the power];
20 For [not in speech] is the kingdom of God,
But [in power].
21 What will ye?
That ||with a rod|| I should come unto you?
Or ||with love, and a spirit of meekness||?

Chapter 5.
1 ||On all hands|| there is reported to be among you—[fornication],
And such’ fornication as this’—
Which |not among the nations| [is found],—
As that one should have [his father’|s|] ||wife||:
2 And ||[ye] have become puffed up, And have not rather’ mourned,
In order that he might be removed out of your midst, who [this deed] hath wrought.
3 For ||[I]|| indeed,—
<Being absent in the body, but present in the spirit>
Have |already| judged, |As present|,
Him who ||thus[|| this thing| hath perpetrated:—
4 ||In the name of our Lord Jesus||
<Ye being gathered together, And my’ spirit,
With the power of our Lord Jesus>
5 To deliver such a one as this, unto Satan,
For the destruction of the flesh,—
1 CORINTHIANS – Chapter 7.

||The body|| however, is not for fornication, but [for the Lord],—and ||[the Lord]], for [the body].
14||[God] moreover, hath both raised up ||[the Lord]], And will raise ||[us]] up from among [the dead]^6 through his power.^6
15Know ye not
That ||[your bodies]] are [members of Christ]? Shall I, then, take away the members of the Christ and make them members [of a harlot]? Far be it!
16Or know ye not
That ||[he that joineth himself unto the harlot]] is [one' body]? For, saith he, ||[the two] shall become [one flesh]^10;:
17But ||[he that joineth himself unto the Lord]] is [one' Spirit].
18Flee fornication!
||[Every' sin, whatsoever a man shall commit]] is [outside his body], But ||[he that committeth fornication]] bringeth sin [into his own' body].^1
19Or know ye not
That ||[your body]] is [a shrine] of the Holy' Spirit that is within' you, which ye have from God? And ye are not your own;—
20For ye have been bought with a price^3! Therefore glorify God in your body.

Chapter 7.

1Now <concerning the things whereof ye wrote>
It were ||[good]] for a man, not to touch [a woman];
2But <on account of fornications>
Let ||[each man]] have [his own' wife], And ||[each woman]] have [her own' husband]:
3||[Unto the wife]] let [the husband] render [what is her due], And ||[in like manner]] [the wife also] unto the husband,—
4||[The wife]] [over her own’ body] hath not authority, [but the husband],

||Unworthy] are ye of the smallest judgment-seats?
3Know ye not
That we shall judge ||[messengers]]? And not, then, matters of this life?
4<If, then [for matters of this life] ye have judgment-seats>
<Them who are of no account in the assembly> ||[these]] are ye seating thereupon?
5||With a view to shame you]] am I speaking.
||So]] is it [possible] that there is among you—not so much as one’ wise man, who shall be able to judge between his brethren,—
6But ||[brother with brother]] sueth for judgment, And that’ before unbelievers?
7||[Already]] indeed, it is [an utter’ defeat^b for you], that ye are having ||[law-suits]] one with another, Wherefore are ye not rather’ taking wrong?
Wherefore are ye not rather’ suffering yourselves to be defrauded?
8Nay! but [ye]] are doing wrong, and defrauding,— and that’ [your] brethren.
9Or know ye not
That ||[wrong-doers]] shall not inherit [God’s kingdom]? Be not deceiving yourselves:—
Neither fornicators, nor idolaters, nor adulterers, nor effeminate, nor sodomites, nor thieves, nor covetous, nor drunkards, nor revilers, nor extortioners— Shall inherit [God’s kingdom].
11And ||[these things]] were some of you; But ye bathed them away,— But ye were sanctified d
But ye were justified,
In the name of [our} Lord Jesus Christ, And in the Spirit of our God.
12||[All things]] [unto me] are allowable,^c But [not all things] are profitable:
||[All things]] [unto me] are allowable, But [||] will not be brought under authority by any.
13Foods for the belly, and the belly for foods; But [||[God]] will set aside [both it and them].

^i Or. “within his own b. sinneth.”
^j Chap. iii. 16; 2 Co. vi. 16.
^k Chap. vii. 23.
And if [the unbelieving] departeth let him depart: The brother or the sister hath not come into bondage, in such cases, But [in peace] hath God called us.

16 For how knowest thou, O woman, whether [thy husband] thou shalt save? Or how knowest thou, O man, whether [thy wife] thou shalt save?

17 If not—

As the Lord hath distributed [unto each one],

As God hath called [each one]>

So let him be walking;—

And [so] [in all the assemblies] I ordain.c

18 After being circumcised was any called?

Let him not become uncircumcised;

[In uncircumcision] hath any been called?

Let him not be circumcised:

19 [The circumcision] is [nothing],

And [the uncircumcision] is [nothing],—

But keeping the commandments of God.d

20 [Each one] [in the calling wherein he was called]

[In the same] let him abide:e

21 [A bond-servant] wast thou called?

Let it not cause [thee] concern;

But [if thou canst even become] free>

Rather use it.

22 For [he who in the Lord’ was called, being a bond-servant] Is [a freed-man of the Lord]:

[In like manner] [he that was called being] a freedman>

Is Christ’s [bond-servant]:—

With a price have ye been bought,—f

Do not become bond-servants of men:

24 [Each one wherein he was called], brethren>

[In the same] let him abide with God.g

25 But [concerning them who are virgin] [Injunction of the Lord] have I none;

Yet [a judgment] do I give, as one who hath obtained mercy from the Lord to be [faithful]:—h

26 I consider this, then, to be [good] in the circumstances, by reason of the existing’ distress,—

That it is [good for a man] [so] to be:

a Or: "continue burning."
b Or: "is departing."
c Or: "I order," or "direct."
d Gal. v. 6; vi. 15.
27 Hast thou become bound to a wife? Do not seek to be loosed; Hast thou become loosed from a wife? Do not seek a wife.
28 If, however, thou shouldest even marry Thou hast not sinned; And if one who is virgin should marry That one hath not sinned;— But [tribulation of the flesh] shall [such] have:— Howbeit [I] spare you.
29 But [this] I say— [The opportunity] is contracted for what remaineth—
   In order that [they who have wives] May be [as though they had none], And [they who weep] As though they wept not, And [they who rejoice] As though they rejoiced not, And [they who buy] As though they possessed not, And [they who use the world] As though they used it not to the full,— For the fashion of this world passeth away;
30 And I desire you to be [without anxiety]:— [The unmarried man] is anxious for the things of the Lord, How he may please the Lord;
   But [he that hath married] is anxious for the things of the world, How he may please his wife— [and he is divided];
   And [the unmarried woman, or the virgin] is anxious for the things of the Lord, That she may be holy [both] in her body and in her spirit;
   But [she that hath married] is anxious for the things of the world, How she may please her husband.
31 [This] however, [with a view to your own profit] am I saying,— Not that [a snare] upon you I may cast, But with a view to what is comely, and devoted unto the Lord [without distraction].
32 If he should be beyond the bloom of life,— And [thus] it ought to come about>
   [What he chooseth] let him do,— he sinneth not: Let them marry!
33 But <he that standeth in his heart [steadfast], Having no necessity, But hath [authority] concerning his own’ will,
   And [this] hath determined in his own’ heart,—
   To preserve his own’ virginity> [Well] shall he do.
34 So that [he that giveth in marriage his own’ virginity] Doeth [well];
   And [he that giveth it not] Shall do [better].
35 [A wife] is bound for as long a time as her husband is living; But <if the husband have fallen asleep>
   She is [free] to be married unto whom she pleaseth,— [Only] in the Lord;
36 But [happier] is she, if [so] she remain,— In my’ judgment;
   For [I think] [I also] have the Spirit of God.

Chapter 8.
1 Now <concerning the idol-sacrifices> we are aware—
   Because we [all] have [knowledge],— [Knowledge] puffeth up,
   But [love] buildeth up;
2 If anyone thinketh that he knoweth anything> not yet knoweth he, as he must needs come to know;e
3 But <if anyone loveth God> [the same] is known of him—
4 <Concerning, then, the eating of idol-sacrifices> We are aware—
   That an idol is [nothing] in the world, And that [none] is God save [one].
5 For <if indeed there are so-called gods, whether in heaven or upon earth,—
   As indeed there are gods many and lords many> 6 {Yet} [to us] there is one’ God the Father, Of’ whom are all things, and [we] for him; And one’ Lord Jesus Christ,

Through whom are all things, and we through him.
7 Howbeit, not in all is the knowledge;
   But by their familiarity, until even now, with the idol [as an idol-sacrifice] eat it,
   And their conscience being weak is defiled.
8 Indeed, will not commend us unto God,— Neither if we eat not do we lack,
   Nor if we eat do we abound.
9 But be taking heed, lest by any means your right become an occasion of stumbling unto the weak:

For anyone should see thee who hast knowledge, [in an idol-temple] reclining>
Will not his conscience being weak, be built up for the eating of the idol-sacrifices?

In fact, he that is weak is being destroyed by thy knowledge—

The brother for whose sake Christ died.

But <in thus> sinning against the brethren are wounding their conscience, seeing it is weak>

Against Christ are ye sinning.

Therefore if food is an occasion of stumbling unto my brother>
In nowise will I eat flesh unto the age that abideth,—
    That I may not occasion my brother to stumble.

Chapter 9.

1 Am I not free?
   Am I not an apostle?
   Jesus our Lord have I not seen?
   Are not ye my work in the Lord?
2 If unto others I am not an apostle>
   Certainly at least unto you I am;
   For the seal of my apostleship ye are in the Lord.
3 My defence, unto them who are examining me’ is this:—
4 Have we not a right to eat and drink?
5 Have we not a right to take round [a sister wife],—
   As even the rest of the apostles, and the brethren of the Lord, and Cephas?
6 Or have only I and Barnabas not a right to forbear working?
7 Who serveth as a soldier, at his own charges, at any time?

Who planteth a vineyard,—and the fruit thereof doth not eat?
{Or} who shepherdest a flock,—and [of the milk of the flock] doth not eat?

Is it after the manner of men that these things I am saying?

Or doth not even the law the same things say?

For in the law of Moses it is written—

Thou shalt not muzzle an ox when it is treading out the corn:
Is it [for the oxen] God is caring?

Or [for our sakes altogether] is he saying it?
[For our sakes] it was written;
   Because he that ploweth ought to plow [in hope],—
   And he that thresheth [to thresh] in hope of partaking.

If unto you the things of the Spirit have sown>
   Is it [a great] matter, if of you the things of the flesh shall reap?

If of this right, over you, are partaking>
   Should not rather [we]?

Nevertheless, we used not this right; but [all such things] do we conceal,—lest we should cause any hindrance unto the glad message of the Christ.

Know ye not
   That they who labour in the holy rites
   Do eat [the provisions out of the holy place]?—
   They who at the altar wait?

Do with the altar share?

[Thus] also, [the Lord] appointed—
   That they who the glad message tell
   Should [of the glad-message] live.

However, have not used any of these things; and have not written these things, in order that so it should be done [in my case];

For it were ||good for me|| rather to die than— —
||My boast|| shall |no man| make void!
16For |if I be telling the glad-message| it is |with me| no matter of boasting; for ||necessity|| upon me| lieth,—for it is |Woe to me| if I should not be telling the glad-message;
17For |if |by choice| this‘ thing I am doing| I have |a reward|;
But |if not by choice| |with a stewardship| have |I been entrusted!||
18What, then, is my‘ reward? That |in telling the glad-message| ||free of cost|| I should put the glad-message,—to the end I should not use to the full my right in the glad-message.
19For |though free from all| |
||Unto all|| |myself| I enslaved,—
That |the larger number| I might win:
20Therefore became I |unto the Jews| as |a Jew|,—
That |[Jews]| I might win;
||To them who were under law| as |under law|,—
Not being |myself| under law,—
That |[them who were under law]| I might win;
21||To them who were without law| as |without law|,—
Not being without law to God,
But lawfully subject to Christ,—
That I might win them who were without law.
22I became |unto the weak| ||weak|,—
That |[the weak]| I might win;—
||To all men| I have become all things,
That |[by all means]| |some| I might save.
23But |all things| am I doing |for the sake of the glad-message|,
That |[a joint-partaker thereof]| I may become.
24Know ye not
That |they who |in a racecourse| run
||All|| indeed, run,—
But |one|| receiveth the prize?
||So|| be running, that ye may lay hold.
25But |every‘ man who striveth in the games|
||In all things| useth self-control;—
||They|| indeed, then, that |a corruptible‘ crown| they may receive;
26But ||we|| an incorruptible!
27|I|| therefore,
||So| am running, as ||not uncertainly||,
||So|| am boxing, ||as not thrashing air||;
28But am beating my body under, and leading it captive,
Lest, by any means,—
<||Unto others|| having proclaimed [the contest]>
||I myself|| |should be [rejected].

Chapter 10.

For I wish not ye should be ignorant, brethren,
That |all our fathers| were |under the cloud|,
And |all|| passed |through the sea|,—
2And |all|| immersed themselves|| into Moses|,
||In the cloud, and in the sea|;
3And |all|| did eat |the same| ||spiritual‘ food|,
4And |all|| drank |the same‘ spiritual‘ drink|,—
For they continued to drink of the spiritual‘ rock that followed‘ them,
And |the rock|| was the Christ:—
5Nevertheless |with the most of them|| |God| was not well-pleased,
For |they were strewed along in the desert.||
6But |in these things| they became |ensamples for us|,||
To the end we should not be |covetous| of evil things,
Even as |they|| also |coveted|;
7Neither become ye |[idolaters]|,
As some of them,—As it is written—
The people sat down to eat and drink,
And rose up to be making sport;
8Neither let us commit fornication,
As |some of them|| committed fornication,
And there fell, in one‘ day, three‘ and twenty‘ thousand;
9Neither let us be putting the Lord to the test,
As |some of them|| put him to the test,
And |by the serpents| were perishing;
10Neither be ye murmuring,
Even |as some of them|| murmured,
And perished by the destroyer.
11But |these things| by way of type| were happening unto |[them],

And were written with a view to our admonition, Unto whom [the ends of the ages] have reached along.

12 So that [he that thinketh he is standing] let him take heed lest he fall.

13 [Trial] hath not taken [you], save such as man can bear; [Faithful] moreover is God, who will not suffer you to be tried above what ye are able, But will make [with the trial] [also the way of escape] that ye may be able to hold out.

14 Wherefore, my beloved, flee from idolatry,—

15 As [to prudent men] I speak,— Judge [ye] what I say:—

16 <The cup of blessing which we bless> Is it not [a sharing together] of the blood of the Christ?

17 <The loaf which we break> Is it not [a sharing together of the body of the Christ]?

18 Because [one’ loaf, one’ body] we [the many] are, For we [all] [of the one’ loaf] partake.

19 Be looking at Israel after the flesh:— Are not [they who eat the sacrifices] [joint partakers with the altar]?

20 What, then, am I saying?— That [an idol-sacrifice] is [anything]?

21 Or that [an idol] is [anything]?

20 On the contrary— That <the things which the nations’ sacrifice> [Unto demons, and not unto God] they sacrifice; And I wish not that ye should become [sharers together with the demons]!

21 Ye cannot be drinking—a cup of the Lord, and a cup of demons; Ye cannot be partaking of [a table of the Lord] and a table of demons.

22 Or are we to provoke the Lord to jealousy? Are we [mightier than he]?

23 [All things] are allowable——but [not all things] are profitable,—

24 Let [no one] be seeking [what concerneth himself], But that which concerneth [some one else].

25 <Whatsoever [in the market] is sold> eat,— Asking no question, for conscience sake;

26 For [unto the Lord] belongeth the earth, and the fulness thereof.

27 If one of them who believe not [invite you] and ye are disposed to go>

28 But <if anyone should say [unto you]> [This] is [a holy sacrifice]>

29 Do not eat, for that’ man’s sake who disclosed it, and for conscience sake:—

30 But [conscience] I mean, not thine own, but the other’s,— For why is [my freedom] to be judged by another’s conscience?

31 <Whether, therefore, ye eat or drink, or whatsoever ye do> do [all things to the glory of God].

32 Give [no occasion of stumbling]— Whether to Jews, or to Greeks, or to the assembly of God:

33 Even as [I also] [in all things] do please [all], Not seeking my own’ profit, But that of the many, that they may be saved.

Chapter 11.

1 Become [imitators’ of me],—even as [I also] [am] of Christ.

2 Now I praise you, that [in all things] ye have me in remembrance, And <even as I delivered unto you the instructions> ye hold them fast.

3 But I wish you to know— That [the head of every’ man] is [the Christ],

And [the head of a woman] is [the man];
And [the head of the Christ] is [God].

[Every] man praying, or prophesying, having anything upon his head putteth to shame his head;
But [every] woman praying, or prophesying, with her head [unveiled] putteth to shame her head,—for it is [one and the same] with her having been shaven.

For <if a woman doth not veil herself> let her also be shorn;
But <if it were> a shame in a woman to be shorn or shaven> let her be veiled.

For ||[a man]|| indeed, ought not to be veiling his head,
Being [the image and glory of God],—
But [the woman] is [the glory of man];
For [man] is not [of woman],
But [woman] of man;
For also [man] was not created’ ||[for the sake of the woman],
But [woman] ||[for the sake of the man].

||[For this cause]|| ought the woman to have permission upon her head, [because of the messengers].

Howbeit, neither is [woman] apart from man,
Nor [man] apart [from woman]—||[in the Lord];

For <just as> [the woman] is [of′ the man>]
||[So]|| also [the man] is [through means′ of the woman];—
But ||[all things]|| are of′ God.

||[Among your own selves]|| judge ye,—
Is it [becoming] for a woman—||[unveiled]|| to be praying [unto God]?

Doth not ||[even nature herself]|| teach you—
That <if [a man] have long hair> it is [a dishonour to him];—
But <if [a woman] have long hair> it is [a glory to her],—
For [her long hair ||instead of a veil] hath been given to her.

But <if anyone thinketh to be |contentious|> ||[We]|| have no [such′ custom],—
Nor yet the assemblies of God.

But <in giving you [the following] charge> I praise you not,—
In that [not for the better, but for the worse] ye come together.

For ||[first of all]|—
When ye come together in assembly> I hear that ||[divisions among you]|| exist,—
And [in part] I believe it;

For there must needs be ||[even parties among
you],
That ||[the approved]|| ||[themselves]|| may become [manifest] among you.

<When, therefore, ye come together into one place>
It is not to eat ||[a supper unto the Lord]|;
For ||[each one]|| taketh beforehand ||[his own′
supper]|| in your eating,
And [one] indeed, is hungry,
Whereas [another] is drinking to excess.

What! have ye not ||[houses]|| for your eating and drinking?
Or ||[the assembly of God]|| do ye despise, and ||[put to shame them who have nothing]? What am I to say to you?
Shall I praise you?
||[In this]|| I praise you not.

For ||[I myself]|| received from the Lord—
That which I also delivered unto you,—
How that ||[the Lord Jesus],||
||[In the night in which he was being delivered up]||
Taketh a loaf,
And, giving thanks, brake it, and said—
||[This]|| is my′ body, which is for you,—
||[This]|| do ye, in remembrance of [me];
||[In the same manner]|| ||[the cup also],
<After they had taken supper> saying—
||[This cup]|| is ||[the new′ covenant]|| in my blood,—
||[This]|| do ye <as often soever as ye may be drinking it> in remembrance of [me].

For <as often as ye may be eating this loaf,
And ||[the cup]|| may be drinking>
||[The death of the Lord]|| do ye announce [until he come].

27 So that whosoever may be eating the loaf, or drinking the cup of the Lord [in an unworthy manner]>
Shall be [responsible] for the body and blood of the Lord.
28 But let a man be proving himself,—
And [so] [of the loaf] let him eat, and [of the cup] let him drink;
For [he that is eating and drinking]—
Judgment unto himself> doth eat and drink,—
If he be not setting apart the body].
29 [For this cause] many among you' are weak and sickly;
And not a few are falling asleep.
30 If, however, we had been setting [ourselves] apart>
We had not, in that case, been coming under judgment;
31 But <being brought under judgment> [By the Lord] are we being disciplined,
Lest [with the world] we should be condemned.
32 So then, my brethren,—
When ye come together for the eating>
Unto one another [be giving welcome;—
If anyone be hungry] [at home] let him eat,
Lest [unto judgment] ye be coming together.
And [the remaining things] whenever I come I will set in order.

Chapter 12.
1 But [concerning the spiritually gifted] brethren, I am not wishing you to be ignorant.
2 Ye know that <when ye were of the nations>
Unto the dumb idols, howsoever ye were being led> Ye were seduced.
3 Wherefore, I give you to know—
That [no one] in God’s Spirit speaking saith—Accursed<e> Jesus!
And [no one] can say—
Lord’ Jesus!

Save in [the] Holy Spirit.
4 But [distributions of gifts] there are,
Yet the same’ Spirit,
5 And [distributions of ministries] there are,
And the same’ Lord.
6 And [distributions of energies] there are,
And the same’ God—
Who energiseth all things in all].
7 But [unto each one] is given the manifesting of the Spirit,
With a view to that which is profitable;
8 For [unto one] indeed, [through the Spirit] is given a word of wisdom,
But [unto another] a word of knowledge,
[according to the same’ Spirit];—
9 Unto a different one faith’ in the same’ Spirit,
And [unto another] gifts of healings in the one’ Spirit.
10 And [unto another] energies of mighty works,
And [unto another] prophesying,
And [unto another] discriminations of spirits,—
Kinds of tongues, And [unto another] translation of tongues;—
11 But [all’ these] energiseth the one’ and the same’ Spirit,
Distributing unto each one [peculiarly],
As it is disposed].
12 For <just as [the body] is [one], and yet hath [many members],
But [all’ the members of the body] though many are one’ body>
[So] also [the Christ];—
13 For [even in one’ Spirit][we all] into one’ body have been immersed,— Whether Jews or Greeks,
Whether bond or free,—
And [all] of one’ Spirit have been caused to drink.
14 For [the body also] is not one’ member, but [many]:
Though the foot should say—a Or: “a sentence against.”

b Same word as in ver. 31. When, setting ourselves apart as consecrated persons, we partake of the one sacred loaf,—the feast is likely to be well kept.
c Or: “a sentence.”
d Or: “spiritual gifts”
e Or: anathema.
16 And though the ear should say—
   [Because I am not an eye] I am not of the body
   Is it therefore [not] of the body?
17 <If [the whole] body were [an eye]>
   Where were [the hearing]?
   [If the whole] were [hearing]>
   Where were [the smelling]?
18 But [now] hath God set the members, each one of them in the body [even as he pleased].
19 But <if they all had been one] member>
   Where had been [the body]?
20 ||Now|| however, there are many members, yet one body;
21 {And} the eye cannot say unto the hand—
   I have [no need of thee],—
   Nor [again] the head, unto the feet—
   I have [no need of you]:—
22 Nay! [much more] the members which seem to be weaker are [necessary],
23 And <the parts of the body which we deem to be less honourable> [more abundant honour] do we bestow,
   And [our uncomely parts] have [more abundant comeliness],
24 Whereas [our comely parts] have [no need].
   But [God] hath tempered the body together,—
   ||Unto that which was lacking|| giving [more abundant honour];—
25 That there might be no division in the body,
   But that the members might have [the same] care one for another;
26 And <whether one member suffereth> All’ the members [suffer with it],
   Or
   All’ the members [rejoice together].
27 Now [ye] are the body of Christ, and members severally;—
28 And God hath, indeed, set [certain] in the assembly,—
   First apostles, second prophets, third teachers,
   After that mighty works, then gifts of healings, helps, guidings, kinds of tongues.
29 Are [all] apostles? Are [all] prophets?
30 Have [all] gifts of healings?
31 Be envious, however, of the greater gifts;
   And [yet]  unto you I point out:—

Chapter 13.
1 <Although with the tongues of men I be speaking [and of messengers],>
   And have not [love]>
   I have become resounding brass, or a clanging cymbal;
2 And <though I have [the gift of] prophesying, and know all sacred secrets,> and all knowledge,—
   And though I have all faith, so as to be removing [mountains],
   And have not [love]>
   I am [nothing];
3 And <though I morsel out all my goods,—>
   And though I deliver up my body, [that I may boast],
   And have not [love]>
   I am profited [nothing].
4 ||Love|| is patient,
   ||Love|| is not envious,
   ||Love|| is not puffed up,
   ||Love|| is not easily provoked,
   ||Love|| Imputeth not that which is base;
   Rejoiceth not over unrighteousness,
   But rejoiceth in sympathy with truth,—
5 [All things] covereth,
   [All things] believeth,
   [All things] hopeth,
   [All things] endureth.

        They shall be done away,
    <Whether tongues>
        They shall cease,
    <Whether gaining knowledge>
        It shall be done away;
9 For [in part] are we gaining knowledge, And [in part] are we prophesying,— 10 But <as soon as [that which is complete] is come>
    [That which is in part] shall be done away.
11 <When I was a child>
    I used to speak as a child,
    To prefer as child,
    To reason as a child:
12 <Now I have become a man>
    I have laid aside the things of the child!
13 For we see, as yet, through a dim window [obscurely],
    But [then] face to face:
    [As yet] I gain knowledge [in part],
    But [then] shall I fully know.
14 Love,
    But the greatest of these is ||Love||.

Chapter 14.
1 Pursue love;
    Nevertheless be envious of the spiritual gifts,—
    And [rather] that ye may be prophesying.
2 For <he that speaketh with a tongue>
    [Not unto men] doth speak, but [unto God],—
    For [no one] understandeth.
3 But <he that prophesieth>
    [Unto men'] doth speak—edification, and exhortation, and comfort.
4 <He that speaketh with a tongue>
    Buildeth up [himself],
    Whereas <he that prophesieth>
    Buildeth up [an assembly].
5 Howbeit I wish you all to speak [with tongues],

But [rather] that ye may prophesy,—
Moreover [greater] is he that prophesieth,
    Than he that speaketh with tongues,—
    Unless indeed he translate,
    That [the assembly] may receive [upbuilding].
6 But [now] brethren—
    <If I come unto you speaking [with tongues]>
    What shall I profit [you],
    Except I speak [unto you], either by way of revelation, or knowledge, or prophesying, or teaching?
7 [In like manner] <the things without life giving [sound], whether pipe or harp>
    <If a distinction in the sounds they do not give>
    How shall it be known, what is being piped or harped?
8 For <if also [an uncertain sound] [a trumpet] should give>
    Who shall prepare himself for battle?
9 <So] also [ye] through means of the tongue>
    <Except ye give [intelligible discourse]>
    How shall it be known what is being spoken?
    For ye will be speaking [to the air].
10 There may happen to be so' many kinds of languages in the world,
    And [not one] unspoken:—
11 <If, then, I do not know the meaning of the language>
    I shall be, unto him that is speaking, [a foreigner],
    And [he that is speaking] shall be [in my case] a foreigner.
12 So [ye] also—
    <Since ye are envious of spirits>
    [Unto the upbuilding of the assembly] seek to be pre-eminent.
13 Wherefore <he that speaketh with a tongue>
    Let him pray that he may translate;
14 <For> <if I am praying in a tongue>
    [My spirit] is praying,
    But [my mind] is [unfruitful].
15 What is it then?
    I will pray [with the spirit],
    But I will pray [also with the mind],—
    I will strike the strings [with the spirit],

\[a\]: Or: “know by inspection,” “know at a glance”—\textit{epi ginosko.}
\[b\]: Chap. xii. 31.
\[c\]: Cp. Jer. v. 15; Eze. iii. 6.
\[d\]: Ap: “Mystery.”
\[e\]: Mt: “the power of the voice.”

{But} I will strike the strings [also with the mind].

16[Else] <if thou be blessing\textsuperscript{a} in a spirit>

<He that filleth up the place of the ungifted person>

How shall he say the Amen upon thy' thanksgiving?
Since indeed ||what thou' art saying|| he knoweth not;

17 For ||thou|| indeed, [excellently] art giving thanks,
But [the other] is not being built up.

18 I give thanks unto God!—
||More than ye all'|| am I speaking [with tongues];

19 But <in assembly>
I desire to speak [five' words with my mind]
<That others also] I may instruct>

Than myriads' of words [in a tongue].

20 Brethren! do not become [children] [in your understandings];
But [in baseness] become babes,
While [in your understandings] ye become [full-grown].

21[In the law] it is written—
<With strange tongues,
And with lips of strangers>
Will I speak unto this people;
And [not even so] will they hearken unto me,—\textsuperscript{b} Saith the Lord.

22 So that [the tongues] are [for a sign]—
[Not unto them that believe],
But [unto them that believe not];
Whereas [prophesying] is [Not for them that believe not],
But [for them that believe].

23 If, then, the whole assembly come together with one consent,
And [all] are speaking with tongues,—
And there come in persons unskilled or unbelieving>

Will they not say that ye are raving?

24 But <if] all be prophesying,—
And there come in one who is unbelieving or unskilled>

He is convicted by all,
He is searched by all,

||The secrets of his heart|| become [manifest];
And [so] <falling down upon his face> he will do homage unto God, reporting that
||in reality|| God is [among you].\textsuperscript{c}

25 What, then, is it, brethren?
<Whensoever ye are coming together>
||Each one|| hath [a psalm], hath [a teaching], hath [a revelation], hath [a tongue], hath [a translation];—

Let [all things] be done [unto building up].

27<If with a tongue] one is speaking>
Let it be by two, or, at the most, three,—
And by turns;

And let [one] be translating;

28 But <if there be none to translate>
Let him keep silence in assembly,
And [unto himself] be speaking, and [unto God].

29 <Prophets, moreover>
Let [two or three] speak,
And let [the others] judge.

30 <If, however, [unto another] a revelation be made [as he is sitting]>
Let [the first] be silent;

31 For [one by one] ye can [all] be prophesying,—
That [all] may learn, and [all] be encouraged.

32 And [spirits of prophets] [unto prophets] do submit themselves;

33 For God is not [a God] [of confusion] but [of peace];—
As in all' the assemblies of the saints.

34<As for the women>
||In the assemblies|| let them be silent,\textsuperscript{d}
For it is not permitted them to be speaking;
But let them be in submission,—

Even as [the law] saith,\textsuperscript{e}

35 <If, however, they are wishing [to learn] something>

||At home|| [their own' husbands] let them question;
For it is [a shame] for a woman [to be speaking in assembly].

36 Or ||from you|| did the word of God come forth?
Or [unto you alone] did it extend?

37 <If anyone thinketh himself to be [a prophet], or spiritually gifted>

\textsuperscript{a} Or: “offering praise.”

\textsuperscript{c} Is. xiv. 14 (Heb.).

Let him acknowledge the things which I am writing to you,—
That they are [a commandment] [of the Lord].
38But <if anyone knoweth not> he is unknowna!
39So, then, my brethren,—
Be zealous to prophesy,b
And do not forbid [to be speaking with tongues];
40But let [all things] [with comeliness, and byc arrangement] be done.

Chapter 15.
1Moreover, brethren, I make known unto you
The joyful message—
Which I myself announced to you,
Which also ye received,
In which also ye stand;
2Through which also ye are being saved,—d
If ye hold fast
[With what’ discourse] I announced the joyful message unto you;—
Unless indeed [in vain] ye believed.
3For I delivered unto you [among the first things] [What also I received];—
How that [Christ] died for our sins [according to the Scriptures],
And that he was buried,
And that he hath been raised,e on the third day,
[according to the Scriptures],—
5And that he appeared unto Cephas,
[Then] to the twelve,
6[After that] he appeared to above ’five’ hundred’ brethren [at once],—
Of whom [the greater number] remain until even now,
But [some] have fallen asleep,—
7[After that] he appeared unto James,
[Then] unto all the apostles,
8And [last of all] [Just as if unto the unseasonable birth]
He appeared [even unto me];
9For [I] am the least of the apostles,f
Who am not worthyg to be called an apostle,
Because I persecuted the assembly of God,
But [by favour of God] I am what I am,
And [his favour, which was unto me] hath not been made [void],—
But [much more abundantly than they all] have I toiled, Albeit not [III], but the favour of God with me.
11<Whether therefore [II] or [they]> [Thus] do we proclaim,
And [thus] did ye believe.
12Now <if [Christ] is proclaimed,
That [from among the dead] he hath been raised>
How say some [among you]—
[Resurrection of the dead] there is none?
13But <if [resurrection of the dead] there is none>
[Not even Christ] hath been raised;
14And <if [Christ] hath not been raised>
[Void, after all] is our proclamation,
[Void also] ourf faith,— 15And we are found [even false-witnesses of God],
Because we have witnessed respecting God,
That he raised the Christ,—
Whom he did not raise,
[If, indeed, after all] The dead are not raised!
16For <if [the dead] are not raised>
[Not even Christ] hath been raised;
17And <if [Christ] hath not been raised>
[To no purpose] is your faith,
[Yet] are ye in your sins!
18Hence also [they who are fallen asleep in Christ] are lost:
19<If [in this life] [in Christ] we have hoped’— [and that is all]>
We are [of all men] [most to be pitied].
20But [now] hath [Christ] been raised from among the dead,—
A firstfruit of them who have fallen asleep;
21For <since indeed [through a man] came death> [Through a man] also cometh the raising of the dead;
22For <just as [in the Adam] all die>
[So] also [in the Christ] shall all be made alive.

24 ||Afterwards|| the end—
   Whencesoever he delivereth up the kingdom unto Whencesoever he shall bring to nought all’ rule and all’ authority and power;

25 For he must needs reign, until he shall put all’
   his enemies under his feet:
26 ||As a last’ enemy|| [death] is to be destroyed;
27 For—
   He put ||all things|| in subjection under his

   But <whencesoever it shall be said—\(^{e}\)

34 Evil’ communications [corrupt gentle manners]:—
35 Wake up to sobriety [in righteousness],
   And be not committing sin;
   For some have [an ignorance of God]:
   [For shame, unto you] am I speaking!
36 But some one will say—
   [How] are the dead raised?
   And [with what kind’ of body] do they come?
37 Simple one!
   <What [thou] sowest> is not quickened [except it die];
   And <what thou sowest>
   [Not the body that shall come into existence]|
   dost thou sow,
   But a naked’ kernel—
   [If it so happen] of wheat, or of any of the 38 Howbeit [God] giveth it a body [as he pleased],

   And [unto each’ of the seeds] a body [of its 39 [Not all’ flesh] is the same’ flesh;

   But ||one|| indeed, is [the flesh] of men
   And [another] the flesh [of beasts],
   And [another] the flesh [of birds],
   And [another] [of fishes];
40 And there are heavenly bodies, and earthly bodies,—
   But [of one kind] indeed, is the glory [of the heavenly],
   And [of another kind] is the glory [of the earthly];—
41 [One] is the glory [of a sun],
   And [another] the glory [of a moon],
   And [another] the glory [of stars],—
   Nay! [star from star] differeth in glory.
42 [Thus] also the resurrection of the dead:
   It is sown’ in [corruption],
   It is raised’ in [incorruption],
43 It is sown’ in [dishonour],
   It is raised’ in [glory],
   It is sown’ in [weakness],
   It is raised’ in [power],
44 It is sown’ a body [of the soul];\(^{g}\)
   It is raised’ a body [of the spirit];—\(^{h}\)

\(^{e}\) Or: “he shall say.”
\(^{f}\) Is. xxii. 18.
<If there is a body of the soul> There is also of the spirit],—
Thus also it is written—
The first man, Adam, became a living soul;^a
The last' Adam a life-giving spirit.
Howbeit not first is the [body] of the spirit,
But that of the soul],—
Afterwards] that of the spirit.
||The first man] is of the ground earthly,]|b
||The second man] is of heaven:
<As] the man of earth] [such] also, the men of earth,
And <as] the man of heaven] [such] also, the men of heaven;
And <even as we have borne the image of the man of earth>
Let us also bear the image of the man of heaven.
And [this] I say, brethren,—
That flesh and blood cannot inherit God’s kingdom].
Neither doth corruption inherit incorruption.
Lo! a sacred secret[^d] unto you do I declare:—
We shall not sleep,
But we shall be changed’,—
In a moment,
In the twinkling of an eye,
During the last trumpet;
For it shall sound.
And the dead shall be raised incorruptible,
And we shall be changed.
For this corruptible must needs clothe itself with incorruption,
And this mortal clothe itself with immortality.
But whenever this mortal shall clothe itself with immortality>
Then shall be brought to pass the saying that is written—
|Death| hath been swallowed up victoriously|[^e];
Where, O death, is thy victory?
Where, O death, is thy sting?
Now the sting of death] is sin,
And the power of sin] is the law;—

57 But unto God be thanks, who is giving unto us’ the victory through our Lord Jesus Christ.
58 So then, my beloved brethren,—
Become ye steadfast, immovable,
Superabounding in the work of the Lord at all times;
Knowing that your toil is not in vain in the Lord.

Chapter 16.

1 Now concerning the collection which is for the saints>
<Just as I directed the assemblies of Galatia>
||So] also do [ye];—
||Upon the first of the week] let each one of you put by itself, in store] as he may be prospering],—
Lest as soon as I come [then] collections should be in progress.
And as soon as I arrive] whosoever ye shall approve by letters these will I send,
to bear away your favour unto Jerusalem:
And if it be |meet] that I also] be journeying| with me] shall they journey.
Now I will come unto you, as soon as I have passed through Macedonia,—
For I do pass through Macedonia;
And with you] I may perhaps sojourn, or winter,—
That ye may set me forward whithersoever I may be journeying,
For I do not wish to see you, just now, by the way;
I hope to remain some time with you,—
If the Lord permit.
But I remain in Ephesus, until the Pentecost,
For a door, unto me] hath opened great and effectual] and opposers are many].
But if Timothy should come See that without fear he be with you,
For in the work of the Lord doth he labour, even as I:
Let no one then despise him;^[i]

And set ye him forward in peace, that he may come unto me,
For I expect him with the brethren.

12But <concerning Apollos the brother>
||Much|| did I beseech him, that he would come unto you [with the brethren],
But there was [by no means] any will, that he should come [now];—
He will come, however, as soon as he hath good opportunity.

13Be on the watch,
Stand firm in the faith,
Be men,—
Be strong;

14Let [all your affairs][in love] be carried on.

15Now I beseech you, brethren,—
Ye know the house of Stephanas, that it is a first-fruit of Achaia, and [for the purpose of ministering] they devoted themselves [unto the saints]—

16That [ye also] be submitting yourselves unto such as these,—and unto everyone helping in the work and toiling.

17I rejoice, moreover, in the presence of Stephanas, and Fortunatus, and Achaicus:
Because [your own’ shortcoming][these] have filled up:—

18They have given rest, in fact, unto my’ spirit [and yours]:
Hold in acknowledgment, therefore, [such as these].

19The assemblies of Asia salute you:
Aquila and Priscilla, with the assembly meeting at their house, salute you much in the Lord:

20All the brethren salute you:—
Salute ye one another with a holy kiss.

21The salutation of Paul—[with my own’ hand].
22<If anyone doth not dearly love the Lord>
Let him be anathema [that is, “accursed”]:
Maran atha [that is, “[The Lord] cometh,”].

23|The favour of the Lord Jesus| be with you.
24|My love| be with you all’ [in Christ Jesus].
Chapter 1.

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus, through the will of God,
   And Timothy the brother,—
   Unto the assembly of God which is in Corinth,
   Together with all the saints who are in the whole of Achaia:
2 Favour unto you, and peace,
   From God [our] Father, and Lord Jesus Christ.

3 ||Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ||
   ||The Father of compassions,||
   And God of allʹ encouragement,
4 Who encourageth us in allʹ our tribulation—
   To the end we may be able to encourage them who are in anyʹ tribulation—
   Through means of the encouragement wherewith we ourselves are encouraged by God.
5 Because <even as the sufferings of the Christ overflow unto us>
   [So] ||through the Christ|| overfloweth ||our encouragement also.||
6 But <whether we are in tribulation>
   It is for yourʹ encouragement and salvation;
   <Whether we are encouraged>—
   It is for yourʹ encouragement, which worketh inwardlyb by the endurance of the same sufferings which ||we also|| suffer;—
7 And so ||our hope|| is sure in your behalf,—
   Knowing that—
   <As ye are [ sharers ] of the sufferings>c ||So||, also, of the encouragement.
8 For we do not wish you to be ignorant, brethren, as to our tribulation which happened in Asia,—
   That |exceedingly, beyond power| were we weighed down,
   So that we despaired |even of life|.||

9 But ||we ourselves, within ourselves|| have had |the sentence of death|,
   That we might not rest our confidence upon ourselves,
   But upon God ||who raiseth the dead||,
10 Who ||out of so greatʹ a death|| rescued us, and willʹ rescue,—
   Unto whom we have turned our hope, {that} |even yet| he willʹ rescue:
11 Ye also labouring together on our behalf |by your supplication|,d
   That <|unto manyʹ persons|| being due the gift of favour |unto us|>
   ||Through means of many|| might thanks be given in our behalf.
12For ||our boasting|| is |this|—The witness of our conscience,
   That <in sanctity and sincerity of God,
   {And} not in fleshly wisdom, but in Godʹs favour>
   Have we behaved ourselves in the world,—
   ||And more abundantly towards you||.
13For |no other things|| are we writing unto you,
   than what ye are either reading or even acknowledging,—I hope, moreover, that |throughout| ye willʹ acknowledge,
14 According as ye haveʹ also acknowledged us, in part,—
   That ||your theme of boasting|| we are,
   Even indeed as ||ye|| also [shall be] ||ours|| in the day of our Lord Jesus.
15And ||in thisʹ confidence|| I purposed, |before| to come |unto you|,—
   In order that ||a secondʹ joy||e ye might have,—
16 And ||by your means|| to pass into Macedonia,
   And |again| ||from Macedonia||f to come unto you,
   And ||by you|| be set forward unto Judæa:—

Chapter 2.

1 For I have determined, unto myself, this—Not again, in grief, to come unto you.
2 For if I grieve you
Who then is he that is to gladden me,—Save he who is being grieved through me;
And I wrote this very thing—Lest if I came I should have grief from those over whom I had need to rejoice,—Having confidence in you all'

That my joy is the joy of you all'.
4 For out of much' tribulation and anguish of heart> wrote I unto you, through many' tears,—Not that ye might be grieved,
But that the love ye might know, which I have very abundantly unto you.
5 Now if anyone hath caused grief>
Not unto me hath he caused grief,
But—that I may not bear too heavily—unto you all'.
6 [Sufficient] unto such a one, the punishment itself which [was inflicted] by the many;
7 So that on the contrary ye should forgive and encourage,
Lest, by any means, by his excessive' grief such a one should be swallowed up.
8 Wherefore, I beseech you, assure him of love;
9 For to this end I also wrote,—That I might know the proof of you, Whether [in all things] ye are obedient.
10 Now to whom ye forgive anything> [I, also];
For If I also] what I have forgiven, if [anything] I have forgiven>
[For your sake, in the person of Christ] [have I forgiven it].
11 Lest we should be overreached by Satan, For [of his’ thoughts] we are not ignorant.
12 Moreover although I came unto Troas for the glad-message of the Christ, and a door for me had been opened in the Lord>
13 I had no relief in my spirit, because I found not Titus my brother;
But [taking my leave of them] I came away into Macedonia;
14 But unto God] be thanks<Who ever leadeth us in triumph in the Christ, And [the fragrance of the knowledge of him] maketh manifest, through us, in every' place>
15 That of Christ] a grateful odour are we, unto God,—In them who are being saved, And in them who are being lost:
16 [In these] indeed, a fragrance out of death into death,

But [in those] a fragrance out of life into life.\textsuperscript{a}
And [for these things] who is sufficient?

17 For we are not, as the many, driving a petty trade\textsuperscript{b} with the word of God;
But \textit{as of sincerity};
But \textit{as of God, before God} —
In Christ we speak.

\textbf{Chapter 3.}

1 Are we to begin again [ourselves] to commend?
Or have we need [like some] of commendatory' letters unto you, or from you?

2 \textit{Our letter} \textit{is} —
Inscribed in our hearts,
Noted and read by all' men:

3 Manifesting yourselves that ye are a letter of Christ, ministered by us,— \textit{Inscribed} —
Not with ink,
But with [the] Spirit of a Living God,
Not \textit{in tablets of stone};\textsuperscript{c}
But \textit{in tablets [which are]} hearts of flesh;\textsuperscript{d}

4 But \textit{[such confidence as this]} have we,
The through Christ, towards God;
Not that \textit{[of our own selves]} \textit{sufficient} are we, to reckon anything as of' ourselves,
But \textit{our sufficiency} is of God; —

5 Who also hath made us sufficient to be ministers of a new covenant —
Not of letter,
But of spirit,
For [the letter] killeth,
Whereas [the Spirit] maketh alive.

7 But \textit{[the ministry of death, in letters' engrav in stones]} was brought into existence with glory,
So that the sons of Israel could not look steadfastly into the face of Moses,
By reason of the glory of his face —\textsuperscript{e}
Which [glory] was to be\textsuperscript{f} done away >

8 How shall not \textit{[rather]} \textit{[the ministry of the Spirit]} be with glory?

9 For \textit{[the ministry of condemnation was glory} —

\textbf{Chapter 4.}

1 Wherefore \textit{having this ministry, even as we received mercy} we faint not;

2 But have renounced the hidden things of shame,
Not walking in craftiness,
Nor handling the word of God deceitfully,—
But \textit{[by the manifestation of the truth]} commending ourselves unto every' conscience of men, in the sight of God.

3 And \textit{if our glad-message [is veiled]} —

For [all things] are for your sakes, in order that [the favour abounding]
May <through means of the greater number> cause [the thanksgiving] to superabound unto the glory of God.

Wherefore we faint not, But <even if [our outer] man] is decaying>
Nevertheless [our inner [man]] is renewing\(^b\) day by day.

For [the momentary'] lightness of the\(^i\) tribulation]
<In a manner yet more and more excelling>
Is working out for us [an age-abiding' weight of glory],—

So long as we are not looking out for the visible things,
But for the invisible;
For [the visible things] are temporary,
Whereas [the invisible] are age-abiding.

Chapter 5.

For we know that—
<If [our earthly'] tent'-dwelling] should be taken down\(^1\)
We have [a building of God],
A dwelling not made by hand,
Age-abiding in the heavens.

And verily [in this]\(^k\) we sigh,\(^l\) earnestly desiring to clothe ourselves over [with our habitation which is of\(^m\) heaven],—

Although, indeed <even clothing ourselves>\(^n\) we shall not be found [naked];—

And verily [we who are in the tent] do sigh, [being weighed down],
While yet we are not wishing to unclothe ourselves, but to clothe ourselves over,—

In order that [what is mortal] may be swallowed up [by life].\(^o\)

Now [he that hath wrought us for this very thing] is [God],—

[Who hath given unto us the earnest of the Spirit],

6 Having good courage, therefore, at all times,
And knowing that—

Remaining at home in the body,
We are away from home from the Lord,—

[By faith] are we walking,
Not by sight;

8 We have good courage, however, and are well pleased—

Rather to be away from home, out of the body,
And to come home, unto the Lord.\(^ a \)

9 Wherefore also we are ambitious—

<Whether at home, or away from home>
To be [well-pleasing unto him].

10 For ||we all’|| must needs be made manifest’ before the judgment seat of the Christ.\(^ b \)

That each one may get back the things done by means of the body,

|According’ to the things which he practised],
Whether good or corrupt.

11|<Knowing, then, the fear of the Lord>

We persuade ||men||,
But ||unto God|| are manifest,—

I hope, moreover, ||even in your consciences||
that we are manifest:

12 ||Not again, ourselves|| do we commend unto you,
But as though an occasion we were giving unto you—something to boast of, in our behalf;

That ye may have something suited unto them who |in appearance| are boasting, and not in heart.

13 For <whether we have been beside ourselves> it hath been for God,
Or <whether we are sober-minded> it is for you.

14For ||the love of the Christ|| constraineth us;—

15 Having judged this,—

That ||one|| in behalf of all| died,
Hence ||they all|| died\(^ d \),
And ||in behalf of all|| died he,—
In order that ||they who live||
||No longer’ for themselves| should live,
But for him who |in their behalf| died and rose again.

16 So that ||we|| [henceforth] know |no one| ||after the flesh||:

<If we have even been gaining, after the flesh, a knowledge of Christ>

17 ||On the contrary|| |now, no longer| are we gaining it.

So that <if any one is in Christ> there is a new’ creation!\(^ e \)

||The old things|| have passed away,\(^ f \)—

Lo! they have become new!

18||The all things|| moreover, are of God,—

Who hath reconciled us unto himself, through Christ,

And hath given unto us, the reconciling’ ministry:—

19 How that ||God|| was in Christ,

Reconciling ||a world|| unto himself,

Not reckoning, unto them, their offences,—
And hath put, in us, the reconciling’ discourse.

20||In behalf of Christ|| therefore, are we ambassadors,—

As if God were beseeching through us:

We entreat, in behalf of Christ,—

Be reconciled unto God!

21 <Him who knew not sin>

||In our behalf|| he made to be |sin|,

That we might become God’s righteousness in him.

Chapter 6.

1 <As co-workers, however> we also beseech,
That ||not in vain|| |the favour of God| ye welcome;

2 For he saith—

|In an approved season| have I hearkened unto thee,
And |in a day of salvation| have succoured thee\(^ g \),—

Lo! |now| a well-approved season,
Lo! |now| a day of salvation\(^ h \):

That the ministry\(^a\) be not blamed;

But [in everything] commending ourselves as God’s ministers,—

In much endurance, in tribulations, in necessities, in straits, \(^5\) in stripes, in imprisonments, in tumults, in toilings, in watchings, in fastings, \(^6\) in sanctity, \(^b\) in knowledge, in long-suffering, in graciousness, in Holy Spirit, in love unfeigned, in discourse of truth, in power of God;

Through the weapons of righteousness on the right hand and left, \(^8\) through glory and dishonour, through bad report and good report;

As deceivers, and yet true, \(^9\) as unknown, and yet well-known, as dying, and lo! we live, as disciplined, and yet not put to death; \(^c\) \(^10\) as grieving, yet [ever] rejoicing, as destitute, yet making [many] rich, as holding [nothing], and yet firmly holding [all things]. \(^d\)

Our mouth is opened unto you, O Corinthians!

Our heart hath become enlarged:

Ye are not straitened in us,

But are straitened in your hearts’ affections;

Howbeit <by way of the like’ recom pense—as unto children I speak> Be enlarged, even [ye]!

Be not getting diversely yoked with unbelievers;

For what partnership have righteousness and lawlessness?

Or what fellowship hath light with darkness?

And what concord hath Christ with Beliar?

Or what part hath a believer with an unbeliever?

And what agreement hath a shrine of God with idols?

For [we] are [the] shrine of a God that liveth;—

Even as God hath said—

\(I \text{ will dwell in them, and walk,}\\ And \text{ will be their God,}\\ \text{And they shall be my people.}\)

Wherefore come ye forth out of their midst, And be separated,—saith [the] Lord,—

And [one impure] do not touch;

And [all] will give you welcome.\(^g\)

And will become your Father,

And [ye] shall become my sons and daughters,

Saith [the] Lord Almighty.\(^h\)

Chapter 7.

1 <Having therefore [these] promises, beloved> Let us purify ourselves from all’ pollution of flesh and spirit,

Perfecting holiness in fear of God.

2 Give place to us!

||No one|| have we wronged, ||No one|| have we corrupted, ||No one|| have we defrauded.

3 ||Unto condemnation|| I am not saying [this] For I have before said— ||In our hearts|| are ye, to the end we may die together and live together.

4 [Great] is my freedom of speech towards you, [Great] is my boasting in behalf of you:

I am filled with the encouragement,

I am greatly superabounding with the joy,

In all’ our tribulation.

5 For <even when we came’ into Macedonia>||No relief at all|| had our flesh;

But ||in every way|| were we in tribulation,— ||Without| fightings! ||Within| fears!

6 But <he who encourageth them that are brought low> encouraged us,—

Even God,—by the presence of Titus.

7 Not, however, by his presence [alone],

But also by the encouragement wherewith he had been encouraged over you:

Recounting unto us your earnest desire, your lamentation, your zeal in my behalf.

So that I the more’ rejoiced.

8 Because <if I even grieved you by the letter> I do not regret,—

Though I could even have regretted,—

\(^i\) Cp. chap. ii. 13.

\(^j\) The count is resumed lower down, ver. 11.
For I see that that letter [if even for an hour] did cause you grief.

Now am I rejoicing,—Not that ye were grieved, But that ye were grieved unto repentance; For ye were grieved according to God, In order that [in nothing] should ye receive damage from us.

For [grief according to God’] worketh [repentance unto salvation, not to be regretted]; Although [the grieving of the world’] worketh [death].

For lo! this very thing—the being caused to grieve [according to God]:—What manner of diligence it wrought out in you,—nay! defence,—nay! sore displeasure,—nay! fear,—nay! earnest desire,—nay! jealousy,—nay! avenging. In every way ye shewed yourselves to be [chaste] in the matter.

Hence [if I even wrote unto you] It was not for the sake of him that did’ the wrong, {Nay} not even for the sake of him that suffered’ the wrong; But for the sake of your earnestness, which was on our account, being made manifest unto you, before God:—

[For this cause] have we received encouragement.

<In addition to our encouragement, however> [Much more abundantly] have we rejoiced over the joy of Titus,—That his spirit hath received refreshment from you all’, That <if in anything—unto him—in your behalf—I have boasted> I have not been put to shame; But <as ||all things, in truth|| we told you> [So] ||even our boasting before Titus|| turned out to be ||truth].

And [his tender affections] are ||much more abundantly towards you], When he calleth to mind the obedience [of you all’],—How [with fear and trembling] ye gave him welcome.

I rejoice that [in everything] I am of good courage respecting you.

Chapter 8.

Moreover we make known unto you, brethren, The favour of God which hath been given in the assemblies of Macedonia,—

That [in a great’ testing of tribulation]> [The superabounding of their joy and their deep’ destitution]>

Superabounded unto the riches of their liberality;

That [according to power, I bear witness, and beyond power]>

[Of their own accord] [they acted].—

[With much’ exhortation] entreatings of us the favour and the fellowship of the ministry which was for the saints;—

And [not merely as we hoped] But [themselves] gave they, first, unto the Lord and unto us through God’s will,

To the end we should exhort Titus, in order that [According as he before made a beginning]>

[So] he should also complete unto you this favour also.

But [just as [in everything] ye superabound,—In faith, and discourse, and knowledge, and all’ earnestness, and in the love among you which proceedeth from us’]>

In order that [in this’ favour also] ye would superabound.

[Not by way of injunction]° do I speak, But through [others’] earnestness, And [the genuineness of your own’ love] putting to the test.

For ye are taking knowledge of the favour of our Lord Jesus [Christ],—

How that [for your sakes] he became destitute—although he was [rich], In order that [||ye] [by his destitution] might be enriched.

And [a judgment, herein] do I give,—

For [this, unto you] is profitable,—Who, indeed [not only of the doing, but of the desiring] made for yourselves a beginning a year ago;—

° 1 Co. vii. 6.
Chapter 9.

1 For, indeed, <concerning the ministry which is for the saints>
   It is [superfluous for me] to be writing to you;
2 For I know your forwardness of mind—
   Of which [in your behalf] I am boasting unto Macedonians,
   That [Achaia] hath been prepared for a year past,—
   And [your zeal] hath stirred up the greater number of them.
3 Nevertheless I have sent the brethren,
   That [our boast in your behalf] be not made void [in this respect],
   That [even as I was saying] ye [may be prepared,— 4 Lest by any means <if there should come with me Macedonians, and find you unprepared>
   [Wel]—not to say [ye]—should be put to shame in this confidence.
5 [Necessary] therefore, I regarded it,
   To exhort the brethren that they would go forward unto you,
   And make up beforehand your previously-promised blessing.
   [The same] to be [read]—thus, as a blessing] and not as of constraint.
6 <As to this, however>
   [He that soweth sparingly]
   [Sparingly] also shall reap,
   And [he that soweth with blessings]
   [With blessings] also shall reap:—
7 Each one, according as he hath purposed in his heart]
   Not sorrowfully, nor of necessity,—
   For [a cheerful giver] [God] loveth.d
8 Moreover God is able to cause [very'] gracious gift] to superabound unto you,

He is a partner of mine, and [towards you] a fellow-worker.
<Or our brethren>
Apostles of assemblies, and Christ’s glory.
24<The proof of your love, therefore, and of our’ boasting in your behalf>
Shew ye [unto them] [in the face of the assemblies[].

Howbeit [now][the doing also] complete ye,
   In order that [even according to the forwardness of the desiring]
   [So] may be the completing—out of what ye have.
12 For <if the forwardness is set forth>
   [According to what one may have] he is well approved,
   Not according to what one hath not.
13 For <not that unto others’ should be relief, and unto you’ distress [do I speak],
   But [by equality>
   [In the present’ season] your’ surplus for their deficiency,—
14 In order that their’ surplus may come to be for your’ deficiency:
   [That there may come about an equality]:—
15 Even as it is written—
   [He that [gathered] the much] had not more than enough,
   And [he that [gathered] the little] had not less.a
16 Thanks, however, unto God!—
   Who is putting the same’ earnestness in your behalf in the heart of Titus, 17 In that <though, indeed, [the exhortation] he welcomed>
   Yet already being [greatly in earnest], [of his own accord] hath he gone forth unto you.
18 Howbeit, we also set forward, with him, the brother [whose praise in the Glad Tidings] [hath gone] through all’ the assemblies:—
19 [Not only so, however] but he hath also been appointed by the assemblies, as a fellow-traveler with us in this favour, which is being ministered by us with a view to the [Lord’s] glory and our earnest desire:—
20 Arranging this—lest anyone [upon us] should cast blame, in this munificence which is being ministered by us;
21 For we provide things honourable, not only before [the] Lord, but also before men.b
22 Moreover we have set forward, with them, our brother whom we have proved [in many things, oftentimes] earnest,—
   But [now] much’ more earnest, by reason of the great confidence [which he hath] towards you.
23<Whether as regardeth Titus>

In order that having in every' thing, at every time', every kind of sufficiency of your own:<sup>a</sup>
Ye may be superabounding unto every' good work;

9 Even as it is written—
He hath scattered abroad,
He hath given to the needy,—

||[His righteousness]|| abideth to futurity.<sup>b</sup>

10 Now <he that supplieth seed to the sower, and bread for eating>
Will supply and multiply your seed for sowing, And cause to grow your fruits of righteousness<sup>c</sup>:

11||In every thing| being enriched, unto every kind' of liberality,—
Which, indeed, worketh out, through us, thanksgiving unto God;

12 Because ||[the ministry of this public service]|| is not only' towards filling up the deficiencies of the saints, but also superabounding [through the thanksgiving of many'] unto God,—

13||[Of many] who [through the proof of this ministry] are glorifying God for your acknowledged' submission unto the glad-message of the Christ, and for the liberality of the fellowship [unto them, and unto all],—

14||[Themself also]|| <with supplication on your behalf> longing after you, by reason of the surpassing favour of God [resting] upon you:

15 Thanks be unto God, for his unspeakable' bounty!

Chapter 10.

1 Moreover ||I, Paul, myself] exhort you,
Through the meekness and considerateness of the Christ,—
I who [to look upon, indeed] am lowly among you,
But [absent] am bold towards you;—

2 I entreat, however,
That [when present] I may not be bold with the assurance wherewith I think to be daring against some who account of us as though [according to flesh] we were walking,—

3 For <though [in flesh] we walk>
Not [according to flesh] do we war,—

4 For [||the weapons of our warfare]|| are not fleshly,
But mighty, by God, unto a pulling down of strongholds,—

5 When we pull down [calculations] and every' height that uplifteth itself against the knowledge of God,
And when we bring into captivity every' thought unto the obedience of the Christ,

6 And when we hold ourselves [in readiness] to avenge all' disobedience,
As soon as your' obedience shall be fulfilled!

7 ||[The things that lie on the surface]| ye are looking at:—

||If anyone hath come to trust in himself that he is [Christ's]>

||[This]| let him reckon, again, with himself—
That <even as [he] is Christ's>—
||So also are [we].

8 Yea <if | somewhat more abundantly| I should boast concerning our authority—
Which the Lord hath given for building up and not for pulling you down>
I shall not be put to shame,—

9 That I may not seem as though I would be terrifying you through means of my letters;

10 Because ||[The letters, it is true]| (saith one),<sup>d</sup> are weighty and strong,
But [the presence of the body] is weak, and [the discourse] contemptible;—

11||[This]| let such a one reckon—
That <what we are, in our word, through means of letters, being absent>
|Such also ||[being present]| are we |in our deed].

12 For we dare not class or compare ourselves with some' who do [themselves] commend;
But [they] ||[among' themselves]| measuring [themselves], and comparing themselves with themselves>
Are without discernment!

13||[We]| however <not as to the things without measure| will boast ourselves,
But, according to the measure of the limit which God apportioned unto us |as a measure|—
To reach as far as even you!

14 For <not as though we were not reaching unto you> are we over-stretching ourselves,
For <as far as even you> were we beforehand in the glad-message of the Christ:
15 Not <as to the things without measure> boasting ourselves in other'men’s toils,
But having [hope]—your faith [growing]— [among you] to be enlarged [according to our limit for something beyond],— 16 [Unto the regions beyond you] to carry the glad-message:
Not <within another' man's limit, as to the things made ready> to boast ourselves.
17[He that boasteth] however, [in the Lord] let him boast;
18 For [not he that commendeth himself] ||he|| is approved,
But he whom ||the Lord|| doth commend.

Chapter 11.

1 I could wish ye would bear with me as to some little’ foolishness,—
Nay! do even bear with me!
2 For I am jealous over you with a jealousy [of God];
For I myself betrothed you unto one’ husband,
To present [a chaste virgin] unto the Christ,—
3 But I fear lest, by any means,
<As ||the serpent|| completely deceived Eve,
in his craftiness> b
Your minds should be corrupted from the singleness {and the chasteness} which are [due] unto the Christ.
4 For <if, indeed, [he that cometh] is proclaiming
||another’ Jesus||, c
Whom we have not proclaimed,
Or ||a different Spirit|| ye are receiving,
Which ye had not received,
Or a different glad-message,
Which ye have never welcomed> Ye are [well] bearing. d 5 For I reckon not to have come a whit’ behind the exceeding overmuch’ apostles;
6 And <even if uncultured in my discourse>
Certainly not in my knowledge,—
But [in every way] having made [it] manifest, in all things, unto you.
7 Or ||a sin|| did I commit—
Abasing [myself] that ||ye|| might be exalted,—
In that ||free of charge|| [God’s glad-message] I announced unto you?
8 ||Other’ assemblies|| I despoiled, receiving supplies that I might minister [unto you];
And <being present with you, and having come short> I was not burdensome to anyone,—
For ||my deficiency|| the brethren, coming from Macedonia, [helped to make up];—
And <in everything, without burden unto you>
I kept [myself]—and will’ keep!
9 ||Truth of Christ is in me|| that ||this boasting|| shall not be silenced unto me, in the regions of Achaia.
10 Wherefore? Because I love you not?
|God| knoweth!
12 But ||what I am’ doing|| I also will’ do,—
That I may cut off the occasion of them who are wishing an occasion,
That [wherein they are boasting themselves] they may be found even as also ||we||.
For ||such as these|| are false apostles, deceitful workers, transfiguring themselves into apostles of Christ.
And no marvel! For ||Satan himself'|| doth transfigure himself into a messenger of light!
15 ||No great thing, therefore|| if [his ministers also] are transfiguring themselves as ministers of righteousness!—
||Whose end|| shall be according to their works.
16[Again] I say—
Let no one deem me to be [foolish];
But [otherwise, at least] ||as foolish|| give me
welcome,
That ||I also|| [some little] may boast myself.
17 <What I am saying> ||Not according to the Lord|| am I saying, but as in foolishness,—
In this’ my boastful’ confidence!
18 <Since |many| are boasting after the flesh>
||I also|| will boast;
19 For [gladly] do ye bear with the foolish,
Being [yourselves] |discreet|,—
20 For ye bear with it—

d Or (WH): “ye might well bear.”
21 [[By way of disparagement]] I am speaking,—
As though [[we]] had been weak!
Whereas [[in whatsoever anyone dareth]] [[in foolishness I speak]] || I also || dare:—
[Hebrews] are they? || I also ||, [Israelites] are they? || I also ||, [Seed of Abraham] are they? || I also ||,
[Ministers of Christ] are they? <As one deranged I am talking> || I || above measure!—
[In toils] superabundantly, [In prisons] superabundantly, [In stripes] to excess, [In deaths] oft,—
<From Jews> ||five times|| |forty-save-one| have I received,
[Thrice] have I been beaten with rods, [Once] have I been stoned, [Thrice] have I been shipwrecked,
[A day and night] ||in the deep|| have I spent; In journeyings oft,
In perils of rivers, in perils of robbers, in perils from my own race, in perils from Gentiles, in perils in the city, in perils in the desert, in perils by the sea, in perils among false brethren, 27 in toil and hardness, [in watchings] oft, in hunger and thirst, [in fasting] oft, in cold and nakedness:—
<Apart from the things without>
||My daily care||—my anxiety for all’ the assemblies;—
29 Who is weak, and I am not’ weak? Who is caused to stumble, and ||I|| am not burning?
30 <If |to boast| is needful> |in the things that concern my weakness| will I boast.
31 ||The God and Father of our Lord Jesus|| knoweth—
He who is blessed unto the ages—
That I am not speaking falsely:
32 ||In Damascus|| the governor under Aretas the king] was guarding the city of Damascus, to apprehend me,—

33 And [through a window] was I let down by the wall,
And escaped his hands.

Chapter 12.

1 [To be boasting] is needful,—it is not, indeed, profitable;[b]
Yet will I come to visions and revelations of [the] Lord:—
2 I know a man in Christ,
Who [fourteen years ago] <Whether in the body, I know not,
Or out of the body, I know not, |God| knoweth>
Such a one as this [caught away] as far as the third heaven;
3 And I know such’ a man as this,
<Whether in the body or apart from the body,
I know not,—|God| knoweth>
How that he was caught away into paradise,
And heard unspeakable’ things,
Which it is not allowable for a man to utter:
4 ||On behalf of such a one as this|| will I boast,
But ||on behalf of myself|| will I not boast ||save in my weaknesses||;—
6 Although in fact <if I should wish to boast>
I shall not be foolish, for [the truth] would I speak;
But I forbear, lest anyone |unto me| should reckon above what he beholdeth me [to be],
or hearth from me,—
||Even by the exceeding greatness of the revelations||.
7 Wherefore <lest I should be unduly lifted up>
There was given to me a thorn’ in the flesh,
A messenger of Satan, that he might buffet me,—
||Lest I should be unduly lifted up||.
8 [In this behalf] ||thrice|| besought I |the Lord|, that it[d] might depart from me;
9 And at once he said unto me—
|Sufficient for thee| is my favour,
For ||my power|| [in weakness] is made complete.
||Most gladly|| therefore, will I rather’ boast in my weaknesses,

---

b Or (WH): “But to boasting indeed is not profitable, Yet,” &c. c Or: “stake.”
d Or “he.”
That the power of Christ may spread a tent over me.

10 Wherefore, I take pleasure in weaknesses, in insults, in necessities, in persecutions, and straits, a
   [In behalf of Christ];
   For <as soon as I am weak> ||then|| am I ||powerful||.

11 I have become foolish,—||ye|| compelled me:— ||I||, in fact, ought ||by you|| to have been commended;
   For ||not a whit|| have I come behind the exceeding’ overmuch’ apostles,—
   [Even if I am nothing’]:

12 ||The signs, indeed, of an apostle||b were wroght out among you ||in all’ endurance||,—
   [Both] in signs, and wonders, and mighty works:

13 For what is there wherein ye were made inferior to the rest’ of the assemblies,—
   Save that ||I myself|| would not allow myself to be a burden unto you?
   Forgive me this wrong!

14 Lo! ||this third time|| I am holding myself ||in readiness|| to come unto you,
   And I will not allow myself to be a burden;
   For I seek not yours, but you;—
   For ||the children|| ought not’ to lay up [for the parents],
   But the parents for the children;—

15 And ||I|| most gladly will spend, and be fully spent, for your souls:—
   <If I |exceedingly| love you> am I |the less| loved?c

16 But let it be!—
   I ||myself|| did not burden you,—
   Notwithstanding, ||being crafty|| |with guile| I caught you?d

17 Was there ||anyone of those whom I have sent unto you|| through whom I have overreached you?

18 I exhorted Titus, and sent with him the brother,—
   Did ||Titus|| overreach you?
   Was it not |in the same’ spirit| we walked?
   Was it not |in the same’ steps|?

19 ||All this time|| think ye, that ||unto you|| we are making a defence?
   ||Before God in Christ|| we speak;—
   But all these things, beloved, for your’ upbuilding.

20 For I fear—
   <Lest, by any means, when I come>
   |Not such as I wish| should I find you,
   And ||I|| should be found by you, |such as ye do not’ wish|;—
   Lest, by any means, ||I should find|| strife, jealousy, outbursts of wrath, factions, railings, whisperings, puffed up pretensions, confusions;—

21 Last <when I again’ come> my God should humble me in regard to you,—
   And I should grieve over many’ who had before sinned, and not repented of the impurity, and fornication, and wantonness which they had committed.

Chapter 13.

1 ||This third time|| am I coming unto you:—e
   <At the mouth of two' witnesses, or three' shall every' matter be established.f

2 I have said beforehand, and do say beforehand,—
   <As present the second time, although now absent>
   Unto them who before sinned, and unto all the rest,—
   That <if I come again> I will not spare.

3 <Since ||a test|| ye are seeking, of the speaking in me of Christ;—
   Who ||unto you|| is not weak,
   But is powerful in you,—

4 For ||although he was crucified through weakness||,
   Yet is he living through God’s power,—
   For ||although ||we|| are weak in§ him||,
   Yet shall we live with him, through God’s power ||unto us||—

5 Be trying ||yourselves|| whether ye are in the faith,
   Be putting ||yourselves|| to the test!
   Or do ye not recognise yourselves,
Seeing that Jesus Christ is in you,—
 Unless perhaps ye fail in the testing.

6  I hope, however, that ye shall come to know, that we fail not in the testing!

7  But we pray unto God, that ye may do nothing base,—
     Not that we may appear accepted,
     But that ye the honourable thing may be doing, even though we should be, as it were, rejected;

8  For we can do nothing against the truth, but for the truth;

9  For we rejoice—whenever we are weak, and ye are strong.

||This|| also we pray for—your restoration:—

10 ||For this cause|| these things, while absent am I writing,
      That I may not when present deal sharply’—
      According to the authority which the Lord hath given me, for building up and not for pulling down.

11||Finally|| brethren, farewell!
      Be getting restored, be taking encouragement, be of one mind, live in peace,—
      And the God of love and peace will be with you.

12 Salute ye one another with a holy’ kiss.
      ||The favour of our Lord Jesus Christ, And the love of God, And the fellowship of the Holy’ Spirit||
      Be with you all’.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE
TO THE GALATIANS.

Chapter 1.

1 Paul, an apostle,—
Not from men, nor through man,
But through Jesus Christ, and God the Father who raised him from among the dead,—
And all the brethren with me;—
Unto the assemblies of Galatia:
Favour unto you and peace,
From God our Father,
And Lord Jesus Christ,—
Who gave himself for our sins,
That he might deliver us out of the present evil age,
According to the will of our God and Father,—
Unto whom be the glory unto the ages of ages: Amen!
10 For am I [even now] persuading [men] or [God]? Or am I seeking to please [men]?<If I had been still' pleasing [men]> ||Christ's servant|| had I not been!
11 For I make known unto you, brethren,<As to the glad-message which was announced by me>
That it is not after man;
12 For neither [from man] did I accept it, Nor was taught [it],—
But through a revealing of Jesus Christ.
13 For ye have heard <as to my own manner of life, at one time, in Judaism>
How that [exceedingly] was I persecuting the assembly of God, and laying it waste,
And was making advancement, in Judaism, above many' contemporaries in my nation,—
Being [surprisingly] zealous of my paternal' instructions.
15 But <when God, who set me apart from my mother's womb and called me through his favour,
Was well-pleased to reveal his Son in me,>
That I might announce the glad-message regarding him among the nations>
[Straightway] I conferred not with flesh and blood,
Neither went I up unto Jerusalem unto them who [before me] were apostles,—
But I went away into Arabia, and again' returned unto Damascus.
18 ||Then, after three' years|| went I up unto Jerusalem, to become acquainted with Cephas, and tarried with him fifteen days;
But ||other of the apostles|| saw I none, save James the brother of the Lord:—

Chapter 2.

1 ||After that, fourteen’ years later|| I [again] went up unto Jerusalem, with Barnabas, Taking with me Titus also;

2 And I went up by revelation, And laid before them the glad-message which I proclaim among the nations; [Privately] however, to them of the repute,— Lest, by any means, [in vain] I should be running, or had run.

3 But ||not even Titus, who was with me, though he was a Greek’|| was compelled to be circumcised;—

4 But [this was] because of the false brethren secretly’ introduced,— Who, indeed, came in secretly to spy out our freedom, which we have in Christ Jesus,

5 That they might bring us’ into bondage:— ||Unto whom, not even for an hour|| gave we place by the [required] submission,— In order that ||the truth of the glad-message|| might still abide with you.

6 Moreover <from them who were reputed to be something>— [Whatsoever at one time] they were, maketh no’ difference to me, God accepteth not a man’s [[person]],— ||Unto me|| in fact, they who were of repute added nothing’ further;

7 But ||on the contrary||— <When they saw that I had been entrusted with the glad-message to the uncircumcision,

c Or (WH): “on Jesus Christ.”

d Mt: “of.”
And not by works of law;
Because [by works of law] shall no flesh be declared righteous.⁵

Now if in seeking to be declared righteous in Christ we [ourselves also] were found sinners—
Is Christ therefore a minister of sin?
Far be it!

For [the things that I pulled down] [these] [again] I build—[A transgressor] I prove [myself] to be.

For [] through means of law unto law died,
That unto God I might live:—

With Christ I have been crucified;
And living no longer am [],
But living in me is []—
While so far as I now do live in flesh [By faith] I live—
The faith in the Son of God,
Who loved me, and gave himself up in my behalf.

I do not set aside the favour of God;
For [through law] is righteousness
Then [Christ] [without cause] died.

Chapter 3.

1 O thoughtless Galatians!
Who hath bewitched you,—
[Before whose very eyes] Jesus Christ was openly set forth as a crucified one?

2 [This only] am I wishing to learn from you:—
[By works of law] received ye [the Spirit]?
Or by a believed report?⁴

3 [So thoughtless] are ye?
[Having made a beginning in Spirit]
Are ye [now, in flesh] to be made complete?

4 [Such things] suffered ye [in vain],—
If at least [it is] even in vain?

5 [He then who was supplying unto you the Spirit, and energising mighty works among you] By works of law,

Or by a believed report [did he it]?
Even as Abraham—
Believed in God,
And it was reckoned unto him as righteousness.⁶

7 Be taking note therefore—
That [they who are of faith] [the same] are [sons] of Abraham;
And [the scripture] [Foreseeing] that [by faith] God would declare the nations righteous
Fore-announced the good news unto Abraham, saying—
All the nations shall be blessed in thee.⁸

9 So then [they who are of faith] are blessed with believing Abraham;
For [as many as are of works of law] are [under a curse],—
For it is written—
[Accursed] is everyone that continueth not in all things that are written in the book of the law to do them?¹

11 Moreover, [that] [in law] [no one] is declared righteous with God [is] evident,— Because [] [] [by faith] shall live;¹
And [the law] is not of faith, but—
[He that hath done them] shall live in them;¹
[Christ] hath redeemed us out of the curse of the law,
Having become [in our behalf] [a curse];—
Because it is written—
[Cursed] is everyone that hangeth upon a tree;¹

14 In order that [] [unto the nations] [the blessing of Abraham] might come about in Jesus Christ,³
In order that [the promise of the Spirit] we might receive through means of the faith.

15 Brethren! [in human fashion] am I speaking:
Yet still [a man’s confirmed covenant] no one setteth aside or addeth unto:

² Deu. xxvii. 26.
³ Or: “is to be declared.”
⁴ Hab. ii. 4; cp. Ro. i. 17; He. x. 38.
⁵ Gen. xv. 6; cp. Ro. iv. 3; Ja. ii. 23.
⁶ Gen. xii. 3; xviii. 18.
⁷ Or: “Are to be blessed.”
⁸ Or (WH): “Christ Jesus.”
⁹ Or: “our.”
16 Now ||unto Abraham|| were spoken the promises—||and unto his seed||;—
He saith not— And unto thy seeds, as of many,
But ||as of one||— ||And unto thy seed,\(^b\)|| which is Christ:
17 And [this] I say—
<A covenant previously confirmed by God>
||the law which |after four hundred’ and thirty’ years| hath been brought into being|| doth not annul, so as to do away with the promise.
18 For <if |by law| is the inheritance>
It is [no longer] by promise;
But ||unto Abraham|| |through promise| hath God favoured it.
19Why, then, the law?
||Because of the transgressions|| it was added,
Until such time as the seed should come, unto whom the promise had been made,
And was given in charge through messengers, at the hand of a mediator;
20 Now ||a mediator\(^b|| is not [a mediator] [of one],
But ||God|| is ‘one[.]
21Is ||the law|| then, against the promises {of God}?—
Far be it!
For <if a law had been given, which had been able to give life>
Verily ||in\(^a\)|| law|| would have been our righteousness;
22 But the Scripture |did shut up| all things |under sin,
That ||the promise by faith in\(^f\) Jesus Christ||
might be given to them who have’ faith.
23||Before the coming of the faith|| however,
|under law| were we being kept in ward,
Being shut up unto the faith which should afterwards’ [be revealed],
24So that ||the law|| hath proved |our tutor| [training us] for Christ,
In order that |by faith| we might be declared righteous;
25But <the faith having come’> ||no longer| are we |under a tutor|;
26For ye |all|| are |sons of God| through the\(^g\) faith in Christ Jesus;
27 For ye ||as many as [unto Christ] have been immersed|| have put [Christ] on:
28 There cannot be Jew or Greek,
There cannot be bond or free,
There cannot be male and female,
For ||all ye|| are |one| in Christ Jesus:
29Now <if ||ye|| are of Christ>
By consequence ye are |Abraham’s seed|,
|According to promise|| |heirs||.

Chapter 4.

1 But I say;—
<For as long’ a time as |the heir| is |an infant||>
He differeth |nothing| from a servant, though |lord of all|,
2 But is |under guardians| and stewards, until the [day] fore-appointed of the father:
3 So also |||well <when we were infants||
|Under the elementary principles of the world|
were held in servitude;
4 But <when the fulness of the time came’>
God sent forth his Son,
Who came to be of a woman,
Who came to be under law,—
5 That ||them who were under law|| he might redeem,
That ||the sonship|| we might duly receive;—
6 And <because ye are sons>
God hath sent forth the Spirit of his Son into our hearts, exclaiming, Abba! Oh Father!\(^h\)
7 So that |no longer| art thou a servant but a son;
And ||if a son|| an heir also, through God.
8 But ||at that time||—
<Not knowing God>
Ye were in servitude unto them who |by nature| are not Gods;
9 Whereas ||now||—
<Having acknowledged God,— or rather, Having been acknowledged by’ God>
How turn ye back again unto the weak’ and beggarly’ elementary principles, unto which ||over again|| ye are wishing |to come into servitude||?

GALATIANS – Chapter 5.

10 ||Days|| ye do narrowly observe,⁴ and months, and seasons, and years:—
11 I am afraid of you—Lest by any means [in vain] I should have toiled for you!
12 Become ye as [||],
   Because ||I also|| [was] as ||ye||,—brethren, I entreat you.
||Not at all|| have ye wronged me.
13 Howbeit ye know that ||by reason of|| a weakness of the flesh I myself announced the glad-message unto you [formerly];
   And ||your trial, in my flesh|| ye despised not, neither spat ye [in disgust],
   But [as a messenger of God] ye welcomed me—
   ||As Christ Jesus||.
14 Where, then, is the happiness ye accounted yours?
   For I bear you witness—That ||if possible, your eyes|| ye would have dug out, and given unto me.
15 So then ||your enemy|| have I become, by dealing truly with you?
16 They shew a zeal for you, not honourably,
   But wish ||to shut you out||,
   In order that ye may be zealous for ||them||.
17 Howbeit it is [honourable] to shew zeal in what is honourable at all times, and not only when I am present with you;—
18 My dear children! for whom I [again] am in birth-pains,
   Until Christ be formed within you;—
19 I could wish, however, to be present with you, even now, and to change my voice,—
   Because I am perplexed regarding you.
20 Tell me! ye who ||under law|| are wishing to be: ||The law|| do ye not hear?
21 For it is written, that ||Abraham|| had [two sons]—
   One by the bondmaid,
   And one by [the free woman];
22 But ||he that was of the bondmaid|| [After the flesh] had been born,
   Whereas ||he that was of the free woman|| Through means of a promise.
23 Which things, indeed, may bear another meaning:
24 For ||the same|| are two covenants,—
   One, indeed, from Mount Sinai,
   [Into bondage] bringing forth,
   The which is Hagar,—
25 And ||the Hagar|| is [Mount Sinai, in Arabia],—
   She answereth, however, unto the present' Jerusalem,
   For she is in bondage with her children;
   But ||the Jerusalem above'|| is [free],—
   The which is our mother;
26 For it is written—
Be gladdened, O barren one! that wast not giving birth.
Break forth and shout, thou that wast not in birth-pains,—
   Because ||more|| are the children of the deserted one,
   Than of her that had the husband.⁹
27 And ||well|| brethren, <after the manner of Isaac>
   Are [children of a promise].
28 But <just as [then] [the that after the manner of the flesh’ had been born]]
   Did persecute him who [had been born] after the manner of the Spirit>
29 ||Thus|| also [now].
30 But, what saith the scripture?
Cast out the serving woman and her son;
For in nowise shall the son of the serving woman inherit’ with the son of the free.³
31 Wherefore, brethren, we are not children of a serving woman, but of the free:—

Chapter 5.

1 ||With her freedom|| [Christ] hath made you’ free.
   Stand fast, therefore, and do not [again] ||with a yoke of servitude|| be held fast!
2 See! ||I, Paul|| say unto you—
   ||If ye be getting circumcised|| [Christ] will profit you’ nothing’.⁴
3 Yea, I bear solemn witness again, unto every’ man getting circumcised,—
   That he is [a debtor] to do [the whole’ law],
4 Ye have been set aside from Christ, ye who [by law] are to be declared righteous,—

||a Ro. xiv. 5; Col. ii. 16.
||b Or: “during.”
||c NB: The weakness, his; the trial, in part, theirs.
||d Or: “in one who is h.”
||e Gen. xxi. 2, 9.

||f Or (WH): “the.”
||g He. xii. 22; Rev. iii. 12; cp. Is. liv. 1.
||h Is. liv. 1.
||i Or (WH): “ye.”
||j Gen. xxi. 10.
GALATIANS – Chapter 6.

1 Brethren! If a man should even be overtaken’ in any’ fault>
||Ye, the spiritual|| be restoring such a one, in a spirit of meekness,
Looking to thyself, lest ||even thou|| be put to the test.
2 ||One another’s’ burdens|| be ye bearing,
And ||so|| fill up the law of the Christ.
3 For <<if any one thinketh he is’ something, when he is [nothing]> he deceiveth himself;
4 But ||his own work|| let each one’ be putting to the proof,

Lest <whatsoever things ye chance to desire>
||these|| ye should be doing!
18 And <<if [by Spirit] ye are being led>
Ye are not under law.
19 ||Manifest|| however, are the works of the flesh, which, indeed, are—
Fornication, impurity, wantonness, 20 idolatry, enchantment, enmities, strife, 7 jealousy, 8 outbursts of wrath, factions, divisions, parties, 21 envyings, drunkenness, 9 revellings;—
And such things as these:
As to which I forewarn you, even as I have’ forewarned you,—
That ||they who such things as these’ do practise||
Shall not inherit ||God’s kingdom||.
22 But ||the fruit of the Spirit|| is—
Love, joy, peace, long-suffering, graciousness, goodness, faithfulness, 23
meekness, self-control;—
||Against such things as these|| there is no
law.
24 And ||they who are of Christ Jesus|| have crucified ||the flesh|| with its susceptibilities and covetings.
25 <<If we live by Spirit>
||By Spirit|| let us also walk.
26 Let us not become vain-glorious,—
||One another|| challenging,
||One another|| envying.

Chapter 6.

|Out of his favour| ye have fallen;
5 For ||we|| in Spirit, by faith, for a hope of righteousness| are ardently waiting,—
6 For ||in Christ [Jesus]|| neither ||circumcision|| availeth anything, 9 nor [uncircumcision],
But faith, [through love] energising.
7 Ye were running well:—
Who hath hindered you, that [by truth] ye are not to be persuaded?
8 ||The persuasion|| [is] not of him that calleth b
you:
9 ||A little’ leaven|| leaveneth [the whole’
lump].
10 ||II| am persuaded regarding you, in the Lord—
That <<for nothing else> ye will have any regard;
But ||he that is troubling you|| shall bear the sentence,—
||Whosoever he may be]].
11 ||II| however, brethren—
<<If [circumcision] I yet’ proclaim>
Why am I yet’ persecuted?
||After all|| the stumbling-block of the cross hath been set aside.
12 Oh! that they would even leave off in dismay d who are unsettling you!
13 For ||ye|| [on a footing of freedom] were called brethren,—
||Only’| [turn] not your freedom into an occasion to the flesh,
But ||by means of your love|| be serving one another;
14 For ||the whole’ law|| [in one’ word] is summed up—[namely] in this,—
Thou shall love thy neighbour as thyself.
15 <<If, however, ||one another|| ye bite and devour>
Take heed lest ||by one another|| ye be consumed!
16 I say, moreover—
||By Spirit|| be walking,
And ||fleshly coveting|| ye will in nowise fulfil;
For ||the flesh|| coveted against the Spirit,
But ||the Spirit|| against the flesh,—
For ||these|| [unto one another] are opposed,

And [then, for himself alone] [the matter of boasting] shall he have,
And not for some other,
5 For [each one] [his own’ proper load] shall bear;—
6 Howbeit, let him who is being orally instructed in the word, have fellowship with him that is so instructing him, [in all’ good things].

Be not deceiving yourselves!
||God|| is not to be mocked;
For <whatsoever a man soweth> [the same] shall he also reap,—
8 Because <he that soweth into his own flesh> [Out of the flesh] shall reap corruption, a
Whereas <he that soweth into the Spirit> [Out of the Spirit] shall reap age-abiding life.

And <in doing that which is honourable> let us not be fainthearted;
For [in due season] we shall reap, if we faint not.
10 |Hence| then, <as we have opportunity’>
Let us be working what is good, towards all,—
But [especially] towards the family of the faith.

See! [with what large’ letters, unto you’] I have written, [with my own’ hand]:—
12 <As many as are wishing to make a good shew in flesh>
[The same] are compelling you to get circumcised,—
Only’ that [for the cross of Christ {Jesus}] they may not be suffering persecution!

For <not even they who are gettingb circumcised> are [themselves] observing [law],—
But are wishing you’ to be circumcised,
That [in your’ flesh] they may boast themselves.

<With me> however,
Far be it! to be boasting,
Save in the cross of our Lord Jesus Christ,—
Whereby [unto me] [a world] hath been crucified,
And [unto] a world;
15 For neither [circumcision] is anything, nor [uncircumcision],

But a new’ creation;—
16 And <as many as [by this rule] shall walk>d>
Peace be upon them, and mercy,
||And upon the Israel of God||.e
17<For the rest>
||Annoyances, unto me|| let no one be offering;
For [II] [the brandmarks of Jesus, in my body| I am bearing.
18||The favour of ourf Lord Jesus Christ|| be with your spirit, brethren. Amen.

THE EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE
TO THE EPHESIANS.

Chapter 1.

Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus, through God’s will,
Unto the saints who are [in Ephesus] and faithful in Christ Jesus,—

Favour unto you, and peace,
From God our Father, and Lord Jesus Christ.

Blessed be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ,
Who hath blessed us with every spiritual blessing in the heavenlies in Christ,
According as he made choice of us in him, before the founding of a world,
That we might be holy and blameless in his presence;

In love marking us out beforehand unto sonship, through Jesus Christ, for himself,
According to the good pleasure of his will,
Unto the praise of the glory of his favour wherewith he favoured us in the Beloved One,—

In whom we have the redemption through his blood, the remission of our offences,
According to the riches of his favour, which he made to superabound towards us;

Making known to us the sacred secret of his will,
According to his good pleasure which he purposed in him,—

And the things upon the earth,

In whom also we were taken as an inheritance, according to the purpose of him who energiseth all things according to the counsel of his will.

That we should be for the praise of his glory—

We who had hoped beforehand in the Christ,—

In whom [ye also]—

Hearing the word of the truth, the glad-message of your salvation,—
In whom also believing—
Were sealed with the Spirit of the promise, the Holy [Spirit],
Which is an earnest of our inheritance, Unto the redemption of the acquisition;—
Unto his glorious praise.

For this cause [I also]—

Having heard of the faith on your part in the Lord Jesus, and that towards all the saints Cease not giving thanks in your behalf,
Making mention in my prayers,
That [the God of our Lord Jesus Christ, the Father of glory] would give you a Spirit of wisdom and understanding in gaining a personal knowledge of him,—
The eyes of your heart having been enlightened’,
That ye may know—
What is the hope of his calling,
What the riches of the glory of his inheritance in the saints,

And what the surpassing greatness of his power unto us who believe,—

According to the energy of the grasp of his might which he energised in the Christ, When he raised him from among the dead, and seated him at his right hand in the heavenlies, Over-above all principality, authority, and power, and lordship, and every name that is named, not only in this age, but also in the coming one, And did put all things in subjectation beneath his feet, And gave him to be head over all things unto the assembly, Which, indeed, is his body.

The fulness of him who [the all things in all] is for himself filling up.

Chapter 2.

[Unto] you also—
Being dead by your offences and sins, In which at one time ye walked, According to the age of the world, According to the prince of the authority of the air, of the spirit that now energiseth in the sons of disobedience, Among whom also we all had our behaviour, at one time, in the covetings of our flesh, doing the things desired by the flesh and the mind, And were children, by nature, of anger—even as the rest,—

But God, <Being rich in mercy>
[By reason of the great love wherewith he loved us]
<Although we were dead by our offences>
Gave us life together with the Christ,—
[By favour ye have been saved,—
And raised us up together,
And seated us together in the heavenlies,]

That he might point out, in the oncoming ages, The surpassing riches of his favour in graciousness upon us, ||[In Christ Jesus]|;
For [by his favour] have ye been saved, through means of faith, And this [hath come to pass]—
Not from you, [Of God] the free-gift! Not from works, lest anyone should boast.

||[His] in fact we are—his [workmanship], Created in Christ Jesus upon a footing of good works, Which God prepared beforehand, That [therein] we might walk.

Wherefore, keep in remembrance—
That [at one time] ||[ye, the nations in flesh]||<Who are called Uncircumcision by the so-called Circumcision in flesh, made by hand>||
That ye were ||[in that season], Separate from Christ, Alienated from the citizenship of Israel, and strangers from the covenants of promise, Having no [hope] And godless in the world;
But ||[just now, in Christ Jesus], ||[Ye, who at one time were afar off]|
We were made nigh in the blood of the Christ;
||[He] in fact, is our peace—
Who made both one, And ||[the enclosing’ middle-wall] took down, ||[The enmity, in his flesh—the law of commandments in decrees]—bringing to nought,—
That ||[the two] he might create in himself, into one man of new mould, ||[Making peace].
And might fully reconcile them both, in one body, through means of the cross,—
||[Slaying the enmity thereby];—
And ||[coming] he announced the glad-message—
||[Of peace] unto you, the far off,
||[And peace] unto them that were nigh;
Chapter 3.

1 For [this] cause [[I, Paul, the prisoner of Christ Jesus in behalf of you the nations]]:—

2 If at least ye have heard of the administration of the favour of God which hath been given unto me for you,

3 {How that} [by way of revelation] was made known unto me the sacred secret,—

4 Even as I before wrote in brief,—

5 Respecting which ye can [by reading] perceive my discernment in the sacred secret of the Christ,—

6 Which [in other' generations] had not been made known unto the sons of men, As it hath [now] been revealed by his holy' apostles and prophets, in Spirit;—

7 That they who are of the nations should be joint heirs, and a joint body, and joint partakers of the promise in Christ Jesus through means of the glad-message,— Of which I was made a minister, according to the free-gift of the favour of God which was given unto me, according to the energy of his power:

8 [Unto me]—

   [The less than least of all' saints] Was given this favour,

   [Unto the nations] to announce the glad-message of the untraceable’ riches of the Christ,

   And to bring to light—What is the administration of the sacred secret which had been hidden away from the ages in God, who did all things create: In order that now, unto the principalities and the authorities in the heavenlies, might be made known’, through means of the assembly, the manifold’ wisdom of God,— According to a plan of the ages which he made in the anointed Jesus our Lord,— In whom we have our freedom of speech and introduction’ with assurance, through the faith of him;—

9 Wherefore I request, that there be no fainting in my tribulations in your behalf, The which is your glory;—

10 For [this] cause, I bow my knees unto the Father,—

11 From whom every’ fatherhood in [the] heavens and upon the earth is named,—

12 In order that he may give unto you— <According to his glorious’ riches> [With power] to be strengthened, through his Spirit, in the inner man, That the Christ may dwell, through means of your faith, in your hearts, in love, [Having become rooted and founded], In order that ye may be mighty enough To grasp firmly, with all the saints,— What is the breadth and length and depth and height, To get to know, also, the knowledge-surpassing love of the Christ,— In order that ye may be filled unto all the fulness of God:

13 Now <unto him who is able” to do [above all things], Exceeding abundantly above the things which we ask or conceive,— According to the power which doth energise itself within us,—

1 I exhort you, therefore,
   <l, the prisoner in the Lord>
   To walk in a manner worthy of the calling wherewith ye were called:—

2 With all lowliness and meekness, b
   With long suffering,
   Bearing one with another in love,

3 Giving diligence to keep—
   The oneness of the Spirit in the uniting-bond of peace,—

4 One body, and one spirit, even as ye were also called in one hope of your calling,

5 One Lord, one faith, one immersion,

6 One God and Father of all—
   Who is over all, and through all, and in all.

7 ||To each one of you|| however, hath favour been given,
   According to the measure of the free-gift of the Christ;

8 Wherefore he saith—
   ||Ascending on high|| he took captivity captive,
   {And} gave gifts unto men. c

9 Now this, He ascended a; what is it,— save—That he also descended d into the under parts of the earth?

10 ||He that descended|| ||he|| is who also ascended over-above all the heavens,
   That he might fill all things;

11 And ||he|| gave—
   Some, indeed, to be apostles,
   And some, prophets,
   And some, evangelists,
   And some, shepherds and teachers,—

12 With a view to the fitting of the saints
   For the work of ministering,
   For an upbuilding of the body of the Christ;

13 Until we all advance—

   Into the oneness of the faith, and the personal knowledge of the Son of God,
   Into a man of full-growth,
   Into the measure of the stature of the fulness of the Christ;

14 That we may [no longer] be infants—Billing-tossed and shifted round with every wind of teaching.—In the craft of men, In knavery suited to the artifice of error;

15 But ||pursuing truth||—
   May ||in love|| grow into him in all things,—
   Who is the head, f ||Christ||,—

16 Out of whom all the body—
   Fitly framing itself together, And connecting itself, Through means of every joint of supply, By way of energising in the measure of each single part—Secureth the growing of the body,
   Unto an upbuilding of itself in love. h

17 ||This|| therefore, am I saying and protesting in the Lord:—
   That [no longer] ye walk even as |the nations| walk—

   In the vanity of their minds, 18 Being darkened in their understanding, Alienated from the life of God— By reason of the ignorance that existeth within them, By reason of their hearts being turned into stone, 19 Who, indeed, having |become past feeling| have delivered |themselves| up, with wantonness, unto making a trade of all impurity with greed.

20 ||Ye|| however, have |not thus| learned the Christ:—

21 If, at least, it is ||him|| ye have heard, And ||in him|| ye have been taught—
   Even as truth is’ in Jesus,—

22 That ye were to strip off—as regardeth the former’ behaviour—the old’ man,’ Who corrupteth himself according to his deceitful covetings,

23 And were to be getting young again in the spirit of your mind,

24 And were to put on the man of new’ mould,’ Who |after God| hath been created in his truthful’ righteousness and lovingkindness.

Chapter 5.

1 Become ye, therefore, imitators of God, as children beloved. And walk in love—Even as [the Christ also] loved you, And delivered himself up in your behalf, An offering and sacrifice unto God, For a fragrance of sweet smell;

2 But fornication, and all’ impurity, or covetousness
Let it not be named among you—Even as becometh saints;

3 And shamelessness and foolish talking, or jesting,—

4 Which things are beneath you,—But [rather] giving of thanks;

5 For [this] ye know, [if ye take note]—That no fornicator, or impure or greedy person, [Who is an idolater], Hath any inheritance in the kingdom of the Christ and God.

6 Let no one be deceiving you with empty words; For [because of these things] is coming the anger of God upon the sons of obstinacy:

7 Do not, then, become co-partners with them;

8 For ye were, at one time, darkness, But [now] are ye light in the Lord,— [As children of light] be walking,—

9 For [the fruit of the light] is in all’ goodness, and righteousness, and truth,—

10 Putting to the test what is well-pleasing unto the Lord;

11 And be not joining in fellowship in the unfruitful works of darkness, But [rather] be even administering reproof;

12 For <of the secret things which are brought to pass by them> it is shameful even to speak! [All things] however, [when reproved by the light] become manifest,

13 For [all’ that of itself maketh manifest] is [light];

14 Wherefore it saith—Up! thou sleeper, And arise from among the dead, And the Christ will shine upon thee.

15 Be taking heed, therefore, [exactly] how ye are walking,—

16 Not as unwise, But as wise,—

17 Buying out for yourselves the opportunity, because [the days] are [evil];

18 [For this cause] do not become foolish, but have discernment as to what is the will of the Lord;

<For the rest, my brethren>—Rejoice in the Lord.
<To be writing [the same things] unto you>
||To me|| is not irksome, while ||for you|| it is safe:—

2 Beware of the dogs,
Beware of mischievous’ workers,
Beware of the mutilation;

3 For ||we|| are the circumcision, who
||In the Spirit of God|| are doing divine service,
And are boasting in Christ Jesus,

PHILIPPIANS – Chapter 4.

6 | Regarding law|| a Pharisee,
| Regarding zeal|| persecuting the assembly,
| Regarding the righteousness that is in law|| having become blameless.
But <whatever things [unto me] were [gain]> ||The same|| have I accounted [for the Christ’s sake] ||loss;||
8 | Yea, doubtless! and I account all things to be [loss],
Because of the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord,
||For the sake of whom|| the loss [of all things] have I suffered,
And do account them refuse
In order that [Christ] I may win, and Be found in him—Not having a righteousness [of my own], That which is by law, But that which is through faith in Christ, The righteousness which is [of God] upon my faith,—

If I may even lay hold of that for which I have also been laid hold of by Christ {Jesus};—
Brethren! [as to myself] reckon that I have not yet laid hold; One thing, however, —
The things behind| forgetting,
| And [unto the things before] eagerly reaching out>
| With the goal in view|| I press on For the prize of the upward calling of God in Christ Jesus.
15 | As many, therefore, as are full-grown> Let [this] be our resolve; And <if> somewhat differently ye are resolved—

This also shall [God] unto you reveal. Nevertheless <whereunto we have advanced> [In the same rank] stepping along.

10 | Imitators together of me|| become ye, brethren, And keep an eye on them who [thus] are walking,—
Even as ye have ||us|| for [an ensample].
For ||many|| are walking—
Of whom I have often’ been telling you, And ||now, even weeping|| am telling,—
The enemies of the cross of the Christ;
Whose [end] is destruction,
Whose [God] is the belly, And [whose] [glory] is in their shame.
Who [upon the earthly things] are resolved.
For ||our|| citizenship|| in the heavens| hath its rise; Wherefore ||a Saviour also|| do we ardently await,—
||The Lord Jesus Christ||,—
Who will transfigure our humbled’ body, Into conformity with his glorified’ body,
According to the energy wherewith he is able even to subdue [unto himself] [all things].

Chapter 4.

1 | So then, my brethren, beloved and longed for, my joy and crown,—
||Thus|| stand fast in the Lord, beloved.
2 | Euodia|| I exhort, and ||Syntychae|| I exhort,—
||On the same thing|| to be resolved in the Lord:—
3 | Yea! I request thee also, true’ yokefellow,
Be thou helping together with these women,—
||Who|| indeed, ||in the joyful message|| have maintained the combat with me,
Along with Clement also, and the rest’ of my fellow-workers, ||Whose names|| are in the book of life.

Rejoice!

For nothing be anxious, but in everything by your prayer and supplication with thanksgiving, let your petitions be made known unto God; and the peace of God, which riseth above every mind, shall guard your hearts and your thoughts, in Christ Jesus.

<For the rest, brethren>

Whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are dignified, whatsoever things are righteous, whatsoever things are chaste, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report,—if there be any virtue and if any praise, the same be taking into account; the things which ye have both learned, and accepted and heard and seen in me, the same practise;—

Howbeit I have been made to rejoice in the Lord greatly—That now, at length, ye have flourished in your care for me,—Although, indeed, ye were caring, but lacked opportunity.

Not that as to coming short I am speaking, for I have learned in whatsoever circumstances I am to be independent:—I know what it is to be kept low, and I know what it is to have more than enough,—in every way, and in all things have I been let into the secret—Both to be well fed, and to be hungering, both to have more than enough, and to be coming short:

I have might for all things in him that empowereth me.

Nevertheless nobly have ye done, in taking fellowship with me in my tribulation.

Ye know, moreover, ye, Philippians,—That in the beginning of the glad-message, when I went forth from Macedonia, not so much as one assembly with me had fellowship—in the matter of giving and receiving—save ye alone,—

That even in Thessalonica, both once and again unto my need ye sent:—Not that I seek after the gift, but I seek after the fruit that is to abound unto your account.

But I have all things in full, and have more than enough, I am filled, having welcomed from Epaphroditus the things that came from you,—

A fragrance of sweet smell, an acceptable sacrifice, well pleasing unto God.

And my God will fill up your every need, according to his riches in glory in Christ Jesus.

Now unto our God and Father be the glory—Unto the ages of ages. Amen!

Salute ye every saint in Christ Jesus.
The brethren who are with me salute you.

All the saints salute you, but especially they who are of Caesar's household.

The favour of our Lord Jesus Christ be with your spirit.

1 |Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus through the will of God, And Timothy my brother, —
2 |Unto the holy and faithful brethren in Christ that are in Colosse; Favour unto you, and peace, from our God and Father.
3 We are giving thanks unto God the Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, Always for you offering prayer,—
4 Having heard of your faith in Christ Jesus And of the love which ye have unto all the saints,—
5 Because of the hope that is lying by for you in the heavens, Of which ye heard before in the word of the truth of the glad-message when it presented itself unto you; Even as in all the world also it is bearing fruit and growing, even as also among you, From the day when ye heard and came personally to know the favour of God in truth, Even as ye learned [it] from Epaphras, our beloved fellow-servant, Who is faithful in our behalf as a minister of the Christ, Who also hath made evident unto us your love in spirit.
6 <For this cause> [we also] <From the day when we heard [of you]> Cease not [in your behalf] praying and asking— That ye may be filled unto the personal knowledge of his will, In all spiritual wisdom and discernment, So as to walk worthily of the Lord, unto all pleasing, [In every good work] bearing fruit, And growing in the personal knowledge of God.
7 |With all’ power| being empowered, According to the grasp of his glory, Unto all endurance and long-suffering with joy, Giving thanks unto the Father that hath made you sufficient for your share in the inheritance of the saints in the light, Who hath rescued us out of the authority of the darkness, And translated [us] into the kingdom of the Son of his love; [In whom] we have our redemption—the remission of our sins,—
8 ||Who|| is an image of the unseen God, Firstborn of all creation,— Because [in him] were created all things in the heavens and upon the earth, The things seen and the things unseen, Whether thrones or lordships or principalities or authorities,—[They all] through him and for him have been created, And [he] is before all, And [they all] in him hold together; And [he] is the head of the body, the assembly, Who is the beginning, Firstborn from among the dead, In order that [he] might become [in all things] himself pre-eminent;—
9 Because [in him] was all’ the fulness well pleased to dwell, And [through him] fully to reconcile all things unto him, Making peace through the blood of his cross,— l Eph. i. 7.

COLOSSIANS – Chapter 2.

1 For I desire you to know, how great’ a contest I am having—in behalf of you, And of those in Laodicea, And as many as have not seen my face in the flesh;

2 In order that their hearts may be encouraged, Being knit together in love, Even unto all’ the riches of the full assurance of their understanding, Unto a personal knowledge of the sacred secret of God, —\[Christ\]: 3 In whom are all’ the treasures of wisdom and knowledge hidden away.\[The sacred secret of God]

4 This I say, in order that \[no one] may be reasoning \[you] aside with plausible discourse;

5 For <though, indeed, in the flesh> I am absent> Yet \[in the spirit\] \[with you\] I am—\[Rejoicing, and beholding your order and the solid firmness of your Christ’-ward faith.

6 \[As, therefore, ye have accepted the Anointed Jesus as your Lord> \[In him\] be walking,—

7 Rooted, and being built up, in him, And making yourselves sure in your faith, \[Even as ye have been taught], — Surpassing therein with thanksgiving.\[The sacred secret of God is Christ in you, the hope of the glory,—

8 Be taking heed, lest there shall be anyone leading \[you\] off as a spoil, Through means of their philosophy, and an empty deceit,— According to the instruction of men, According to the first principles of the world,— And not according to Christ:

9 Because \[in him\] dwelleth all’ the fullness of the Godhead\[bodily],

10 And ye are \[in him\] filled full,— \[Who] is the head of all’ principality and authority,

---

\[Through him]\—Whether the things upon the earth or the things in the heavens;

And \[you\]

<Who at one time were estranged and enemies in your mind in your wicked works>a

Yet \[now]\ hath \[he\] fully reconciled, in his body of flesh, through means of his death, To present you holy and blameless and unaccusable before him,—\[The sacred secret of God is Christ in you, the hope of the glory,—

Of which \[I Paul\] have become minister.d

\[Now\] am I rejoicing in the sufferings on your behalf, And am filling up the things that lack of the tribulations of the Christ, in my flesh, In behalf of his body, Which is the assembly, Of which \[I\] have become minister—

According to the administration of God which hath been given unto me to youward,

To fill up the word of God, The sacred secret which had been hidden away from the ages and from the generations,

But \[now]\ hath been made manifest unto his saints—\[Upto whom God hath been pleased to make known what is the glorious wealth of this sacred secret among the nations, Which is Christ in you, the hope of the glory,—

Whom we are declaring, Admonishing every man, And teaching every man, in all’ wisdom, In order that we may present every man complete in Christ;

Unto which I am even toiling,

Contending according to his energy which is energising itself in me with power.

11 In whom ye have also been circumcised with a circumcision not done by hand, in the despoiling of the body of flesh, in the circumcision of the Christ,— Having been buried together with him in your immersion, wherein also ye have been raised together, through your faith in the energising of God—who raised him from among the dead. And as for you— who were dead by your offences and by the uncircumcision of your flesh he hath brought you to life together with him, having in favour forgiven us all our offences, having blotted out the handwriting against us by the decrees,— which was hostile to us,— and not holding fast the head of the Christ through means of its joints and uniting bands receiving supply, and connecting itself together, growth with the growth of God.

12-15 <If ye have died, together with Christ, from the first principles of the world> Why as though alive in the world are ye submitting to decrees,— Do not handle, nor taste, nor touch;— which things are all for decay in the using up;— according to the commandments and teachings of men?

13-15 The which things, indeed, as though they have an appearance of wisdom, in self-devised religious observance, and lowliness of mind, and ill-treatment of body> Are in no honourable way unto a satisfying of the flesh.

Chapter 3.

1 <If, therefore, ye have been raised together with the Christ> The things on high be seeking, Where the Christ is— on the right hand of God sitting;—

2 The things on high hold in esteem, Not the things upon the earth:

3 For ye have died, and your life is hid together with the Christ, in God,—

4 As soon as the Christ shall be made manifest— our life> Then ye also together with him shall be made manifest in glory;

5 Make dead, therefore, your members that are on the earth— as regardeth fornication, impurity, passion, base coveting, and greed, the which is idolatry,—

6 On account of which things cometh the anger of God,—

But ||now|| do ||ye also|| put them all away,—

Anger, wrath, baseness, defamation, shameful talk out of your mouth:

Be not guilty of falsehood one to another:

Having stripped off the old man, together with his practices,

And having put on the new—

Who is being moulded afresh unto personal knowledge,

After the image of him that hath created him,—

Wherein there cannot be Greek and Jew, circumcision and uncircumcision, foreigner, Scythian, bond, free,—But all things and in all ||Christ||:

Put on, therefore, ||as men chosen of God, holy and beloved|

Tender affections of compassion, graciousness, lowliness of mind, meekness, long-suffering,

Bearing one with another, and in favour forgiving one another—If any ||against any|| have a complaint,—

<According as ||the Lord||d in favour forgave you> ||so also|| ||ye||;

And ||over|| all these things|| ||love||,

Which is a uniting-bond of completeness;

And let ||the peace of Christ|| act as umpire in your hearts,—

Unto which ye have been called in {one} body:

And be ||thankful||:

Let ||the word of the Christ||ed dwell within you richly,—

||In all wisdom|| teaching and admonishing one another, with psalms, hymns, spiritual songs,||

||With gratitude|| raising song with your hearts unto God:

<And whatsoever ye may be doing, in word, or in work>

||All things|| ||do|| in the name of the Lord Jesus,

Giving thanks unto the Divine' Father through him:—

Ye wives! be submitting yourselves unto your husbands, as is becoming in the Lord;

Ye husbandsm be loving your wives, and be not embittered against them;

Ye children! be obedient unto your parents in all things, for ||this|| is ||well pleasing|| in the Lord;

Ye fathers! be not irritating your children, lest they be disheartened;

Ye servants! be obedient ||in all things|| unto them who ||according to the flesh|| are your masters,—

Not with eye-service, as man-pleasers,

But with singleness of heart, revering the Lord,—

<Whatsoever ye may be doing> ||From the soul|| be working at it, As unto the Lord, and not unto men,—

Knowing that ||from the Lord|| ye shall duly receive the recompense of the inheritance,—||Unto the Lord Christ|| are ye in service; 25 For ||he that acteth unrighteously|| shall get back what he had unrighteously done, and there is no respect of persons;

Chapter 4.

1 Ye masters! ||that which is just and equitable|| ||unto your servants|| be rendering,

Knowing that ||ye also|| have a Master in heaven.

2 ||Unto prayer|| be devoting yourselves,

Watching therein with thanksgiving;

3 Praying, at the same time, ||for us also||,—

That ||God|| would open unto us a door for the word,
So that we may speak the sacred secret\(^a\) of the Christ—For the sake of which also I am in bonds,

4 That I may make it manifest as behoveth me to speak.

5 ||In wisdom|| be walking towards them who are without,—

6 ||The opportunity|| buying out for yourselves,\(^b\)

Your discourse being always with benefit, |
With salt seasoned,—

That ye may know how it behoveth you unto each one to be making answer.

7 <All the things which relate unto myself>
Shall Tychicus\(^c\) make known unto you—

The beloved’ brother and faithful’ minister and fellow-servant in the Lord,

8 Whom I have sent unto you, to this very end,—

That ye may get to know the things which concern us, And he may encourage your hearts:

9 Together with Onesimus,\(^d\) the faithful’ and beloved’ brother, Who is from among you:—

||All things|| unto you will they make known, that [are taking place] here.

10 Aristarchus, my fellow-captive, saluteth you;
And Mark, the first cousin of Barnabas,—

Concerning whom ye have received commands—<if he come unto you> give him welcome;

11 And Jesus, he that is called Justus,—

They being of the circumcision;

||These only|| [are my] fellow-workers unto the kingdom of God,

||Men who have been, unto me, a comfort||.

12 Epaphras\(^e\) who is from among you, a servant of Christ Jesus, saluteth you,—

|At all times| contending in your behalf in his prayers, |
That ye may be caused to stand complete and fully assured in everything’ willed by God;

13 For I bear him witness, that he hath great’ toil in behalf of you, and them in Laodicea, and them in Hierapolis.

14 Luke, the beloved physician, and Demas, salute you.

15 Salute ye the brethren [in Laodicea],

Also Nymphas, and the assembly\(^f\) [which meeteth at her house].

16 And <as soon as the epistle hath been read amongst you> cause that ||in the assembly of Laodiceans also|| it be read;
And ||that from Laodicea|| that ||ye also|| read.

17 And say to Archippus:
Be taking heed unto the ministry which thou hast accepted in the Lord,—

That ||the same|| thou fulfil.

18 The salutation of me Paul [with my own’ hand]:—
Keep in mind my bonds.
Favour be with you!

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE
TO THE THESSALONIANS.

Chapter 1.

1 Paul and Silvanus and Timothy—
    Unto the assembly of Thessalonians in God our Father and Lord Jesus Christ,—
    Favour unto you, and peace!
2 We are giving thanks unto God continually, Concerning you all making mention in our prayers,
3 Unceasingly remembering—
    Your work of faith
    And labour of love
    And endurance of hope of our Lord Jesus Christ,
Before our God and Father:
4 Knowing, brethren beloved by God,
    Your election,—
5 How that our glad-message came not unto you in word only,
    But also in power
    And in Holy Spirit
    And in much assurance,—
Even as ye know what manner of men we became unto you for your sake;
6 And ye became imitators of us
    and of the Lord,
    Giving welcome unto the word, In much tribulation, With joy of Holy Spirit;
7 So that ye became an ensample unto all who were coming to the faith in Macedonia and in Achaia:
8 In fact, hath sounded forth the word of the Lord—
    Not only in Macedonia and in Achaia>
    But in every place your faith which is toward God hath gone forth,
    So that no need have we to be saying anything;
9 For they themselves concerning us do tell—
    What manner of entrance we had unto you,
    And how ye turned unto God from the idols—

To be serving a living and true God,
And awaiting his Son out of the heavens—
    Whom he raised from among the dead,—
    Who is to rescue us out of the anger that is coming.

Chapter 2.

1 For ourselves know, brethren, our entrance which was unto you—that it hath not proved void;
2 But though we had previously suffered and been insulted, even as ye know, in Philippi>
We waxed bold in our God to speak unto you the glad-message of God with much conflict.
3 For our exhortation is not of error, nor of uncleanness, nor in guile,
4 But even as we have been approved by God, to be entrusted with the glad-message> we speak,—
    Not as unto men giving pleasure,
    But unto God—who proveth our hearts.
5 For neither at any time were we found using words of flattery—even as ye know,
    Nor a pretext for greed—God is witness!
6 Nor of men seeking glory—either from you, or from others,
    Though we could have assumed dignity as Apostles of Christ;
7 But we became gentle in your midst,—
    As though a nursing mother had been cherishing her own children:
8 We could have been well-pleased to impart unto you—
    Not only the glad-message of God,
    But our own lives also,— Because very dear to us had ye become.
9 For ye remember, brethren, our toil and hardship:

\[\text{a} \text{ Ph. i. 3; Col. i. 3; 2 Th. i. 3.} \]
\[\text{b} \text{ 2 Th. iii. 7.} \]
\[\text{c} \text{ Or (WH): “ensamples.”} \]
\[\text{d} \text{ Or: “real.”} \]
\[\text{e} \text{ Jer. xi. 20.} \]
\[\text{f} \text{ 2 Th. iii. 8.} \]
Chapter 3.

1 Wherefore <no longer concealing our anxiety>
   We were well-pleased to be left in Athens [alone],
2 And sent Timothy—
   Our brother, and God’s minister in the glad-message of the Christ—
3 That he might confirm and console you over your faith,
4 That [no one] might be shrinking back in these tribulations.
   For [ye yourselves] know, that [hereunto] are we appointed;
5 For [even when we were with’ you] we told you beforehand—
   We are destined to suffer tribulation!
   Even as it also came to pass, and ye know.
6 But <when [just now] Timothy came unto us, from
   you,
   And brought us good tidings of your faith and love,—
   And that ye have good remembrance of us, [Continually] longing to see [us]—even as [we also] to see you’>
7 [For this cause] were we consoled, brethren, over you, in all’ our necessity and tribulation, [through your’ faith];
8 Because [now] we live,—if only [ye] stand fast in the Lord.
9 For what thanksgiving can we render back [unto God] concerning you,
   On occasion of all’ the joy wherewith we rejoice, for your sakes, before our God?—

—[Night and day] working, so as not to be a burden unto any of you>
We proclaimed unto you the glad-message of God.
10['Ye] are witnesses—[God also],
   How kindly and righteously and blamelessly unto you who were believing!“ we were found to behave;
11Even as ye know how [unto each one of you] we were as a father unto his own children, Consoling you, and soothing, and calling to witness,—
12To the end ye might be walking in a manner worthy of God, who is calling you unto his own’ kingdom and glory.
13And [for this cause] [we] are also giving thanks unto God unceasingly.
   That <when ye received a spoken word from us—[which was God’s]> Ye welcomed it—
   Not as a human’ word,
   But [even as it truly’ is] a divine’ word,—
   Which is also inwardly working itself in you who believe.
14For [ye] became [imitators], brethren, of the assemblies of God which are in Judæa, in Christ Jesus,
   In that [the same things] [ye] also suffered by your own’ fellow-countrysmen, even as [they] also by the Jews:—
15 Who have both slain the [Lord] Jesus—[and the prophets],
   And [us] have persecuted,
   And [unto God] are displeasing,
   And [unto all’ men] are contrary,— [Hindering us from speaking] [unto the nations] that they might be saved],
To the filling up of their own’ sins [continually];
   But anger hath overtaken them at length.
17Now [we] brethren <having been bereaved away from you, for the season of an hour,—[in presence, not in heart]> Gave more abundant’ diligence [your face] to behold [with much’ longing];
18 [Wherefore] we desired to come unto you—

Chapter 4.

1 ||For the rest||, d brethren, we request and exhort you, in our Lord Jesus, {That} <even as ye received from us, how ye must needs walk and please God,— Even as ye also do walk> That ye would abound still more.

2 For ye know what charges we gave you, through the Lord Jesus.

3 For ||this|| is a thing willed of God, your sanctification,— That ye should abstain from unchastity, That ye should know, each one of you, how [of his own' vessel] to possess himself in sanctification and honour:

4 Not with a passion of coveting,— Just as even the nations who know not God,—

5 Not over-reaching and defrauding, in the matter, [his brother]; Because [an avenger] is the Lord, f concerning all’ these things,— Even as we before told you, and solemnly called you to witness.

6 For God did not call us, with a permission of impurity, but [in sanctification].

7 For God did not call us, with a permission of impurity, but [in sanctification].

8 ||Therefore, indeed|| [he that disregardest]— It is [not a man] he disregardest, [but God]—

||Who giveth his Holy Spirit unto you||. g

9 But ||concerning brotherly love||—

||No need|| have ye, that we be writing unto you; For [ye yourselves] are [God-taught] to the loving of one another;—

10 And, in fact, ye are doing it unto all’ the brethren [who are] in the whole’ of Macedonia;—

But we exhort you, brethren, to abound still more,

11 And to be ambitious to be quiet, b

And to be attending to your own affairs, And to be working with your hands,—

12 Even as [unto you] we gave charge—

13 That ye should walk reputably toward those without, And [of no one] have [need], i

But we do not wish you to be ignorant, brethren, concerning them who are falling asleep,—

Lest ye be sorrowing, [even as the rest also, who are without hope];

14 For <if we believe that [Jesus] died, and rose again>

||So|| also will [God] bring forth with him, [them who have fallen asleep through Jesus];

15 For ||this|| unto you do we say, by a word of the Lord,— That [we, the living who are left unto the Presence b of the Lord]
Shall in nowise get before them who have fallen asleep;

16 Because ||the Lord himself||<With a word of command, With a chief-messenger’s voice, And with a trumpet of God> Shall descend from heaven,—

17 ||the dead in Christ|| shall rise [first], ||After that|| [we, the living who are left] ||Together with them|| shall be caught away, in clouds, to meet the Lord in the air;—

And ||thus|| evermore, with the Lord] shall we be!

18 So then, be consoling one another with these words.

Chapter 5.

1 But || concerning the times and the seasons || brethren,—ye have [no need] that [unto you] anything be written;
2 For || ye yourselves || perfectly well know—
   That [the day of the Lord] [as a thief in the night] [so] cometh;
3 <As soon as they begin to say—Peace! and safety!>
   || suddenly, upon them || cometh destruction,—
   Just as the birth-throe unto her that is with child,—
   And in nowise shall they escape.
4 But || ye, brethren || are not in darkness, that [the day] [upon you, as upon thieves] should lay hold;
5 For || all’ ye || are [sons of light], and sons of day,—
   We are not of night, nor of darkness:
6 Hence, then, let us not be sleeping [as the rest],
   But let us watch and be sober:—
7 For [they that sleep] [by night] do sleep,
   And [they that drink] [by night] do drink:—
8 But [we] [being of the day]’ let us be sober,—
   Putting on a breastplate of faith and love,
   And [for helmet] the hope of salvation. a 9 Because God did not appoint us unto anger,
   But unto acquiring salvation through our Lord Jesus {Christ};—
10 Who died for us, in order that <Whether we be watching or sleeping>
   [Together with him] we should live.
11 Therefore be consoling one another, and building up, each the other,—
   || Even as ye are also doing ||.
12 Now we request you, brethren,—
   To know them who are toiling among you, and presiding over you in the Lord, and admonishing you;
13 And to hold them in very high esteem, in love, [for their work’s sake].
   Be at peace among yourselves.
14 But we exhort you, brethren—

Admonish the disorderly,
Soothe them of little soul,
Help the weak,
Be longsuffering towards all:
15 See that none [evil for evil, unto any] do render;
   But [evermore, what is good] be pursuing,
   [towards one another, and towards all]:
   [Evermore] rejoice, [Unceasingly] pray,
   [In everything] give thanks,—
   For [this] || is a thing willed of God, in Christ Jesus, towards you:
16 || The Spirit || do not quench,
17 || Prophesyings || do not despise,
18 {But} || all things || put to the proof—
   || What is comely || hold ye fast:
19 || From every’ form of wickedness || abstain. b
20 But || the God of peace himself || hallow you completely,
   And || entire || might your’ spirit, and soul, and body,—
   [So as to be] unblameable in the Presence c of our Lord Jesus Christ,—
   Be preserved!
21 || Faithful || is he that is calling you,—
   Who [also will perform],
22 Brethren! be praying for us {also}. d
23 Salute all the brethren with a holy kiss.
24 I adjure you, by the Lord, that the letter be read unto all’ the brethren!
25 || The favour of our Lord Jesus Christ || be with you.

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE
TO THE THESALONIANS.

Chapter 1.

1 Paul and Silvanus and Timothy,—
    Unto the assembly of Thessalonians, in God our Father and Lord Jesus Christ,—
2 Favour unto you, and peace, from God [our]
    Father and Lord Jesus Christ.
3 We are bound |to be giving thanks| unto God continually, concerning you, brethren, even as it is |meet|;
Because your faith groweth exceedingly
And the love of each one of you all one to another aboundeth,
4 So that |we ourselves| |in you| are boasting,
    in the assemblies of God,
Over your endurance and faith in all your persecutions and tribulations which ye are sustaining:—
5 A proof of the righteous’ judgment of God,
    To the end ye may be counted worthy of the kingdom of God |in behalf of| which ye are also suffering:—
6 If |at least|, it is |a righteous thing with God|
    To recompense |affliction| unto them that afflict you,
And |unto you that are afflicted| release,
    with us,—
By the revealing of the Lord Jesus from heaven,
    With his messengers of power,
In |a fiery flame;|
    Holding forth vengeance—
Against them that refuse to know God,
    And them who decline to hearken| unto the glad-message of our Lord Jesus,—
Who indeed, |a penalty| shall pay—

10 Whensoever he shall come,
    To be made all-glorious in his saints,
    And to be marvelled at in all’ who believed,— Because our witness unto you was’ believed,—
In that day.|e|

11|[Unto which end]| we are also praying continually for you,
    That our God may count ||you|| worthy of your calling,
And fulfil every’ good-pleasure of goodness and work of faith |with power|,—
12 That the name of our Lord Jesus may be made all-glorious in you,|g| and ||ye|| in him,
    According to the favour of our God and Lord
    Jesus Christ.

Chapter 2.

1 But we request you, brethren,—
    In behalf of the Presence| of our Lord Jesus
Christ,|
    And our’ gathering together unto him,— 2 That ye be not quickly’ tossed from your mind nor be put in alarm—
Either by spirit, or by discourse, or by letter as by us,—
As that the day of the Lord |hath set in|:
3 That no one may cheat ||you|| in any one respect.
Because [that day will not set in]—
Except the revolt come first,
And there be revealed
    The man of lawlessness,|j|
    The son of destruction,

welcome, that they might be saved:—

And ||for this cause|| God sendeth them an inworking of error,
To the end they should believe in the falsehood,—

In order that alld should be judged
Who would not believe in the truth,

But were well-pleased with the unrighteousness.

But ||we|| are bound to give thanks unto God continually concerning you,
Brethren beloved by the Lord;e
For that God chose you, from the beginning,f
||unto salvation||,

In sanctification of spirit and belief of truth,—

Unto which he called you, through means of our glad-message,
Unto an acquiring of the glory of our Lord
Jesus Christ.

Hence, then, brethren, stand firm, and hold fast the instructions which ye were taught—whether through discourse, or through our letter.

But may <our Lord Jesus Christ himself*, and our God and Father,—
Who hath loved you, and given you
Age-abiding consolation and good hope by favour>

Console your' hearts,
And confirmg you in every' good work and word!

Chapter 3.

||For the rest|| brethren, be praying for us,—h
That ||the word of the Lord|| may be running, and gaining glory,
|According as [it did] even with you|;

And that we may be rescued from the presuming and wicked' men;
For |not all| hold the faith.

||Faithful|| is the Lord,—who will confirm you,
and guard you from the wicked one:

We are persuaded, however, in the Lord, as touching you,—
That <<what things we give in charge>
Ye {both} are' doing and will' do;—

But may ||the Lord|| guide your' hearts
Into the love of God,
And into the endurance of the Christ.

Howbeit, we charge you, brethren,—
That ||in the name of the Lord Jesus Christ|| ye be withdrawing yourselves from every' brother—
Who |in a disorderly way| doth walk,
And not according to the instruction which ye received from us.

Chapter 1.

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus—
   By injunction of God our Saviour and Christ
   Jesus our hope,—
2 Unto Timothy, my true child in faith:
   Favour, mercy, peace,
   From God our Father, and Christ Jesus our Lord.
3 Even as I exhorted thee to remain in Ephesus, when I was journeying into Macedonia,
   That thou mightest charge some—
4 Not to be teaching otherwise
   Nor yet to be giving heed to stories and endless genealogies,—
   The which bring arguings, rather than that stewardship of God which is with faith;—
5 Now the end of the charge is love—
   Out of a pure heart,
   And a good conscience,
   And faith unfeigned,— 6 Which some missing have turned them
   aside unto idle talk,
7 Desiring to be law-teachers,—Not understanding either what they say or whereof they confidently affirm.
8 Now we know that excellent is the law
   if one put it to a lawful use:—
9 Knowing this—
   That to a righteous man law doth not apply,
   But to the lawless and insubordinate, ungodly and sinful, irreligious and profane, smiters of fathers and smiters of mothers, murderers, fornicators, sodomites, manstealers, liars, false-swearers,—
   And if anything else unto the healthful teaching is opposed;—

11 According to the glad-message of the glory of the happy God, with which entrusted am I.[i] 12 Grateful am I unto him that empowered me,
   Christ Jesus our Lord,[j]
   In that he accounted me,
   Putting me into ministry,—
13 Though a defamer, and persecutor, and insulter; Nevertheless mercy was shown me, because without knowledge I acted, in unbelief:
   Yet exceeding abundant was the favour of our Lord, with faith and love which are in Christ Jesus.
15 The saying! and of all acceptance worthy,—
   That came into the world sinners to save:
   Of whom the chief am I;—
16 Nevertheless was mercy shewn me,—
   That in me Christ Jesus might shew forth his entire longsuffering,
   For an ensample of them about to believe on him unto life age-abiding.
17 Now unto the King of the ages,— Incorruptible, invisible, alone God[g]
   Be honour and glory, unto the ages of ages.[h]
   Amen!
18 This charge I commit unto thee, child Timothy,
   According to the prophecies running before on thee,
   In order that thou mightest war, with them, the noble warfare,
   Holding faith and a good conscience,—

\textbf{Chapter 2.}

1 I exhort, therefore, [first of all], that there be made—Supplications, prayers, intercessions, thanksgivings,
In behalf of all men,—
In order that |an undisturbed’| and quiet’ life]| we may lead, In all’ godliness and gravity\textsuperscript{d}:
\textsuperscript{1} [This] is comely and acceptable before our Saviour’ God,

Not with plaitings and ornamentation of gold,\textsuperscript{f} or with pearls, or with costly apparel,—

\textsuperscript{11} Let |a woman]| in quietness be learning in all’ submission;
\textsuperscript{12} But |teaching—unto a woman]| I do not permit, Nor yet to have authority over a man,—

\textsuperscript{6} Whereas |if anyone |over his own’ house]| cannot |predis|> How |of an assembly of God| shall he take care?
\textsuperscript{7} Not a new convert, Lest |being beleaud| into the sentence of the adversary he fall;
\textsuperscript{8} It is needful, moreover, to have |an honourable testimony also]| from them who are without, Lest |into reproach| he fall, and the snare of the adversary.
\textsuperscript{9} [Ministers]| in the same way—Dignified, not double-tongued, not |to much wine]| given, not greedy of base gain, \textsuperscript{9} Holding the sacred secret\textsuperscript{h} of the faith in a pure’ conscience;

Chapter 4.

1 Howbeit the Spirit expressly saith—
That in later seasons some will revolt from the faith,
Giving heed unto seducing spirits,
And unto teachings of demons—
Of demons cauterised in their own conscience,—

3 Forbidding to marry,
[Commanding] to abstain from foods which created to be received with thanksgiving by them who believe and personally know the truth;

4 Because every creature of God is good, And nothing to be cast away. If with thanksgiving it be received,—
For it is hallowed by the word of God and intercession.

6 These things submitting to the brethren> Thou shalt be a noble minister of Christ Jesus, Nourishing thyself with the words of the faith, and of the noble teaching which thou hast closely studied.

But from the profane and old-wives’ stories> excuse thyself, And be training thyself unto godliness;

8 For the bodily training is profitable,
Whereas godliness for all things is profitable,—

Having promise of life—The present and the coming].

9 Faithful the saying! and of all acceptance worthy;

10 For to this end are we toiling and contending,
Because we have set our hope on a Living God, Who is Saviour of all men—Specially of such as believe.

11Be giving these things in charge, and be teaching:—

12 Let no one despise thy youth, But an ensample become thou of the faithful,—
In discourse, in behaviour, in love, in faith, in chastity.

13<While I am coming> be giving heed—
To the reading, to the exhorting, to the teaching:

14 Be not careless of the gift of favour that is in thee,
Which was given thee through means of prophesying, along with a laying on of the hands of the eldership.

1 An elderly man do not thou reprimand, But beseech him, as [though he were thy] father,— Younger men, as brothers, Elderly women, as mothers, Younger women, as sisters, in all' chastity.

2 Widows honour thou—who indeed' are widows:—

3 Howbeit <if any widow hath children or grandchildren> Let them be learning—||first’ unto their own’ house|| to be shewing reverence, And ||returns|| to be making unto their progenitors; For |this| is acceptable before God;

4 But |she who is indeed’ a widow, and is left alone|| Hath turned her hope towards God, And is giving attendance unto the supplications and the prayers, night and day,—

5 Whereas |she that runneth riot|| while living| is ||dead||:

6 And ||these things|| be giving in charge, That ||without reproach|| they may be;

7 ||If, however, anyone ||for his own, and specially’ them of his household|| taketh not forethought> ||His’ faith|| hath he denied, And is worse [than one without faith]!

8 Let ||a widow|| be put on the list— Having become [not less’ than sixty years old],— ||One’ man’s’|| wife.

9 In noble works being well-attested;— If she hath nourished children, If she hath shewn hospitality, If ||saints’ feet|| she hath washed, If ||them who were in tribulation|| she hath succoured,

10 If ||in every’ good work|| she hath followed on:

11 But ||youngert widows|| decline thou; For <as soon as they wax wanton against the Christ> ||To marry|| are they determined,—

12 Having, as sentence,— That ||their first’ faith|| they have set at nought;

13 ||At the same time|| ||to be idlers|| are they learning, Going about from house to house, And [not only idlers] but ||gossips|| also, and ||busybodies||,— Saying the things they ought not.

14 I am minded, therefore, that ||the younger ones|| marry, bear children, be mistress of the house,— Giving ||no single’ occasion|| unto the opposer, as a cause ||of reviling;|

15 For ||already|| some have turned aside after Satan:

16 ||If any believing woman hath widows> Let her be giving them succour, And not suffer the assembly to be burdened,— That ||them who are indeed’ widows|| it may itself succour.

17 Let ||the well’ presiding’ elders|| ||of double’ honour|| be accounted worthy, Especially’ they who toil in discourse and teaching;

18 For the scripture saith— ||A threshing ox|| shalt thou not muzzle,|| And— ||Worthy|| is the workman, of his hire, ||Against an elder|| entertain not [an accusation], except at [the mouth of] two’ or three’ witnesses;

19 But ||them who are sinning|| ||before all|| do thou reprove, That ||the rest also|| may have [fear]:—

20 I adjure thee <before God, and Christ Jesus, and the chosen messengers> That ||these things|| thou observe, apart from prejudgment, doing ||nothing|| by partiality.

||Some* men’s sins|| are ||openly evident||, leading on into judgment,
||With some|| however, they even follow after;

||themselves|| about with many pangs.

Chapter 6.
1 Let ||as many as are servants under a yoke'|| be counting ||their own' masters|| worthy ||of all' honour||,
Lest ||the name of God and the teaching|| be defamed.
2 ||They, however, that have believing' masters|| let them not despise them, because they are ||brethren||,

But is diseased about questionings and word-battles—
Out of which spring envy, strife, defamations, wicked surmising 5
incessant quarrellings of men wholly corrupt’ in their mind and bereft of the truth,—Supposing godliness to be ||[a means of gain]||!

Now it is’ a great means of gain—godliness, with a sufficiency of one’s own;
For ||nothing|| brought we into the world,
Neither ||to take anything out|| are we able;—" And ||having sustenance and covering|| we shall be content;

But ||they who are determined to be rich|| fall into temptation, b and a snare, and many foolish and hurtful covetings, ||The which||' sink men into ruin and destruction,—" 10 For ||a root of all’ the vices|| is the love of money. Which ||some, being eager for|| have been seduced from the faith, and have pierced ||themselves|| with many pangs.

11 But ||thou|| O man of God!
||From these things|| flee!d

12 Be contesting the noble’ contest of the faith,—
Lay hold of the age-abiding’ life—

And Christ Jesus, f who ||before Pontius Pilate|| witnessed the noble"confession> 14 That thou keep the commandment without spot, free from reproach,
Until the forthshining of our Lord Jesus Christ—g
15 Which ||in its own fit times|h the happy and

And Lord of them that wield lordship,—
Who alone’ hath immortality,
Dwelling in light unapproachable,—
Whom no’ man hath seen’—nor can’ see: ||Unto whom|| be honour and might age-abiding.' Amen.
17<Upon them who are rich in the present’ age> lay

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PAUL THE APOSTLE TO TIMOTHY.

Chapter 1.

1 Paul, an apostle of Christ Jesus,
   Through the will of God,—
   According to the promise of life in Christ Jesus;—
2 Unto Timothy, my beloved child:
   Favour, mercy, peace, from God our Father, and Christ our Lord.
3 Grateful am I unto God,—
   Unto whom I am rendering divine service from my progenitors in a pure conscience;
   That incessant hold I the remembrance concerning thee in my supplications;
   Day and night longing to see thee,
   Being mindful of thy tears,—
   In order that with joy I may be filled:
4 A reminder having received of the unfeigned faith that is in thee,
   Such as dwelt first in thy grandmother Lois, and in thy mother Eunice,—I am persuaded moreover that [it dwelleth] in thee also.
5 For which cause I put thee in remembrance to be stirring up God's gift of favour, Which is in thee through means of the laying on of my hands;
6 For God hath not given us a spirit of cowardice, But of power, and love, and correction.
7 Be not thou, therefore, put to shame—
   With regard to the witness of our Lord,
   Nor with regard to me his prisoner;
   But suffer hardship together with the glad-message, according to the power of God,—
   Who hath saved us, and called us with a holy calling,
   Not according to our works,
   But according to the peculiar’ purpose and favour—
   Which was given to us in Christ Jesus before age-during times;
   But hath now been made manifest through means of the forthshining of our Saviour Christ Jesus,—
   Who, indeed, hath abolished death, And hath thrown light upon life and incorruptibility, through means of the glad-message: 11 Whereunto I have been appointed herald and apostle and teacher;—
   For which cause these things also I am suffering; Nevertheless I am not being put to shame, For I know him whom I have believed, And am persuaded that he is able to guard that which I have entrusted unto that day.
8 An outline have thou of healthful discourses which from me thou hast heard—With the faith and love which are in Christ Jesus:
   The noble thing entrusted do thou guard, Through means of the Holy Spirit which dwelleth within us.
9 Thou knowest this—
   That all’ they who are in Asia have turned away from me,—
   Of whom are Phygellus and Hermogenes.
10 The Lord grant mercy unto the house of Onesiphorus,
   In that ofttimes hath he refreshed me, And as regardeth my chain hath not been put to shame,
   But happening to be in Rome he diligently sought out and found me,—
   The Lord grant him to find mercy from the Lord in [that] day;—

a Or (WH): “Lord.”

Chapter 2.

1 ||Thou|| therefore, my child, be empowering thyself in the favour that is in Christ Jesus,
2 And <the things which thou hast heard from me among many’ witnesses>
||The same|| entrust thou unto faithful’ men,
Such as shall be [competent] to teach ||others also|.
3 Take thy part in suffering hardship, as a brave’ soldier of Christ Jesus:—
4 ||No one that is serving as a soldier|| entangleth himself with the matters [of his livelihood],
That he may please [him that hath summoned him to serve as a soldier];
5 <If, moreover, any man >contend even in the games>
He is not crowned, unless [lawfully] he contend;
6 ||The toiling’ husbandman|| ought [first’ of the fruits] to partake:
7 Think, as to what I am speaking;
For the Lord will give thee discernment in all things.
8 Keep in mind Jesus Christ—
Raised from among the dead,
Of the seed of David,—
According to my joyful message:
9 In which I am suffering hardship, Even unto bonds, ||As an evil-doer|;
But [the word of God] is not bound.
10 ||For this cause| am I enduring [all things] for the sake of the chosen,
In order that [they also] may obtain [the salvation] which is in Christ Jesus, along with glory age-abiding.
11||Faithful|| the saying— For <If we have died together> we shall also live together,
12 <If we endure> we shall also reign together;
<If we shall deny> ||he also|| will deny us,
13 <If we are faithless|| ||he|| [faithful] abideth,—

For ||deny himself|| he cannot!a

14||Of these things|| be putting [them] in remembrance,
Adjuring [them] before Godb
Not to be waging word-battles,—
Useful [for nothing],
Occasioning a subversion of them that hearken.
15Give diligence [thyself, approved] to present unto God,—
A workman not to be put to shame,
Skillfully handling the word of truth.
16But [the profane’ pratings] shun;
For [unto more’ ungodliness] will they force themselves on;c
And [their discourse, as a gangrene] will eat its way;—
Of whom are Hymenæus and Philetus,
18 Men who [concerning the truth] have erred,
Affirming [a’d resurrection, already]] to have taken place,
And are overthrowing the faith [of some].
19Howbeit [the firm’ foundation of God] standeth,
Having this seal—
The Lord hath acknowledgede them who are his,
And
Let every’ one that nameth the name of the Lord stand aloof from unrighteousness.f
20But [in a great’ house] there are not only gold and silver vessels, but [also wooden and earthen]:
And [some] indeed, for honour,
While [some] are for dishonour:
21<If, therefore, anyone will, for pureness, sever himself from these>
He shall be a vessel for honour, hallowed, meet for the Master’s use, [for every’ good work] prepared.
22But [from the youthful covetings] flee!g
And pursueh righteousness, faith, love, peace,
Along with them’ who call upon the Lord out of a pure’ heart.
23But <from the foolish’ and undisciplined’ questionings> excuse thyself,
Knowing that they gender strifes;

And [a servant of the Lord] ought not to strive, But to be [gentle] towards all, apt in teaching, ready to endure malice,—

In meekness bringing under discipline them that oppose themselves, Lest at any time God should give them repentance unto a personal knowledge of truth, And they should wake up to sobriety out of [the adversary’s] snare,— Though they have been taken alive by him for [that one’s] will.

Chapter 3.

1 But [of this] be taking note— That [in last’ days] there will set in perilous seasons;

2 For men will be—fond of themselves, fond of money, ostentatious, arrogant, defamers, [to parents] unyielding, unthankful, unkind, without natural affection, accepting no truce, given to intrigue, without self-control, uncivilized, unfriendly to good men, traitors, reckless, beclouded, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God, having a form of godliness, but [the power thereof] denying!

And [from these] turn away;

6 For [of these] are they who enterd into the houses, And captivate silly women, [women] laden with sins, led on by manifold covetings, Ever learning and never [unto a personal knowledge of truth] able’ to come;

Moreover [like as [Jannes and Jambres]] withstood Moses> [So these men also] withstand the truth,— Men utterly corrupted in their mind, Disapproved concerning their faith;

But they shall not force their way further, For [their folly] shall be [fully evident] unto all,— As also [that of those’ men] became.

But [thou] hast closely studied—

My teaching, manner of life, purpose, faith, long-suffering, love, endurance, persecutions, sufferings, What manner of things befell me at Antioch, at Iconium, at Lystra, What manner of persecutions I endured,— And [out of all] [the Lord] rescued me;—

Yea and [all who are determined to live in a godly manner in Christ Jesus] will be persecuted;

Whereas [wicked’ men and howling impostors] will force their way to the worse, Deceiving and being deceived.

But [thou]—abide in the things which thou hast learned, and been entrusted with,

Knowing [from whom] thou hast learned [them],—

And that <from a babe> [those sacred letters] thou hast known which are able to make thee wise unto salvation, [Through the faith which is in Christ Jesus]:

[Every’ scripture] [is] God-breathed, And profitable—unto teaching, unto conviction, unto correction, unto the discipline that is in righteousness,—

In order that [ready] may be the man [of God], [Unto every’ good work] being well-prepared.

Chapter 4.

I adjure [thee] before God, and Christ Jesus—

Who is about to be judging living and dead,—<Both as to’ his forthshining and his kingdom>

Proclaim the word, Take thy position—in season, out of season,— Convince, rebuke, encourage,—

With all’ long-suffering and teaching.

For there will be a season—

When [the healthful’ teaching] they will not endure, But [according to their own covetings] will [unto themselves] heap up teachers, Because they have an itching ear,

And [from the truth] indeed, [their ear] will they turn away,

5 But—be sober in all things, suffer hardship, do of an evangelist, thy ministry completely fulfill;

6 For already am being poured out as a drink-offering, And the season of my release is at hand,—

7 The noble contest have I contested, The race have I finished, The faith have I kept:

8 Henceforth lieth by for me— The crown of righteousness, Which the Lord will render unto me in that day,—

9 Give diligence to come unto me speedily, For hath forsaken me, having loved the present age, And hath journeyed unto Thessalonica; Crescens unto Galatia, Titus unto Dalmatia: 11 Luke alone is with me.

10 <Receiving back> bring him with thyself, For he is very useful to me for ministering;

12 and Tychicus have I sent unto Ephesus. 13 The cloak that I left in Troas with Carpus when thou comest bring; And the scrolls, especially the parchments.

14 Alexander the coppersmith of much baseness towards me hath given proof,—

The Lord will render unto him according to his works.—

15 Of whom be thou also on thy guard, For he hath greatly withstood our words.

16 <In my first defence> no man came in to help me, but all forsook me,— Unto them may it not be reckoned!—

17 But stood by me, and empowered me, In order that through me the proclamation might be fully made, and all the nations might hear; And I was delivered out of the mouth of a lion:—

18 The Lord will rescue me from every wicked work,

And will bring me safe into his heavenly kingdom:
Unto whom be the glory, unto the ages of ages. Amen

19 Salute Prisca and Aquila and the house of Onesiphorus.

20 [Erastus] remained in Corinth; but [Trophimus] I left at Miletus, sick. 21 Give diligence to come before winter.

There salute thee—Eubulus, and Pudens, and Linus, and Claudia, and {all} the brethren.

22 [The Lord] be with thy spirit. [Favour] be with you.

Chapter 1.

1 Paul, a servant of God—an apostle moreover of Jesus Christ,—
According to the faith of the chosen ones of God,
And the personal knowledge of the truth that is according to godliness,—

2 In hope of life age-abiding;
Which God, | who cannot lie
Promised before age-during times,
Teaching the things which ought not [to be taught]—

3 But hath manifested | in its fitting seasons,
Even his word | in the proclamation with which entrusted am || I—
By injunction of our Saviour' God:

4 Unto Titus, my true' child according to a common faith,—
Favour and peace | From God [our] Father and Christ Jesus our Saviour.

5 For this cause | left I thee in Crete,
That | the things remaining undone| thou mightest completely set in order,
And mightest establish | in every city | elders||

6 If anyone is unaccusable | a husband of | one' wife, | having | children | that believe | who are not charged with riotous excess, nor insubordinate;

7 For it is needful that the overseer' be—
| Unaccusable | as God’s’ steward, not self-
| willed, | not soon angry, not given to wine,
| not ready to wound, not seeking gain | by base means,

8 But hospitable, a lover of what is good,
| sober-minded, | just, kind, possessing self-
| control,

9 Holding fast | in the matter of his teaching| || the faithful’ word||, That he may be | able|

10 both to encourage with his healthful instruction, and ||the gainsayers|| to refute.
For there are many' unruly men,
Vain talkers and deceivers,
| Especially’ they of the circumcision||,—

11 Whose mouths must needs be stopped,
| Men who| are upsetting ||whole’ houses||,
Teaching the things which ought not [to be taught]—
For the sake of | base’ gain].

12 Said one from among them, a prophet | of their own|—
Cretans! always’ false, mischievous’ wild-beasts, idle gluttons:

13 ||This witness|| is true,—
| For which cause|| be reproving them
sharply,
That they may be healthy in their faith

14 Not giving heed to Judaical stories and commandments of men who are turning away from the truth:

15 ||All things|| are pure | unto the pure,
But <unto the polluted and faithless>
| Nothing|| is pure,|g
But polluted are both their mind and conscience;
| God|| they confess that they know,
But ||by their works|| they deny him,
Being ||abominable|| and obdurate,
And | as to any’ good work | found
||worthless||.

Chapter 2.

1 But do |thou|| speak the things which become the healthful' instruction:—

2 That ||aged men|| be |sober|, grave, sober-minded, healthy in their faith, love, endurance;

Chapter 3.

1 Be putting them in mind ||unto rulerships, unto authorities|| to be in submission, ’to be yielding to rule, ||For every’ good work|| to be [prepared], 2 To be defaming ||no one||, to be [averse to strife], considerate, shewing ||all|| meekness unto all’ men.
3 For ||even we|| used, at one time, to be— Thoughtless, unyielding, deceived, In servitude unto manifold covetings and pleasures, ||In malice and envy|| leading on, Detestable, Hating one another.

6 Which he poured on us richly, through Jesus Christ our Saviour,
7 In order that <having been declared righteous by his’ favour> we should be made [inheritors], according to hope, of life age-abiding.
8 ||Faithful|| the saying! and ||concerning these things|| I am minded that thou be strongly affirming,
   In order that they who have believed God may be careful to be forward ||in noble’ works||.

The Epistle of Paul the Apostle

To Philemon.

Chapter 1.

1 Paul, prisoner of Christ Jesus, and Timothy my brother,—

Unto Philemon the beloved, and a fellow worker of ours,

2 And unto Apphia our sister.

And unto Archippus a our fellow-soldier,

And unto the assembly which meeteth at thy house:

3 Favour unto you, and peace,

From God our Father, and Lord Jesus Christ.

4 I am giving thanks unto my God—

[Always] making mention of thee in my prayers,

5 Hearing of thy love, and of the faith which thou hast towards the Lord Jesus and towards all the saints,—

6 To the end that the fellowship of thy faith may become energetic by a personal knowledge of every good thing that is in us towards Christ;

7 For much joy have I had, and encouragement, by occasion of thy love, In that the tender affections of the saints have had rest given them by thee, brother.

8 Wherefore though I have freedom of speech in Christ, to be enjoining upon thee that which is befitting,

9 Yet for love’s sake I rather exhort,—

Being such a one as Paul the aged, [Now] also, even a prisoner of Christ Jesus,—

10 I exhort thee concerning my own child,

Whom I have begotten in my bonds,—

Oncesimus:

11 Him who at one time was unto thee [unserviceable], But now unto thee and unto me [serviceable];

12 Whom I have sent back unto thee—[Him], That is [my own] tender affections!—

13 Whom [I] was minded [with myself] to detain,

That [in thy behalf] unto me he might be ministering in the bonds of the joyful message;

14 But [apart from thy mind] I wished to do [nothing],

That [not as by necessity] thy goodness should be, but [by choice].

15 For [peradventure] for this cause was he separated for an hour>

That [as an age-abiding possession] thou mightest have him back,—

16 No longer as a servant, But above a servant— [A brother beloved],—

Very greatly to me, But [how much rather] to thee—[Both in the flesh and in the Lord]!

17 If therefore, thou holdest me as one in thy fellowship>

Take him unto thee [as myself];

And [if he hath wronged thee at all or oweth thee aught>

[The same, unto me] do thou reckon:

[If, Paul] have written [it] with [my own] hand,—

[I] will repay [it];

That I may not tell thee—That [thyself, unto me] thou still owest.

18 Yea! brother [I] would [from thee] have help, in the Lord:

Give rest unto my tender affections in Christ.

19 [Confident of thine obedience] I have written unto thee,

Knowing that [even beyond what I say] thou wilt do:—

20 [At the same time] moreover, be also getting ready for me [a lodging];

For I am hoping that [through your prayers] I shall be granted as a favour unto you.

EPISTLE TO THE HEBREWS.

Chapter 1.

Whereas <||[in many parts and in many ways of old]||
God spake unto the fathers [in the prophets]>

[At the end of these days]
He hath spoken unto us [his Son],—
Whom he hath appointed heir of all things,
Through whom also he hath made the ages;

Who <being an eradiated brightness of his glory,
And an exact representation of his being,
Also bearing up all things by the utterance of his power,
|Purification of sins| having achieved>
Sat down on the right hand of the majesty in high places:

By |[so] much becoming superior to the messengers, b
By |[as] much as, going beyond them, he hath inherited a more distinguished [name].

For |unto which of the messengers| said he at any time—
|||My Son|| art [thou],
|||/| this day have [begotten] thee? a

and again—
||/| will become [his' father],
And |||he| shall become [my' Son]? c

But <whenever he again introduceth the first-begotten into the habitable earth> he saith—
And let all' God's messengers worship him! e

||Even as to the messengers|| indeed, he saith—
Who maketh his messengers [winds]
And his ministers of state [a fiery flame]? h

but ||[as to the Son]|—
Thy throne, O God, is unto times age-abiding; i
and—

[A sceptre of equity] is the sceptre of his kingdom,
Thou hast loved righteousness, and hated lawlessness, —
[For this cause] hath God, thy God, anointed thee with the oil of exultation |beyond thy partners| k;

and—
||Thou|| by way of beginning| Lord, |the earth| didst found,
And |the works of thy hands| are the heavens,—
||They|| shall perish,
But ||thou| abidest still,
And ||all|| as a mantle| shall be worn out,
And |as if a robe| wilt thou fold them up,—
As a mantle, and they shall be changed;
But ||thou|| art [the same],
And |thy years| shall not ||fail| l

But |to which of the messengers| hath he said, at any time—
Sit thou at my right hand,
Until I make thy foes thy footstool m

Are they not ||all|| spirits |doing public service|,—
|for ministry| sent forth, for the sake of them who are about to inherit salvation?

Chapter 2.

||[For this cause| it behoveth us |with unwonted firmness] to be holding fast unto the things that have been heard, lest, at any time, we drift away. a
For <if the word through messengers' spoken became firm, and |every' transgression and disobedience| received a just' recompense>
how shall ||[we]|| escape, if |so great a salvation as this| we have neglected,—|which| indeed, <having received [a beginning| of being spoken through the Lord| by them who heard] unto us' was confirmed’, 4 God [jointly witnessing also] both with signs and wonders and manifold’ mighty works, and with distributions of Holy’ Spirit’ [according to his’ own will]?

5 For [not unto messengers] hath he subjected the coming habitable eartha of which we are speaking;

6 But one somewhere hath borne witness, saying—
   What is man, that thou shouldest make mention of him?
   Or the son of man, that thou shouldest put him in charge?

7 Thou hast made him less, some little, than messengers,
   With glory and honour hast thou crowned him,—
   And hast set him over the works of thy hands;
   All things hast thou subjected beneath his feet.

For <in subjecting, {to him} the all things> [Nothing] left he to him unsusected;
But |now, not yet| do we see, to him, the all things subjected;—

9 But |{[Jesus, made some little less than messengers]} we do| behold:
   By reason of the suffering of death crowned with glory and honour,
   To the end that, by favour of God, |in behalf of every one| he might taste of death.

10 For it was becoming in him—
   For the sake’ of whom are the all things,
   And by means’ of whom are the all things,—
   When |many’ sons|| unto glory| he would lead, |[The Princely Leader] of their salvation| through sufferers’ |to make perfect|.d

11 For |both he that maketh holy, and they who are being made holy|
   Are |{all}| of One’;
   |For which cause| he is not ashamed to be calling them |brethren|, saying—
   I will declare thy name unto my brethren,

[In the midst of an assembly] will I sing praise unto thee;
13 and again—
   |I| will be confident upon him;
   and again—
   *Lo! |I and the children which, unto me, |God| hath given.*h

<Seeing therefore |the children| have received a fellowship of blood and flesh>
||He also|| |in like manner| took partnership in the same,—

In order that |through death|—
He might paralyse him that held the dominion’ of death,
That is, the Adversary,—

15 And might release these—
   As many as |by fear of death| were all their lifetime liable’ |{to bondage}|.i

16 For |not surely of messengers| is he laying hold,
   But |of Abraham’s seed| he is’ laying hold.

17 Whence he was obliged |{in every way|| unto the brethren}b to be made like,
   That he might become a merciful’ and faithful high-priest,
   |In the things pertaining unto God|,—
   For the making of propitiation for the sins of the people.

18 For <in that he suffered |{when tested}|> He is able |unto them who are being tested| |{to give succour}|.

Chapter 3.

1 Whence, holy brethren, |partners| in a heavenly calling’,
   Attentively consider the Apostle and High-priest of our confession—||Jesus||

2 As one |faithful| to him who made him:
   As |Moses also| in |all|| his house.|

3 For |of more’ glory than Moses| hath ||this|| one been counted worthy—
By as much as more’ honour than |{the house| hath ||he that prepared it||;

7 Wherefore,—
  According as saith the Holy Spirit—
  \textit{To-day} \textit{if} [unto his voice] ye would hearken>
  \textit{Do not harden your hearts},—
  \textit{As in the embitterment},
  \textit{In the day of testing in the desert},
  \textit{When your fathers tested by proving},
  \textit{And saw my works forty years}.
8 Wherefore I was sore vexed with this generation,
  \textit{And said, Always err they in their heart};—
  \textit{Howbeit} [they] learned not my ways:
  \textit{So I sware in mine anger}
  \textit{They shall not enter into my rest}.\(^b\)
9 Be taking heed, brethren,
  Lest at any time, there shall be in any one of you,
  A wicked heart of unbelief,
  In revolting from a Living God.

  \textit{While the To-day} is being named, Lest any from among you be \textit{hardened} by the deceitfulness of sin.
11 For [partners of the Christ] have we become,—
  If, at least, [the beginning of the confidence, throughout, firm] we hold fast:
12 So long as it is said—
  \textit{To-day} \textit{if} [unto his voice] ye would hearken>
  \textit{Do not harden your hearts},—
  \textit{As in the embitterment}.\(^d\)

  \textit{Save unto them who were obstinate}?
19 And we see, that they were not able to \textit{enter

\textbf{Chapter 4.}

1 Let us therefore fear, lest at any time, Although there is left behind a promise \textit{of entering into his rest},—
  Any one from amongst you should be deemed\(^g\) [to have come short];
2 For we have had delivered to us the joyful message, just as even [they];
  But the word which was heard did not profit
  [them],
  They not having been blended, by faith, with the things heard.\(^b\)
3 For we who have believed \textit{are to enter into the rest},
  According as he hath said—
  \textit{So I sware in mine anger}
  \textit{They shall not enter into my rest}.
  And yet [the works] from the foundation of the world [had been brought into existence], 4 For he hath spoken, somewhere, concerning the seventh [day], thus—\textit{And God rested, on the seventh day, from all] his works};
5 And in this again—
  \textit{They shall not enter into my rest}.
6 Seeing, therefore, that it is left over for [some] to \textit{enter into it},
  And [they who formerly] had delivered to them the joyful message [entered not in by reason of obstinacy],—
7 [Again] he marketh out a certain’ day, \textit{To-day} [in David] saying—after so long a time as this,—according as it hath been said

8 For <if ||unto them|| Joshua’ had given rest> it had not in that case ||concerning another’ day|| been speaking ||after these things.
9 Hence there is ||left over|| A Sabbath-keeping, for the people of God.
10 For ||he that hath entered into his rest|| ||He too|| hath rested from his works,—just as ||from his own|| ||God|| rested.
11 Let us, therefore, give diligence to enter into that rest,
   Lest anyone fall into the same’ example ||of obstinacy|.
12 For ||living|| is the word of God, and ||energetic||,
   And more cutting than any knife with two edges,
   And penetrating as far as a dividing asunder of soul and spirit,
   Of joints also, and marrow,—
   And able to judge the impulses and designs of the heart;
13 And there is ||no created thing|| can be secreted before him,

14 <Having then a great high-priest who hath passed through the heavens,
   ||Jesus the Son of God||>
   Let us hold fast the confession;
15 For we have not a high-priest unable to have fellow-feeling with our weaknesses,
   But one tested in all respects, by way of likeness, ||apart from sin||.
16 Let us, then, be approaching with freedom of speech, unto the throne of favour,
   That we may receive mercy,
   And ||favour|| may find ||for seasonable succour|.

Chapter 5.
1 For ||every’ high-priest who from among men’ is taken||
   |On behalf of men|| is appointed, as to the things pertaining unto God,
   That he may be offering ||both|| gifts and sacrifices for sins,—
2 Able ||to have a measure of feeling|| for the ignorant and erring,—
   Since ||he also|| is compassed with weakness;
3 And ||for this cause|| is he obliged—

And have become such as have [need] ||of milk|]| not [of strong food];
13 For ||every one partaking of milk|| is unskilled in discourse of righteousness,
   For he is [a babe];
14 But ||to such as are mature|| pertaineth [the strong’ food],
   ||To them who [by reason of habit] have their organs of perception well trained for discriminating both good and evil||.

Chapter 6.
1 Wherefore <dismissing the elementary discourse concerning the Christ>
|Unto maturity| let us be tending,
   Not [again, a foundation] laying down—
      Of repentance from dead’ works,
         And of faith towards God,
2 Of immersions—in respect of teaching, b
      And of the laying on of hands,
         Of the resurrection of the dead,
            And of judgment age-abiding;—
3 And [this] will we do, if at least [God] permit. c
4 For it is impossible—
   <As to these who have been [once for all] illuminated,
      Who have tasted also of the heavenly free-gift,
         And have been made [partners] in a Holy Spirit,
5 And have tasted God’s utterance to be [sweet],
         Mighty works also of a coming’ age,
6 And who have fallen away>
|Again| to be remoulding them into repentance;
   Seeing d they are again crucifying unto themselves the Son of God,
      And holding him up as an example.
7 For ||land|]| <which hath drunk in |the rain| thereupon oftetimes coming,
      And which bringeth forth vegetation e fit for them for whom it is even cultivated>
   Partaketh of a blessing from God;
8 But <should it be bringing forth thorns and briars>
   It is disapproved, and, unto cursing, nigh,— e
      Whose [end] is for [burning].
9 But we are persuaded, concerning you, beloved,
   The things which are better and which contain salvation,
      Though [even thus’ we speak].
10 For [not unrighteous] is God, to be forgetful of your work g and of the love which ye have shewn forth for his name,
   In that ye have ministered unto the saints, and are’ ministering,— 11 But we covet
   That [each one of you] be shewing forth the same’ diligence,
      Unto the full assurance of the hope throughout:
12 In order that [not slothful] ye may become,
   But imitators of them who, through faith and patience, were becoming heirs of the promises. h
13 For [when to Abraham’ God made promise]
   <Seeing he had no one greater by whom to swear>
      He sware [by himself],— 14 saying—
         [Truly, if blessing] I will bless thee,
            And [multiplying] I will multiply thee;i
15 And [thus, being patient] he attained unto the promise.
16 For ||men|| [by the greater one] swear,
   And [with them] an end of ||all|| gainsaying by way of confirmation is ||the oath||:
17 Wherein God <being [more abundantly’ disposed] to shew forth unto the heirs of the promise the unchangeableness of his counsel>
   Mediated [with an oath],—
18 In order that <through means of two’ unchangeable things,
   In which it was impossible for [God] to make himself false>
      [A mighty’ consolation] we might have,
         Who have fled along to grasp [the fore-lying’ hope],
19 Which we have [as an anchor of the soul],
         Both secure and firm,
            And entering into the interior of the veil:
20 Where [a forerunner in our behalf] hath entered ||even Jesus||

Chapter 7.

1 For ||this Melchizedek\(^b\) king of Salem, priest of God Most High,
Who met Abraham returning from the slaughter of the kings, and blessed him,—

2 To whom even a tenth of all Abraham apportioned||
<First, indeed, when translated, King of Righteousness,
But [after that] King of Salem also, which is King of Peace,—

3 Without father, without mother, without pedigree,
Having [|neither beginning of days, nor of life an end|],
But made like unto the Son of God> ||Abideth a priest evermore||.

4 Now consider ||how great this man was, to whom [|a tenth| Abraham gave out of the choicest spoils |||Yea Abraham] the Patriarch||.

5 And [|they, indeed, from among the sons of Levi’ who the priesthood’ receive|]
Have [|commandment| to take tithes of the people [|according to the law|],—\(^c\)
That is, of their brethren, [|although sprung from the loins of Abraham|];

6 But [|he who deriveth not his pedigree from among them|]
Hath taken’ tithes of’ Abraham.
And [|the holder of the promises| hath he blessed’.

7 But [|apart from all gainsaying|]
The less’ by the greater’ is blessed.

8 And [|here| indeed, dying’ men take tithes, But [|there| one of whom it is witnessed [|that he liveth|].

9 And—so to say a word—
[|Through Abraham| even Levi’ who taketh tithes hath paid’ tithes;

10 For [|even then|] was he [|in the loins of his father| when [|Melchizedek| met him.

11<If indeed, therefore, there had been [a perfecting through means of the Levitical priesthood|,—
For [|the people, thereon| have had based a code of laws|>
What further' need [according to the rank of Melchizedek] for a different\(^d\) priest to be raised up,
And [not according to the rank of Aaron] to be designated?

12 For <|seeing there is to be a change of the priesthood|>
||Of necessity| [of law too] a change cometh.

13For [|he as to whom these’ things are said|]
|With a different’ tribe| hath taken partnership,
From which [|no one| hath given attendance at the altar;

14 For it is [|very evident| that out of Judah’ hath sprung our Lord,—
||Respecting which tribe| [|concerning priests| nothing did Moses speak,

15 And [yet more abundantly’ evident it is—
That [|according to the likeness of Melchizedek|] there is to be raised up [|a different’ priest|],

16 Who <|not according to a law of commandment dealing with the flesh| hath arisen,
But according to the power of an indissoluble life;

17For it is witnessed—
[|Thou| art a priest [|age-abidingly|],
||According to the rank of Melchizedek|].\(^f\)

18For [|a setting aside| doth, indeed, take place, of a foregoing’ commandment,
By reason of its own’ weakness and unprofitableness,—

19 For [|the law| perfected [|nothing|];
But there is the superinducing of a better’ hope,—
Through which we draw near unto God.

20And <|inasmuch as not apart from oath-taking—
21 For [|they| indeed, [|apart from oath-taking|] have been made priests,
But [|he| with’ an oath-taking,—
Through him that was saying unto him—
The Lord sware, and will not regret,—
[|Thou| art a priest [|age-abidingly|]>

22] By as much as this hath [Jesus] become surety of a better covenant also.

23 And [they] indeed, [in greater numbers] have been made priests,
   Because [by reason of death] are they hindered from [remaining at hand];
24 But [he][, by reason of his remaining age-abidingly], [Untransmissible] holdeth [the priesthood].
25 Whence he is able [even to be saving unto the very end]
   Them who approach, through him, unto God;
   Since he evermore liveth to be interceding in their behalf.
26 For [such a high-priest as this] for us was [even] suited:
   Loving, noble, undefiled,
   Set apart from sinners,
   And become [higher than the heavens];
27 Who hath no daily necessity, [like the high-priests],
   [Beforehand, over his own sins] to be offering sacrifices,
   [After that] over those [of the people],—
   For [this] he did once for all when [himself] he offered up.
28 For [the law] constituteth [men] high-priests, having [weakness];
   But [the word of the oath-taking, which cometh after the law]
   [A Son] age-abidingly [made perfect].

Chapter 8.

1 A crowning point on the things being spoken:—
   [Such a one as this] have we [as high-priest],
   Who hath sat down on the right hand of the throne of the Majesty in the heavens,—
2 Of the Holy place a public minister,
   And of the Real Tent, which [the Lord] pitched and not [man].
3 For [every high-priest] for the offering of both gifts and sacrifices is constituted;
   Whence it was [necessary] for [this one also] to have something which he might offer.
4 If, indeed, therefore, he had been on earth
   He had not, in that case, even been a priest,
   Since there are those who are offering the gifts [according to the law]:—

5 Who, indeed, are rendering divine service, with a glimpse and shadow [of the heavenly things];
   Even as Moses hath received intimation, when about to complete the tent,—
   For see! saith he—Thou shalt make all things according to the model which hath been pointed out to thee in the mount.
6 But [now] hath he attained unto [a more distinguished] public ministry,—
   By as much as of a better covenant also he is [mediator],
   Which indeed [upon better promises] hath been legislated.
7 For [finding fault with them] he saith—
   Lo! [days] are coming, saith the Lord,
   When I will conclude for the house of Israel and the house of Judah,
   [A covenant of a new sort]:
8 Not according to the covenant which I made with their fathers,
   In the day when I took them by their hand, to lead them forth out of the land of Egypt,—
   Because [they] abode not in my covenant,
   And [I] disregarded them, saith the Lord.
9 Because [this] is the covenant which I will make with the house of Israel,
   [After those days] saith the Lord:—
   <Giving my laws into their understanding>
   [Upon their hearts also] will I inscribe them:
   And I will become their God,
   And [they] shall become my people;
10 And in nowise shall they teach—
   Every one his fellow-citizen,
   And every one his brother,
   Saying,—Get to know the Lord!
   Because [all shall know me, From the least unto the greatest of them;
   Because [propitious] will I be as to their unrighteousnesses;

Chapter 9.

1 [Even] the first, indeed, therefore, used to have righteous appointments of divine service, [Even the holy ritual well arranged].
2 For [a tent]b was prepared, [the first], In which were both the lampstand and the table and the setting forth of the loaves,— The which is called the Holy placec;
3 But [after the second' veil] a tent, that which is called Most Holy:
4 Having a golden' altar of incense, And the ark of the covenant covered around on every side with gold, In which was a golden jar holding the manna, And the rod of Aaron that sprouted, And the tables of the covenant;
5 But [over-above it] Cherubim of glory overshadowing the propitiatory:— Concerning which things it is not now [needful] to be speaking [particularly].
6 Now <these' things having been thus' prepared> [Into the first' tent,] indeed, [continually] do the priests enter, The divine services completing;
7 But [[into the second]] once' for all in the year', Only' the high-priest, Not without blood, Which he offered for himself and the ignorances of the people:
8 The Holy Spirit making this’ evident— That [not yet] hath been manifested, the way through the Holy place, [So long] as the first’ tent hath [a standing].
9 The which is a similitude for the present season, According to which [both gifts and sacrifices] are offered,

Which cannot [as to the conscience] perfect him that rendereth the divine service:—

10 Only as to eatings, and drinkings, and diversified immersions,— Righteous-appointments of the flesh, Which [until a season of rectifying] are in force.

11 But <when ||Christ|| approached, d as high-priest of the cominge good things,＞ Through the greater' and more perfect’ tent, not made by hand, That is, not of this’ creation,—
12 Nor yet through blood of goats and calves, But through his own’ blood> He entered once for all into the Holy place, ||Age-abiding’ redemption discovering’]].
13 For <if the blood of goats and bulls, And the ashes of a heifer sprinkling the profaned, Halloweth unto the purity of [the flesh]>||How much rather][ shall [the blood of the Christ, Who through an age-abiding spirit Offered himself’ unspotted unto God] Purify our# conscience from dead’ works, To the rendering of divine-service [unto a Living’ God]b?||And ||for this cause|| [of a new covenant] is he mediator’,— To the end that <death coming to pass for the redemption of the transgressions against [the first]] covenant> The called might receive [the promise] of the age-abiding” inheritance;
16 For <where a covenant is> It is necessary for [the death] to be brought in, of him that hath covenanted;
17 For [a covenant over dead persons] is firm’,— Since it is not then’ of force when he is [living] that hath covenanted.
18 Whence |not even the first]] [apart from blood] hath been consecrated;
19 For <when every commandment according to the law [had been spoken]] by Moses unto all the people>

[Taking the blood of the calves and the goats,
With water and scarlet wool and hyssop],
Both [the scroll itself], and all’ the people] he sprinkled;

Saying—
\[\text{This is the blood of the covenant which [God] hath sent in command unto you};\]

Yea [the tent also, and all’ the utensils of the public ministry] with blood’ in like manner’ he sprinkled;

And [nearly] all things [with blood] are purified [according to the law],
And [apart from blood-shedding] cometh no [remission].\(^b\)

It was indeed therefore [necessary] for [the glimpses of the things in the heavens] with these’ to be purified;
But [the heavenly things themselves]’ with better’ sacrifices than [these].

For [not into a Holy place made by hand’] entered Christ,— Counterpart of the real [Holy place];
But [into the heaven itself],
[Now] to be plainly manifested before the face of God in our behalf;—

Nor yet that [ofttimes] he should be offering himself,—
Just as [the high-priest] entereth into the Holy place, year by year, with alien’ blood;—

Else had it been needful for him| offtimes’ to suffer, from the foundation of the world;
But |now| <once for all
Upon a conjunction of the ages,\(^c\)
For a setting aside of sin through means of his sacrifice>
Hath he been made manifest\(^d\);

And <inasmuch as it is in store for men—
Once for all’ to die,
But after this’ [judgment]>

Thus |the Christ also|
<Once for all’ having been offered,
For the bearing of the sins [of many]>>

[To them who for him’ are ardently waiting]—

Chapter 10.

1 For the law <having ||a shadow|| of the destined’ good things,
Not the very’ image of the things>
They can never [with the same’ sacrifices which year by year’ they offer evermore]
Make them who approach |perfect|;

2 Else would they not, in that case, have ceased being offered,
By reason of those rendering the divine service
having no’ further’ conscience at all’ of sins,
||Being once for all purified||?

3 But [in them] is a recalling to mind of sins [year by year],

4 For it is impossible for |blood of bulls and goats|\(^g\) to be taking away sins.

5 Wherefore <coming into the world> he saith:
|[Sacrifice and offering] thou willedst not,
But |a body| hast thou fitted for me,—

6 |In whole-burnt-offerings and sacrifices for sins|
|thou didst not delight:

He taketh away the first, that the second he may ||establish||:

13 [As for the rest] waiting—

14 For [by one’ offering] hath he perfected for evermore, them who are being made holy.

15 But even the Holy Spirit [bearth us witness];

25 Not forsaking the assembling of ourselves together,
According to the custom of some,
But exhorting,
And by so’ much the more as this’,
By as’ much as ye behold [the day][ drawing near.

26 For <if [by choice] we be sinning, after the receiving of the full-knowledge of the truth>

Blessed [each of the sons of Joseph];

And bowed in worship on the top of his staff:

[By faith] [Joseph, when drawing to his end]—

[Concerning the exodus of the sons of Israel] called to remembrance,

And [concerning his bones] gave commandment.

[By faith] [Moses, when born]—

Was hid three months by his parents,

Because they saw that goodly was [the child],

And were not affrighted [at the decree of the king].

[By faith] [Moses, when grown up]—

Refused to be called the son of a daughter of a Pharaoh,

Rather choosing—

To be jointly suffering ill-treatment with the people of God,

Than [for a season] to be having [sins enjoyment];

Accounting—

<As greater riches than Egypt’s treasures>

[The reproach of the Anointed One];

For he was looking away unto the recompense.

[By faith] he forsook Egypt—

Not put in fear of the wrath of the king;

For [as seeing him who cannot] be seen [he persevered].

[By faith] he hath kept the passover and the besmearing of the blood,

Lest [he that was destroying the first-born] should be touching them].

[By faith] they passed through the Red Sea, [as over dry land],—

Which the Egyptians [seizing an attempt] to do were swallowed up.

[By faith] [the walls of Jericho] fell,

[Having been surrounded for seven days].

[By faith] [Rahab the harlot] perished not with them who refused to yield,

[She having welcomed the spies with peace].

And what more can I say? For [time] will fail me while I go on telling—

Concerning Gideon, Barak, Sampson, Jephthah,

David also, and Samuel, and the prophets,—

Who [through faith]—

Prevailed in contest over kingdoms,

Wrought righteousness,

Attained unto promises,

Shut the mouths of lions,

Quenched the power of fire,

Escaped the mouths of the sword,

Were made powerful from weakness,

Became mighty in battle,

Overturned [camps of aliens];

Women received [by resurrection] [their dead];

But [others] were put to the rack,

Not accepting redemption,

That [unto a better] resurrection [they might attain];

[Others] again, [of mockings and scourgings] received trial,

[Nay! further] of bonds and imprisonments:

They were stoned, were pierced through, were sawn asunder, by murder, with a sword, died, Went about in sheep-skins, in goat-hides,— being in want, suffering tribulation, enduring ill-treatment: Of whom the world' was not worthy,— upon deserts, wandering, and mountains, and in caves,— and in the caverns of the earth. And these all, <though they obtained witness through their faith> yet bare not away the promise: ||this is our hope, that even if they thus slight the discipline of the Lord, we may not make ourselves something better' providing,— that not apart from us should they be made perfect.

Chapter 12.

Therefore, indeed, <seeing that we also> have encircling us so great a cloud of witnesses> stripping off every incumbrance and the easily entangling sin> with endurance let us be running the race that is lying before us, looking away unto our faith's Princely-leader and perfecter, Jesus,— who in consideration of the joy lying before him endured a cross, despising the shame! and on the right hand of the throne of God hath taken his seat.

For take ye into consideration— Him who hath endured such contradiction by sinners against themselves; lest ye be wearied, in your souls becoming exhausted.

And ye have quite forgotten the exhortation which, indeed, with you as with sons doth reason:— my son! be not slighting the discipline of the Lord, neither be fainting, when by him thou art reproved;

For whom the Lord loveth he doth discipline, and scourgeth every son whom he doth welcome home.

<For the sake of discipline> persevere! as towards sons God beareth himself towards you; for who is a son whom a father doth not discipline?

If however ye are without discipline, whereof all have received a share; then are ye bastards and not sons.

Furthermore, indeed, the fathers of our flesh we used to have, as administrators of discipline, and we used to pay deference: shall we not submit ourselves to the Father of our spirits and live?

For they, indeed, for a few days, according to that which seemed good to them were administering discipline; but he unto that which is profitable, with a view to our partaking of his holiness:

But no discipline for the present, indeed seemeth to be of joy, but of sorrow: afterwards however— <to them who thereby have been well trained> it yieldeth peaceful fruit of righteousness.

Wherefore the slackened hands and paralysed knees, restore ye; and straight tracks be making for your feet,— that the lame member may not be dislocated, but be healed rather.

Peace be pursuing, with all, and the obtaining of holiness,— without which no one shall see the Lord: using oversight— lest any one be falling behind from the favour of God,— least any root of bitterness springing up above be causing trouble, and through it the many be defiled:

Lest there be any fornicator, or profane person like Esau, who for the sake of one meal yielded up his own firstborn rights; for ye know that afterwards—

THE EPISTLE OF JAMES.

Chapter 1.

1 James, a servant of God and of the Lord Jesus Christ,— <Unto the twelve tribes that are in the dispersion> Wishes joy.
2 ||All' joy|| account it, my brethren, whencesoever ye fall in with |manifold| ||temptations||.| a
3 Taking note, that ||the proving of your' faith|| worketh out endurance b;
4 But let ||your endurance|| have |mature work|, That ye may be mature and complete, ||In nothing|| coming short.
5 But <if any of you is sinning short of wisdom> Let him be asking of God,
   Who ||giveth|| unto all' freely and upbraideth not,
   And it shall be given him;
6 But let him be asking in faith, |nothing| doubting,
   For ||he that doubteth|| is like a wave of the sea, wind-driven and storm-tossed,—
7 For let not that man think' that he shall receive anything from the Lord—
8 A two-souled man, unstable in all' his ways.
9 But boasting be the lowly brother in his uplifting;
10 Whereas the rich, in his being brought low,—
   Because ||as a flower of grass|| he will pass away c;
11 For the sun hath sprung up, with it scorching heat,
   And hath withered the grass,
   And ||the flower thereof|| hath fallen out, d
   And ||the beauty of the face thereof|| hath perished,—
   ||So|| also the rich, in his goings, shall languish.
12 Happy the man who endureth temptation! e
   Because ||becoming approved'|| he shall receive the crown of life—
   Which he hath promised unto them that love him.
13 Let ||no one, while tempted|| be saying—

||From God|| am I tempted,—
   For ||God|| cannot be tempted by things evil,
   And ||himself|| tempteth no one;
14 But ||each one|| is tempted, when ||by his own' coveting|| he is drawn out and enticed,
15 ||Then, the coveting|| |having conceived| giveth birth to sin,
   And ||the sin|| |when full-grown| f bringeth forth death. g
16 Be not deceived, my brethren beloved:—
17 ||Every' good giving, and every' perfect gift|| is ||from above||,
   Coming down from the Father of lights—
   With whom is no alternation,
   Nor shadow cast ||by turning||;
18 ||Because he was so minded|| he hath brought us forth with a word of truth,
   To the end we should be a sort of firstfruit of his' creatures. i 19 Ye know, my brethren beloved,—
   But let every' man be swift to hear, slow to speak, slow to anger,
20 For ||man's anger|| worketh not ||God's righteousness||.
21 Wherefore |putting away all' filthiness and overflow of baseness| e
   ||In meekness|| welcome ye the word fitted for inward growth', which is able to save your souls:
22 Become ye doers of the word, and not hearers only— k
   Reasoning yourselves astray;
23 Because <if any is |a word-hearer|, and not a doer>
   ||The same|| is like unto a man observing his natural face' in a mirror,— 24 For he observed himself, and is gone away, and |straightway| it hath escaped him,— ||What manner of man|| he was!

Chapter 2.

1. My brethren, do not [with respect for persons] be holding the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ [the Lord] of glory.

2. For [if there enter into your synagogue a man wearing gold rings in gay clothing, And there enter a destitute man also in soiled clothing,—

3. And ye eye him that hath on the gay clothing, and say, [Thou] be sitting here, pleasantly,— And [unto the destitute man] say— [Thou] stand, or sit there under my footstool>

4. Would ye not have been led to make distinctions among yourselves, and have become judges with wicked reasonings?

5. Hearken! my brethren beloved:— Hath not [God] chosen the destitute in the world [To be] rich in faith and heirs of the kingdom which he hath promised to them that love him?

6. Whereas [ye] have dishonoured the destitute man!

7. Do not [the rich] oppress you? And [themselves] drag you into courts of justice?

8. If ye are [indeed] fulfilling [a royal law], according to the scripture—

   Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself

   [Nobly] are ye doing;

9. But [if ye are shewing respect of persons] [Sin] are ye working. Being convicted by the law as transgressors!

10. For [a man who shall keep [the whole] law]

       But shall stumble in one thing>

       Hath become [for all things] liable,—

       For [he that hath said—Do not commit adultery]

       Hath also said—Do not commit murder,—

       Now [if thou dost not commit adultery,]

       But dost commit murder>

       Thou hast become a transgressor of law.

11. [So] be speaking, and [so] doing,

       As they who [through means of a law of freedom] are about to be judged;

12. For [the judgment] [will be] without mercy, unto him that hath shewed no mercy: [Mercy] boasteth [over judgment].

13. What profit, my brethren,— [If one should be saying he hath [faith], but hath not [works]]

       Can his faith save him?

14. [If] [a brother or sister] should be [naked], and coming short of the daily food,

       And one from among you should say unto them— Withdraw in peace,

       Be getting warmed and fed,

       But should not give them the things needful for the body>

15. [So] also [faith] [if it have not works] is [dead] [by itself].

16. But one will say— [Thou] hast [faith], And [I] have [works] j

       Shew me thy faith apart from thy works. And [I] [unto thee] will shew [by my works] [my faith].

17. Thou believest that God is [one]:

18. Or (WH): “Ye would have.”

19. Or (WH): “his tongue.”

20. Or (WH): “his heart.”

22. Or: “our glorious L.J.C.”

23. Or (WH): “stand there, or sit under,” &c.
Chapter 3.

1 Not many teachers become ye, my brethren, knowing that a severer sentence shall ye receive;
2 For are we stumbling, one and all? If anyone in word doth not stumble ||The same|| is a mature* man, able to curb even the whole’ body.
3 Now if the horses’ bits into their mouths we thrust, to the end they may be yielding to us ||Their whole’ body also|| do we turn about.
4 Lo! ||the ships also|| <large> as they are, and by rough winds driven along> are turned about by a very small’ helm, with thersover the impulse of the steersman inclineth.

Or: “thy faith.”

Gen. xv. 6.
Is. xli. 8; 2 Ch. xx. 7.
Jos. ii. 1; vi. 23; He. xi. 31.
Or (WH): “for just as.”

5 ||So, also, the tongue|| is a little member and yet of great things maketh boast.
Lo! ||how small’ a fire|| kindleth ||how great’ a forest;||
6 And ||the tongue|| is a fire,—
As ||the world of unrighteousness|| the tongue becometh fixed among our members, which defileth the whole’ body and setteth on fire the wheel of our natural life, and is set on fire by gehenna;*th
7 For every’ nature—
<Both of wild beasts and of birds,
Both of reptiles and of things in the sea>
Is to be tamed, and hath been tamed, ||by the human’ nature;||
8 But ||the tongue|| none’ of mankind can’ ||tame||,—
A restless’ mischief! Full of deadly poison!
9 ||Therewith|| are we blessing our Lord and Father,
And ||therewith|| we are cursing the men who after the likeness of God* have been brought into being!
10 ||Out of the same’ mouth|| come forth blessing and cursing!
||Not meet|| my brethren, for ||these things|| ||thus|| to be coming to pass!
11 Doth ||the fountain|| ||out of the same opening|| teem forth the sweet and the bitter?
12 Is it possible, my brethren, for ||a fig-tree|| to produce [olives], or ||a vine|| figs?
Neither can ||salt|| water yield ||sweet||.
13 Who is wise and well-instructed-among you? Let him shew, out of his comely’ behaviour, his works, in meekness of wisdom.
14 But ||if|| bitter jealousy|| ye have, and rivalry, in your hearts> be not boasting and showing yourselves false against the truth!
15 This’ wisdom is not one ||from above|| coming down,
But is earthly, born of the soul, j demoniaca!k
16 For <where jealousy and rivalry are> ||There|| are anarchy and every’ ignoble deed.
17 But ||the wisdom from above’|| is—

Or: “full-grown.”
Ap: “Gehenna.”
Gen. i. 26.
Chapter 4.

1 Whence wars and whence fightings among you? Are they not from hence—due to your pleasures which are taking the field in your members?

2 Ye covet—and have not,

Ye commit murder, and are jealous,—and cannot obtain,—

||Ye fight and war||

Ye have not—

Because ye do not really ask,

3 Ye ask and receive not

Because that |[basely]| ye ask, In order that |[in your pleasures]| ye may spend [it].

4 Adulteresses!

Know ye not that |[the friendship of the world]| is |enemy to God|?

<Whosoever, therefore, is minded to be |a friend| of the world> |[An enemy of God]| doth constitute himself.

Or think ye that |[in vain]| the scripture speaketh?

Is it |[for envying]| that the spirit which hath taken an abode within us doth crave?

6 Howbeit he giveth |greater| favour.

Wherefore it saith—

||God| [against the haughty] arrayeth himself, Whereas |unto the lovely| he giveth favour.|b

7 Range yourselves, therefore, under God,

But withstand the adversary, And he will flee from you:

8 Draw near unto God, And he will draw near unto you.

Cleanse hands, sinners!

Chasten hearts, double souls!

9 Be miserable and lament and weep,

Let |[your laughter]| |into lamentation| be turned, And |[your joy]| into |[dejection]|;

10Be made low in presence of the Lord, And he will lift you up.

11Be not speaking one against another, brethren!

18 And |[in harvest of righteousness, with peace]| is sown by them that make peace.

Chapter 5.

1 Come now! ye wealthy!

Weep ye, howling, for your hardships which are coming upon you:

2 |[Your wealth]| hath rotted,

And |[your garments]| have become |moth-eaten|,—

3 |[Your gold and silver]| have rusted away,

And |[their rust]| shall be |witness against you|,

And shall eat your flesh,|g as fire!|

Ye have laid up treasure in days of extremity|’|—:

THE FIRST EPISTLE OF PETER.

Chapter 1.

1 | Peter, an apostle of Jesus Christ|
| Unto the chosen pilgrims of the dispersion, throughout Pontus, Galatia, Cappadocia, Asia and Bithynia,—

2 | Chosen] according to the fore-knowledge of God the Father, In sanctification of Spirit, Unto obedience and the sprinkling of the blood of Jesus Christ> Favour unto you, and peace, be multiplied!

3 | Blessed] be the God and Father of our Lord Jesus Christ, Who <according to his great mercy> Hath regenerated us unto a living hope, Through the resurrection of Jesus Christ from among the dead.

4 | Unto an inheritance, incorruptible and undefiled and unfading, Reserved in the heavens for you 5 who [in God’s power] are being guarded through faith unto salvation— Ready to be revealed in the last ripe time:

6 | Wherein ye exult, Though, for a little, just now, if needful, put to grief in manifold temptations, In order that the proving of your faith— Much more precious than of gold that perisheth even though by means of fire it is proved— May be found unto praise and glory and honour in the revealing of Jesus Christ,— Whom <not having seen> ye love, On whom <though at present not looking, but believing> ye exult with joy unspeakable and filled with glory, Being about to bear away the end of your faith—a salvation of souls:

7 | Concerning which salvation] Prophets—who concerning the favour for you' did prophesy—sought out and searched out, Searching into what particular’ or what manner’ of season the Spirit of Christ which was in them was pointing to, when witnessing beforehand as to— The sufferings [for Christ], The glories [after these].—

11 | Unto whom it was revealed—that, ][Not unto themselves, But unto us]] they were ministering them, Which things have [now] been announced unto you through them who have told you the good tidings with Holy Spirit sent forth from heaven: Into which things messengers are coveting to obtain a nearer view.

12 | Wherefore <girding up the loins of your mind> Keeping sober Perseveringly] direct your hope unto the favour [being borne along to you] in the revealing of Jesus Christ:

13 | As obedient persons 8 not configuring yourselves unto your former covetings in your ignorance:

15 | But <according as he that hath called you is holy> do [ye yourselves] also become [holy in all manner of behaviour],— Inasmuch as it is written— [Holy] shall ye be, Because [I] am holy.

17 | And <if [as Father] ye are invoking him 1 who [without respect of persons] judgesth according to each man’s work> [With reverence, for the time of your sojourn] behave ye; Knowing that ][Not with corruptible things, with silver or gold]] have ye been redeemed from your unmeaning behaviour paternally handed down, 19 But with precious blood <as of a lamb, unblemished and unsotted> of an Anointed One,—

20 Foreknown, indeed, before the foundation of the world,
But made manifest at a last stage of the times,
for the sake of you who [through him] are faithful towards God,—Who raised him from among the dead, and glory to him gave, So that your faith and hope are directed towards God:

22 <Having purified [your souls]] by the obedience of the truth, unto unfeigned brotherly affection>
||From the heart|| love [one another] earnestly;
Having been regenerated—
Not out of corruptible seed,
But incorruptible—
\[\text{Through means of the word of a Living and Abiding God}\];

Inasmuch as—
\[\text{All' flesh}] is as grass,
\[\text{And all' the glory thereof] as the flower of grass,—}
\[\text{The grass hath withered,}
\[\text{And the flower hath fallen out,}
But the declaration of the Lord age-abidingly remaineth;}
And [this] is a declaration which in the joyful message hath been announced unto you.

Chapter 2.

1 <Putting away, therefore, all' vice and all' deceit and hypocrisy and envyings and all' detractions>
\[\text{As new'-born babes] [for the pure' milk that is for the mind] eagerly crave,
\[\text{That [thereby]} ye may grow unto salvation:—}
\[\text{If ye have tasted for yourselves that [gracious] is the Lord,—}
\[\text{By men} indeed, rejected;
\[\text{But [with God]} chosen, held in honour>}

5 ||Yourselves also|| [as living stones] are being built up a spiritual house, for a holy priesthood,
To offer spiritual’ sacrifices, well-pleasing unto God through Jesus Christ;

6 Inasmuch as it is contained in scripture—
\[\text{Lo! I lay in Zion an outmost corner stone, chosen, held in honour,} \[\text{And [he that resteth faith thereupon] shall not be put to shame.}^b

7 ||Unto you], then, is the honour—[unto you] who believe;
But [unto such as disbelieve],
\[\text{The stone which the builders rejected—}
\[\text{The same} hath become head of the corner;
And a stone to strike against,
And a rock to stumble over:
Who stumble because [unto the word] they do not yield,—
Unto which also they have been appointed;

9 But ||ye|| are a chosen race, a royal' priesthood,
a holy nation, a people for a peculiar treasure,
\[\text{That [the excellences} ye may tell forth,^k of him who [out of darkness] hath called you into his marvellous' light:—}

10 Who [at one time] were a No-people,
But [now] are a people of God,—
Who had not been enjoying mercy,
But [now] have received mercy.^1

11 Beloved! I exhort you <as sojourners and pilgrims>
To abstain from fleshly' covetings,
Such as take the field against the soul;

12 Having [your behaviour among the nations] honourable,— \[\text{In order that [wherein they speak against you as evil-doers]} they may [owing to the honourable' works they are permitted to behold] glorify God in the day of visitation.\n
13 Submit yourselves^o unto every' human' creation, for the Lord's sake,—

Whether unto a king, as one that protecteth,\(^a\)
Or unto governors, as through him sent—
For vengeance on evil-doers,
But praise to such as do good;
Because [so] is the will of God,—[by doing good] to be putting to silence [the ignorance of heedless men]:
As free.\(^b\) Yet [not as a cloak of vice] holding your freedom, But [as God’s servants].
[Unto all men] give honour,
[Unto the brotherhood] shew love,
[Unto God] give reverence,
[The king] hold in honour.\(^c\)
\([Ye] domestics\(^d\) submitting yourselves, in all reverence, unto your masters,—
Not only unto the good and considerate,
But also unto the perverse;
For [this] is thankworthy,—If [for the sake of conscience towards God] one beareth griefs [suffering wrongfully],—
For what sort of honour is it—If [committing sin] and being buffeted ye endure it?
But if [doing good] and suffering, ye endure it>
[This] is thankworthy with God.
For [hereunto] have ye been called;
Because [Christ also] suffered in your behalf,
[Unto you] leaving behind a pattern,
That ye might follow in his steps:
Who did not [a sin] commit, Neither was deceit found in his mouth,—\(^g\)
Who [being reviled] was not reviling again,
[Suffering] he was not threatening,
But was making surrender unto him that judgeth righteously,—
Who [our sins] [himself] bare up, \(^i\) in his body, unto the tree,
In order that we <from our sins getting away>
[In righteousness] might live,—
[By whose stripes] ye have been healed;
For ye were as sheep going astray,\(^l\)

For [so] [at one time] [the holy’ women also, who directed their hope towards God] used to adorn themselves [being in submission unto their own’ husbands]:
As [Sarah] was obedient unto Abraham, calling him [lord],—\(^s\)
Whose children ye have become—so long as ye are doing good, and not bringing yourselves into fear of any single’ cause of alarm.\(^t\)
||Ye husbands\(^u\) [in like manner] dwelling with them according to knowledge,—

9 Not returning evil for evil, a Nor reviling for reviling, But [on the contrary] bestowing a blessing,— Because [hereunto] have ye been called, In order that [a blessing] ye might inherit. For <he that desireth to love [life], And to see good days> Let him cause his tongue' to cease from mischief, And lips, that they speak not deceit; Let him turn away from mischief, and do good, Let him seek peace, and pursue it; Because [the eyes of the Lord] are towards the righteous, And his ears, unto their supplication,— Whereas [the face of the Lord] is against them that are doing mischievous things. b

Who, then, is he that shall harm you, if [for that which is good] ye become zealous? Nevertheless [even if ye should suffer for righteousness' sake] happy [are ye]! [Their fear] however, do not fear, neither be troubled;

But [the Lord Christ] hallow ye in your hearts, Ready always for a defence, unto every one that is asking you a reason concerning [the hope within you],— Nevertheless, with meekness and reverence:

Having a good conscience, In order that [Wherein they speak against you] they may be put to shame who cast wanton insult on [your good behaviour in Christ].

For it is [better, as well-doers] [if it should please the pleasure of God] to be suffering, than [as evil-doers]: Because [Christ also] once for all, concerning sins] died,— Just in behalf of unjust,—In order that he might introduce us unto God; Being put to death, indeed, in flesh, But made alive' in spirit,— In which [even unto the spirits in prison] he went and proclaimed,— [Spirits] unyielding at one time,

When the longsuffering of God was holding forth a welcome in the days of Noah, There being in preparation an ark— [Going] into which [a few', that is eight', souls] were brought safely through by means of water,— Which [water] in manner corresponding k doth [now] save [you also]—even immersion,—Not a putting away of the filth of the flesh, But the request unto God [for a good conscience], Through the resurrection of Jesus Christ,— Who is on the right hand of God, i Having gone into heaven, [Messengers and authorities and powers] having been made subject unto him.

Chapter 4.

1 <[Christ] then, having suffered in flesh> Do [ye also] [with the same'] purpose arm yourselves,— Because [he that hath suffered in flesh] hath done with sins,—m To the end that <no longer, in men's' covetings, but in God's will> ye may live [the still remaining'] time.

For [sufficient] is the by'gone time—to have wrought out [the will of the nations], Having gone on in wanton ways, covetings, wine-drinkings, revellings, drinking-bouts, and impious' idolatries:— Wherein they are taken by surprise that ye run not with them into the same' overflow of riotous excess,—uttering defamation:

Who shall render an account unto him who is holding in readiness to judge living and dead;

For [unto this end] [even unto the dead'] was the glad-message delivered,— In order that they might be judged, indeed, according to men in flesh, But might live according to God in spirit.

But [the end of all' things] hath drawn near:—

Be of sound mind, therefore, and be sober for prayers;

||Before all things|| keeping [fervent] your love [among yourselves],
Because ||love|| covereth a multitude of sins;||

Showing hospitality one to another without murmuring,—

||Each one|| <according as he hath received a gift of favour> ||unto one another|| ministering the same,
As careful’ stewards of the manifold’ favour of God:

||If any one speaketh|| as oracles of God,
||If any one ministereth|| as of strength which [God] supplieth,—
That ||in all things|| God may be glorified through Jesus Christ,—
Unto whom are the glory and the dominion, unto the ages of ages. Amen!

Beloved! be not held in surprise by the burning among’ you, which [for putting you to the proof] is befalling you,
As though a |surprising| thing were happening unto you;

But <in so far as ye are taking fellowship in the Christ’s’ sufferings> rejoice!
In order that ||in the revealing of his glory also|| ye may rejoice with exultation:

||If ye are being reproached in the name of Christ> happy [are ye]!
Because <the Spirit >of the glory> and the [Spirit] of God unto you' is bringing rest.]

For let [none of you] be suffering as a murderer, or a thief, or an evil-doer, or as one plying into other men’s affairs;

But <if as a Christian> let him not be ashamed, but be glorifying God in this name.

For it is the time ripe for the judgment to begin with the house of God;[
But <if first with us> what shall be the end of them who yield not unto the glad-message of God?

And <if ||the righteous man|| is |with difficulty| saved>

Where then shall ||the ungodly and sinful man|| appear?8

So then, let ||them who are even suffering, according to the will of God||
[Unto a faithful’ Creator] be committing their souls, [in well-doing].

Chapter 5.

||Elders, therefore, among you|| I exhort—
[I who am their co-elder and a witness of the sufferings of the Christ’,
Who also ||in the glory about to be revealed|| have ||a share||;—

Shepherd the beloved flock of God |which is among’ you|,—
Not by compulsion, but by choice,
Nor yet for base gain, but of a ready mind,— Nor yet as lording it over the allotted portions, i
but becoming ||ensamples|| to the beloved flock;

And <when the Chief Shepherd is manifested>
Ye shall bear away [the unfading crown of glory].

In like manner ||ye younger men||—submit yourselves unto elders;—
All, however, one towards another |gird on humility|;
Because ||God|| |against the haughty| arrayeth himself,
Whereas ||unto the lowly|| he giveth favour.

Be made lowly, therefore, under the strong’ hand of God,
That he may lift [you] up in due time,—

||All your anxiety| casting upon him,8
Because he careth for you.

Be sober! be watchful!
||Your slanderous adversary||’ as a roaring lion| is walking about—seeking to devour:
Whom resist, steadfast in your faith,
Knowing that ||the same’ sufferings|| |in your brotherhood that is in the world| are being accomplished.

Howbeit ||the God of all’ favour—

THE SECOND EPISTLE OF PETER.

Chapter 1.
1 [Simon Peter, servant and apostle of Jesus Christ]
   Unto them who have obtained [equally precious] faith [with us] in the righteousness of our God, and Saviour Jesus Christ>—
2 [Favour unto you, and peace] be multiplied,
   In the personal knowledge of God and of Jesus our Lord;—
3 As [all things] suited for life and godliness his divine power [unto us] hath given,
   Through the personal knowledge of him that hath called us through glory and excellence,— 4 Through which [his precious and very great promises] have [unto us] been given,
   In order that [through these] ye might become sharers in a divine nature—
   Escaping the corruption that is in the world by coveting.
5 And [for this very reason also]— Adding, on your part, [all diligence]>
   Supply [in your faith] [excellence],
   And [in your excellence] [knowledge],
6 And [in your knowledge] [self-control],
   And [in your self-control] [endurance],
   And [in your endurance] [godliness],
7 And [in your godliness] [brotherly affection],
   And [in your brotherly affection] [love].
8 [These things] unto you belonging and abounding>
   Neither idle nor unfruitful constitute you, regarding the personal knowledge of our Lord Jesus Christ;
9 For [he to whom these things are not present] is blind, seeing only what is near,
   Having come to forget] his purification from his old sins.
10 Wherefore [all the more] brethren, give diligence to be making [firm] [your calling and election];

For [these things] doing, in nowise shall ye stumble at any time.
11 For [thus] shall richly’ be further supplied unto you—the entrance into the age-abiding kingdom of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ.
12 Wherefore, I shall be certain to be [always] putting you in remembrance concerning these things,—
   Although, indeed, ye know them, and have become confirmed in the present’ truth;
13 [Right] nevertheless, I account it—
   [As long as I am in this’ tent]’ to be stirring you up by putting you in remembrance,
   Knowing that [speedy] is the putting off of my tent—
   Even as [our Lord Jesus Christ also] made clear to me:
15 Yea, I will give diligence also, that [at every time] ye may be able [after my own’ departure] to be keeping up the remembrance of [these very things].
16 For [not as having followed] [cleverly devised stories] made we known unto you the power and presence of our Lord Jesus Christ,
   But as having been made [spectators] of his’ majesty.
17 For [when he received from God the Father honour and glory,]
   [A voice] being borne to him such as this, by the magnificent’ glory—
   [My Son, the beloved] is [this], in whom [I] delight>
18 [Even this’ voice] [well] heard, when [out of heaven] it was borne, We being [with him] in the holy’ mount.
   And we have [more firm] the prophetic’ word;—
   Whereunto ye are doing [well] to take heed,—
   As unto a lamp shining in a dusky’ place,— Until [day] shall dawn, and [a day-star] shall arise in your hearts:—

a Or (WH): “Symeon.”
b Or: “and [our] Saviour.”
c Or (WH): “by his own glory, &c.” d Ap: “Age-abiding.”
e Ap: “Kingdom.”
f 2 Co. v. 1.
g Jn. xxi. 19.
h Ap: “Presence.”
i Mt. xvii. 1–8; Mk. ix. 2–8; Lu. ix. 28–36.
20 ||Of this|| first’ taking note—
    That ||no’ prophecy of scripture|| becometh
    [self-solving];
21 For not ||by will of man|| was prophecy brought in [at any time],
    But <as [by Holy Spirit] they were borne along> spake [men] from God.

Chapter 2.

1 But there arose false-prophets\(^a\) also among the people,
    As ||among you also|| there shall be [false-teachers],—
    Men who will stealthily bring in destructive parties,
    ||Even the Master that bought’ them||
    denying,\(^b\)
    Bringing upon themselves speedy’
    destruction;
2 And ||many|| will follow out their’ wanton ways,—
    By reason of whom ||the way of truth|| will be defamed;\(^c\)
3 And ||in greed, with forged’ words|| will they [of
    you] ||make merchandise||:
    For whom ||the sentence from of old|| is not idle,
    And ||their destruction|| doth not slumber.
4 For—<if ||God|| spared not [messengers,\(^d\) when they sinned],
    But [to pits of gloom’ consigning them, in the lowest hades] delivered them up to be kept [unto judgment],—
5 And ||an ancient’ world|| spared not,
    But [with seven others] preserved [Noah] a proclaimer [of righteousness],
    [A flood, upon a world of ungodly persons] letting loose,—
6 And ||the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah|| reducing to ashes, he condemned,
    ||An example of such as should be ungodly||
    having set forth,—
7 And ||righteous’ Lot, when getting worn out by the behaviour of them who were impious in wantonness|| he rescued——

8 For ||in seeing and hearing, since he dwelt right among them, ||as a righteous man|| he used to torment his soul, day by day, with their lawless’ deeds>——
9 [Then] the Lord knoweth how to rescue [the godly out of trial];
    But to keep [the unrighteous unto a day of judgment to be punished];—
10 ||Most of all|| however, them who go their way
    [after the flesh,\(^f\) with a coveting of defilement] and who despise [lordship],—
    Daring! willful!
    [Before dignitaries] they tremble not,
    Defaming,\(^1\) where ||[messengers]\(^g\) <though [greater in might and power]> are not bringing against them [before the Lord] a defamatory’ accusation,—\(^h\)
12 ||These|| however,
    <As unreasoning’ creatures\(^i\) that have been bred as being [by nature] for capture and destruction>
    ||In the things they are ignorant of|| uttering defamation,
    ||In their spoiling|| shall also be made a spoil,—
    Doing wrong themselves, for a reward of wrong,
    Accounting ||[a delight]|| their day-time\(^j\) delicacy,
    Spots\(^k\) and blemishes, indulging in delicacies with their stratagems,\(^l\) as they carouse together with you,
    Having ||eyes|| full of an adulteress, and that cannot rest from sin,
    Enticing unstable souls,
    Having [a heart trained in greed],—
    Children of a curse,—
    Forsaking a straight’ path, they have gone astray,
    Following out the way of Balaam [son] of Beor,
    Who loved [a reward of wrong],
    But had [a reproof] of his own’ transgression,
    <A dumb beast of burden [in man’s voice] finding utterance> forbade the prophet’s’ madness.

And mists [by a tempest] driven along,—^a
For whom [the gloom of darkness] hath been reserved;
18 For [great swelling words of vanity][b] uttering, they entice with carnal covetings—in wanton ways—they who are [well-nigh] escaping from the men who [in error] have their behaviour;
19 Promising [freedom to them], ||they themselves|| being all the while [slaves of corruption],—^c
For <by whom one hath been defeated> ||by the same|| hath he become enslaved,—
20 For <if> [having escaped from the defilements of the world by a personal knowledge of the Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ] but [by the same’ having again’ become entangled, they are defeated>
The ||last|| state hath become, for them, worse’ than ||the first||;^c
21 For [better] had it been for them—
Not to have obtained a personal knowledge of the way of righteousness,
Then [having obtained such knowledge] to turn back out of the holy’ commandment delivered unto them.
22 There hath befallen them the thing [spoken of] in the true’ proverb—
||A dog|| turning back unto his own’ vomit,^d
And—
||A sow, as soon as washed|| unto wallowing in mire.

Chapter 3.

1 ||This, already|| beloved, is the second’ letter I am writing unto you;
And, in these letters, I am stirring up—by way of calling to remembrance—your uncorrupted’ mind,
2 To remember the fore-spoken’ declarations made by the holy’ prophets, and the commandment of the Lord and Saviour [by your apostles].
3 ||Of this|| first’ taking note—
That there will come, in the last of the days, ||with scoffing|| ||scoffers||,^h

||After their own’ covetings|| going on, ^4 and saying—
Where is the promise of his presence?
For <since the fathers’ fell asleep> ||all things|| thus’ remain, from the beginning of creation.
5 For this they [willfully] forget—
That there were ||heavens|| from of old, and ||an earth|| [on account of water and by means of water] compacted [by God’s word],—^h
By which means ||the world that then’ was|| [with water’ being flooded] perished;
While ||the heavens and the earth that now’ are|| ||By the same’ word|| have been stored with fire,
Being kept unto the day of judgment and destruction of the ungodly’ men.\n
But ||this one’ thing|| forget not, beloved,—
That ||one day, with the Lord|| is as a thousand’ years,
And ||a thousand years|| as one day.\n
The Lord is [not slack] concerning his promise,
As some count’ [slackness];
But is long-suffering with regard to you,
Not being minded that any should perish,
But that ||unto repentance|| should come.

Howbeit the day of the Lord will be here [as a thief],—\n
In which ||the heavens|| [with a rushing noise] will pass away,
While ||elements|| [becoming intensely hot] will be dissolved,
And ||earth, and the works therein|| will be discovered.

<Seeing that all these’ things are thus’ to be dissolved>
||What manner of persons|| ought {ye} all the while to be, [in holy ways of behaviour and acts of godliness],—

Expecting and hastening the presence of the day of God,
By reason of which, ||heavens|| [being on fire] will be dissolved,
And ||elements|| [becoming intensely hot] are to be melted;

14 Wherefore, beloved, \textit{[these things]} expecting— Give diligence \textit{[unspotted and unblemished]} by him' to be found \textit{[in peace];}

15 And account \textit{[our Lord's' long suffering]} to be salvation:— Even as \textit{[our beloved' brother Paul also]}<According to the wisdom given unto him> Hath written unto you;

16 As also \textit{[in all' letters]} speaking in them concerning these things,— In which \textit{[letters]} are some things \textit{[hard to be understood],} Which \textit{[the uninstructed and unstable]} wrest,—as also the other' scriptures,—unto their own' destruction.

17\textit{[Ye]} therefore, beloved, <Taking note beforehand> Be on your guard, lest [with the error of the impious' being led away] ye fall from your own' steadfastness;

18 But be growing in the favour and knowledge of our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ:— Unto whom be the glory, both now and unto a day that abideth.\footnote{MI: “a day of an age”—or, “a day of concealed duration.” Ap: “Age.”}
THE FIRST EPISODE OF JOHN.

Chapter 1.

1 <That which was from the beginning, a
Which we have heard,
Which we have seen with our eyes,
Which we for ourselves gazed upon, and our hands did handle,
Concerning the Word of Life,—
2 And ||the Life|| was made manifest,b and we have seen, and are bearing witness, and announcing unto you,
||The Age-abidingc Life||,
Which, indeed,d was with the Father, and was made manifest unto us>
3 ||That which we have seen and heard||
are we announcing |even unto you|, in order that ||ye too|| may have fellowship with us, and ||our own fellowship also|| may be with the Father, and with his Son Jesus Christ.
4 And ||these things|| are we’ writing, in order that
|our| joy may be made full.f
5 And this is the message which we have heard from him, and are reporting unto you,—
That ||God|| is |light|,
And in him is ||no darkness at all||.
6 <If we say—
We have |fellowship| with him!
and |in darkness| are walking>, we are dealing falsely, and not doing the truth; 7 whereas <if |in the light| we are walking, as |he| is in the light>
we have |fellowship one with another|, and ||the blood of Jesus his Son|| is cleansing us from all’ sin.g 8 <If we say—
|Sin| have we none!>
we are deceiving ||ourselves|| and |the truth| is not in us. 9 <If we are confessing our sins| faithful| is he and |righteous|, that he should forgive our sins, and cleanse us from all’ unrighteousness. 10

<If we say—
We have not sinned!>
||false|| are we making |him|, and |his word| is not in us.

Chapter 2. h

1 My dear children! |these things| am I writing unto you, in order that ye may not be committing sin.
And <if anyone should commit sin> |an Advocate| have we |with the Father|, ||Jesus Christ, the Righteous||; 2 and ||he|| is ||a propitiation|| concerning’ our sins,—and |not concerning|| our own only| but ||also concerning those of the whole’ world||. 3 And ||hereby|| perceive we, that we understand him,—if |his commandments| we are keeping. 4 <He that saith—
I understand him!
and |his commandments| is not keeping| is |false|, and
||in him|| the truth is not!
5 <But whosoever may be keeping his’ word> ||of a truth|| |in this man| the love of |God’| hath been made perfect.1 |Hereby| perceive we, that |in him|
we are. 6 <He that saith, that |in him| he abideth> ought |just as He’ walked| |himself also| to be walking.
7 Beloved! |no new commandment|| am I writing unto you; but an old commandment, which ye have been holding from the beginning: The old commandment is the word which ye have heard. 8
||Again|| |a new commandment|| am I writing unto you,—which thing is true, a in him and in you, because |the darkness| is passing away, and |the real light| already’ is shining.
9 <He that saith he is |in the light| and hateth [his brother] is [in the darkness], [until even now]! 10 <He that loveth his brother> is abiding [in the light], and [cause of stumbling] [in him] is there none! 11 Whereas <he that hateth his brother> in the darkness [dwelleth], a and in the darkness [walketh]; and knoweth not whither he is drifting, because the [darkness] hath blinded his eyes.

12 I write unto you, dear children, Because your sins have been forgiven you, for the sake of his name:

13 I write unto you, fathers, Because ye understand him who was from the beginning:

14 I have written unto you, fathers, Because ye understand the Father:

15 Be not loving the world, Nor yet the things that are in the world:

16 Because <all’ that is in the world—
The coveting of the flesh,
The coveting of the eyes,
And the vain grandeur of life—>
Is not of the Father, but is [of the world];

17 And [the world] passeth away, and the coveting [thereof],
But [he that doeth the will of God] endureth unto times age-abiding.

18 Little children! it is [the last hour]; And <just as ye have heard that [an antichrist] is coming>
||Even now|| antichrists have become [many], Whence we perceive that it is [the last hour]:

19 ||From among us|| they went out,

But they were not of us;
For <if> of us they had been>
They would in that case have abode with us;
But [it came to pass] in order that they might be made manifest;
Because [all] are not of us.f

20 And ||ye|| have [an anointing] from the Holy One,— ||Ye all|| know:g

21 I have not written unto you because ye know not the truth,
But because ye know it,
And because [no falsehood] is [of the truth],

22[Who] is the False One;—
Save he that denieth that [Jesus] is the Christ?
[The same] is the Antichrist,—h
He that denieth the Father and the Son.

23 <Whosoever denieth the Son> Neither hath he [the Father];
<He that confesseth the Son> Hath [the Father also].1

24 <As for you>
||What ye have heard from the beginning||
In you let it abide.
<If [in you] shall abide, that which [from the beginning] ye have heard>
||Ye also|| [in the Son and {in} the Father] shall abide.

25 And [this] is the promise, which he hath promised unto us,—
The age-abiding life.

26 ||These things|| have I written unto you, concerning them who would lead you astray.

27 And <as for you>
||The anointing which ye have received from him|| abideth in you, and ye have [no need] that anyone be teaching you;
But <as [his’ anointing] is teaching you,
And is [true], and is no falsehood>
||Even just as it hath taught you||
Abide ye in him.

28 And [now], dear children, abide ye in him,

Ye perceive that—
Whosoever doeth righteousness || of him hath been born.

Chapter 3.

1 Behold ||what manner\(^a\) of love|| the Father hath bestowed upon us—
That ||children of God|| we should be called,—
And such we are!
Therefore the world understandeth us not, Because it understood not him.\(^c\)

2 Beloved! ||now|| are we ||children of God; And ||not yet|| hath it been made manifest ||what we shall be||,
We know that ||if it\(^d\) should be made manifest|| Like unto him shall we be,
Because we shall see him ||just as he is||.

And ||whosoever hath this hope on him||
Is purifying himself, just as ||[He]\(^e\) is ||pure||.

4 ||Whosoever is committing sin||
[Lawlessness also] is committing,
And [sin] is ||lawlessness||;
And ye know, that ||[He]\(^f\) was made manifest—
In order that ||our sins|| he should take away,
And [sin][ in him] is there none.

6 ||Whosoever [in him] doth abide||
Is not sinning;
||Whosoever is sinning||
Hath not seen him, and doth not understand him.\(^g\)

7 Dear children! let ||no one|| lead you astray!
||He that is doing righteousness|| is ||righteous||,
Just as ||[He]|| is ||righteous||;
||He that is committing sin|| is ||of the adversary||,
Because [from the beginning] the adversary is sinning.
||To this end|| was the Son of God made manifest,
In order that he might undo the works of the adversary.

9 ||Whosoever hath been born of God|| is not committing [sin],
Because [a seed of him][ within him] abideth;
And he cannot be committing\(^h\) sin,
Because [of God] hath he been born.

10 ||Herein|| are ||manifest|| the children of God, and the children of the adversary:
||Whoever is not doing righteousness|| is not of God,
Nor yet he that is not loving his brother.

11 Because ||this|| is the message which ye have heard from the beginning—
That we should be loving one another,—

12 Not just as ||[Cain]|| was ||of the wicked one|| and slew his brother!
And [for what cause] slew he him?
Because [his works] were ||wicked||,
Whereas ||those of his brother|| were ||righteous||.

13 Be not marveling, brethren, if [the world] is hating you:

14 ||We|| know, that we have passed over out of death into life,
Because we love the brethren:
||He that loveth not|| abideth in death.

15 ||Whosoever is hating his brother|| is ||a murderer||;
And ye know that ||no' murderer|| hath life age-
during [within him abiding],

16 ||Hereby||\(^i\) have we come to understand love: In that ||[He][ for us] his life\(^j\) laid down;
And ||we|| ought [for the brethren] our\(^k\) lives\(^m\) to lay down.

17 But <whoso hath this world's goods,
And beholdeth his brother having [need],
And shutteth up his tender affections from him> ||How|| is |the love of God| abiding in him?\(^n\)

18 Dear children!
Let us not be loving in word, nor yet with the tongue,
But in deed\(^o\) and truth.

19 ||Hereby|| shall we get to know, that |of the truth| we are,
And ||before him|| shall persuade our heart;

|Greater| is God, than our heart, and perceiveth

21 Beloved! <if our heart be not condemning us>
|Boldness| have we, towards God\textsuperscript{b};

22 And [whatsoever we are asking] we are |receiving from him,
Because [his commandments] are we keeping,
|And [the things that are pleasing before him] are we doing.

23 And [this] is his commandment,—
|That we should believe\textsuperscript{c} in the name of his

Chapter 4.

1 Beloved! [not in every' spirit] believe ye,
|But test the spirits, whether they are [of God];
|Because [many' false prophets] have gone out
|into the world.

2 [Hereby] do ye perceive the Spirit of God:—
|<Every' spirit that confesseth Jesus Christ as |having come [in flesh]>
|Is [of God];
|And [every' spirit that doth not confess\textsuperscript{d} Jesus>
|[Of God] is not'.
|And [this] is the [spirit] of the Antichrist,
|Touching which ye have heard that it cometh:
|[Even now] is it [in the world] [already].

3 [Ye] are [of God], dear children, and have |overcome them;
|Because [greater] is he that is in you, than he that
|is in the world.

4 [They] are [of the world]:
|[For this cause] [of the world] they speak,
|And the world [unto them] doth hearken.

And [God] in him’ {abideth}.
17||[Herein|| hath love with us [been made perfect],—
In order that |boldness|, we might have in the day of judging,—
In that <just as ||[He]] is>
||[We also] are [in this world].
18 ||[Fear] existeth not [in love],
But [perfect’ love] casteth fear [outside];
Because ||[fear] hath |correction| a:—
||[He that feareth] hath not been made perfect
[in love].
19||[We]’ love, because ||[he] first’ loved us’:—
20 <If one should say I love God and and should be hating |his brother>| [false] is he;
For <he that doth not love his brother |whom he hath seen>
||[God, whom he hath not seen]| he cannot’ love b!
21 And ||[this commandment]| have we from him,—
That ||[he who loveth God]’ love |his brother also].

Chapter 5.

1 <Whosoever believeth that |Jesus| is the Christ>
||Of God|| hath been born:
And <whosoever loveth him that begat>
Loveth him that hath been begotten of him.
2 ||[Hereby]| perceive we, that we love the children of God>
As soon as ||[God]| we love,
And ||[his commandments]| we are doing.
3 For ||[this]| is the love of God—
That ||[his commandments]| we be keeping, c
And ||[his commandments]| are not |burdensome|;
Because ||whatsoever hath been born of God||
overcometh the world;
And ||[this]| is the victory that hath overcome the world—
||[Our faith]|
5 {And} who is he that overcometh the world,
Save he that believeth
That |Jesus| is the Son of God?
6 ||[This]| is he that came through means of water and blood,
||[Jesus Christ]|:
Not |by the water| only,
But |by the water and by the blood|,—
And ||[the Spirit]| it is, that is bearing witness,
Because ||[the Spirit]| is the truth.
7 Because ||[three]| are they who are bearing

witness—
8 The Spirit, and the Water, and the Blood;
And ||[the three]| are [witnesses] |unto one thing|.
9 <If ||[the witness of men]| we receive>
||[The witness of God]| is [greater],
Because ||[this]| is the witness of God—
In that he hath borne witness concerning his Son,—
10 <He that believeth on the Son of God>
Hath the witness |within himself| d:
He that doth not believe God>e
||[False] hath made him,—
Because he hath not believed on the witness which |God| hath witnessed |concerning his Son|—
11||[this]| is the witness:—
That ||[life age-abiding]| f hath God given unto us,
And ||[this’ life]| is |in his Son|:
12 ||[He that hath the Son]| hath |the life|,—
||[He that hath not the Son of God]| hath not| the life.
13||[These things]| have I written unto you—
In order that ye may know that ye have |Life
Age-abiding|—
||[Unto you who believe on the name of the Son of God]|.
14 And ||[this]| is the boldness which we have towards
him:
That <if |anything| we ask |according to his
will|>
He doth hearken unto us.
15 And <if we know that he doth hearken unto us,
|Whatever we ask|>
We know that we have the things asked,
Which we have asked of him,
16 <If one should see his brother committing a sin, g
|Not unto death|>
He shall ask, and He will grant unto him life,—
||[For them who are sinning, not unto death]|.
There |is| a sin, unto death:
||[Not concerning that]| am I saying, that he should make request.
17 ||[All’ unrighteousness]| is |sin|,

Nay he that hath been born of God
He keepeth him,
And the wicked one doth not touch him.

19 We know that of God are we;
And the whole world in the wicked one is lying.

20 We know, moreover, that the Son of God hath come,
And hath given us insight,
So that we are getting to understand him that is Real,—
And we are in him that is Real,
In his Son Jesus Christ.

1. ||The Elder|| unto an elect lady and her children, whom I love in truth; and not ||I|| alone, but all’ those also who understand the truth,— for the sake of the truth that abideth in us, and [with us] shall be unto times age-abiding>a. 3 Favour, mercy, peace shall be with us, from God the Father, and from Jesus Christ the Son of the Father, in truth and love.

4. I rejoiced exceedingly, b in that I had found [from among thy children] such as were walking in truth, even as [a commandment] we received from the Father. 5 And [now] I request thee, lady, not as writing [a new commandment] unto thee, but one which we were holding from the beginning— That we should be loving one another.

6. And ||this|| is love, that we should be walking according to his commandments: ||This|| is [the commandment], even as ye heard from the beginning, that [therein] ye should be walking.

7. Because ||many’ deceivers|| have gone out into the world, d they who do not confess Jesus Christ coming in flesh: ||This|| is the deceiver and the antichrist.

8. Be taking heed unto yourselves, lest ye lose what things we earned,—but ||a full reward|| ye may duly receive. 9 <Every’ one that taketh a lead, and abideth not in the teaching of Christ> hath not [God]: <he that abideth in the teaching> ||the same|| hath [both the Father and the Son]. 10 <If anyone cometh unto you and [this’ teaching] doth not bring> be not receiving him home, and ||Joy to thee|| do not say; 11 for ||he that biddeth him rejoice|| hath fellowship with his wicked works.

12. <Though I had many things [unto you] to write> I was not minded [to say them] with paper and ink; but I hope to come unto you, and [mouth to mouth] to talk,—that your joy may be made full.f

1 ||The elder|| unto Gaius the beloved, whom ||| love in truth.

2 Beloved! ||concerning all things|| I pray thou mayest be prospering, and be in health, even as ||thy soul|| is prospering. 3 For I rejoiced exceedingly, a at brethren coming and bearing witness unto thy truth,—even as ||thou|| ||in truth|| art walking. 4 I have no ||greater|| favour than these things, that I should be hearing that ||my own’ children|| ||in the truth|| are walking.

5 Beloved! ||a faithful thing|| art thou doing, whatsoever thou shalt accomplish for them that are brethren ||and withal’ strangers||,— a who have borne witness to thy love before the assembly: whom thou wilt do ||nobly|| to set forward worthily of God. 7 For ||in behalf of The Name|| have they gone forth, taking ||nothing|| from them of the nations. 8 ||We|| therefore ought to be sustaining such as these, that we may become ||fellowworkers|| with the truth.

THE EPISTLE OF JUDE.

Chapter 1.

1 Jude, Jesus Christ’s servant, and brother of James, unto the called, by God the Father beloved, and by Jesus Christ preserved,—

2 Mercy to you, and peace, and love, be multiplied!

3 Beloved! though I was using all diligence to be writing unto you concerning our common salvation yet have I had necessity to write at once unto you, exhorting you to be earnestly contending for the faith once for all delivered unto the saints. For there have crept in among us certain men, who from of old have been publicly notified for this sentence, Ungodly men, the favour of our God turning into wantonness, and our only Master and Lord, Jesus Christ, denying.

4 I am minded, therefore, to put you in remembrance,—though ye know all things once for all—That the Lord, when a people out of Egypt he had saved, in the next place, them that believed not, destroying. ||Messengers also|| when a people out of Egypt he had saved|| that visited the ungodly—hath been reserved.|| MENSTRUAL, the chief-messenger||

5 As ||Sodom and Gomorrah,|| the cities around them|| having in like manner to these given themselves over to fornication, and gone away after other kind of flesh|| lie exposed as an example, a penalty of age-abiding fire undergoing.

6 ||In like manner, nevertheless, even these|| in their dreamings|| flesh indeed defile, while lordship they set aside, and dignities they defame.

7 ||[Gen. iv. 5–14.]||

8 Whereas ||[Michael,|| the chief-messenger||

9 <when with the adversary disputing, he was reasoning about the body of Moses> durst not impose on him a defamatory sentence, but said—

The Lord rebuke thee!

10 ||[These]|| <whatsoever things, indeed, they know not> they defame; but <whatsoever things, naturally, like the irrational creatures, they well understand> are they bringing themselves to ruin.||

11 ||[In the way of Cain]|| have they gone, and ||[in the gainsaying of Korah]|| have they perished.

12 These are they—Who <in your love-feasts> are ||hidden rocks|| as they fare sumptuously together, Fearlessly ||themselves shepherd||, Clouds without water, by winds swept along, Trees autumnal, fruitless, twice dead, uprooted.||

13 Wild waves of sea, foaming out their own infamies, Wandering stars, for whom the gloom of darkness age-abiding hath been reserved.

14 But the seventh from Adam, Enoch, ||prophesied, even of these||, saying—Lo! the Lord hath come with his holy myriads,—

15 To execute judgment against all, And to convict all the ungodly— Of all their works of ungodliness, which they committed in ungodliness, And of all the hard things which they have spoken against him—sinners, ungodly!

In the last time there shall be mockers,—

But ye beloved!

Building yourselves up in your most holy faith, In Holy Spirit praying>

Yourselves in God’s love keep,—

Awaiting the mercy of our Lord Jesus Christ unto age-abiding life.

THE REVELATION.

Chapter 1.

1 The Revelation of Jesus Christ, which God gave to him, to point out unto his servants the things which must needs come to pass with speed; and he shewed them by signs, sending through his messenger, unto his servant John; who bare witness as to the word of God, and the witness of Jesus Christ,—whatsoever things he saw.

3 Happy! he that readeth, and they who hear, the words of the prophecy, and keep the things therein written; for [the season] is [near].

4 [John] unto the Seven' Assemblies which are in Asia> Favour to you, and peace, from—

Him who Is,

And who Was, and who is Coming, and from—

The' Seven Spirits which are before his throne, and from—

Jesus Christ,—

The Faithful Witness.

The Firstborn of the Dead, and The Ruler of the Kings of the Earth.

<Unto him that loveth us, and loosed us out of our sins with his blood,—and he hath made us [to be] a kingdom—priests unto his God and Father> [Unto him] be the glory, and the dominion, unto the ages. Amen.

7 Lo! he cometh with the clouds, and every' eye shall see him, such also as pierced him; and all the tribes of the land shall smite themselves for him. Yea! Amen.

8 [I] am [the A], and [the Z], saith the Lord,—[the God who Is, and who Was, and who is Coming], [The Almighty].

9 [I, John] <your brother, and partaker with you in the tribulation and kingdom and endurance in Jesus> came to be in the isle that is called Patmos, because of the word of God, and the witness of Jesus. I came to be in Spirit, in the Lord’s Day, and heard, behind me, a loud voice, as of a trumpet, saying—

[What thou seest] write in a scroll, and send unto the Seven' Assemblies,—unto Ephesus, and unto Smyrna, and unto Pergamum,—and unto Thyatira, and unto Sardis, and unto Philadelphia,—and unto Laodicea.

12 And I turned round, to see the Voice which was speaking with me, and [having turned] I saw Seven' Lamps of gold; and [in the midst of the lamps] One like unto a Son of Man:—

[Clothed] with a robe, reaching to the feet, and girt about at the breasts with a girdle of gold;

And his head and hair ||white, like white wool—like snow||,

And his eyes like a flame of fire,

And his feet like unto glowing copper, [as if in a furnace refined],

And his voice like a sound of many waters,

15 And [having in his right' hand] seven stars,
And out of his mouth| [a sharp, two-edged sword| going forth;
And his whole appearance| as when [the sun]
shineth in its strength.|

And when I saw him| I fell at his feet as dead,| and he laid his right hand upon me, saying—
Do not fear!|
[I] am the First, and the Last,|
And I became dead;—
And lo! living am I, unto the ages of ages,
And have the keys of death and of hades.

Write, therefore—
What things thou hast seen and what they are;| And what things are about to come to pass
after these things:|
The seven stars of the seven' assemblies,| are |messengers| of the seven' assemblies,
And the seven lamps| are |seven' assemblies|

Chapter 2.

<Unto the messenger of the assembly |in Ephesus|> write:—
[These things]| saith he that holdeth the seven' stars in his right hand,| he that walketh in the midst of the seven' lamps of gold:
I know thy works, and thy toil, and endurance, and that thou canst not bear bad men, and thou hast tried them who were affirming themselves to be apostles, and they were not, and hast found them false;| and thou hast |endurance|, and hast borne for the sake of my name, and hast not grown weary.
Nevertheless, I have against thee, that |thy first love| thou hast left.

Remember, therefore, whence thou hast fallen, and repent, and do |thy first' works;| otherwise I come unto thee, and will remove thy lamp out of its place, except thou repent.
But |this| thou hast, that thou hastest the works of the Nicolaitanes, which |I also| hate.
[He that hath an ear]| let him hear what |the Spirit| is saying unto the assemblies.|
Unto him that overcometh|—I will give |unto him| to eat of the tree of life, which is in the paradise of God.

And <unto the messenger of the assembly |in Smyrna|> write:—
These things| saith the first and the last,| who became dead, and lived:
I know thy tribulation, and destitution, nevertheless thou art |rich|, and the profane speech from among them who affirm that they themselves are |Jews|, and they are not, but a synagogue of Satan.
Do not fear the things which thou art about to suffer. Lo! the adversary is about to cast some of you into prison, that ye may be tried, and may have tribulation ten days. Become thou faithful until death, and I will give thee the crown of life.
[He that hath an ear]| let him hear what |the Spirit| is saying unto the assemblies.
[He that overcometh]| shall in nowise be injured by reason of the second death.

And <unto the messenger of the assembly |in Pergamum|> write:—
These things| saith he that hath the sharp, two-edged sword:
I know where thou dwellest, where |the throne of Satan| is; and thou art holding fast my name, and didst not deny my faith, even in the days of Antipas, my witness, my faithful one, who was killed near you, where |Satan| dwelleth.

Nevertheless, I have against thee, a few things,—that thou hast there, such as hold fast the teaching of Balaam,—\textsuperscript{a} who went on to teach Balak to throw a cause of stumbling before the sons of Israel, to eat idol-sacrifices and to commit lewdness: \textsuperscript{15} [thus] even [thou] hast such as hold fast the teaching of the Nicolaitanes [in like manner].

Repent, therefore, [otherwise] I come unto thee speedily,—and will fight against them, with the sword of my mouth.

[|He that hath an ear| let him hear what [the Spirit] is saying unto the assemblies. \textsuperscript{b}][|Unto him that overcometh| I will give [unto him] of the hidden manna, and I will give unto him a white stone, and [upon the stone] a new name\textsuperscript{c} written, which [no one] knoweth, save he that receiveth it.

And \textsuperscript{d}unto the messenger of the assembly [in Thyatira]> write:—

||These things\textsuperscript{e} saith the Son of God, who hath his eyes like a flame of fire, and his feet like unto glowing copper\textsuperscript{f}; I know thy works, and thy love, and faith, and ministry, and endurance,—and that [thy last works] are more than the first.

Nevertheless, I have against thee, that thou sufferest the woman Jezebel, she who calleth herself a prophetess, and is teaching and leading astray my own servants to commit lewdness and to eat idol-sacrifices\textsuperscript{g}; and I gave her time, that she might repent, and she willeth not to repent out of her lewdness. Lo! I cast her into a bed, and them who are committing adultery with her, into great tribulation,—except they repent out of her works; \textsuperscript{h} and [her children] will I slay with death;—and all the assemblies shall get to know, that [I] am he that searcheth reins and hearts, and will give unto you, each one, according to your works.\textsuperscript{i}

But [unto you] I say,—the rest who are in Thyatira <as many as have not this teaching, such as have not come to know the deep things of Satan, as they say> I do not cast upon you any other burden; \textsuperscript{j} nevertheless <what ye have> hold fast, till I shall have come.

And [|he that overcometh, and keepeth throughout my works| I will |give unto him| authority over the nations; \textsuperscript{k} and he shall shepherd them with a sceptre of iron,—as vessels of earthenware are dashed in pieces:—\textsuperscript{l} as [|I also| have received from my Father. \textsuperscript{m} And I will give unto him the morning star.\textsuperscript{n}

Chapter 3.

And \textsuperscript{o}unto the messenger of the assembly [in Sardis]> write:—

||These things\textsuperscript{p} saith he that hath the seven Spirits of God,\textsuperscript{q} and the seven stars\textsuperscript{r}: I know thy works,—that [a name] thou hast, that thou art living, and art [dead].

Become thou watchful, and strengthen the things that remain, that were about to die; for I have not found thy works fulfilled before my God. \textsuperscript{s} Remember, therefore, how thou hast received, and didst hear, and keep it and repent. <If then thou shalt not watch> I will have come as a thief, \textsuperscript{t} and in nowise shalt thou get to know [during what sort of hour] I will have come upon thee.

[|Nevertheless| thou hast a few' names, in Sardis, which have not defiled their garments; and they shall walk with me in white, because they are worthy].

||He that overcometh|| shall [thus] array himself in white garments, and in nowise will I blot out his name, from the book of life\textsuperscript{u}; and I will confess his name\textsuperscript{v} before my Father, and before his messengers.

8 I know thy works,—lo! I have set before thee an open door, as to which no one can shut it,—thou hast [a little'] strength and hast kept my word, and hast not denied my name.

9 Lo! I give them of the synagogue of Satan, who are affirming themselves to be [Jews] and are not,—but say what is false,—lo! I will cause them, that they shall have come, and shall bow down before thy feet, and shall get to know that [I] loved thee.e

10 <Because thou didst keep my word of endurance> [I also] will keep thee out of the hour of trial, which is about to come upon the whole habitable world, to try them that dwell upon the earth.

11 I come quickly: hold fast that which thou hast, that [no one] take thy crown.

14 And <unto the messenger of the assembly [in Laodicea] write:—

These things saith the Amen, the faithful and true witness, the beginning of the creation of God:

15 I know thy works;—that neither [cold] art thou, nor hot: I would that [cold] thou hadst been, or hot.

16 Thus I am, and have become enriched, and neither hot nor cold; I am about to vomit thee out of my mouth. <Because thou sayest [Rich] am I, and have become enriched, and of nothing> have I needed, and knowest not that [thou] art the wretched one, and pitiable, and destitute, and blind, and naked> I counsel thee to buy of me, gold refined by fire, that thou mayest become rich,—and white raiment, that thou mayest array thyself, and [the shame of thy nakedness] may not be made manifest,—and eye-salve, to anoint thine eyes, that thou mayest see. 19 [I] as many as I tenderly love> I convict and put under discipline: be zealous, therefore, and repent. 20 Lo! I am standing at the door, and knocking; <if anyone shall hearken unto my voice, and open the door> I will come in unto him, and will sup with him, and [|he] with [me].

21 <He that overcometh> I will give [unto him] to take his seat with me in my throne, as [I also] overcame, and took my seat with my Father in his throne.

22 <He that hath an ear> let him hear what [the Spirit] is saying unto the assemblies.

Chapter 4.

1 <After these things> I saw, and lo! a door set open in heaven; and [|the first voice which I heard as of a trumpet] speaking with me,p saying—Come up hither! and I will point out to thee the things which must needs come to pass.s

2 <After these things> straightway I came to be in Spirit, and lo! [a throne] stood in heaven and [upon the throne] was one sitting; and [he that was sitting] was like in appearance to a jasper stone and a sardius, and [there was] a rainbow round about the throne, like in appearance unto an emerald. 4 And [round about the throne] were four and twenty thrones; and [upon the thrones] four and twenty elders sitting, clothed in white

Chapter 5.

1 And I saw, upon the right hand of him that was sitting upon the throne, a scroll; written within, and on the back, sealed up with seven seals. 2
And I saw a mighty messenger, proclaiming with a loud voice—
Who is worthy to open the scroll, and to unloose
the seals thereof?

3 And [no one] was able <in heaven, or on earth, or under the earth> to open the scroll, or [to look thereon]. 4 And [W] began to weep much, because [no one, worthy] was found, to open the scroll, or
[to look thereon].

5 And [one of the elders] saith unto me—
Do not weep! Lo! the lion that is of the tribe of Judah, the root of David, hath overcome, to open the scroll and the seven' seals thereof.

6 And I saw <in the midst of the throne and of the four living creatures, and in the midst of the elders> [a Lamb] standing, showing that it had been slain,—having seven horns, and seven eyes,' which are the [seven] Spirits of God sent forth into all' the earth. 7 And he came, and at once took [it] out of the right hand of him that was sitting upon the throne. 8 And [when he took the scroll] the four' living creatures, and the four-and-twenty' edlers, fell down before the Lamb, having [each one] a harp, and bowls of gold full of incense,— which are the prayers of the saints; 9 and they sing' a new song,' saying—

|Worthy| art thou, to take the scroll and to open
the seals thereof;
Because thou wast slain,
And didst redeem unto God by thy blood [men] out of every tribe, and tongue, and people,
and nation,
10 And didst make them, unto our God, a kingdom and priests,—
And they reign' on the earth.

Chapter 7.

1 And [After this] I saw four’ messengers, standing at the four’ corners of the earth,5 holding fast the four’ winds6 of the earth, that no wind might blow upon the land, or upon the sea, or upon any’ tree. And I saw another’ messenger, ascending from the rising of the sun, holding the seal of the Living God; and he cried out with a loud voice unto the four’ messengers unto whom it had been given to injure the land and the sea, 3 saying—

Do not injure the land, or the sea, or the trees, until we have sealed7 the servants of our God upon their foreheads.8

And I heard the number of the sealed,—a hundred’ and forty-four thousand,—9 sealed out of every’ tribe of the sons of Israel:

9 [[After these things]] I saw, and lo! a great multitude,— which, to number it! no one was able,— of every’ nation, and [of all] tribes, and peoples, and tongues; standing before the throne, and before the Lamb; arrayed in white robes, and palm-branches in their hands;—

10 and they cry out with a loud voice, saying— Salvation unto our God who sitteth upon the throne,14 and unto the Lamb!15

And [all’ the messengers] were standing round about the throne and the elders and the four’ living creatures; and they fell down before the throne upon their faces, and rendered homage unto God, saying—

Amen!

The blessing, and the glory, and the wisdom, and the thanksgiving, and the honour, and the power, and the might,—

Be unto our God, unto the ages of ages.9

{Amen}!

And one of the elders began, saying unto me——

[These’ who are arrayed in white robes] who are they? and whence came they?

And I at once said to him——

My lord! [thou] knowest!

And he said unto me——

[These] are they who come out of the great tribulation, and they washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb;

15 [[For this cause]] are they before the throne of God, and are rendering divine service unto him, day and night, in his sanctuary; and he that sitteth upon the throne shall spread his tent over them;

They shall hunger no more, Neither thirst any more, Neither in any wise shall the sun fall upon them, nor any’ burning heat;
Chapter 8.

And <as soon as he opened the seventh seal> there came to be silence in heaven, as it were half an hour. And I saw the seven’ messengers which before God do stand; and there were given unto them seven’ trumpets.

And ||another’ messenger|| came, and took his stand at the altar, having a censer of gold: and there was given unto him much incense, that he might give it unto the prayers of all the saints, upon the altar of gold that is before the throne. And the smoke of the incense went up, with the prayers of the saints, out of the hand of the messenger before God. And the messenger at once took the censer, and filled it from the fire of the altar, and cast unto the earth; and there came to be silence in heaven, saying with a loud voice—

Woe! woe! woe! unto them that are dwelling upon the earth, by reason of the remaining’ voices of the trumpet, of the three’ messengers who are about to sound.

Chapter 9.

And |the third’ messenger| sounded; and there fell, out of heaven, a great star, burning as a torch, and it fell upon the third of the rivers, and upon the fountains of waters. And |the name of the star|| is called Wormwood; and the third of the waters became wormwood, because they were made bitter.

And |the fourth’ messenger| sounded; and the third of the sun was smitten, and the third of the moon, and the third of the stars,—in order that the third of them might be darkened, and the day might not shine for the third of it, and the night, in like manner.

And I saw, and I heard one’ eagle, flying in mid-heaven, saying with a loud voice—

And he opened the shaft of the abyss; and there came up a smoke out of the shaft, as the smoke of a great furnace, and the sun and the air were darkened by reason of the smoke of the shaft. And |out of the smoke| came forth |locusts| upon the earth; and there was given unto them licence, as the scorpions of the earth have licence. And it was bidden them that they should not injure the herbage of the earth, nor any’ green thing, nor any’ tree, but only the men who have not the seal of God upon their foreheads. And it was given unto them, that they should not slay them, but that they should be tormented five months; and |the torture of them| was as of a scorpion’s torture, whencsoever it smiteth a man.

12 And |the fourth’ messenger| sounded; and the third of the sun was smitten, and the third of the moon, and the third of the stars,—in order that the third of them might be darkened, and the day might not shine for the third of it, and the night, in like manner.

13 And I saw, and I heard one’ eagle, flying in mid-heaven, saying with a loud voice—

Woe! woe! woe! unto them that are dwelling upon the earth, by reason of the remaining’ voices of the trumpet, of the three’ messengers who are about to sound.
And |[in those days]| shall men seek death, and in nowise shall find it, 7 and shall covet to die, and death fleeth from them. 8 And ||[the likenesses of the locusts]| were like unto horses 9 prepared for battle; and |[upon their heads]| as it was crowns, like unto gold, and |[their faces]| were as the faces of men, 9 and |[they had hair]| as the hair of women, and |[their teeth]| were |as of lions|; 9 and they had breastplates as breastplates of iron, and |[the sound of their wings]| was as the sound of chariots of many horses, running into battle; 10 and they have tails like unto scorpions, [and stings], and |[in their tails]| is their licence to injure men five months.

11 They have over them [as king] the messenger of the abyss, whose name, in Hebrew, is Abaddôn ["=Destroyer"], and |[in the Greek]| he hath for name [Destroyer]. 12 |[The first’ Woe]| hath passed away, lo! there come yet’ two’ Woes, after these things. 8

13 And |[the sixth’ messenger]| sounded; and I heard one voice, from among[ the horns of the altar of gold which is before God, 14 saying unto the sixth’ messenger, who was holding the trumpet—

Loose the four’ messengers, who are bound at the great river Euphrates.| 8

15 And the four’ messengers were loosed, who had been prepared for the hour, and day, and month, and year, that they should slay the third of men.

16 And |[the number of the armies of the horsemen]| was ten thousand times ten thousand—I heard the number of them. 17 And |[thus]| I saw the horses in the vision,—and them who were sitting upon them, having breastplates as of fire and hyacinth and brimstone;—and |[the heads of the horses]| were as heads of lions, and |[out of their mouths]| come forth fire and smoke and brimstone:—

18 |[by these three’ plagues]| were slain, the third part of mankind, by reason of the fire and the smoke and the brimstone, that proceedeth out of their mouths; 19 for |[the licence of the horses]| is |in their mouth, and in their tails|, for |[their tails]| are like unto serpents, having heads, and |[with them]| they injure. 20 And <the rest of mankind who were not slain by these plagues> repented 9 not of the works of their hands,— 3 that they should not do homage unto the demons; 21 nor unto the idols of gold and of silver and of copper and of stone and of wood, which can neither see nor hear nor walk; 21

Neither repented they of their murders, or of their sorceries, or of their lewdnesses, 10 or of their thefts.

Chapter 10.

1 And I saw another’, a mighty messenger, descending out of heaven,—arrayed with a cloud, and [the rainbow] was upon his head, and [his face] was as the sun, and [his feet] were as pillars of fire, 2 and [he was] holding in his hand a little scroll, opened; 3 and he set his right foot upon the sea, and his left upon the land, 4 and cried out with a loud voice [just as a lion roareth]. And |[when he cried out]| the seven thunders’ uttered their own voices.

4 And |[when the seven thunders had spoken]| I was about to write, and I heard a voice out of heaven, saying—

Seal up the things which the seven’ thunders have uttered, and do not write [them]. 5

And |[the messenger, whom I saw standing upon the sea and upon the land]| lifted up his right hand unto heaven, 6 and sware <by him that liveth unto the ages of ages, who created heaven, and the things that are therein, and the earth, and the things that are therein, [and the sea, and the things that are therein]>— 20

|[Delay]| [no longer] shall there be; 7 but <in the days of the sounding of the seventh’ messenger, as soon as he is about to blow his trumpet> then shall have been completed the sacred secret of God as he told the good-news unto his own’ servants the prophets. 5

8 And ||the voice which I had heard out of heaven|| [I] again [heard] talking with me; and saying—
  Go take the opened scroll, that is in the hand of the messenger who is standing upon the sea and upon the land.
9 And I went away unto the messenger, asking him to give me the little scroll; and he saith unto me—Take it, and eat it up; and it shall embitter thy belly, but [in thy mouth] shall be sweet as honey.
10And I took the little scroll out of the hand of the messenger, and did eat it up; and it was [in my mouth] as honey [sweet], and [when I had eaten it] embittered was my belly.⁰ ¹¹ And they say unto me—
  It behoveth thee again' to prophesy against peoples and nations and tongues, and many kings.⁳

Chapter 11.

1 And there was given unto me a reed,⁴ like unto a staff, saying—
  Rise, and measure the Sanctuary of God,⁵ and the altar,⁶ and them who are doing homage therein; ² and [the court that is outside the Sanctuary] cast thou outside, and do not measure [it], because it hath been given unto the nations, and [the holy city] shall they tread under foot, ³ forty and two months.⁸
3 And I will give unto my two witnesses, that they shall prophesy, a thousand two hundred and sixty days, [arrayed in sackcloth],
4 ||These|| are the two' olive-trees, and the two'
lamps, which [before the Lord of the earth] do stand.⁹ ⁵ And <if any one ||upon them||
chooseth to inflict injury [fire] cometh forth out of their mouth, and devoureth their enemies; and <if anyone shall choose ||upon them|| to inflict injury ||thus|| must he be slain.

³ And [the third Woe|| cometh speedily.
⁴ And <as soon as they have completed their witnessing> [the wild-beast that is to come up out of the abyss] will make war with them, and overcome them, and they who are dwelling upon the earth|| rejoice over them, and make merry, and [gifts] will they send one to another,—p because [these' two' prophets] tormented them that were dwelling upon the earth.
11 And <after {the} three' days and a half> [a spirit of life from God] entered within them, and they stood upon their feet; and [great fear] fell upon them who were beholding them.
12 And they heard a loud voice out of heaven,
saying unto them—
  Come up hither!
And they went up into heaven,⁸ in the cloud, and [their enemies] beheld them.
13 And [in that' hour] there came to be a great earthquake; and [the tenth of the city] fell, and there were slain, in the earthquake, names of men—seven thousand. And [the rest] became [greatly afraid], and gave glory unto the God of heaven.⁹

And [the seventh' messenger] sounded; and there came to be loud voices in heaven, saying—

||The kingdom of the world|| hath become [the kingdom] of our Lord\(^a\) and of his Christ,\(^b\) and he shall reign unto the ages of ages.\(^c\)

And <the twenty-four elders who [before God] do sit upon their thrones>\(^d\) fell down upon their faces, and rendered homage unto God,\(^e\) saying—

We give thanks unto thee, O Lord God, the Almighty;\(^f\) Who is\(^g\) and Who was; because thou hast taken thy great power, and hast become king.\(^h\)

And ||the nations|| were angered\(^i\); and thine anger [came], and the fit time of the dead, to be vindicated,\(^j\) and to give their reward unto thy servants the prophets,\(^k\) and unto the saints, and unto them who revere thy name—the small and the great—\(^l\) and to despoil them who were despoiling the earth.

And the sanctuary of God which is in heaven \(\text{was opened}\), and the ark of his covenant in his sanctuary\(^m\) [appeared], and there came to be lightnings, and voices, and thunderings, and an earthquake, and great hail.\(^n\)

Chapter 12.

And ||a great sign|| appeared in heaven: a woman arrayed with the sun, and [the moon] beneath her feet, and upon her head a crown of twelve stars; and she was with child, and cried out, being in pangs and in anguish to bring forth.\(^o\) And there appeared another' sign in heaven; and lo! a great red dragon,—\(^p\) having seven heads and ten horns,\(^q\) and [upon his heads] seven' diadems; \(\text{and [his tail] draweth the third part of the stars of heaven, and did cast them to the earth.}\)\(^r\) And [the dragon] stood before the woman who was about to bring forth, that <as soon as she should bring forth> he might devour ||her child||.\(^s\) And she brought forth a son, a manchild,' who was about\(\text{ to shepherd all' the nations with a sceptre of iron};^t\) and her child was caught away unto God and unto his throne.\(^u\) And ||the woman|| fled into the desert, where she hath a place prepared of God, that [there] they should nourish her a thousand, two hundred, and sixty days.\(^v\)

And there came to be war in heaven: \(\text{Michael}^w\) and his messengers [going forth] to war with the dragon; and [the dragon] fought, and his messengers; \(\text{and he prevailed not, neither was place found for them, any longer, in heaven.}\) And the great dragon was cast out,—the ancient serpent,\(^x\) he that is called Adversary and the Satan,\(^y\) that deceiveth the whole habitable world,—he was cast to the earth, and his messengers [with him] were cast.\(^z\) And I heard a loud voice in heaven,\(^{aa}\) saying—

||Now|| hath come the salvation, and the power, and the kingdom of our God, and the authority\(^b\) of his Christ;

Because the accuser of our brethren hath been cast out, who was accusing them before our God day and night;

And [they] overcame him by reason of the blood of the Lamb, and by reason of their witnessing' word, and they loved not their life [even unto death].

||For this cause|| be joyful, O heavens,\(^ba\) and ye who [therein] are tabernacling. Woe! unto the earth, and the sea, because the Adversary hath come down unto you, having great wrath—knowing that [but a little* season]\(^bb\) he hath.

And <when the dragon saw that he was cast to the earth> he pursued the woman who had brought forth the manchild.\(^bc\) And there were given unto the woman the two' wings of the great eagle, that she might fly into the desert, into her place,—where she is nourished, a season and seasons and half a season, from the face of the serpent. And the serpent cast out of his mouth, after the woman, water as a river, that he might cause her to be carried away by the stream. And the earth helped the woman, and the earth opened her mouth, and swallowed up the river which the dragon cast out of his mouth. And the dragon was angered against the woman, and went away to make war with the rest of her seed—with them who were keeping the commandments of God, and holding the witness of Jesus;—and he stood upon the sand of the sea.

Chapter 13.

1 And I saw, out of the sea a wild-beast coming up; having ten horns, and seven heads, and upon his horns ten diadems, and upon his heads names of blasphemy. And [the beast which I saw] was like unto a leopard; and [his feet] as of a bear; and [his mouth] as the mouth of a lion. And the dragon gave unto him his power, and his throne, and great authority. And [I saw] one of his heads, showing that it had been slain unto death, and [the stroke of his death] was healed. And the whole earth marveled after the wild-beast,

4 and did homage unto the dragon, because he gave his authority unto the wild-beast; and they did homage unto the wild-beast, saying—Who is like unto the wild-beast? and Who can make war with him?

5 And there was given unto him, a mouth speaking great things and blasphemies; and it was given unto him to act, forty and two months. And he opened his mouth for blasphemy against God, to blaspheme his name, and his tent,—them who in heaven were tabernacling. {And it was given unto him, to make war with the saints, and to overcome them;} and there was given him, authority against every tribe and people and tongue and nation. And all they who are dwelling upon the earth will do homage unto him,—[every one] whose name is not written in the scroll of life of the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world. If any-one hath an ear let him hear.

10 If anyone [carrieth] into captivity into captivity he goeth away. If anyone [with a sword] doth slay he must with a sword be slain.

||Here|| is the endurance and the faith of the saints. And I saw another wild-beast, coming up out of the earth; and he had two horns, like unto a lamb, and began speaking as a dragon. And [all the authority of the first wild-beast] he useth before him; and causeth the earth, and them who therein are dwelling, that they shall do homage unto the first wild-beast, [whose stroke of death] was healed. And he doeth great signs, so that [even fire] he causeth to be coming down unto the earth before men; and he deceiveth them who are dwelling upon the earth, by reason of the signs which it was given him to do before the wild-beast,—saying unto them who are dwelling upon the earth, that they should make an image unto the wild-beast who hath the stroke of the sword, and yet did live. And it was given unto it, to give spirit unto the image of the wild-beast, in order that the image of the wild-beast should both speak and should cause that [as many as should not do homage unto the image] of the wild-beast should be slain. And he causeth all—the small and the great, and the rich and the poor, and the free and the bond,—that they should give unto them a

Chapter 14.
1 And I saw, and lo! [the Lamb| standing upon the mount Zion,—and [with him] a hundred and forty-four thousand,\(^a\) having his name and his Father's name written upon their foreheads.\(^b\) 2 And I heard a sound out of heaven, as the sound of many waters,\(^d\) and as the sound of loud thunders; and [the sound which I heard] was as of harp-singers harping with their harps. 3 And they sing\(^c\) as it were a new song\(^d\) before the throne, and before the four' living creatures and the elders. And [no one| was able to learn the song, save the hundred and forty-four thousand, who had been redeemed from the earth.

4 [[These| are they [who with women were not defiled, for they are [virgin].
[These| are they who follow the Lamb whithersoever he is going.

[These| were redeemed from mankind, as a firstrate unto God and the Lamb; \(^g\) and [in their mouth| was found no falsehood,—\(^h\) [faultless] they are.

6 And I saw another messenger, flying in mid-heaven, having an age-abiding glad-message to announce unto them who are dwelling upon the earth, even unto every nation and tribe and tongue and people, \(^i\) saying with a loud voice,— Fear God and give him glory, because the hour of his judging is come; and do homage unto him that made heaven and the earth and sea\(^b\) and fountains of waters.

8 And [another', a second' [messenger]] followed,
saying—

Fallen! fallen! is Babylon\(^i\) the great, who <of the wine of the wrath of her lewdness> hath caused all' the nations to drink.

9 And [another, \(^j\) a third messenger] followed them, saying with a loud voice—

<If anyone doeth homage unto the beast and his image, and receiveth a mark upon his forehead, or upon his hand> \(^k\) [he also] shall drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is prepared, unmixed, in the cup of his anger,—\(^l\) and he shall be tormented with fire and brimstone,\(^k\)
before holy messengers and before the Lamb;

And [the sound of their torment] unto ages of ages ascended;

And they have no rest day or night\(^j\) who do homage unto the beast and his image, or if anyone receiveth the mark of his name.

12 [[Here] is [the endurance of the saints],—\(^m\) they who keep the commandments of God and the faith of Jesus.

13 And I heard a voice out of heaven, saying—Write!

[Happy| the dead who [in the Lord] do die [from henceforth].

Yea! (saith the Spirit) that they may rest from their toils, for [their works] do follow with them.

14 And I saw, and lo! a white cloud, and [upon the cloud] one sitting like unto a son of man\(^n\) having [upon his head] a crown of gold, and [in his hand] a sharp sickle.

15 And [another messenger] came forth out of the sanctuary, crying out with a loud voice, unto him that was sitting upon the cloud—

Thrust in thy sickle, and reap; because the hour to reap is come, because the harvest of the earth is ripe.\(^o\)

16 And he that was sitting upon the cloud [thrust in] his sickle upon the earth; and the earth was reaped.

17 And [another messenger] came forth out of the sanctuary that is in heaven,—[he also] having a sharp sickle.

19 And the messenger thrust in his sickle into the earth, and gathered the vine of the earth, and cast [it] into the great wine-press of the wrath of God.

20 And the wine-press was trodden outside the city, and there came forth blood out of the wine-press, even unto the bits of the horses, at a distance of a thousand six hundred furlongs.

Chapter 15.

1 And I saw another sign in heaven, great and marvellous,—seven messengers having seven plagues [the last], because [in them] was ended the wrath of God. 2 And I saw as a glassy sea mingled with fire, and them who escape victorious from the beast, and from his image, and from the number of his name, standing upon the glassy sea, having harps of God; 3 and they sing the song of Moses the servant of God 4 and the song of the Lamb, saying—

Great and marvellous are thy works; 5 Lord, God, the Almighty! 6 Righteous and true are thy ways; 7 O King of the ages! 8 Who shall in any wise not be put in fear; 9 O Lord, and glorify thy name,— Because [alone] full of lovingkindness; Because [all] the nations will have come, and will do homage before thee, Because [thy righteous deeds] were made manifest?

5 And after these things I saw, and the sanctuary of The Tent of Witness in heaven was opened; 6 and the seven messengers who had the seven plagues came forth out of the sanctuary cloathed with a [precious] stone, pure, bright, and girt about the breasts with girdles of gold. 7 And one of the four living creatures gave, unto the seven messengers, seven golden bowls, full of the wrath of God who liveth unto the ages of ages. 8 And the sanctuary was filled with smoke by reason of the glory of God, and by reason of his power; and [no one] was able to enter into the sanctuary, until the seven plagues of the seven messengers should be ended.

Chapter 16.

1 And I heard a loud voice, out of the sanctuary, saying unto the seven messengers—

Go, and be pouring out the seven bowls of the wrath of God unto the earth.

2 And the first departed, and poured out his bowl unto the earth; and there came to be a baneful and painful ulcer, upon the men who had the mark of the beast, and them who were doing homage unto his image.

3 And [the second] poured out his bowl into the sea; and it became blood, as of a dead man, and every living soul died— as regardeth the things in the sea.

4 And [the third] poured out his bowl into the rivers, and the fountains of waters; and they beast, full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns. And [the woman] was arrayed with purple and scarlet, and decked with gold and precious stone and pearls,—having a cup of gold in her hand, full of abominations and the impurities of her lewdness; and [upon her forehead] a name written, a secret:

Babylon the great, the Mother of the Harlots and of the Abominations of the Earth.

And I saw the woman, drunk with the blood of the saints, and with the blood of the witnesses of Jesus. And I was astonished, when I beheld her, with great astonishment. And the messenger said unto me—Wherefore wast thou astonished? || will tell thee the secret of the woman, and of the wild-beast that carrieth her, which hath the seven heads and the ten horns.

||The wild-beast which thou sawest was, and is not, and is about to come up out of the abyss, and into [destruction] goeth away. And they who are dwelling upon the earth, whose name is not written upon the book of life from the foundation of the world, will be astonished, when they see the wild-beast, because it was, and is not, and shall be present.

||Here is the mind that hath wisdom. || The seven heads are seven mountains whereupon the woman sitteth; and they are seven kings: [the five] have fallen, [the one] is, [the other] hath not yet come; and [whenever he shall come] || must he remain, and the wild-beast which was and is not, || is the eighth, and is of the seven, and into destruction goeth away.

And || the ten horns which thou sawest || are ten kings,—who, indeed, have not received [sovereignty] as yet, but || as kings, for one hour || shall receive, with the wild-beast. || These have one mind, and || their power and authority || unto the wild-beast they give. || These || with the Lamb will make war; and || the Lamb will overcome them, because he is Lord of lords, and King of kings,—and || they who are with him || are called and chosen and faithful.

And he saith unto me—|| The waters which thou sawest, where the harlot sitteth || are peoples and multitudes and nations and tongues.

And the ten horns which thou sawest, and the wild-beast || these || shall hate the harlot, and || desolate shall make her, and naked, and || flesh shall they eat, and || herself shall they burn up with fire.

For || God || hath put into their hearts, to do his mind, and to do one mind,—and to give their sovereignty unto the wild-beast, until the words of God shall be completed.

And || the woman whom thou sawest || is the great city, which hath sovereignty over the kings of the earth.

Chapter 18.

|| After these things || I saw another messenger, coming down out of heaven,—having great authority; and || the earth was illuminated with his glory. Because <by reason of the wine> of the wrath of her lewdness> have all the nations fallen, and || the kings of the earth || with her did commit lewdness, and || the merchants of the earth || by

APPENDIX.

ABYSS.

It is easy to say that this word, according to its derivation, signifies “bottomless”; and that it is sometimes employed, more generally, to denote “unfathomed,” “boundless,” “enormous”; but its chief interest, as a N. T. word, lies in the question how far it is synonymous with “hades.” Suffice it here to connect it with that larger subject, and to observe that in the Christian Writings it occurs only in the following places: Lu. viii. 31; Ro. x. 7; Rev. ix. 1, 2, 11; xi. 7; xvii. 8; xx. 1, 3.

AGE.

To trace the Biblical development of the Ages is to gain a point from which many far-reaching observations may be made. The first thing to note is, that the idea of an “age” is one of comparatively slow growth. The Biblical parent of the Greek aion is the Hebrew olām, and the root conception of olām is concealed duration. Concealed duration is naturally unknown and unbounded; and it should be carefully remembered that it is from this radical conception of the nouns olām and aion that the force of the qualifying terms l’olām and aionios springs. (See below on Age-abiding.) The second thing to observe is, that duration does not fall into “ages” until it acquires character, and there is a transition of the times from one character into another. Only by degrees can a period round itself off into a “golden age,” and then, by some observable transition, the time become so changed as to appear as only a “silver age” in comparison; or “an age of barbarism” undergo such an amelioration as to become gradually merged into “an age of civilisation.” Accordingly it is not till we get far on in the O. T. that we meet with olāmim in the plural. The third thing to notice is, that “ages” may be so modified by local conditions as to vary with country and sphere; so that the ages in different lands may be far from simultaneous. While one country is advancing in civilisation or religion, another may be receding. A golden age may not be worldwide; a barbaric period may not afflict all lands at once; and an age of activity in one direction may be an age of stagnation or retrogression in another. In fine, ages may overlap and interlace and interchange; and the result may be one of the utmost complexity, calling for the most thoughtful and guarded discrimination. “The patriarchal age” may, for the Hebrews, be changed into “the Mosaic,” and yet for other nations remain patriarchal sill. “The Mosaic age” naturally embraces the smaller ages of the Judges, of the Kings, of the Dispersion. The final Christian age may resolve itself into the age of the Church, to be followed by the age of the Kingdom, Nay, we may go further and affirm, that all ages, up to a given point, may be predominantly evil, and then, from that point onward, be wholly or prevalingly good. When the foregoing factors of thought have been patiently digested, the student to whom the subject is new may find it comparatively easy to accommodate his mind to the crowning discrimination which can be traced in the Christian Scriptures, and in tracing which the eye will rest on the following land-marks. “This age” and “the coming” are terms which describe a distinction which runs through the New Testament (Mt xii. 32; Eph. i. 21). (i.) “This Age” is characterised as one of anxieties (Mt. xii. 24–30, 36–43); of persecutions (Mk. x. 30); of a need for nonconformity (Ro. xii. 2; Mt. ii. 12); of the crucifying of the Lord of glory by its rulers (1 Co. ii. 8); of the deification of Satan (2 Co. iv. 4); of the prevalence of evil (Gal. i. 4, cp. Eph. ii. 2; 2 Tim. iv. 10). (ii.) “The coming age” will be signalled by the forthshining of the glory of the Lord (Tt. ii. 13; 1 Co. xv. 23); the resurrection from among the dead (Lu. xx. 35); the bestowal of age-abiding life (Mk. x. 30; Lu. xviii. 30); and the forthshining of the righteous in the kingdom (Mt. xiii. 39, 43).—“The conclusion of the age” is spoken of in Mt. xiii. 39, 40, 49; xxiv. 3; xxviii. 20; “the conjunction of the ages,” Heb. ix. 26; and “the ends of the ages,” 1 Co. x. 11. (Cp. note on “Age-abiding” below.)

AGE-ABIDING.

Age-abiding: that is, lasting for an indefinite or perpetual age; or abiding from age to age. The reasons for adopting this rendering of the Greek adjective aionios are: (i.) to keep up a close connection with the word “age” as the translation, in this New Testament, of the cognate noun aion; and (ii.) to avoid, as too restricted, the confinement of the idea to any particular, limited age. It is true that aion does not of itself mean absolute eternity, otherwise it would not submit to be multiplied by itself, as in the familiar phrase “aions of aions,” which would then be equivalent to “eternities of eternities”; and it is further true, that in the history of divine revelation, aion sometimes puts a dispensational limit upon itself, so far as that the dawn of a new aion or “age” serves to close and exclude an old aion or “age,” the end of which was aforetime concealed in the mists of an undefined futurity (cp. note on “Age,” above). But, with all this, it is most important to remember that “age” is not the primary meaning of aion: rather, “duration indefinitely extended.” Moreover, it seems to be as clothed with this more primitive significance, that the qualifying word aionios comes into use. The noun aion itself clings to this fundamental notion in the well known idiomatic phrase eis ton aionon (lit. “unto” or “unto the age”), in the interpretation of which, if the force of aion be ignored, and each word be pressed on its individual merits, the reader will be continually teased by feeling that he is being referred to some particular and preeminent age, which ought to be well known, while all the time it is unknown. He may say: “‘Unto the age’—unto what age?” and there will be nothing in context or circumstance to tell him; whereas, once assume the existence of an idiom, and then all perplexity is at an end—l’olām, aionios and eis ton aionon become very nearly equivalent expressions, the essence of which is “indefinite continuance.” The Hebrew servant’s bondage, for example, is to be indefinitely prolonged: it is to be for life—the end of which cannot be seen (Exo. xxi. 6). So also the Hebrew priesthood was appointed for indefinite continuance, when as yet it could not be foreseen that a change in the priesthood would necessitate a change in the law (Exo. xl. 15; He. vii. 12). The surrender of Samuel, by his mother, to the priestly service is to be taken as equally undefined (1 S. 1. 22). To the barrenness of the fig-tree no limit can be assigned (Mt. xxi. 19). The son does not cease to be welcome in his father’s house, save by externally induced bounds to possibility (Jn. viii. 35). Upon the “aionion correction” (Mt. xxi. 46) no arbitrary limit can be laid,—unless indeed the essential nature of “correction” implies it—aionios of itself utterly refuses to settle the dread question. If the equally “aionion life” is to be endless, that is best made out from the mighty negatives of Scripture (“immortal,” “incorruptible,” “unfading”; 1 Co. xv. 51–54; 1 P. i. 4), and from the correlative promise, “Because I live ye also shall live” (Jn. xiv. 19; He. vii. 16).

ANGEL. See MESSENGER.

ASSEMBLY.

It is well-known that the Greek word for “Church” is ecclesia; and that ecclesia strictly and fully means “called-out assembly;” but inasmuch as a phrase only very awkwardly represents a single word, and by frequent repetition may become wearisome, not to say even misleading (by forcing one by externally induced bounds to possibility (Jn. viii. 35) Upon the "assembly"; but inasmuch as a phrase only very awkwardly represents a single word, and by frequent repetition may become wearisome, not to say even misleading (by forcing one by externally induced bounds to possibility (Jn. viii. 35) Upon the “aionion correction” (Mt. xxi. 46) no arbitrary limit can be laid,—unless indeed the essential nature of “correction” implies it—aionios of itself utterly refuses to settle the dread question. If the equally “aionion life” is to be endless, that is best made out from the mighty negatives of Scripture (“immortal,” “incorruptible,” “unfading”; 1 Co. xv. 51–54; 1 P. i. 4), and from the correlative promise, “Because I live ye also shall live” (Jn. xiv. 19; He. vii. 16).

BAPTISM. See IMMERSION.

BEELZEBUL (BEELZEBOUl.).

This and not “Beelzebub” is the form ordinarily found in Greek New Testaments; but Westcott and Hort print the name as “Beelzeboul,” after the Sinai and Vatican MSS., and think there is “no sufficient reason for discarding this form of an obscure name, unknown except from the N. T. ” They go on to say that “In the N. T. Beelzeboul has no Greek authority.” (Appendix to Introduction, p. 159.) “Baal-zebul,” we may observe, however, is found in 2 K. i. 2, 3, 6, and signifies “Lord of flies.” Baal-zebul, according to Fuerst, means “Lord of the heavenly dwelling.” Cp. 2 Co. iv. 4; Eph. ii. 2. Dr. Davies, however, in his Heb. Lex. gives a different account of the word Beelzeboul. He says: “The proper name baalzebul, beelzeboul, Mt. x. 25, prob. means lord of dung, zeboul being here akin to Chal. zebel, dung; the slight change from zebub serving perh. to express contempt for the Philistine god, and perh. alluding to the connection between flies and dung or putrid things.” Heb. Lex. p. 176.

CHRIST.

Or, “Anointed”—a term to be understood by the types and prophecies found in Exo. xxx. 22–33; 1 S. x. 1; xvi. 13; xxiv. 6; Ps ii. 2; xlv. 7; Is. xi. 2–5; b' rēth 1–3; Dan. ix. 25, 26; and by the great fact stated in Mt. iii. 16; Acts iv. 27; x. 38. Sometimes the word is used as a simple appellative, or descriptive epithet, in which case the meaning comes to the front, and the word should be translated; more commonly, however, the word is an official title approaching a proper name: hence, in the majority of its occurrences, it is here merely transferred. It is impossible to be absolutely sure in all cases whether it should be translated or whether it should be transferred. W and H say: “We doubt whether the appellative force, with its various associations and implications, is ever entirely lost in the New Testament, and are convinced that the number of passages is small in which Messiahship, of course in the enlarged apostolic sense, is not the principal intention of the word.” (Intro p. 317.) When we reflect that proper names themselves are now and again used with an evident reference to their meaning, and yet that to insist on always translating proper names would work such havoc in literature as to make intelligible history well-nigh impossible, we may become tolerant with a translator even if he should occasionally err in dealing with significant titles,—sometimes (it may be thought) translating where he should transfer, and at other times transferring where he should rather translate. Something, moreover, may be left to the expositor, who will do well to remind his hearers of the meaning of titles and even proper names whenever he feels that so to do will add to the luminousness and force of the text before him.—For the intimate relation between the anointing of the Head and that of the Body, see Ps. cxxxiii. 2; 2 Co. i. 21, and 1 Jn. ii. 20, 27.

COVENANT.

The N. T. word diathēkē signifies “covenant,” because it is the Sep. rendering of the Heb. b'rēth which everywhere in the O. T. means covenant and covenant only. This argument from Septuagintal usage is immensely strengthened by observing along what a highway of Divine dealing the word diathēkē passes into the N. T. Let us look at these two points in succession. That “covenant” is the meaning of b'rēth is sufficiently attested by the fact that the Oxford “Gesenius” assigns to it no other. If, however, we pass from lexical authority to actual usage, we discover the most abundant and varied evidence that “covenant” is indeed the one meaning of b'rēth. It is a word in common use to denote all sorts of covenants between all sorts of persons: e.g. between Abraham and Amorites (Gen. xiv. 13), Jacob and Laban (xxxi. 44), Joshua and Gibeonites (Jos. ix. 6–16), Solomon and Hiram (1 K. v. 12)—to instance only a few examples out of many. In some cases, moreover, there is such a passing from the human to the divine, or from the divine to the human, as to fix the sense in the higher application by the undeniable force of the lower reference: “I will never break my covenant (b'rēth, diathēkē) with you; and ye shall make no covenant (b'rēth, diathēkē) with the inhabitants of this land” (Jdg. ii. 1, 2). And it should be observed that never once, as between man and man, does b'rēth mean a “testament” or “will,” to come into force when the testator is dead. Advancing now to the second point. The word diathēkē first appears in the N. T. over the Lord’s table, from the lips of the Lord himself: “This is my blood of the diathēkē” (Mt. xxvi. 28; Mk. xiv. 24); The words “blood of the diathēkē” are from Exo. xxiv. 8; from which passage we learn that there was a diathēkē entered into at Sinai—was it a “testament” or a “covenant”? According to Lu. xxii. 20 and 1 Co. xi. 25, the word “new” was prefixed to diathēkē; and this at once sends us to Jer. xxxi. 31, where old and new are brought into contrast (cp. He. viii. 13). This then is the highway by which the word diathēkē comes into our Christian Scriptures—from Moses by way of Jeremiah into the upper room at Jerusalem. Under these circumstances it is confidently submitted that the same meaning must hold good throughout: if it was a “testament” at the Last Supper, then it must have been a “testament” in Jeremiah, and a “testament” in Exodus—which even the A.V. does not affirm; whereas, working in the opposite direction, if it was a “covenant” in Exodus and a “covenant” in Jeremiah, as even the A.V. has it, then the word must have meant “covenant” and not “testament” on the lips of our Lord and in the letter of His Apostle. It is granted that diathēkē in the classics sometimes means “will;” but heathen writings can be of no avail to darken the line of light which shines through our sacred classics. The only legitimate doubt is whether the writer to the Hebrews does or does not for just a moment (chap. ix. 16, 17) step aside from the sacred usage to the profane. Even if he does, it is only for a moment; it being clear, for reasons given above, that the word “covenant” certainly ought to stand in verses 15 and 20. In this N. T. the one word has been carried through the whole passage, not even excepting verses 16 and 17; since it was felt, that it may have been assumed by the sacred writer that no covenant between man and man was at any time regarded as final and binding until in someway a solemnising death had been interposed; not the actual death, of course, of the covenanting parties, but a representative death: as if to proclaim once for all that each party was as good as dead to any further change of mind, and as if to invoke the penalty of death on the violator of the compact. There was this further apprehension also: that even as between God and man, it may have been a part of the Divine condescension to freely accept the suggestion that the ever-Living One could as soon die as break his word. This is ground upon which the reverent mind would fain tread with the utmost caution; but when once the horror of a great darkness has come upon us for our sins, the stricken soul may be glad to see in the smoking hearth and torch of fire by which the patriarch Abraham was conducted into covenant relationship with God an impressive symbol of the Mystery of the Cross. As surely as God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself (2 C. v. 19), so surely does God himself lead the way into an abiding covenant of life and peace. Will the reader, before altogether declining this suggestion, very carefully consider the following three passages: namely Gen. xv. 7–21; Jer. xxxix. 18, 19; and Heb. xii. 20, 21. In any case, the foregoing considerations have influenced the present translator in declining to think it likely that the eloquent writer to the Hebrews would suddenly start aside from the sacred associations of the ancient Divine Covenants to strengthen his argument by an altogether unlooked-for and rather inconsequent allusion to ordinary testamentary dispositions. So much towards the settlement of the correct rendering. Once that is settled, there remains scope for the exercise of sweet reasonableness; since, even among men contracts are entered into with varying degrees of freedom. There may be, and often is, more authority to impose terms on the one side than there is liberty on the other to decline them; and yet the advantages of a truly covenanting transaction may by no means be lost.

DEMON.

Without entering upon the much-debated question as to who or what the demons of the N. T. were, the following points, if carefully observed, may prepare the reader for fuller investigation: first that demons are ranged under Satan as their ruler (Mt. xii. 24–28); second that they, or some of them, were “impure” (Mk. iii. 30; v. 8; Lu. iv. 33); third that they had an earlier perception of the truth that Jesus was the Son of God than had the men around him (Mk. i. 24; Lu. viii. 28); fourth that they had a dread of torment and a desire to avoid premature consignment thereto (Mt. vii. 29); fifth that they shrank from the “abyss” (Lu. viii. 31: see above, “Abbyss”); sixth that demon worship is noted as a fact in the Holy Scriptures (1 Co. x. 20; Rev. ix. 20); seventh that their knowledge of God causes them to “shudder” (Jas. ii. 19); and eighth that the Apostle Paul (in 1 Tim. iv. 1–3), makes a remarkable allusion to them, as the authors of seductive teaching, in which passage it is clear from the Greek that they are the demons who speak falsely, are caturised in their own consciences, forbid to marry, etc. Before dismissing this phase of the question, it should be observed in the following O. T. passages the word “demon” should appear: Lev. xvii. 7; Deu. xxxii. 17; 2 Ch. xi. 15; Ps. cvi. 37. At the same time it is right to remember the latitude with which the word was employed among heathen nations, among whom “demons” were sometimes regarded as deities not necessarily evil; else we may fail to see that the Apostle Paul was far from needlessly offending the Athenians, whom, of course, he wished to conciliate (Ac. xvii. 22).—In this version demons are never termed “devils.”

EVIL ONE.

The Greek ponērō may be either masculine or neuter; and therefore mean either “evil one” or “evil.” “But,” says Trench (Parables, p. 469), “the analogy of Mat. xiii. 19, 39; Ep. vi. 16; 2 Thess. iii. 3 would lead us to translate in the Lord’s prayer ponērō as a masculine. It was always so interpreted in the Greek Church.”

GEHENNA.

This word occurs only in the following places in the New Testament: Mt. v. 22, 29, 30; x. 28; xviii. 9; xxiii. 15, 33; Mk. ix. 43, 45, 47; Lu. xii. 5; Ja. iii. 6. The word itself seems to have been formed by abbreviation from the Hebrew phrase for “the valley of the son or sons of Hinnom” gey ben (b’ne)hinnom; then “valley of Hinnom,” gey hinnom; and so, at length, simply, ge–henna; Jer. vii. 32; 2 K. xxiii. 10; Ja. xv. 8. Hinnom, says Dr. Davies (Heb. Lex.), is “probably the proper name masculine of the man to whom the valley on the south side of Jerusalem once belonged, where children were sacrificed to Moloch.” Whether the N. T. use of the word does not point to something beyond the present life, must be left to the solemn consideration of the student. It would seem evident, in the N. T. at least, that a marked distinction exists between hades and gehenna; but whether the O. T. notion of “the lowest hades” did or did not approximate to the N. T. conception of gehenna, might perhaps be worthy of consideration.

GLAD–MESSAGE.

Or “good news,” “joyful-tidings”; but no English word, single or compound, seems equal to the beautiful Greek word εὐαγγελία (evangelion). “Glad-message” suits well the appointment of messengers (Mt. xvi. 15; Ro. x. 15); the notion of a trust (Gal. ii. 7; 1 Tim. i. 11); the purpose of a witness (Mt. xxiv. 14); and the claim or submission (Ro. x. 16; 1 P. iv. 17). But in teaching and preaching, synonyms may be effectively interchanged. Evangelion in the N. T. deals with: (1) the kingdom (Mt. iv. 23; ix. 35; xxiv. 14; Mk. i. 14, 15; Lu. iv. 43; viii. 1; xvi. 16; Ac. viii. 12, cp. xx. 25);—(2) “Jesus Christ” (Mk. i. 1; Lu. ii. 10; Ac. v. 42; viii. 12, 35; xi. 20; Ro. i. 9; 1 Co. ix. 12; 2 Co. ii. 12; Gal. i. 7, 16; Eph. iii. 8; Ph. i. 27; 1 Th. iii. 2; 2 Th. i. 8); (3) “God” Ro. i. 1; xv. 16; 2 Co. xi. 7)—(4) “the favour of God” (Ac. xx. 24);—(5) “the glory of God” (2 Co. iv. 4; 1 Tim. i. 11); (6) “peace” Ac. x. 16; Eph. ii. 17; vi. 15)—(7) “salvation” (Eph. i. 13); (8) “the word” (Ac. viii. 4)—(9) “the faith” (Gal. i. 23). It is described as a “great joy” (Lu. ii. 10) and—either general message, or a special one for a crisis—as “age abiding” (Rev. xiv. 6). We also read of the “word” (Ac. xv. 7), the “hope” (Col. i.23), the “truth” (Gal. ii. 14), the “readiness” (Eph. vi. 15), and the “sacred secret” (Eph. vi. 19) of the glad-message; and the Apostle Paul speaks of “my glad-message” (Ro. ii. 16; xvi. 25; 2 Tim. ii. 8), and of “our glad-message” (1 Th. i. 5; 2 Th. ii. 14). The word in the titles to the four evangelical narratives is understood to be traditional, the most ancient copies having simply “According to Matthew,” etc.; at the same time there is much force in the observation of Westcott and Hort (who head each narrative in the manner just described)—KATA MATTHAION, etc.,—but place the one word EUANGELION on a preliminary page by itself) that “In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God.” As the Greek word for this purpose. Whether the O. T. conception of hades or sheol is uniformly consistent with itself,—of this also the student can now form his own opinion. Let him only trace the word “hades” throughout, from Genesis to Revelation, and the whole matter will be before him; because, although there may be other words (such as “soul,” “death,” “grave,” etc.) which will have something to say or the subject, yet these other words will be sure to come well into view in the long line of contexts which will be found clustering about the one word “hades.”

IMMERSION.

Early in life the translator became convinced that the meaning of the Greek verb βάπτισεν is “to immerse;” He accordingly, in the first and second editions of this work, so rendered the word. Having met with nothing during the past twenty years to convict him of error in the course he then took, nothing is left for him but to continue the same rendering. Without entering upon the usual arguments employed by immersionists, he may mention, as an interesting fact, that the translators of the Hebrew version published by the Trinitarian Bible Society, have rendered baptizēn by the Hebrew word תָּבֵא (tūval), which it is well-known signifies “to dip.” Indeed the Oxford Gesenius, edited by Drs. Driver, Briggs and Brown, assigns to that word no other meaning than “dip” and “dye”; and as the latter has no relevancy to the ordinance instituted by Christ, we may take it as indisputable that the Trinitarian Bible Society, through means of this version, plainly teaches all converts from Judaism to Christianity that the duty of such Israelites as believe Jesus to be the promised Messiah is to be immersed into Him as their new leader. Plainly what is true for Jew is true also for Gentile.

JESUS.

It may be worth knowing that the J of this name is undoubtedly due to a combination of “Jehovah” with “salvation.” “Yah is help,” tersely says Dr. Davies, in explanation of the O. T. form of the same name (J=Y=Yah=Yahweh=Jehovah). Alone, this proves nothing, since it cannot mean that Joshua was a divine person; but it is competent to the sacred story to invest the name with a profoundlyer significance than it ever had before the advent of the Messiah (cp. Nu. xiii. 8, 16; Exo. xvii. 9; He. iv. 8; Mt. i. 21; Ph. ii. 9, 10).

JUDGE.

The biblical terms for “judge” and “judgment” become immensely more interesting when widened out to include the ideas, on the one hand, of vindicating the wronged, and on the other, of ruling in general.

KINGDOM.

The history of the King, is to a large extent the history of the Kingdom: promised, presented, rejected, taken into heaven and reserved there to await a more glorious revelation (cp. Is. ix. 6, 7; Mt. iii. 2; iv. 17; xxi. 43; Lu. xix. 11–27; 2 Tim. iv. 1; Rev. xvii. 14; xix. 16).

KNOW.

Important shades of meaning are: “get to know” (Jn. xvii. 3, 7, 8, 25), “understand” (1 Jn. ii. 3, 13; iv. 16; v. 20), and “approve,” “acknowledge,” (Ps. i. 6; Mt. vii. 23; Ro. viii. 29; 2 Tim. ii. 19).
MAMMON.

It is well-known that the word “mammon” denotes the Syrian god of riches. As that familiar term has practically become fossilised, and its application to deified wealth has become so blunted as to be scarcely felt, it has been deemed better to use, instead, the word Riches with a capital, so restoring to the Master’s warning something of the force he intended it to wield. The word “mammon” occurs in the following places only: Mt. vi. 24; Lu. xvi. 9, 11, 13.

MARK, END OF THE GOSPEL ACCORDING TO.

After a lengthened examination of the evidence, internal, intrinsic and transcriptional, Westcott and Hort conclude that “there is...no difficulty...in supposing (1) that the true intended continuation of vv. 1–8 either was very early lost by the detachment of a leaf or was never written down; and (2) that a scribe or editor, unwilling to change the words of the text before him or to add words of his own, was willing to furnish the Gospel with what seemed a worthy conclusion by incorporating with it unchanged a narrative of Christ’s appearances after the Resurrection which he found in some secondary record then surviving from a preceding generation. If these suppositions are made, the whole tenour of the evidence becomes clear and harmonious. Every other view is, we believe, untenable... It [the addition, vv. 9–20] manifestly cannot claim any apostolic authority; but is doubtless founded on some tradition of the apostolic age.” (Appendix to Introduction, p. 51.)

MESSENGER.

This is confessedly the meaning of the Greek word angelos, as it is also of the corresponding Hebrew term malḵā. When it was that either word was applied to a heavenly messenger and when to an earthly, had always to be learned from context and circumstance, never from the mere word; although perhaps, here and there, a slight presumption may be inferred in favour of a heavenly errand-bearer. How slight that presumption is, may be inferred from a glance at the use of the words. Angelos in the N. T. is applied indifferently to John the Immerser (Mt. xi. 10; Mk. i. 2; Lu. vii. 27), to John’s disciples (Lu. vii. 24), to Jesus’ disciples (Lu. ix. 52), to the thorn in the flesh (2 Co. xii. 7), and to the Hebrew spies (Ja. ii. 25). In all these examples the original word is angelous. The like use of the Hebrew word malḵ may be illustrated by a single instance. From Gen. xxxii. 1–3, we learn that, at about the same time that God sent “messengers” to meet Jacob, Jacob sent “messengers” to meet Esau: the simplicity of the grand old history knew nothing of the device of applying a sacred term to God’s messengers and a common one to Jacob’s; it termed both alike maldkim (as the Septuagint, after it, termed both alike angeloi), and left the reader to judge of the rest. To follow this style may cause temporary inconvenience, but will bring gain in the end,—by fixing the mind the more intently upon the errand-work of the messengers of heaven; also by rousing it to perceive that God has other heavenly servants than his “messangers,” even those his attendants, whose peculiar business it is to “stand and wait,” as Ps. ciii. 20, 21 naturally suggests. There are, indeed, still other lessons which the rightful insistence on the word “messenger” is fitted to impart; such as that “the world,” as now constituted, includes “both messengers and men” (1 Co. iv. 9), and that the coming habitable earth will not be, as the earth now is, subject unto messengers, but unto man (He. ii. 5, 6 ff), as though man’s minority, during which he is subject to beings of a foreign race, were to be superceded by his majority, which is to be spent here, in this home, divinely given to him as his inheritance.

MYSTERY. See SACRED SECRET.

PRESENCE.

In this edition the word parousia is uniformly rendered “presence” (“coming,” as a representative of this word, being set aside). The original term occurs twenty four times in the N. T., viz.: Mt. xxiv. 3, 27, 39; 1 Co. xv. 23; xvi. 17; 2 Co. vii. 6, 7; x. 10; Ph. i. 26; ii. 12; 1 Th. ii. 19; iii. 13; iv. 15; v. 23; 2 Th. ii. 1, 8, 9; Ja. v. 7, 8; 2 P. i. 16; iii. 4, 12 and 1 Jn. ii. 28. The sense of “presence” is so plainly shewn by the contrast with “absence” (implied in 2 Co. x. 10, and expressed in Ph. ii. 12) that the question naturally arises,—Why not always so render it? The more so, inasmuch as there is in 2 P. i. 16 also, a peculiar fitness in our English word “presence.” This passage, it will be remembered, relates to our Lord’s transformation upon the Mount The wonderful manifestation there made was a display and sample of “presence” rather than of “coming.” The Lord was already there; and, being there, he was transformed (cp. Mt. xxi. 2, n.) and the “majesty” of his glorified person was then disclosed. His bodily “presence” was one which implied and exerted “power”; so that “power and presence” go excellently well together—the “power” befitting such a “presence”; and the three favoured disciples were at one and the same moment witnesses of both. The difficulty expressed in the notes to the second edition of this N. T. in the way of so yielding to this weight of evidence as to render parousia always by “presence,” lay in the seeming incongruity of regarding “presence” as an event which would happen at a particular time and which would fall into rank as one of a series of events, as 1 Co. xv. 23, especially appeared to require. The translator still feels the force of this objection, but is withdrawn from taking his stand upon it any longer by the reflection that, after all, the difficulty may be imaginary. The parousia, in any case, is still in the future, and may therefore be enshrined in a measure of obscurity which only fulfilment can clear away: it may, in time, be both a period,—more or less extended, during which certain things shall happen,—and an event, coming on and passing away as one of a series of divine interpositions. Christ is raised as a firstfruit—that is one event; He returns and vouchsafes his “presence,” during which he raises his own—that is another event, however large and prolonged; and finally comes another cluster of events constituting “the end.” Hence, after all, “presence” may be the most widely and permanently satisfying translation of the looked–for parousia of the Son of Man.

REST. See SABBATH.

SABBATH.

Not to enter upon the larger questions which concern the Sabbath or the Lord’s Day. a few critical remarks on the word...
sabbath as it appears in the N. T. may be useful. First, this word seems to be sometimes an appellative and sometimes a proper name (“day of rest,” “Sabbath”). Second, the term sabbath is, in several texts, used in the plural in the Greek, where nevertheless it is evident that only one particular day is intended. Under this head, the following texts are worthy of note: Mt. xii. 1, 11; Mk. i. 21; ii. 23; iii. 2; Lu. iv. 16; xiii. 10; Ac. xiii. 14; xvi. 13. In all these passages the word in the original is in the plural, and yet it is plain that a particular, individual day is intended. Nor is there anything surprising in this; for “the Hebrew at times uses plural forms where other languages employ the singular.” (For this, see Gesenius by Davies, p 243.) Third, the word sabbath is extended to signify “week.” Even in this there is nothing very far-fetched; since the transition from the idea of “rest” to that of “a rest–bounded period of seven days” is a comparatively natural one. Still the question must be considered mainly as one of fact; although, even so, more demonstrative evidence should not be demanded than the nature of the case admits of; and it often suffices to attach a new meaning to a word, that the ordinary application of it is repeatedly seen to be unnatural, illogical, bewildering, or absurd. Hence the current opinion is probably correct that finds in Lu. xviii. 12, the meaning “I fast twice in the week,” notwithstanding that the word for “week” is here sabbaton in the singular; since it would appear a very paltry boast to say, “I fast twice on the sabbath” when anyone (with more pleasantness than pharisaism) might reply, “I fast three times.” To this example of sabbaton in the singular, used in the sense of “week,” may now be added 1 Co. xvi. 2, where not only Westcott and Hort, but the entire board of Revisers find the word in the singular number; and it would seem enough simply to ask the question, Is it credible that the Apostle Paul meant to enjoin on the assemblies of Galatia and on that of Corinth to lay by on “the first [hour] of sabbath” without so much as specifying that it was the first hour of the day that he intended? If not, and if “first day of the day” is impossible, what is left but to assume that he meant “first [day] of the week”? “Week” also approves itself in Mt. xxviii. 1; Mk. xvi. 2; Lu. xxiv. 1; Jn. xx. 1, 19; Ac. xx. 7. Does the word in the plural, as it undoubtedly is here, mean “week” or does it allude to a cluster of extraordinary sabbath days on the first of which Jesus arose? There is nothing unnatural in supposing the meaning to be “week”; for, as we have seen: (a) the word in the plural form may convey a singular idea; (b) the word in the singular is twice used in the sense of week. Now let us test the two words, “sabbaths” and “week”: “Late in the sabbaths, as it was on the point of dawning into the first of the sabbaths.” Will that stand? Now try “week”: “Late in the week, as it was on the point of dawning into the first of the week.” Here everything is harmonious. With the Hebrews the sabbath closed the week. Late on the sabbath would be late in the week, and the transition is natural from the end of one week to the beginning of the next. Hence the correct rendering here is “week.”

SACRED SECRET.

We have no secrets to hide from the uninitiated. The “sacred secret” of this dispensation has been divulged (Eph. iii. 3–9) and should be blazed abroad (Ro. xvi. 25, 26; Eph. vi. 19); but yet is of a nature unlikely to interest any who are careless of God’s dispensational ways; and of this the Greek misterion aptly reminds us (cp. “Age” above, and 2 Th. ii. 7, n.)

SHEPHERD.

The analogy is obvious between tending a flock and ruling a kingdom; but note, that protecting a flock often calls for force against assailants (cp. 2 S. v. 2; 1 Ch. xi. 2; Ps. xxiii. 1; Is. xl. 11; Eze. xxxix., xxxvii. 24; Mt. ii. 6; Rev. ii. 27; vii. 17).

SHRINE See TEMPLE.

SOUL.

One cannot but regret the impossibility of making our English word “soul” express just as much as is conveyed by the Greek word psuchē and the Hebrew word nephesh. The translator may confess that, after a determined endeavour to render the latter term uniformly “soul” throughout the O. T., he was reluctantly constrained to give up the attempt. When, in the book of Esther, it came in at the climax that the Jews were permitted “to stand for their soul (nephes)—Est. viii. 11), this example proved to be the turning of the scale, and “life” was promptly substituted. It certainly may be worth enquiry, how it comes about that the sacred originals so freely use a concrete word where we sorely feel our need of employing our abstract term “life”; and that this is so, notwithstanding the existence of chayah in the Hebrew and zofē in the Greek, more exactly answering (as it might have seemed) to the English word “life.” But the fact of stubborn diversity of usage above indicated remains, and it appears necessary to allow “life” to stand in a respectable minority of instances for nephesh and psuchē. In this edition, therefore, “life” has been admitted into a certain class of passages, of which Mt. xvi. 25, 26 may be named as an example.

SOUL, MAN OF; BODY OF THE.

Notwithstanding what has been said above, “soul” of course remains our leading representative of psuchē; and we greatly need an adjective which holds the same relation to “soul” as “spiritual” holds to “spirit.” “Natural” is evidently not the exact word. We might of course say “psychical man” and “psychical body,” in 1 Co ii. 14, and xv. 44, 46, if we were in the habit of using “psyche” everywhere instead of “soul.” As that is not the case and as “soulical” has no recognised place in the English language, it seems to the translator, after much thought upon the subject, that the simple circumlocations placed at the head of this note may prove a not unhappy solution of the difficulty. The Greek adjective psuchikos, here discussed, occurs, in the N. T., only in 1 Co. ii. 14; xv. 44, 46; Ja. iii. 15 and Jude 19.

SPIRIT, PERSONALITY OF THE HOLY.

The reader is requested to observe that the very literal rendering, “Holy Spirit” (with no “the” prefixed—rather frequent in the “Acts”) is in no sense due to any doubt of “the personality of the Holy Spirit.” The translator simply declines to admit that the idea of personality is so dominating and exhaustive as to require, by a species of English forcing, to be kept even to the front. Over and above those precious conceptions which by consent are couched under the word “person,” there are others (scarcely less important), of pervasive influence, of secret, subtle, impenetrating and embracing energy, which by us in our weakness are sometimes more easily caught when the notion of personality is, for the time, in abeyance. Moreover, as the authors of The Unseen Universe well say (p. 173, third edition): “It ought to be remembered that the word person does not mean the same thing as it does when applied to ourselves, but only denotes some distinction that may be regarded as best expressed by this word. Our idea of person or individual is derived solely from our experience of that position which we occupy in the universe.”

SPIRIT VERSUS “GHOST.”

It is satisfactory to find The Revised English Bible (Eyre & Spottiswoode) substituting the word “spirit” for the venerable but objectionable word “Ghost.” Objectionable, certainly, the latter is; notwithstanding that, in many minds, it is clustered about with sacred associations, and is by some strangely regarded as a very bulwark of orthodoxy. The primary objection to it ranges high above any question of taste; and is derived from the circumstance that it makes, in English, an artificial, unfounded distinction, which separates passages which ought to be closely linked together by uniformity of rendering. For example, we have, in the public Versions of 2 Co. xiii. 14 “the communion of the Holy Ghost”; but, in Phi. ii. 1, the “fellowship of the Spirit,” a double break, it will be observed, jerking the reader from “communion” to “fellowship,” and from “Ghost” to “Spirit,” although in the Greek the one passage is the very echo of the other. And this brings us to a subordinate, though very weighty, objection to “Ghost,” namely, the essential incongruity of the word at this time of day. For, mark: should anyone think to restore the broken link by a reverse movement, that is to say, by extending Ghost to both passages (“If there be, therefore, any fellowship of the Ghost”), would he not be instantly beaten back by a general cry of dismay? It remains to add this only: Given, devout persons who for years have intelligently preferred and used “Spirit” and in them a strong revulsion of feeling unites with a clear decision of judgment to decline, as bordering on profanity, any voluntary application of the term “Ghost” to the mighty and gracious Spirit of the Living God.

TEMPLE.

The attempt has here been made to distinguish between hieron (temple, inclusive of courts, precincts) and naos, the inner building, marking the latter by a capital initial (Mt. xxiii. 16–21, 35) or rendering it “shrine” (Jn. ii. 19; 1 Co. iii. 16; vi. 19) and “sanctuary” (Rev. iii. 12; xi. 1, 2; xiv.–xvi.; xxi. 22).

TENT.

There is a simple beauty in the word “tent” which “tabernacle,” notwithstanding its loftier sound, does not possess; and if the Heb. mishkân be rendered “habitation,” there is neither need nor ground for further distinction.

TORCH.

“The true Hindu way of lighting up is by torches held by men, who feed the flame from a sort of bottle constructed for the purpose.”—Elphinstone, quoted by Trench. (Cp. Jdg. vii. 16, 20; xv. 4, 5; Job. xlii. 19.)

VIRGINITY.

The example of the translator of an excellent version published by Morrish (understood to have been the late J. N. Darby) has emboldened the present translator to adopt “virginity” in 1 Co. vii. 36–38. The immense relief from difficulty thus obtained, and the fact that the word parthenos is “sometimes masculine, an unmarried youth” (Liddell and Scott), have been accepted as a justification of this rendering.
